TREATIES, ENGAGEMENTS, AND SANADS

relating to the

TERRITORIES COMPRISED WITHIN, OR IN POLITICAL RELATION WITH,

the

I.—BURMA PROPER.

[T is believed that no real treaty existed between the British Government in India and the King of Burma, until that of Yandabo, which was concluded on the 24th February 1826. At the period when the British in India represented a trading body, and not a sovereign power, deputations were occasionally sent from the Governors of the Settlements both in Bengal and Madras to establish trade with the Burmese territory. Factories were erected at Syriam, near Rangoon, and at Negrais.

In 1757 a treaty is said to have been made with the Burmese Government. The Chief of the English factory at Negrais deputed Ensign Lester to the capital of Burma. He had an interview with King Alompra (Alaungpaya), the founder of the dynasty which retained power until the annexation of upper Burma in 1886; on this occasion the island of Negrais, and some ground near the town of Bassein, were granted to the East India Company. It is not known that any copy of this so-called treaty is now in existence. Afterwards the English at Negrais were treacherously killed; but a second grant of land, for the erection of a factory at Bassein, was subsequently made by the Burmese Government.

The first direct political intercourse between the British and Burmese Governments appears to have been when Captain Michael Symes was deputed by the Governor-General as Envoy to the Court of Ava in 1795, for the purpose of strengthening the political and commercial relations of the British Government with that Court, and of preventing the French from gaining a footing in Burma. Captain Symes obtained a Royal Order (No. 1), whereby permission was given for a British Agent or Superintendent to reside at Rangoon, to protect the interests of British subjects, and arrangements were made for the protection of trade.

In virtue of these arrangements Captain Cox was appointed Superintendent, and he landed at Rangoon in October 1796. He proceeded to the capital to deliver certain presents to the King, which had been formerly promised by Captain Symes. He was, however, treated with much contumely. Eventually he returned to Rangoon and left for Bengal at the latter end of 1797.

About this time disputes arose on the border between Arakan and Chittagong. The Burmese had conquered Arakan in 1784. The Arakanese rebelled, and about the year 1797 numbers of them began to take refuge in the Chittagong district. The Burmese Governor of Arakan wrote during 1798, and demanded in an insolent manner that the fugitives should be given up. The Governor-General, the Marquess of Wellesley, then determined to send another Embassy to the Court of Ava. Captain Symes was again selected. He proceeded to the capital. There he obtained merely a verbal assurance that no further demand would be made for the Arakanese fugitives. The King would make no apology for the style in which the demand had been made, nor enter into any new engagement. Captain Symes returned to Rangoon, where he was not treated with ordinary civility by the Governor, and left for Bengal in January 1803.

After this Captain Canning was deputed to Rangoon, apparently as the representative of Captain Symes, to endeavour to obtain some apology from the Burmese Court for their past insolence, and to ascertain whether the French were establishing any interest in Burma. However, in consequence of the overbearing conduct of the local authorities at Rangoon, Captain Canning was, before long, obliged to leave the country.

In the year 1809 Captain Canning was again deputed to Rangoon as Agent to the Governor-General. He was apparently instructed to enter into explanations regarding the blockade of the Isle of France, which interfered with the trade between Rangoon and that island. Captain Canning proceeded to the capital, and was well received. He accomplished his object and returned to Bengal.

In the year 1811 the Arakanese once more rebelled, and many of them having fled to the district of Chittagong, disputes again occurred on that frontier. An Arakanese Chief collected a body of his countrymen in the hilly tracts of the Chittagong district, and marched into Arakan to attack the Burmese. Captain Canning was deputed to the Court of Ava to explain that this movement was neither instigated nor supported by the British Government, and also to complain of outrages on British subjects perpetrated with the sanction of the Burmese authorities in Arakan. In the meantime the Burmese troops in Arakan had followed the Arakanese rebels into British territory, and orders were sent down from the Burmese Court to the Governor of Rangoon to make Captain Canning prisoner, and retain him as a hostage for the surrender of the Arakanese rebels. Captain Canning was fortunately safe from violence on board a ship-of-war, with an armed ship in company. He left Rangoon in August 1811.

Subsequently to that year the Burmese officials in Arakan more than once made demands for the surrender of Arakanese refugees, and even advanced pretensions to the sovereignty of Bengal as far as the city of Murshidabad, alleging that this territory pertained to the kingdom of Arakan. In 1819 they interfered in Assam, and in 1824 they invaded Kachar.

In the meantime the Burmese had been encroaching on the Arakan side; they had arrested the elephant hunters employed by the British Government, and they finally laid claim to the island of Shahpuri, situate at the mouth of the river Naaf. On the night of the 24th September 1823 a strong Burman force occupied the island, killing a few sepoy of the provincial battalion stationed there. The Governor of Arakan also intimated that the island belonged to the Burmese, and that they intended to keep it. The Governor-General addressed the King of Ava, demanding the dismissal of the Governor of Arakan. No reply was received for some months. The answer which eventually came was probably written by the Hlutdaw, or Royal Council, and merely stated that the Governors on the frontier had full powers to act.

Thus, on every point where the British territory, or the territories of Chiefs under British protection, touched the Burmese dominions, aggression and insult had been committed by Burmese officials, while applications for redress were treated by the Burmese Government either with silent contempt, or with additional insult. War was therefore declared by the Governor-General against Burma on the 5th March 1824. On the 11th May of that year a force under Sir Archibald Campbell took possession of Rangoon, and after two campaigns peace was concluded at Yandabo, about 40 miles distant from the capital, on the 24th February 1826.

By that Treaty (No. II) Arakan and the Tenasserim provinces were ceded to the British; each government was empowered to maintain a Resident at the Court of the other ; and it was stipulated that a commercial treaty should be afterwards negotiated.

To arrange this commercial treaty, Mr. John Crawfurd proceeded to Amarapura, where, on the 23rd November 1826, he signed a Treaty (No. III) of four articles.

Under the Treaty of Yandabo Colonel H. Burney was appointed Resident at the Court of Ava. He arrived there in April 1830. He remained at the Burmese Court until June 1837, when he proceeded to Rangoon and eventually returned to Bengal. The immediate cause of his leaving was a revolution during which the reigning King was deposed, and his brother the Prince of Tharawadi, ascended the throne.

In 1834 an Agreement (No. IV) was made for the restoration to Burma of the Kubo valley, which had been annexed to Manipur. At the end of 1881, in consequence of disturbances which had occurred on the frontier, and to remove doubts regarding jurisdiction, the limits of the Kubo valley were definitely ascertained, and the boundary between Burma and Manipur was finally demarcated, but the Burmese Government declined to recognise the delimitation.

In 1838 Colonel Benson was deputed to the Court of Burma to re-establish the friendly relations which had been interrupted. He reached the capital in October 1838. In consequence of the insulting conduct of the Burmese Court, the Resident left Amarapura in 1839. From that time there was no direct official communication between the Governor-General of India and the King of Burma for several years.

In July 1851 Lieutenant-Colonel Bogle, Commissioner of the Tenasserim province, forwarded to the Supreme Government a petition from the master of a British ship, complaining of gross oppression which he had suffered from the Governor of Rangoon. In November of that year Commodore Lambert was deputed to Rangoon with a letter addressed to the King, in order to obtain redress. But all reparation for the injuries suffered by British subjects was refused. The Governor-General therefore sent a force to Rangoon, under the command of Major-General Godwin. Rangoon fell to the combined naval and military forces on the 14th April 1852. From that time, until the 27th January 1853, no communication from the Burmese Government reached the British commanders. When the combined forces had advanced to Myedè, about 250 miles by the river above Rangoon, a Burmese officer arrived with a letter, announcing that a new King reigned in Amarapura, and expressing his desire for peace. Early in April the Burmese Wungyi, duly empowered, reached Prome, but as he refused to sign a treaty acknowledging the province of Pegu to be

British territory, the negotiations were broken off and the British frontier was declared to be a line drawn due east from the summit of the Arakan mountains in the latitude of, and intersecting a point, six English miles north from the flag-staff in the fort of Myedè, and continued thence in the same direction until it reached the Sittang river and the territory of the Red Karen Chief. On both sides, however, it was understood that hostilities should cease.

Almost immediately after the end of the second war, Pagan Min, who had ruled from 1846 to 1852, was deposed by his brother, thenceforward known as Mindôn Min, or King Mindôn. Mindôn Min was an enlightened prince, who, while professing no love for the British, recognised the power of the British Government, was always careful to keep on friendly terms with them, and was anxious to introduce into his kingdom, as far as was compatible with the maintenance of his own autocratic power, western ideas and western civilisation. He sent envoys to Europe to study the arts and manufactures of European nations; and throughout his reign young representatives of the families of leading men about the Court were sent to England, France, and Italy to study the languages and manners of those countries. In the latter end of the year 1854 the Burmese Government deputed two envoys of high rank, and some subordinate officials, to convey a complimentary letter and presents from the King to the Marquess of Dalhousie. They were received in Calcutta with distinction, and returned to Burma at the beginning of the year 1855. The Government of India sent a return embassy to the Burmese Court in the rainy season of 1855. The Envoy, Major Phayre, was received by the King and Court in the most friendly manner. The King, however, manifested an insuperable aversion to signing any treaty giving up the province of Pegu, and this was never done. On the 10th November 1862 a Treaty (No. V) was concluded for the protection of trade and the establishment of free intercourse with Burma. Though the King's zeal was not always tempered by discretion, he did much to increase the revenue and to promote the commercial prosperity of his country. In August 1866 an insurrection headed by one of the King's sons broke out at Mandalay; the King's brother and declared successor was killed, and the King himself was for some time in great danger. The Prince took refuge in British territory and was allowed to reside in Rangoon: soon afterwards he was found to be intriguing against the King and was placed under restraint. In February 1867 he effected his escape, took refuge with the Chief of western Karenni, and endeavoured to raise a rebellion among the Shans to the north-east of Toungoo, who were tributary to Burma. The attempt was unsuccessful, and in August 1868 he was arrested in Rangoon and sent as a State prisoner to Chunar. In 1882 this prince, known as the Myingun Prince, succeeded in escaping from British territory and resided first at Chandarnagar, and later at Pondicherry. In 1889 he left Pondicherry and went to Saigôn, where he has since remained. In 1867 a Treaty (No. VI) was concluded at Mandalay between the British and Burmese Governments, providing for the mutual extradition of criminals; the free intercourse of traders; and the establishment of permanent diplomatic relations between the two countries. In 1868 an expedition was sent under the command of Major Sladen to explore the old trade routes between south-western China and Burma via Bhamo, to ascertain the causes of the cessation of the valuable trade formerly carried on by these routes, the possibility of reviving it, and the influence exercised upon it by the Shans, Panthays, and Kachins. The expedition arrived safely at Momein (now known as Têngyüeh)—which was then in the hands of the Muhammadan Panthays who had rebelled against the Chinese—and gathered much valuable information as to the physical characteristics of the country and its trade capabilities.

In 1874 a similar expedition was sent under the command of Colonel Browne, but owing to unforeseen obstacles was compelled to return without having effected its purposes and with the loss of one of its members, Mr. Margary, who was murdered near the Chinese border town of Manwaing. This led to negotiations with the Chinese Government, which resulted in the agreement signed at Chefu on the 13th September 1876. By this agreement the Yunnan case was satisfactorily settled, and an indemnity was paid by China, while further arrangements were made in respect to official intercourse and the regulation of trade. So long as Mindôn Min lived, though he clung to the obsolete ceremonies, to which he was accustomed, and thus in his later years debarred the British Resident at Mandalay from access to his presence, there was no reason to apprehend a breach in the friendship between England and Burma.

In October 1878 Mindôn Min died, and was succeeded by his son, the Thibaw Prince. Early in 1879 the execution of a number of the members of the royal family at Mandalay excited much horror in lower Burma. Executions of this kind were the usual incidents of a change in the occupancy of the throne of Ava. But hitherto, owing to the remoteness of the capital of the Burmese kingdom from British territories, and to the difficulty of communication, these relics of barbarism had not been forcibly presented before the eyes of the civilized world. In 1879 a British Resident was stationed at Mandalay; telegraphic communication was opened between upper and lower Burma; and trading steamers passed constantly between Mandalay and Rangoon. The cruelties which marked the accession of the new monarch thus attracted more notice than similar outrages on previous similar occasions. The British Resident was instrumental in securing the escape of some members of the royal family, and was energetic in his protests against the barbarities with which the new reign was ushered in. Indignation among Englishmen at the state of affairs in Mandalay, and resentment in the minds of the courtiers of the King on account of the attitude of the Resident, combined to render imminent a rupture of the friendly relations between the two countries. The immediate apprehension of war passed away; but throughout the year the tension continued, and in October 1879, in view of the passive unfriendliness of the Burmese Government, and of the unsatisfactory nature of the position of the British Resident in Mandalay, the Government of India withdrew their representative from the Burmese Court, and as long as the Native government continued to exist no fresh agent was appointed.

These occurrences were sinister omens for the reign of King Thibaw: nor did the progress of events afford prospect of the re-settlement of the relations between the Indian and Burmese Governments. Although on two occasions—once in 1879-80 by means of an envoy, who, not being accredited with full powers, was not permitted to proceed beyond Thayetmyo; and once in 1882, when an embassy visited Simla—attempts were made to re-establish cordial relations, there was no real revival of confidence and good feeling between 1879 and 1885. The action of the Burmese Government gave much reason for complaint. The Resident had been withdrawn from Mandalay because the Burmese monarch had persistently refused to accord him treatment compatible with his dignity and security. In the absence of the Resident matters gradually drifted from bad to worse. British subjects, travellers, and traders from lower Burma were subjected to insult and violence by local officials in upper Burma, and representations to the central administration were often fruitless in obtaining redress. In contravention of the express terms of the treaty of 1867 monopolies were created to the detriment of the trade of both England and Burma. Owing to the weakness and corruption of the Burmese Government, society was thoroughly disorganised, and the elements of disorder on the frontier of the British became a standing menace to the peace of the British province.

The Government of India, though frequently and vehemently urged to interfere in the interests of the peace and commerce of British Burma, found the situation unsatisfactory, but not yet intolerable, and decided that interposition in the domestic administration of upper Burma was not necessary. Such was the state of affairs at the beginning of 1885. Early in that year the Burmese Government found, or made cause for, complaint against the Bombay-Burma Trading Corporation, a company of merchants, chiefly British subjects, who had extensive dealings in upper Burma. The claim which the Burmese Government advanced against the corporation was for several lakhs of rupees. In view of the magnitude of the interests which the corporation had at stake, the Chief Commissioner addressed the Burmese Government for the purpose of securing an impartial investigation of their complaint. Disregarding this attempt at mediation, the Burmese Council decided the case against the corporation without giving them reasonable opportunity of being heard, and condemned them to pay a fine amounting to £230,000. Acting under the orders of the Supreme Government, the Chief Commissioner protested against this despotic act of the Burmese authorities, and invited them to stay proceedings against the corporation, and to refer the matter to an arbitrator appointed by His Excellency the Viceroy. The reply of the Burmese Foreign Minister was that proceedings against the corporation would on no account be suspended. In view of this decisive and discourteous refusal to accept the mediation of the British Government in a case where the interests of British subjects were largely involved, and bearing in mind the accumulated grounds for dissatisfaction with the existing state of things, the Government of India decided once for all to adjust the relations between the two countries. The Chief Commissioner was therefore instructed to send to the King of Burma an ultimatum requiring him to suspend action in the execution of the decree against the corporation; to receive at Mandalay an envoy from the Viceroy with a view to the settlement of the matter at issue; and in future to permit the residence at his capital of an agent of the Indian Government, who should be received and treated with the respect due to the Government which he represented. It was further intimated that the Burmese Government would in future be required to regulate the external relations of the country in accordance with the advice of the Government of India, and to afford facilities for opening up British trade with China. A letter embodying these terms was despatched by special steamer to Mandalay on the 22nd October 1885. The Burmese Government were informed that a reply must be received not later than the 10th November, and that, unless the conditions laid down were accepted without reserve, the Indian Government would deal with the matter as it thought fit. In view of the possible refusal by the Burmese Government of the terms offered to them, preparations were made for the despatch to Rangoon of a military force of 10,000 men. On the 9th November a reply amounting to an unconditional refusal of the terms was received in Rangoon. On the 7th November, three days after the date of the reply from the Burmese Minister and two days before the receipt by the Chief Commissioner of that reply, the King of Burma issued a proclamation calling on his subjects to rally round him and to resist the unjust demands of the British Government, and expressing his determination to efface these heretic foreigners and to conquer and annex their country. In accordance with the terms of the ultimatum, and in view of the hostile tone of the King's proclamation, the expeditionary force was ordered to advance. The frontier was crossed on the 14th November 1885. On the 17th Minhla, on the 23rd Pagan, and on the 25th Myingyan were successively occupied. Except at Minhla scarcely any resistance was encountered. Before the expeditionary force reached Ava an envoy from the Burmese Court arrived, and after some negotiation, the unconditional surrender of the capital and of the royal family was arranged. On the 26th and 27th November the forts at Ava and Sagaing were surrendered, and on the 28th General Prendergast and his force occupied Mandalay. The King and his two Queens, with their mother were at once sent down to Rangoon. The ex-King and his two Queens were subsequently removed to Ratnagiri in the Bombay presidency, where they have since resided. Simultaneously with the advance on Mandalay operations were undertaken with success on the Thayetmyo and Toungoo frontiers.

Immediately after the occupation of Mandalay a provisional administration was constituted. All the members of the Hlutdaw, or great Council of State, professed themselves willing to continue to take part in the government. They were therefore retained in office under the guidance of Colonel (afterwards Sir E. B.) Sladen and the control of General (now Sir Harry) Prendergast. Theoretically there was to be no breach of continuity. The State council was to continue to discharge all its functions, and all civil officers, whether British or Burmese, were to work under its direction. The council began by issuing proclamations to this effect and ordering Burmese officials to continue in the regular performance of their duties. On the 15th December the Chief Commissioner arrived at Mandalay and assumed charge of the civil administration. On the 1st January 1886, by the Viceroy's proclamation, upper Burma was declared to be part of the British dominions and placed under the direct administration of the Governor-General; and later on, the districts of upper Burma were brought under the regular administration, and upper and lower Burma were formed into a single province called Burma.

II.—THE SHAN STATES.

The Shan States formed an integral part of the Burmese Kingdom. As at present defined they are divided into—

- (1) The Northern Shan States (under the supervision of the Superintendent, Northern Shan States).
- (2) The Southern Shan States (under the supervision of the Superintendent and Political Officer, Southern Shan States).
- (3) The Myelat (under the supervision of the Superintendent and Political Officer, Southern Shan States).
- (4) States under the supervision of the Commissioner, Mandalay Division.
- (5) States under the supervision of the Commissioner, Sagaing Division.

The States west of the Irawadi were at the time of annexation, Wuntho, Kale, Hsawngsup, Zingkaling Hkamti and Hkamti Lōng. Of these, the first two have been abolished, the third and fourth are under the supervision of the Commissioner, Sagaing Division, and the fifth under that of the Commissioner, Mandalay Division.

East of the Irawadi, and separated from it by districts under settled administration, lies the great stretch of country known as the northern and southern Shan States. The Burmese Government always claimed sovereignty over these States up to and beyond the Mekong river. But from time to time, as opportunity occurred, the Sawbwas endeavoured to throw off the Burmese yoke. At the date of the annexation of upper Burma the rulers of the several of the more powerful States were in exile at Kēngtūng, an important State east of the Salween river. These exiled Chiefs conceived the plan of erecting the Shan States into an independent kingdom, and invited a scion of the Burmese royal house, known as the Limbin Prince, to become their sovereign. The Limbin Prince joined the exiles at Kēngtūng, and with them crossed the Salween. Till the end of 1886 a great part of the cis-Salween States was in the hands of this coalition. In January 1887 a British force entered the Shan States and the Limbin Prince's confederacy almost at once fell to pieces. The Chiefs of the cis-Salween States tendered their submission and received sanads of appointment on suitable terms.

With the exception of Mōng Mit, the Shan States east of the Irawadi are administered by two superintendents, one for the southern Shan States with head-quarters at Taunggyi in the Yawnghwe State, and another for the northern Shan States with head-quarters at Lashio in north Hsenwi. The petty State of Maw, which was for a time administered under the control of the Commissioner, Meiktila Division, was declared to be a Shan State in the Myelat, and was placed under the control of the Superintendent and Political Officer, Southern Shan States, in 1895.

At the time of the annexation of upper Burma, Mōng Mit was administered by three Burmese officials on behalf of the infant Sawbwa, Kin Maung, who was born on the 9th July 1883. In 1887, Kan U, the stepfather of the Sawbwa, was appointed regent during his minority. This arrangement proving unsatisfactory, in 1889 the experiment was tried of placing the State temporarily in charge of Saw Maung, ex-Sawbwa of Yawnghwe. This plan also was unsuccessful, and in February 1892 it was decided to take over the direct administration of the State. From that date till the end of March 1906, Mōng Mit was administered as a subdivision of the Ruby Mines district, under the control of the Commissioner of the Mandalay division. In April 1906, the Sawbwa, Kin Maung, was placed in charge of the State, which he now administers under the provisions of the Mōng Mit Administration Order, 1906, with the assistance of certain officers appointed by the local government. At his installation he was given a sanad (No. VII).

Some uncertainty in respect to the trans-Salween States was caused by the action of the Siamese Government in advancing claims to the possession of five small States called Mōng Tōn, Mōng Hang, Mōng Hsat, Mōng Kyawt, and Mōng Hta on the east of the Salween. After full examination of the Siamese claims it was definitely decided, in 1890, that they could not be admitted, and the boundaries of these States and of certain other territory, of which the limits towards Siam were uncertain, were settled by a commission appointed for the purpose. At the same time Kēngtūng was visited by the Superintendent of the Shan States, and a sanad granted to the Sawbwa. In 1896 the boundary between the Shan States and the French Lao territory was fixed, the thalweg of the Mekong river being chosen as the boundary line. This line divided the State of Kēngchēng, the western portion of which was included in British territory and the eastern in French territory.

On the 1st March 1894, a Convention (No. VIII) was signed with China, which defined the Burma-China boundary along a prescribed line. A supplementary Agreement (No. IX) was concluded with China on the 4th February 1897, which defined the boundary afresh, and between 1898 and 1900 the boundary up to 25°35' north, with the exception of the portion passing through the Wa country, was fixed by a boundary commission.

The status of the trans-Salween States has now been definitely settled. They are in the same position politically as the other Shan States. Up to 1895 Kēngtūng was considered to be outside British India and to be a State in subordinate alliance.

Kēnghūng and Mōng Lem, which have been ceded to China, Kēngchēng, which has been in part ceded to France and in part absorbed in Kēngtūng, and Chiengsen, which has been ceded to Siam, are no longer included in the Shan States.

The rulers of the Shan States all receive orders of appointment signed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Burma. The appointment orders are called sanads in the case of Sawbwas, and either sanads or appointment orders in the case of the lesser Chiefs who are termed Myozas and Ngwegunhmus. Forms of the Sanad (No. X), of the Appointment Orders (No. XI), and of the form of grant used in cases of succession to Shan and Karen Chiefs (No. XII) are given. The sanads bestowed on Sawbwas of Hsipaw (No. XIII), and Kēngtūng (No. XIV) differ slightly from those granted to the other Chiefs of similar rank. The first sanad granted to the Kēngtūng in 1890 differed considerably from the sanads granted to the cis-Salween States. Its terms were grounded on the assumption that Kēngtūng was not in British India but was a State in subordinate alliance with the British Government. In 1895, however, the situation was changed by the establishment of a garrison and an assistant political officer at Kēngtūng. The assumption above mentioned became as inconvenient administratively as it was inaccurate historically. It was recognised that without doubt Kēngtūng was historically part of the territories formerly governed by King Thibaw, which, by the proclamation of the 1st January 1886, became part of the British dominions, although the State was at that time in rebellion against King Thibaw. Kēngtūng was accordingly included in the notification of the Chief Commissioner of Burma, in the Political Department, No. 11, dated the 11th July 1895, which notified the territories constituting the Shan States. In 1896 the death of Sau Kawn Hkam Hpu, and the accession of Sau Kawn Kiao Intaleng, provided a suitable opportunity for bringing the terms of the sanad (vide No. XIV) into conformity with those of the first sanad issued to Hsipaw, the conditions as to the subordination of certain small States and the temporary remission of tribute being similar in the two cases.

In the northern and southern Shan States the criminal and civil, as well as the revenue, administration is vested in the Chiefs, subject to the limitations laid down in their sanads, and to restrictions imposed by the extension of enactments and the issue of orders under the Shan States Act or the Burma Laws Act.

The customary law of the States has been modified by a notification issued by the Chief Commissioner of Burma, in the Foreign Department, No. II, dated the 19th November 1890. The superintendents exercise general control over the administration of criminal justice, and have power to call for cases and exercise wide revisionary powers. All criminal jurisdiction in cases in which either the complainant or the accused is an European, or American, or a Government servant, or a British subject, not a native of a Shan State, is withdrawn from the Chiefs and vested in the superintendents and assistant superintendents. In the cases above mentioned the ordinary criminal law in force in upper Burma, as modified by the Shan States Laws and Criminal Justice Order, 1895, is in force in these States. In such cases the superintendents exercise the powers of a district magistrate and sessions judge, and the assistant superintendents the powers of a district magistrate under section 30 and section 34 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

In regard to the administration of civil justice the customary law has been modified by a notification which confers original, appellate, and revisional jurisdiction on superintendents and assistant superintendents, creates local courts, and prescribes a simple procedure for such courts. In revenue matters the Chiefs administer their charges according to local rules and customs, which have been modified only to the extent of limiting the power of Chiefs to alienate communal lands, and to grant land to persons who are not natives of Shan States. Various acts and regulations have been extended to the northern and southern Shan States (except those situated east of the Salween) by section 4 of the order of 1895; and by subsequent notifications provisions of other enactments have been applied to some or all of the States.

In the Myelat a closer approach to the law in force in other parts of India has been prescribed. The criminal law in force in the Myelat is practically the same as the law in force in upper Burma. In order that they may have jurisdiction in criminal matters, the Ngwægünhmus and Myosas of all the Myelat States have been appointed magistrates. In the Myelat the superintendent and assistant superintendents exercise the same criminal jurisdiction as in other States, except that their jurisdiction extends to all criminal cases and not merely to the cases in which Europeans and others above mentioned are concerned. In other respects the law in the Myelat, and the powers exercised by the Lieutenant-Governor, the superintendent, and the assistant superintendents are the same as in the rest of the southern Shan States.

The Shan States march with the Siamese, French, and Chinese possessions and extradition is regulated in the case of Siam by—

- (1) the 1883 treaty with Siam;
- (2) the 1885 supplementary article to that treaty;
- (3) the Indian Extradition Act, 1903 (XV of 1903).

For the purposes of the Indian Extradition Act the Superintendent and Political Officer, Southern Shan States, is Political Agent for the northern district of the province of Chiengmai, and the Assistant Political Officer, Kēngtūng, is Political Agent for the provinces of Mūang Nan, Mūang Phre, and Mūang Thon.

The rules which govern extradition with the French possessions are contained in the treaty of August 14th, 1876, and the Order in Council of the 16th May 1878. All demands for extradition must be made by the Lieutenant-Governor of Burma.

As regards China the arrangements are set out in article XV of the Convention (No. VIII) of 1894.

The Superintendent, Northern Shan States, exercises the powers of a Political Agent, for the purposes of the Indian Extradition Act, as regards the districts of Kēng Ma, Mēng Ting, and Chengkang in the prefecture of Shunning, and the district of Chenpien in the sub-prefecture of Chenpien; and the Assistant Political Officer, Kēngtūng, for the districts of Mōng Lem and Kēnghūng in the sub-prefecture of Ssūmao.

There is a British Consul at Chiengmai in northern Siam, who exercises his functions subject to the control of His Majesty's Minister at Bangkok. The Consul at Chiengmai is assisted by two Vice-Consuls who are stationed respectively at Lakon and Chiengrai. The Consular district of Chiengmai includes the provinces of Mūang Nan, Mūang Phre, Mūang Thon, Raheng, Sawankaloke, Sukotai, Utaradit, Lakon, Lampun, and Pichai. The work at Phre, Raheng, Sawankaloke, Sukotai, Torn, Pionai (including Utaradit), and Prayao has been assigned to the Vice-Consul at Lakon, whilst the Vice-Consul at Chiengrai has been given the consular duties in the Nan district.

The State of Wuntho was a land-locked territory, wedged in between the districts of Katha, Bhamo, Ye-u, and the upper Chindwin. For some time after the annexation of upper Burma the Sawbwa of Wuntho assumed an attitude of hostility to the British Government, and in 1886-87 operations were undertaken with a view to reducing him to submission. After the occupation of the capital of his State by British troops the Sawbwa tendered his submission, and agreed to pay the tribute levied from his State in the time of the Burmese Government. He long declined, however, to receive British officers in a becoming manner, and it was not till the middle of 1890 that the Deputy Commissioner of Katha met him in his capital. For some time after this meeting the Sawbwa's attitude was more satisfactory; he rendered assistance in the suppression of crime; settled a considerable portion of the outstanding fines for dakaities committed by Wuntho men; and paid in over half a lakh of rupees on account of tribute. In January 1891 successful operations were undertaken, in concert with the Sawbwa's levies, against a dakait leader who had been giving trouble in the neighbourhood of Kainggyi. The northern portion of Wuntho territory was at this time under the domination of the old Sawbwa of Wuntho, the ruling Sawbwa's father, who resided at Mansi. A proposal to send a punitive column up the Meza valley was not acquiesced in by the Sawbwa, and it was rumoured that any advance through the northern part of the State would be opposed by his father. A reconnaissance conducted on the 12th February revealed the fact that the road was stockaded, and that active preparations for resistance had been made. The outbreak which followed had evidently been pre-concerted. Active measures were immediately taken; the insurgents were severely handled in several engagements; the capital of Wuntho was occupied on the 26th February; and by the end of the month both the Sawbwa and his father were fugitives. The direct administration of Wuntho, as a part of the Katha district, was then undertaken, and, under orders issued by the Government of India on the 26th October 1891, Wuntho was finally removed from the category of Shan States and incorporated in the adjoining districts of Burma.

The State of Kale was situate on the Chindwin river, and bordered on the Chin hills which lie between Burma and Bengal. After the annexation of upper Burma Kale was disturbed by internal schism until early in 1887, when the old and incapable Sawbwa was deposed and his nephew and rival recognised in his stead. Early in 1888 the ex-Sawbwa absconded from Mandalay, where he had been living in receipt of a small pension, and made his way to the Chin country bordering on Kale. There he found an asylum among the Tashôns, one of the principal Chin tribes, and induced them to attack Kale, with a view to his restoration to power. In consequence of this action of the Tashôns and of the designs of the ex-Sawbwa, Kale was occupied by British troops and military police, and operations, referred to in a later paragraph, were undertaken against the Chins. At the end of 1889 the ex-Sawbwa surrendered to the British Government and was again granted a small pension. Shortly after the suppression of the Wuntho rebellion it was proved that the ruling Chief of Kale was thoroughly disloyal, and had been engaged in a variety of intrigues. He was accordingly deported to Rangoon; the administration was entrusted to British officers; and under orders of the Government of India, dated the 5th August 1891, the State of Kale was incorporated in the upper Chindwin district.

Hkamti Lōng, known in Assam as Bor Hkamti, is a collection of seven small Shan principalities lying near the headwaters of the Mali kha, the western branch of the Irawadi. The valley is inhabited by Shans, the surrounding hills by Kachins. Hkamti Lōng was visited from Assam by Colonels Macgregor and Woodthorpe in 1884-85 and by Mr. Errol Grey in 1892-93. In 1895 Prince Henri of Orleans passed through it on his way to India from China. The Hkamti States are believed to be independent of each other, but the Sawbwa of Lokkun, the most important of the principalities, is at present the predominant Chieftain. The Sawbwaws have frequently sent deputations to the Deputy Commissioner, Myitkyina, but so far there has been no direct interference in the affairs of the tract by Government and no sanads have been granted to the Chieftains.

The State of Hsawng-hsup (Thaungdut) comprises a small territory on the Chindwin river to the east of Manipur. The Sawbwa tendered his allegiance at the annexation of upper Burma in 1886, and in 1889 he received a sanad of appointment (vide No. XII) from the Chief Commissioner. His conduct was consistently loyal and satisfactory and he was proof against all the efforts of his son-in-law, the ex-Sawbwa of Wuntho, to induce him to join in the Wuntho rebellion of 1891. In 1893 he died, and was succeeded by his son, Maung Kin Mon, who on his death, on the 13th December 1899, was succeeded by his younger brother, Saw Tun, the present Sawbwa. The State pays a tribute of Rs. 400 a year.

The petty State of Zingaling Hkamti (Kanti or Kantigale) lies considerably higher up the Chindwin river. On the annexation of upper Burma in 1886 there was no Sawbwa in the State, the late Sawbwa having been driven out by the wild tribes from the north. In 1891 a new Sawbwa was appointed, and received a sanad of appointment from the Chief Commissioner in 1892. On his death in 1893 his infant son and daughter succeeded him in close succession. The former died in 1894 and the latter in 1898. The present Sawbwa, Saw E, who was regent during their lifetime, then succeeded and received a sanad of appointment (vide No. XII). He pays a tribute of Rs. 100 a year.

III.—NORTH-EASTERN FRONTIER PROVINCE.

The concerns of Government on the north-eastern frontier of Burma are in the main either with China or with the Kachins and the other hill tribes inhabiting the region bordering on China.

The Kachins are a semi-barbarous race of mountaineers, living almost exclusively on the summits and ridges of hills, and for the most part in small villages, the headmen or petty Sawbwas of which render a nominal obedience in certain cases to the recognised Chief of their tribe or clan. The great majority of the Kachins are spirit-worshippers, but in places where they have mingled with Shans and Burmans, they occasionally maintain pôngyis (Buddhist priests) and profess Buddhism. The Kachins are regarded by the Shans and Burmese with a strange superstitious dread. The manners and customs of various Kachin tribes have been described at considerable length in Dr. Anderson's 'Mandalay to Momien,' in the late Colonel Hannay's 'Sketch of the Singphos or the Kakhyens of Burma,' in the Kachin Gazetteer by Captains Walker and Davies, and in the Upper Burma Gazetteer.

The country about the head waters of the Irawadi is generally believed to have been the original home of the Kachins. The name which these mountaineers ordinarily give to themselves is 'Chingpaw' (softened among the tribes on the Assam border into 'Singpho') which in their language is literally 'men.' Dr. Anderson thus describes the Kachins :— 'They are distributed all over the mountains that define the valley of the Irawadi north of Hotha, and on the hills that occur between them, as far as the wall of mountains that closes in the Kampti (Hkamti) plain on the north. They may be said, in general terms, to be confined, as far as our present knowledge goes, between the 23rd and 28th parallels of north latitude, and the 95th and 99th degrees of east longitude.' Later information tends to prove that these limits are exceedingly accurate as marking the furthest extension of the Kachins. They are found in the north of the upper Chindwin and Katha districts over practically the whole of the Myitkyina and a considerable portion of the Bhamo district, and in the Shan States of Mōng Mit, Tawngpeng and north Hsenwi, besides forming the bulk of the population north of the administrative border of upper Burma. Of late they have crossed the Salween and penetrated as far south as the State of Kēngtūng. Strictly speaking the name "Chingpaw" is given to the southern tribes only, the communities north of the administrative border being known generally as "Khakus;" i.e., "people of the river sources." The five principal tribes are the Marips, the Lepais, the Lahtawngs, the Nkhums, and the Marans. Several of the other hill tribes of the north-eastern frontier, notably the Marus, the Szis, and the Lashis, as well as the Lisaws or Yawwys, have been looked upon as Kachins, whom they resemble somewhat in manners and dress. It appears, however, probable from their language that these tribes are ethnically more closely related to the Burmans than to the Kachins.

In the first year after the annexation it was through the British occupation of Mogaung and their interests in the jade mines that they were chiefly brought into contact with the Kachins. Early in 1886 a British force accompanied by the Deputy Commissioner, Bhamo, visited Mogaung and received the submission of the local officials, but no direct control was then established. In December 1887, however, a strong column, accompanied by Major Adamson as Political Officer, was detailed to place British authority on a satisfactory basis, and to open up relations with the Kachin tribes inhabiting the jade and amber mine tracts. Major Adamson succeeded in inducing the Marip Chiefs, who dominated the tract in which the jade mines are situated, to tender their submission.

Prior to 1891, although the tribes south of the Taping had been taught by several punitive expeditions to recognise and respect the authority of the British, the country north of that river had been entirely unvisited save for a reconnaissance made in 1890-91. Repeated outrages which had been committed by the tribes in this area had proved that the country must be brought under control, and the necessity for early action was accentuated by reports that the ex-Sawbwa of Wuntho was at Sadôn stirring up the tribes to raid. Four columns were accordingly detailed in the open season of 1891-92 to bring under subjection what has been conveniently styled the 'Eastern Kachin Tract.' The net results of the operations were the recognition of British authority throughout the greater part of the area visited, the disarmament of a large number of villages, the collection of a certain amount of tribute, and the construction of a post at Sadôn. In 1892-93 posts were established at Sima and Namhkam. The former was created in the face of strong opposition on the part of the neighbouring Kachins, and the establishment of both posts led during the year to a series of risings, which required a considerable force to suppress them. In 1895 the Bhamo district was divided, the northern portion being formed into a new district, Myitkyina, and in the same year the Kachin Hill-Tribes Regulation, I of 1895, came into force. This regulation, which legalized the procedure previously in force, provided for the administration of the Kachin hill tracts through the medium of the Duwas (chiefs or headmen), who have certain criminal and civil powers which they exercise subject to the control of the Deputy Commissioner of the district concerned and of "civil officers," who are under the Deputy Commissioner's orders. For the purposes of the regulation the Deputy Commissioner is a Sessions Judge for the hill tracts in his district. Tribute is paid by the people of the hill tracts under the authority of the regulation. The Chiefs are given appointment orders by the Deputy Commissioner, but are not granted sanads. Since the passing of the regulation the establishment of law and order in the Kachin hills has proceeded steadily, and has not been marred by any untoward accident.

One of the main principles that have been adopted in dealing with the Kachins has been to divide them into two main classes, vis. :—

- (a) the tribes and clans within British line of outposts and settled villages who will be brought under thorough administration,
- (b) the tribes and clans without that line, who will be subjected to political control only.

For the present the tribes and clans within the pale, who come within the first of the above categories, are those who live on the left bank of the Irawadi south of the N'mai kha, and on the right bank of the Irawadi south of a line drawn, between $25^{\circ} 30'$ and 26° N., from the confluence of the Mali kha and the N'mai kha through the northern limit of the Laban tract and including the jade mines.

The last occasion on which serious trouble was experienced on the north-east frontier was in 1899-1900, when an expedition sent out to explore the country east of the N'mai kha was attacked by a force of Chinese, which was driven off with considerable loss. With this exception the relations with China on this part of the frontier have of late been friendly. The 1898-1900 Burma-China Boundary Commission fixed the boundary as far north as a hill known as Manang Pum in the north-east of the Myitkyina district in $25^{\circ} 35'$ N., and it is hoped that the boundary north of this point will before long be defined.

On the 6th September 1894 a Convention (No. XV) was signed by Great Britain and China in respect of the junction of the Burmese and Chinese telegraph lines. It was revised by a further Convention (No. XVI), dated the 23rd May 1905.

On the 17th January 1902 an Arrangement (No. XVII) between the British and Chinese authorities was entered into at Manai on the frontier, by which the Yunnanese authorities undertook to pay compensation for a number of past frontier raids, and to make improved arrangements for the protection of the frontier and for the levy of customs. Since then the disposal of frontier compensation cases has been conducted with reasonable despatch.

As an outcome of the Manai agreement an arrangement was made in 1903, whereby the Government of Burma was to construct a mule road for 25 miles from Kulikha on the Burma-Yünnan frontier to Lung Chang at a cost of Rs. 64,000, and to recover the cost from the Government of Yünnan by instalments extending over three years, one-third of the ordinary mule tax and the whole of the surtax imposed under the Manai agreement being devoted to its repayment. The agreement is embodied in despatches between the British Consul-General and Consul and the Taotai of western Yünnan dated the 26th and 27th December 1903 (Appendices I and II), the time for repayment has since been slightly extended.

On the 12th February 1904 an Arrangement (No. XVIII), made with the Chinese postal authorities, provided for the exchange, via Bhamo and Têngyüeh, of correspondence between India and certain places in China.

A reconnaissance survey of a proposed railway from Bhamo to Têngyüeh was completed in 1905.

In 1898 a British Consul was appointed at Têngyüeh, and in 1902 an Imperial customs station was opened at that place.

In 1903 a British Consul-General was appointed for the provinces of Yünnan and Kueichou to reside at Yünnan Fû. A Consul was appointed to Ssümao in 1898, but since 1900 the post has been without a regular consular officer. The Commissioner of Chinese Imperial Customs at Ssümao has, however, been authorised since 1905 to attend to British consular business there.

IV.—The CHINS.

To the west of Burma, between the districts bordering on the Chindwin river and Bengal and Assam, lies a mountainous tract, the eastern portion of which is inhabited by races known under the general name of Chins. For many years prior to the annexation of upper Burma the Chins, a savage and barbarous people, had been in the habit of raiding on the adjacent plains of Burma and on the State of Kale. The main sub-divisions of the Chins, so far as the tribes bordering on Burma are concerned, are the Sôktes (including the Kanhow clan), the Siyins, the Tashôns, the Yahows, the Whennohs, the Hakas, the Tlantlangs, the Yôkwes, the Chinbôks, the Yindus, and the Chinbons. Roughly speaking, these tribes lie in the above order from north to south. In consequence of incessant raids committed in the plains operations were undertaken against these tribes in the year 1888-89. Severe punishment was inflicted on the northern clans, the Siyins and Kanhows; and in the open season of 1889-90 further operations were undertaken against the Tashôns, Yôkwes, and Hakas. These latter tribes submitted almost without resistance, the Siyins and other clans in the north subsequently came to terms, and British garrisons, with political officers, were established at Fort White in the north, and at Haka in the south, for the purpose of controlling the Chins and compelling them to abstain from further aggressions on British territory.

In 1890-91 the Chin hills were administered from three centres—the northern tribes from Fort White, the central tribes from Haka, and the southern tribes from Yawdwin. In the north the open season operations resulted in the submission of the three important tribes of Siyins, Sôktes, and Kanhows. The principal tribes in the central district are the Tashôns, Hakas, Tlantlangs, Yôkwas, and Baungshes. The Thetta clan of the Baungshe tribe gave some trouble but was reduced to order, and there was a sudden rising among the Tlantlangs. The remaining tribes behaved, on the whole, very well. Among the southern tribes the Chinbôks, who had committed several raids, were severely punished; but the rest of the country remained practically unvisited.

In 1891-92 a series of expeditions on a carefully prepared scheme were undertaken in the northern Chin country, and practically the whole area was explored. A column from the Burma side marched across to Fort Lungleh, and rendered valuable assistance in subduing the rebellious Lushais; trade between the Chin hills and Burma revived; and it was considered safe to withdraw the outposts in the Kubo valley.

The various columns operating from Haka in 1891-92 reduced the Baungshes to order; severely punished the Tlantlangs for the outbreak of the preceding year; and completed the domination of the Tashôns by establishing a permanent post at their principal village, Falam. A successful season's work was accomplished among the southern Chin tribes; the country was thoroughly explored; tribute collected; and satisfactory relations everywhere established.

In 1892 the northern and central Chin hills were formed into a single charge, under the control of a superintendent at Falam, with assistants at Haka and Tiddim. In the same year a plot was concerted by the Siyins, and the Sôktes of Ngwengal for the overthrow of British domination, and in October of that year a Burman Myoôk was ambushed and murdered. The rebellion was thoroughly crushed, extensive disarmament operations were undertaken, and a regular house tax was imposed in the hills. During 1893-94 pacification continued and the boundary between the northern Chin hills and Manipur was demarcated. In 1895-96 the military garrison was withdrawn from the hills, which were declared part of Burma and constituted a scheduled district, provision being made for their administration by the Chin Hills Regulation of 1896. The Chin Chiefs are allowed to administer their affairs in accordance with their customs, subject to the supervision of the superintendent. Their powers are, however, more limited than those of the Shan Sawbwas, and they are not granted sanads. Since the passing of the Chin Hills Regulation the tract has on the whole been peaceful.

In 1897-98 the southernmost portion of the tract adjoining the Pakòkku district was made into a separate charge called the Pakòkku Chin Hills. This area is administered in accordance with the regulation by an assistant superintendent, with head-quarters at Kanpetlet under the orders of the Commissioner, Minbu Division.

In 1898 and 1899 there was trouble in connection with disarmament, but the disaffection was suppressed without difficulty, and the disarmament of the hill has since been thoroughly effected.

In January 1901 the boundary between the Chin hills and the Lushai hills at the north-west corner of the former district was demarcated.

V.—THE RED KARENS.

To the north-east of lower Burma lies Karenni, the country of the Red Karens. This mountainous tract is situated on both banks of the Salween, and is bounded on the north by the Shan States, on the south by the Salween district, on the east by Siam, and on the west by the Tóungoo district. The tract is divided into eastern and western Karenni, the former consisting of one State, that of Gantarawadi, the latter of the four small States of Kyebogyi, Bawlakè, Nammekon, and Naungpalè. It contains nearly 46,000 inhabitants made up of different local tribes known as Red Karens, White Karens, Bres, Padaungs, etc., and of a cosmopolitan foreign population which has come from Burma, Siam, the Shan States, China, and India. The history of Karenni is obscure and of no special interest or importance. At one time Bawlakè appears to have been the head of the whole country east and west. Eastern Karenni was the first to be separated from Bawlakè, while about 1845 Kyebogyi and Naungpalè became independent.

The petty State of Nammekon came into existence some 50 years ago, when the Bawlakè and Ngwedaung Myosas gave the territory to a Red Karen named Po Bya, a revered ascetic. It was formerly part of a small state known as Ngwedaung, the greater part of which was subsequently annexed by Sawlapaw, the Chief of eastern Karenni. The first occasion on which the British Government came into contact with the people of Karenni was in 1836, when the Commissioner of the Tenasserim provinces deputed Mr. Richardson to proceed to Karenni and make arrangements for opening trade. After the annexation of Pegu, when the boundary between British and Native Burma was declared to be the parallel 6 miles north of Myede, it was thought that the Karenni were subject to the Burmese Government, and it was therefore declared that the boundary should extend to the Salween through the Karenni country. As, however, it was ascertained that the Red Karens were independent, and as there was no intention of asserting a right of conquest over them, the demarcation of the boundary was not carried farther east of the Sittang than the Kunang ridge of the Paunglaung range of mountains.

The western Karenni Chiefs showed from the earliest days after the annexation of Pegu an anxious desire for British protection. In 1855 an agent on the part of the British Government was placed at Kyebogyi in order to observe and report events in the neighbouring States, and to use his influence to check the wars and forays carried on to secure captives to be sold into slavery. In January 1857 the Deputy Commissioner of Toungoo, Mr. E. O'Riley, proceeded to Karenni, on which occasion he made a contract of friendship with the ancient Chieftain of Kyebogyi. From that period this Chief considered himself as being under the protection of the British Government, and though no promise of protection was made to him, yet the known fact of the public acknowledgment of friendship, and the presence of the agent, who remained at his town till 1862, served to preserve the Chief from serious attack.

In 1863 Mr. O'Riley was again deputed to Karenni to arrange differences that had arisen with the Chief of eastern Karenni, and to provide for the safe transit of caravans through all parts of that country. He found the Chiefs of western Karenni firm in their attachment to the British Government, and renewed with them the contract of friendship made in 1857. The Chief of Kyebogyi died in 1868, and his sons, Kun Ti and Kun Sha, repeated the request previously made by their father that the British Government would take possession of and administer western Karenni. This was declined, but, in consequence of applications made in 1869 by the Chief of eastern Karenni to the Burmese Government for assistance against the western Karens, the King of Burma was urged to abstain from interference with the independence of western Karenni, and positive assurances were given by his Prime Minister that the wishes of the British Government would be scrupulously respected. Towards the end of 1873, in consequence of reports of a threatened movement of the Burmese against western Karenni, the Burmese Government were reminded of the assurances given in 1869 and 1870; they repudiated these assurances and asserted a claim to exercise sovereignty over western Karenni. The determination of the British Government not to allow any extension of Burmese authority south of the prolongation of the British boundary line remained unchanged, and, as no satisfactory proposal was made by the envoy whom the King deputed towards the end of 1874 to discuss the question, Sir Douglas Forsyth was instructed to proceed to Mandalay, and, as a preliminary to further discussion, to require an assurance from the King that the status quo in western Karenni should be maintained. The King, however, anticipated all discussion by volunteering to guarantee the independence of western Karenni, and an Agreement (No. XIX) to this effect was executed on the 21st June 1875. The Burmese Government were at the same time informed that the boundary between western Karenni and Burmese territory would be demarcated by a British officer, who might, should the King desire it, be accompanied by a Burmese official. The boundary was accordingly demarcated early in 1876 by Mr. Hildebrand. But the Burmese outposts established at Nammekon and Lawdawku in western Karenni were not withdrawn till May 1877.

The independence of the western Karenni States having been guaranteed by the British Government by the terms of the Treaty of 1875 with King Mindôn, they were left to themselves on the British occupation of the Shan States in the beginning of 1887. Towards the end of that year an attempt was made to commence friendly relations with Gantarawadi, but Sawlapaw ignored the advances made, and as soon as the troops had left the vicinity of Karenni he invaded and harried the Shan State of Mawksai. He continued openly and actively defiant until it became necessary, in December 1888, to despatch a British force against him. Sawlon, Sawlapaw's capital, was occupied and the Chief fled to the jungle and refused to come in. Accordingly on the 28th January 1889 a meeting of the Chiefs and Hengs of Karenni was held, and Sawlawi the titular Këmmōng, or heir apparent, was elected Chien, and was subsequently confirmed in his appointment as Myoza by the British Government and granted a Sanad (No. XX). The State was heavily fined, and undertook to pay a yearly tribute of five thousand rupees to the British Government.

At the time of the expedition of 1888-89 the Siamese Government was invited to co-operate by taking action to prevent the escape of Sawlapaw across the Salween. Advantage was taken of the opportunity to occupy a tract of country east of the Salween, which had for many years been in the possession and under the administration of the Chief of eastern Karenni. This tract was claimed by the Siamese Government and by Sawlawi. In 1889-90 a boundary commission held a local investigation into the claims advanced by Sawlawi. Although the commission was appointed at the instance of the Siamese Government, that government at the last moment declined to join in the enquiry, which was accordingly held ex parte, and the British Government decided the question of ownership in favour of Karenni. The boundary laid down by the British commissioners was subsequently accepted by the Siamese Government.

On January 1st, 1903, Sawlawi, who attended the Delhi Coronation Durbar, was granted a Sanad (No. XXI) conferring on him the hereditary title of Sawbwa.

The Burmese Government never abstained from intrigues in Karenni, and made special efforts to obtain an acknowledged supremacy over eastern Karenni, or, as it was styled by the Burmese Government, Gantarawadi. The claim of the Burmese Government to exercise sovereignty over western Karenni was, as already explained, explicitly renounced by the treaty of 1875; and the Resident at Mandalay was expressly ordered to decline to acknowledge any similar claim put forward in respect of eastern Karenni. It is known, however, that Sawlapaw took the oath of allegiance to the King of Burma and regarded himself as subject to the Burmese Government. In the latter years of the separate existence of the Burmese kingdom the weakness of the central administration prevented any active interference in Karenni affairs, and after the withdrawal of the Resident from Mandalay the relations between Burma and Karenni attracted little attention.

After the annexation of upper Burma in 1886 the British Government continued to regard Karenni as independent. As it had always been maintained that Karenni was in no way subject to the King of Burma, it was assumed that the extinction of the Burmese monarchy did not affect the relative position of the Karenni Chiefs and the British Government. With western Karenni friendly relations have been constantly maintained, and in January 1892 its four Chiefs were formally recognized as feudatories by the Government of India, being presented on the 23rd January of that year with Sanads (No. XXII) appointing them Myosas. The Chief of Gantarawadi has full powers, but the four western Karenni Chiefs have not, as they cannot carry into effect any sentence of death until it has been confirmed by the Superintendent and Political Officer of the Southern Shan States. Gantarawadi pays a tribute of Rs. 5,000 annually, and the western Myozas an annual nazar of Rs. 100 each. In the case of Naungpalè the nazar was in 1895 reduced to Rs. 50. The States included in eastern and western Karenni are not part of British India and are not subject to any of the laws in force in the Shan States or in other parts of upper Burma or in lower Burma. The customary law of the country, modified by the terms of the Chiefs' sanads, is in force. For the purposes of the trial of European British subjects charged with offences in Karenni the Superintendent, Southern Shan States, and every assistant superintendent in Karenni are justices of the peace with power to commit to the chief court of lower Burma. For the trial of persons other than European British subjects, or persons jointly charged with them, the Superintendent and Political Officer is a court of session and the assistant superintendent a district magistrate and a court of session, and the Lieutenant-Governor exercises the powers of a high court.

No. I.

TRANSLATION of the ROYAL MANDATE, accompanying the letter to the GOVERNOR-GENERAL, dated September 1795.

To all Killadars and Governors of Ports, in like virtue to the Maywoon of Henzawuddy.

The source of greatness and dignity celestial, whose threshold is as the firmament, and whose suppliants, when he places the Golden Foot of Majesty on their fortunate heads, like the blooming water-lilly, are inspired with confidence unbounded, such are the ministers of exalted rank, the guardians of the Empire, from among whom the high and transcendent Minister proclaims these orders:—

Governor of Henzawuddy, whose title is Meen La Noo Retha; Governor of the Waters, whose title is Yaaon or Rawoon; Collector of the King's Revenues, whose title is Ackawoon; Collector of Customs, whose title is Ackoon; Commander of the Troops, whose title is Chekaw.

1. Whereas English merchants resort to the port of Rangoon to carry on trade, in friendship, good faith, and confidence in the Royal protection, therefore when merchants come to the port of Rangoon, duties for godown, rebate (searchers or appraisers) and other charges, all these shall be regulated according to the former established rates, and no more, on any pretence, shall be taken.

2. All English merchants, who have paid the Port Duties, shall be allowed to go to whatever part of the country they think fit, having obtained a certificate and order from the Maywoon, or Governor of the Province, and whatever goods English merchants wish to purchase in return, they shall not be impeded or molested, or prevented in their barter, bargain, or purchase; and if it should be judged expedient to establish any person, on the part of the English Company, at Rangoon, for the purpose of trade, and to forward letters or presents to the King, to such person a right of residency is granted.

3. If any English merchant is aggrieved, or thinks he suffers oppression, he may complain either to the Governor of the Province, by petition to the Throne, or prefer his complaint in person; and as Englishmen are, for the most part, unacquainted with the Birman tongue, they may employ whatever interpreters they think fit, previously acquainting the King's interpreters what person they mean to employ.

4. English ships driven into any Birman port by stress of weather, and in want of repairs, on due notice of their distress being given to the Officers of Government, such vessels shall be expeditiously supplied with workmen, timber, iron, and every requisite, and the work shall be done, and the supplies granted, at the current rates of the country.

5. As the English have long had commercial connexions with this Nation, and are desirous of extending them, they are to be allowed to come and depart at their pleasure, without hinderance : and seeing that the illustrious Governor-General of Calcutta, in Bengal, on the part of the King of England, has sent tokens of friendship to the Golden Feet, these orders are therefore issued for the benefit, ease, and protection of the English people.

TRANSLATION of the ROYAL ORDERS, regulating the Customs to be taken at the several Chokeys between Ummerapoor and Rangoon.

Sirdars, Chokeydars and Guards of the several Ghauts, extending to the verge of the ocean.

Whereas the Governor-General, out of his friendship, has deputed Captain Michael Symes from Calcutta, in Bengal, to be his vakeel at this Court, who having made representation and memorial to us, such representation has accordingly been taken into due consideration.

Merchants having paid the established Duty on their merchandize, who do not dispose of such goods at the place of importation, but choose to bring them to the capital (literally the Golden Feet) either in person or by their agent, from such merchants no Duties are, on any pretence, to be exacted or demanded on the way to the Capital, but when merchants going back carry with them goods in return, they are to pay Duties on such returning goods, in like manner as is specified by the Regulations issued from the Qufter of the Golden Palace, in the Birman year 1145: wherefore orders are despatched to the several Chokeys, also to the Maywoon of Henzawuddy, and those matters which were submitted by the principal Ministers to His Majesty are fully authorized.

Moreover, in the Birman year 1157, and the 26th of the Birman month Saundecoup, or the 26th of the Mussulman month Rubbi-ul-awul, the Royal Mandate came forth to the following effect:—

At the Chokey called Keouptaloom, boats returning from the Capital shall pay one mima, or one anna and a half.

At the Chokey called Muggoe, if the breadth of the boat be four cubits, for each cubit twelve annas, or three takals in all shall be paid. But if it be less than four cubits, one takal shall be paid for every thousand viss weight of goods; and if the boat be empty, then shall one mima, or four annas, be paid for each man.

At the Chokey called Pulloe, if the breadth be four cubits, six mima, or ten annas, shall be paid for each cubit; and if the boat exceeds, or is under, four cubits, the same rate shall be paid: and if the boat be laden with heavy commodities, then shall one takal be taken for every thousand viss.

At the Chokey called Puttoo the Custom taken shall be, for each cubit in breadth, three mima, or twelve annas.

At the Chokey called Keounzelee, and the Chokey called Nawalee no Duty is to be exacted. Yet same trifle should be given by way of present; but no boat is to be stopped or impeded.

At the Chokey called Tow, where the Duty formerly was levied in lead, it shall now be levied in silver, that is, one takal shall be paid by each boat for every thousand viss burthen.

At the Chokey called Trougmeow, if the boat be four cubits in breadth two hundred and fifty takals of lead (about ten annas) shall be paid for each cubit, but if the boat be less than four cubits, then shall three viss and thirty takals of lead be taken for the whole (something less than a Rupee).

At the Chokey called Bamen, boats shall pay six mima, or ten annas for each cubit in breadth.

At the Chokey called Ackeo there is no established Duty, but from boats laden with rice, salt, fish, and nappee, it is customary to give some trifle.

At the Chokey called Henzawa, if a boat carries ten boatmen, besides the steersman, for each of such boatman thirty-five takals of lead shall be paid, but the steersman shall pay nothing. If a boat be laden with rice, dhal, paddy, barley, kengid or cotton, then shall the boat so laden pay a quarter of a basket of such commodity; and if a boat be laden with heavy articles, such as salt, fish, and nappee, four viss of such heavy commodity shall be exacted from each boat. And when a boat going down pays these Duties, no Duties shall be required of the same boat returning; and the reverse, a boat that has paid the Duty shall not be taxed going down. Some trifling present will be proper.

At the Chokey called Denoubeon, if the breadth of the boat be four cubits, such boat shall pay two hundred and fifty takals of lead; if under that size, for each boatman fifty takals.

At the Chokey called Yangansea, and the Chokey called Panglang, on the north side, no Duty is to be paid, but a tray is to be given (meaning a trifling present, not more than the value of a Rupee)

In the Birman year 1145, a Mandate was issued from the Register of the Golden Palace, that foreign merchants should have liberty to come to the Capital (Golden Feet) without paying Duties; nevertheless, in returning they shall pay agreeable to the rates specified in the Royal Mandate issued from the Darbar of the Golden Palace, nor shall more or less be demanded or accepted; but to the Chokey of Yangansea, on the north side, and the Chokey Panglang, on the north side, and the Chokey Koongee and the Chokey of Lounggee, no authority is granted from the Golden Palace to exact Duties, and none on any pretence are to be required or received.

TRANSLATION of a ROYAL ORDER respecting the Duty to be taken on timber.

Guards, Chokeydars, and persons in authority, as far as the seashore.

Whereas the Governor-General of the Company at Calcutta, in Bengal, having deputed Captain Michael Symes with presents to the Golden Feet, who requests liberty for merchants to purchase, load, and take away timber, according to the established and authorized custom, therefore merchants of the English Nation, desirous of transporting rafts of timber down the river, shall have liberty to carry from towns and villages such timber. And as, in the year 1145, enquiry and investigation were made respecting the amount of Duties formerly taken at each of the Chokeys, His Majesty was pleased to direct that no Duties should be taken, except what are specified therein; for that reason it is now ordered that no Duties shall be taken at Chokeys on timber going down, nor any Impost exacted on wood, except five per cent., payable at Rangoon, agreeable to former Regulation.

NO. VIII.

CONVENTION BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND CHINA, GIVING EFFECT TO ARTICLE III OF THE CONVEN- TION OF JULY 24TH, 1886, RELATIVE TO BURMA AND TIBET.

Signed at London, March 1st, 1894.

[Ratifications exchanged at London, August 23rd, 1894.]

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, and His Majesty the Emperor of China, being sincerely desirous of consolidating the relations of friendship and good neighbourhood which happily exist between the two Empires, have resolved to conclude a Convention with the view of giving effect to Article III of the Convention relative to Burma and Tibet, signed at Peking on the 24th July 1886, and have appointed as their Plenipotentiaries for this purpose, that is to say :—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, the Right Honourable the Earl of Rosebery, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs ;

And His Majesty the Emperor of China, Sieh Ta-jên, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of China at the Court of St. James, and Vice-President of the Imperial Board of Censors ;

Who, having mutually communicated to each other their respective Full Powers, found to be in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles :—

ARTICLE 1.

It is agreed that the frontier between the two Empires, from latitude $25^{\circ} 35'$ north, shall run as follows :—

Commencing at the high conical peak situated approximately in that latitude and in longitude $98^{\circ} 14'$ east of Greenwich and $18^{\circ} 16'$ west of Peking the line will follow, as far as possible, the crest of the hills running in a south-westerly direction through Kaolang Pum and the Warong Peak, and thence run nearly midway between the villages of Wanchon and Kaolang—leaving the former to Burma and the latter to China—on to Sabu Pum.

From Sabu Pum the frontier will run in a line slightly to the south of west through Shatrung Pum to Namienku Pum; thence it will be continued, still running in a south-westerly direction, along the crest of the hills until it strikes the Tazar Kha River, the course of which it will follow from its source to its confluence with the Nam Tabet or Tabak Kha, thus leaving Uka to the east and Laipong to the west.

From the confluence of the Tazar Kha River with the Tabak Kha, the frontier will ascend the latter river to its junction with the Lekra Kha, which it will follow to its source near Nkrang. From the source of the Lekra Kha, leaving Nkrang, Kukum, and Singra to the west, and Sima and Mali to the east, the line will follow the Lesa Kha from its western source to its junction with the Mali River, and thence will ascend the Mali to its source near Hpunra Shikong; thence it will run in a south-westerly direction along the Laisa Kha from its source down to the point where it falls into the Molé River near Kadon, leaving the village to Kadon to the west and that of Laisa to the east.

The line will then follow the course of the Molé in a south-easterly direction to the place where he receives the Chi Yang Kha, which latter river it will follow to its source in the Alau Pum. It will then be directed along the Nampoung River from its western source down to where it enters the Taping River.

This concludes the description of the first section of the frontier.

ARTICLE 2.

The second section of the frontier, or that portion of it which extends from the Taping River to the neighbourhood of Meung Mao, will run as follows :—

Starting from the junction of the Khalong Kha with the Taping River, the frontier will follow the Khalong Kha and its western branch to its source; it will be drawn thence southward to meet the Sipaho or Lower Nanthabet at a spot immediately to the south-west of Hanton, leaving Matin to Great Britain and Loilonga-tong, Tiéh-pi-Kwan and Hanton to China; thence it will ascend the branch of the last-named river, which has its source nearest to that of the Mantein Kha. It will thence follow the crests of the line of hills running in a south-easterly direction to the more southerly of the two places named Kadaw, which is close to the Namwan River, leaving Kadaw to China and Palen to Great Britain. It will follow the Namwan River in a south-westerly direction down to the point in about latitude $23^{\circ} 55'$ where that river takes a south-easterly course. Thence it will run in a direction somewhat west of south to the Nammak River, leaving Namkhai to Great Britain. It will follow the Nammak River to the point where it bifurcates in about latitude $23^{\circ} 47'$ and will then ascend the southern branch till it reaches the crest of a high range of hills to the south of Mawsiu, in about latitude $23^{\circ} 45'$. It will follow the crest of this range (which runs slightly to the north of east) until it reaches the Shweli River at its junction with the Nammak, thus leaving to China, the district of Mawsiu, the spot recently identified as Tien-ma-Kwan and the villages of Hinglon and Kongmow, lying to the north of the above mentioned range.

It will then follow the course of the Shweli River, and where the river bifurcates, it will follow the more southerly of the two branches, leaving to China the Island formed by them, until it reaches a point near the eastern end of the loop which the river forms opposite to Meung Mao, as indicated in the next article of the Convention.

The Government of China consent that the most direct of the roads between Bhamo and Namkham, where it passes through the small portion of Chinese territory south of the Namwan, shall while remaining entirely open to Chinese subjects and to the tribesmen subject to China, be free and open to Great Britain for travellers, commerce, and administrative purposes, without any restrictions whatever. Her Britannic Majesty's Government shall have the right, after communication with the Chinese authorities to execute any works which may be desirable for the improvement or repair of the road, and to take any measures which may be required for the protection of the traffic and the prevention of smuggling.

It is equally agreed that British troops shall be allowed to pass freely along this road. But no body of troops more than 200 in number shall be despatched across it without the consent of the Chinese authorities, and previous notice in writing shall be given of every armed party of more than twenty men.

ARTICLE 3.

The third section of the frontier will run as follows:—

It will commence from a point on the Shweli River, near to the east end of the loop formed by that river opposite to Meung Mao; thence paying due regard to the natural features and the local conditions of the country, it will trend in a south-easterly direction towards Ma-li-pa until it reaches at a point in about longitude $98^{\circ} 7'$ east of Greenwich ($18^{\circ} 23'$ west of Peking), and latitude $23^{\circ} 52'$, a conspicuous mountain range. It will follow the crests of that range through Loiaipong and Loipanglom until it reaches the Salween River, in about latitude $23^{\circ} 41'$.

This portion of the frontier from the Shweli to the Salween River shall be settled by the Boundary Commission provided for in Article VI of the present Convention, and in such a manner as to give to China at least as much territory as would be included if the frontier were drawn in a straight line from Meung Mao towards Ma-li-pa.

If it should be found that the most suitable frontier will give to China a larger amount of territory than is stated above, the compensation to be given to Great Britain on some other part of the frontier shall be matter for subsequent arrangement.

From latitude $23^{\circ} 41'$ the frontier will follow the Salween until it reaches the northern boundary of the circle of Kunlong. It will follow that boundary in an easterly direction, leaving the whole circle of Kunlong, and the ferry of that name, to Great Britain, and leaving to China the State of Kokang.

It will then follow the course of the river forming the boundary between Somu, which belongs to Great Britain, and Mêng Ting, which belongs to China. It will still continue to follow the frontier between those two districts, which is locally well known, to where it leaves the aforesaid river and ascends the hills; and will then follow the line of water-parting between the tributaries of the Salween and Meikong Rivers, from about longitude 99° east of Greenwich ($17^{\circ} 30'$ west of Peking), and latitude $23^{\circ} 20'$ to a point about longitude $99^{\circ} 40'$ east of Greenwich ($16^{\circ} 50'$ west of Peking), and latitude 23° , leaving to China the Tsawbwaships of Kêng Ma, Mengtung and Mengko.

At the last-named point of longitude and latitude the line strikes a very lofty mountain range, called Kong-Ming-Shan, which it will follow in a southerly direction to about longitude $99^{\circ} 30'$ east of Greenwich (17° west of Peking), and latitude $22^{\circ} 30'$ leaving to China the district of Chen-pien T'ing. Then, descending the western slope of the hill to the Namka River, it will follow the course of that river for about $10'$ of latitude, leaving Munglem to China, and Manglün to Great Britain.

It will then follow the boundary between Munglem and Kyaing Tong, which is locally well known, diverging from the Namka River a little to the north of latitude 22° , in a direction somewhat south of east, and generally following the crest of the hills till it strikes the Namlam River in about latitude $21^{\circ} 45'$ and longitude 100° east of Greenwich ($16^{\circ} 30'$ west of Peking).

It will then follow the boundary between Kyaing Tong and Kiang Hung, which is generally formed by the Namlam River with the exception of a small strip of territory belonging to Kaing Hung, which lies to the west of that river just south of the last-named parallel of latitude. On reaching the boundary of Kyaing Chaing, in about latitude $21^{\circ} 27'$ and longitude $100^{\circ} 12'$ east of Greenwich ($16^{\circ} 18'$ west of Peking), it will follow the boundary between that district and Kiang Hung until it reaches the Meikong River.

ARTICLE 4.

It is agreed that the settlement and delimitation of that portion of the frontier which lies to the north of latitude $25^{\circ} 35'$ north shall be reserved for a future understanding between the high contracting parties when the features and condition of the country are more accurately known.

ARTICLE 5.

In addition to the territorial concessions in Northern Theinni, and the cession to China of the State of Kokang, which result from the frontier as above described, Her Britannic Majesty, in consideration of the abandonment of the claims advanced by China to the territory lying outside and abutting on the frontier of the Prefecture of Yung Chang and Sub-Prefecture of Teng Yüeh, agrees to renounce in favour of His Majesty the Emperor of China, and of his heirs and successors for ever, all the suzerain rights in and over the States of Munglem and Kiang Hung formerly possessed by the Kings of Ava concurrently with the Emperors of China. These and all other rights in the said States, with the titles, prerogatives and privileges thereto pertaining, Her Majesty the Queen-Empress renounces as aforesaid, with the sole proviso that His Majesty the Emperor of China shall not, without previously coming to an agreement with Her Britannic Majesty, cede either Munglem or Kiang Hung, or any portion thereof, to any other nation.

ARTICLE 6.

It is agreed that in order to avoid any local contention, the alignments of the frontier described in the present Convention, and shown on the maps annexed thereto, shall be verified and demarcated, and in case of its being found defective at any point, rectified by a Joint Commission appointed by the High Contracting Parties; and that the said Commission shall meet, at a place hereafter to be determined on by the two Governments, not later than twelve months after the exchange of the ratifications of the present Convention; and shall terminate its labours in not more than three years from the date of its first meeting.

It is understood that any alterations in the alignment, which the joint Commission may find it necessary to make, shall be based on the principle of equivalent compensations, having regard not only to the extent, but also to the value, of the territory involved. Further, that should the members of the Commission be unable to agree on any point, the matter of disagreement shall at once be referred to their respective Governments.

The Commission shall also endeavour to ascertain the situation of the former frontier-post of China named Hanlung Kwan. If this place can be identified, and is found to be situated in British territory, the British Government will consider whether it can, without inconvenience, be ceded to China.

If it shall be found to the south-east of Meung Mao so as to be on the northern side of the straight line drawn from that place towards Ma-li-pa, it will in that case already belong to China.

ARTICLE 7.

It is agreed that any posts belonging to either country which may be stationed within the territory of the other when the Commission of Delimitation shall have brought its labours to a conclusion, shall, within eight months from the date of such conclusion, be withdrawn, and their places occupied by the troops of the other, mutual notice having in the meantime been given of the precise date at which the withdrawal and occupation will take place. From the date of such occupation the High Contracting Parties shall, each within its own territories, hold itself responsible for the maintenance of good order, and for the tranquillity of the tribes inhabiting them.

The High Contracting Parties further engage neither to construct nor to maintain within 10 English miles from the nearest point of the common frontier, measured in a straight line and horizontal projection, any fortifications or permanent camps, beyond such posts as are necessary for preserving peace and good order in the frontier districts.

ARTICLE 8.

Subject to the conditions mentioned hereafter in Articles X and XI, the British Government, wishing to encourage and develop the land trade of China with Burma as much as possible, consent, for a period of six years from the ratification of the present Convention, to allow Chinese produce and manufactures, with the exception of salt, to enter Burma by land duty free, and to allow British manufactures and Burmese produce, with the exception of rice, to be exported to China by land free of duty.

The duties on salt and rice so imported and exported shall not be higher than those imposed on their import or export by sea.

ARTICLE 9.

Pending the negotiation of a more complete arrangement, and until the development of the trade shall justify the establishment of other frontier customs stations, goods imported from Burma into China, or exported from China into Burma, shall be permitted to cross the frontier by Manwyne and by Sansi.

With a view to the development of trade between China and Burma, the Chinese Government consent that for six years from the ratification of the present Convention the duties levied on goods imported into China by these routes shall be those specified in the General Tariff of the Maritime Customs diminished by three-tenths, and that the duties and goods exported from China by the same route shall be those specified in the same Tariff diminished by four-tenths.

Transit passes for imports and exports shall be granted in accordance with the rules in force at the treaty ports.

Smuggling or the carrying of merchandise through Chinese territory by other routes than those sanctioned by the present Convention shall, if the Chinese authorities think fit, be punished by the confiscation of the merchandise concerned.

ARTICLE 10.

The following articles, being munitions of war, shall neither be exported from Burma into China, nor imported from China into Burma, save at the requisition of the Government desiring their importation; neither shall they be sold to parties other than those who have been duly authorised by their respective Governments to purchase them:—

ARTICLE 13.

It is agreed that His Majesty the Emperor of China may appoint a Consul in Burma to reside at Rangoon, and that Her Britannic Majesty may appoint a Consul to reside at Manwyne; and that the Consuls of the two Governments shall, each within the territories of the other, enjoy the same privileges and immunities as the Consuls of the most favoured nation.

Further, that, in proportion as the Commerce between Burma and China increases, additional Consuls may be appointed by mutual agreement, to reside at such places in Burma and Yunnan as the requirements of the trade may seem to demand.

ARTICLE 17.

It is agreed that the subjects of the two Powers shall, each within the territories of the other, enjoy all the privileges, immunities, and advantages that may have been, or may hereafter be, accorded to the subjects of any other nation.

No. IX.

AGREEMENT MODIFYING THE BURMA-CHINA FRONTIER AND TRADE CONVENTION OF MARCH 1ST, 1894.

In consideration of the Government of Great Britain consenting to waive its objections to the alienation by China, by the Convention with France of June 20, 1895, of territory forming a portion of Kiang Hung, in derogation of the provisions of the Convention between Great Britain and China of March 1894, it has been agreed between the Governments of Great Britain and China that the following additions and alterations shall be made in the last-named Convention, hereinafter referred to as the original Convention.

ARTICLE I.

It is agreed that the frontier between the two Empires from lat. $25^{\circ} 35'$ north shall run as follows:—

Commencing at the high peak situated approximately in that lat. and in long. $98^{\circ} 14'$ east of Greenwich and $18^{\circ} 16'$ west of Peking, the line shall follow, as far as possible, the crest of the hills running in a south-west direction to Warung Peak (Kauyang) and shall extend thence to Sabu Pum.

From Sabu Pum the frontier shall run in a line along the watershed slightly to the south of west through Shatrung Pum to Namienku Pum.

Thence it shall follow a line to be fixed after local investigation, dividing the Szis and the Kumsas as far as the Tabak Kha; thence the Tabak Kha to the Namtabet; thence the Namtabet to the Paknoi Kha; thence the Paknoi Kha, to its source near Talang Pum; thence the Talang Pum ridge to Bumra Shikong.

From Bumra Shikong the frontier shall follow a line running in a south-west direction to the Laisa Kha; thence the Laisa Kha to the Molé stream, running between Kadon and Laisa; thence the Molé to its confluence with the Cheyang Kha; thence the Cheyang Kha to Alaw Pum; thence the Nampaung stream to the Taping.

ARTICLE 2.

The Taping to the Shweli river.

From the junction of the Taping and the Nampaung streams the frontier shall follow the Taping to the neighbourhood of the Lwalaing ridge; thence a line running approximately along the Lwalaing ridge and the Lwalaing stream to the Namwan; thence the Namwan to its junction with the Shweli.

Great Britain engages to recognise as belonging to China the tract to the south of the Namwan River near Namkhai, which is enclosed to the west by a branch of the Nam Mak River and the Mawsiu range of hills up to Loi Chow Peak, and thence by the range running in a north-east direction to the Shweli River.

In the whole of this area China shall not exercise any jurisdiction or authority whatever. The administration and control will be entirely conducted by the British Government who will hold it on a perpetual lease from China, paying a rent for it, the amount of which shall be fixed hereafter.

ARTICLE 3.

The Shweli to the Mekong.

From the junction of the Namwan and Shweli the frontier shall follow the northern boundary of the State of North Hsinwi as at present constituted to the Salween, leaving to China the loop of the Shweli River and almost the whole of Wanting, Mong-ko and Mong-ka.

Starting from the point where the Shweli turns north near Namswan, i.e., from its junction with the Namyang, the frontier shall ascend this latter stream to its source in the Mong-ko hills in about lat. $24^{\circ}7'$ and long. $98^{\circ}15'$, thence continue along a wooded spur to the Salween at its junction with the Namoi stream. The line shall then ascend the Salween till it meets the north-west boundary of Kokang, and shall continue along the eastern frontier of Kokang till it meets the Kunlông Circle, leaving the whole circle of Kunlông to Great Britain.

The frontier shall then follow the course of the river forming the boundary between Somu, which belongs to Great Britain, and Meng Ting, which belongs to China. It shall still continue to follow the frontier between those two districts, which is locally well known, to where it leaves the aforesaid river and ascends the hills, and shall then follow the line of water-parting between the tributaries of the Salween and the Meikong Rivers, from about long. 99° east of Greenwich ($17^{\circ}30'$ west of Peking), and lat. $23^{\circ}20'$, to a point about long. $99^{\circ}40'$ east of Greenwich ($16^{\circ}50'$ west of Peking), and lat. 23° , leaving to China the Tsawb-waships of Keng Ma, Mengtung, and Mengko.

At the last-named point of long. and lat. the line strikes a very lofty mountain range, called Kong Ming Shan, which it shall follow in a southerly direction to about long. $94^{\circ}30'$ east of Greenwich (17° west of Peking), and lat. $22^{\circ}30'$, leaving to China the district of Chen-pien T'ing. Then descending the west slope of the hills to the Namka River, it will follow the course of that river for about $10'$ of lat. leaving Munglem to China, and Manglum to Great Britain.

The Frontier shall then follow the boundary between Munglem and Kaing Tong (which is locally well known), diverging from the Namka River a little to the north of lat. 22° , in a direction somewhat south of east and generally following the crest of the hills till it strikes the Namlan River in about lat. $21^{\circ}45'$, and long. 100° east of Greenwich ($16^{\circ}30'$ west of Peking).

It shall then follow the boundary between Kiang Tong and Kiang Hung, which is generally formed by the Namlam River, with the exception of a small strip of territory belonging to Kiang Hung, which lies to the west of that river just south of the last-named parallel of latitude. On reaching the boundary of western Kyaing Chaing, in about lat. $21^{\circ}27'$, and long. $100^{\circ}12'$ east of Greenwich ($16^{\circ}18'$ west of Peking), the frontier shall follow the boundary between that district and Kaing Hung until it reaches the Mekong River.

ARTICLE 4.

No addition to original Convention.

ARTICLE 5.

It is agreed that China will not cede to any other nation, either Mung Lem, or any part of Kiang Hung on the right bank of the Mekong, or any part of Kiang Hung now in her possession on the left bank of that river, without previously coming to an arrangement with Great Britain.

ARTICLE 6.

Article 6 of the original Convention shall be held to be modified as follows:—

It is agreed that in order to avoid any local contention the alignments of the frontier described in the present Agreement shall be verified and demarcated, and in the event of their being found defective at any point, rectified by a joint Commission appointed by the Governments of Great Britain and China, and that the said Commission shall meet at a place hereafter to be determined by the two Governments not later than twelve months from the date of the signature of the present Agreement, and shall terminate its labours in not more than three years from the date of its first meeting.

If strict adherence to the line described would intersect any districts, tribal territories, towns or villages, the Boundary Commission shall be empowered to modify the line on the basis of mutual concessions. If the members of the Commission are unable to agree on any point, the matter of disagreement shall at once be referred to their respective Governments.

ARTICLE 7.

No addition to original Convention.

ARTICLE 8.

No addition to original Convention.

ARTICLE 9.

Add as follows :—

In addition to the Manwyne and Sansi routes sanctioned by the Convention of 1894, the Governments of Great Britain and China agree that any other routes the opening of which the Boundary Commissioners may find to be in the interests of trade shall be sanctioned on the same terms as those mentioned above.

ARTICLE 10.

No addition to original Convention.

ARTICLE 11.

No addition to original Convention.

ARTICLE 12.

Add as follows :—

The Chinese Government agrees hereafter to consider whether the conditions of trade justify the construction of railways in Yünnan, and in the event of their construction, agrees to connect them with the Burmese lines.

ARTICLE 13.

Whereas by the original Convention it was agreed that China might appoint a Consul in Burma to reside at Rangoon, and that Great Britain appoint a Consul to reside at Manwyne, and that the Consuls of the two Governments should each within the territories of the other enjoy the same privileges and immunities as the Consuls of the most favoured nation, and further that in proportion as the commerce between Burma and China increased, additional Consuls might be appointed by mutual consent to reside at such places in Burma and Yünnan as the requirements of trade might seem to demand.

It has now been agreed that the Government of Great Britain may station a Consul at Momein or Shunning-fu, as the Government of Great Britain may prefer, instead of at Manwyne as stipulated in the original Convention, and also to station a Consul at Ssuma.

British subjects and persons under British protection may establish themselves and trade at these places under the same conditions as at the Treaty ports in China.

The Consuls appointed as above shall be on the same footing as regards correspondence and intercourse with Chinese officials as the British Consuls at the Treaty ports.

ARTICLE 14.

Instead of "Her Britannic Majesty's Consuls at Manwyne" in the original Convention read "Her Britannic Majesty's Consul at Shunning or Momein," in accordance with the change made in Article 13.

No addition to original Convention.

SPECIAL ARTICLE.

Whereas on the 20th day of January 1896, the Tsung-li Yamén addressed an official despatch to Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires at Peking informing him that on the 30th day of December 1895, they had submitted a Memorial respecting the opening of ports on the West River to foreign trade, and had received an Imperial Decree in approval, of which they officially communicated a copy.

It has now been agreed that the following places, namely, Wuchow Fu in Kwangsi and Samshui City and Kongkun Market in Kwangtung shall be opened as Treaty ports and Consular stations with freedom of navigation for steamers between Samshui and Wuchow and Hong Kong and Canton by a route from each of these latter places to be selected and notified in advance by the Imperial Maritime Customs, and that the following four places shall be established as ports of call for goods and passengers under the same Regulations as the ports of call on the Yangtzi River, namely, Kongmoon, Komchuk, Shinhing and Takhing.

It is agreed that the present Agreement, together with the Special Article, shall come into force within four months of the date of signature and that the ratifications thereof shall be exchanged at Peking as soon as possible.

In witness whereof the undersigned, duly authorised thereto by their respective Governments, have signed the present Agreement.

(8) If the Government wish at any time to make a railway through the territory of Keng Tung, you shall provide land for the purpose free of cost to the Government, except the cost of the compensation adjudged to the actual occupiers of occupied land, and shall help the Government as much as possible. The Government may without further notice resume all jurisdiction over and in respect of all lands used or required for railway purposes.

(9) Opium, spirits, or fermented liquor, and other articles which are liable to duties of customs or excise when imported by sea into Lower Burma, or when produced in any part of Upper Burma to which the Regulations of the Governor-General in Council apply, shall not be brought from the State of Keng Tung into Lower Burma or into any such part as aforesaid of Upper Burma, except in accordance with rules made by the Government and on payment of such duties as may be prescribed in those rules.

(10) You shall deliver up, on the requisition of an officer of the Government, any criminal who takes refuge in the territory of Keng Tung. You shall aid officers of the Government who pursue criminals into the said territory; and in the event of offenders from the said territory taking refuge in any place beyond the limits of that territory, you shall make a representation of the matter to the authorities concerned.

(11) You shall not exercise criminal jurisdiction over any European or American or any servant of the Government or any British subject who is not a native of any Shan State. In the event of any criminal charge being brought against any such person, you shall make a representation of the matter to the Superintendent of the Southern Shan States.

TRANSLATION OF AN ARRANGEMENT BETWEEN the BRITISH AND CHINESE AUTHORITIES for the DISPOSAL of COMPENSATION CASES IN CONNECTION WITH FRONTIER RAIDS,—1902.

YEH, Sub-Prefect of Têngyüeh, with prefectural Brevet rank, Superintendent of Customs, addresses the following official despatch to the Deputy Commissioner, Bhamo, the Superintendent of the Northern Shan States, and the Têngyüeh Consul Litton.

ON the 26th of the 11th Moon (3rd January 1902) and on subsequent occasions, for a period of over 10 days, I have had the honour to meet you on the frontier at Man Ai, and, in concert with Mr. Montgomery, the Commissioner of Customs, to discuss frontier and trade matters. I have to thank you for your courteous treatment of me and to thank you for the conciliatory manner in which you have discussed public business on the occasions of our meetings. Your manifest anxiety to pacify the frontier and to extend trade is most gratifying to me. I now set forth in eight articles the mutual agreement concluded on the matters which have to be dealt with.

(1) As regards (a) all outstanding frontier cases on both sides in such parts of the Myitkyina, Bhamo and Northern Shan States districts as march with Têngyüeh district, (b) the case of the pao shang chu or "Trade Protection" office, it is agreed that the Yunnan officials pay as compensation to the Government of Burma the sum of 10,000 taels, which, calculating the exchange at Re. 1=·38 of a Têngyüeh tael, is Rs. 26,315. Of this sum Rs. 10,000 is to be paid as a first instalment before the end of May or, in Chinese style, before the end of the 4th Moon; the remaining Rs. 16,315 is to be paid in instalments on the dates when the Foreign Customs make up their accounts, until the whole amount is settled. Thereupon official despatches will pass on both sides formally wiping out all frontier cases up to the 10th day of 12th Moon of 27 K. S. (19th January 1902), as also the pao shang chu case, and any promises to pay money which may have previously been given by the Sawbwas are then to be treated as waste-paper. The pao shang certificates seized by the Deputy Commissioner will then be all returned to me for cancellation; if any have been lost they will be regarded as waste-paper. The compensation is to be settled by the allocation of one-third of the toll on mules and horses, which, it is agreed, is to be levied by the Customs. When payments are made, I, in concert with the Commissioner of Customs, will, on the one hand, buy a Bhamo or Rangoon draft and make out two receipts in English and Chinese, which will be sent to the Deputy Commissioner's official address. He will sign and return the receipts which will be kept by me as a proof. On the other hand, I will inform the Consul of the payment for his records. As regards the pao shang chu office, it has been agreed between the Deputy Commissioner and myself as follows. Besides the office at Myothit (alias Man Mao or Man Lung), which has already been removed by me to the interior of China, the Deputy Commissioner has heard that the Chinese merchants have secretly opened offices at other places on British territory. On my return to Têngyüeh I will order any such offices to be speedily withdrawn and the parties severely punished. If, after the present settlement, the Chinese gentry again dare to open offices in British territory, their discovery by the officials in Burma will leave no course open but a claim for separate and heavy compensation. If no officially stamped tickets are found, the Têngyüeh officials are not to be held responsible. It is further agreed that any Customs certificates issued at Manwyne and taken by any merchants to Burma (instead of being cancelled at Chinese substations), cannot of themselves be taken as evidence of a trespass by China.

(2) It is stated in the China-Burma treaty that each party is to be responsible for their wild tribes. The Burma officials have at ten places along the frontier, i.e., Kut Kai, Pang Kham Man en (Lwe Je), Lao Kham, Wa Lun Ping (Warapum), Nampang, Alawpum, Si Ma, Sadon, and Loi Ngu, established posts, and raised over 2,000 frontier troops, to prevent raiding by British Kachins. It has now been agreed between the Chinese and Burma officials, that as soon as I (the Prefect) return to Têngyüeh, I am, in concert with the Têngyüeh Brigadier Chang, to find means to station Chinese braves for the repression of Chinese-Kachins at four places, to wit, Ting Ka, Kawng Sung, and Hawlin in the Meng Mao and Mengwan districts, and at Maruchintong in the Nan Tien district; and whenever the Kachins rebel go across the frontier to raid, the officer at the Chinese post on the spot will at once turn out troops for the repression of disorder. He will also return across the border loot taken by the Kachins. If the latter dare to resist, the officer is permitted to adopt military measures against them on the one hand, and on the other to report to Têngyüeh; thus delays will be avoided.

When troubles occur, the Chinese officers will at once inform the nearest British post so that measures may be taken in concert to patrol the frontier and prevent the Kachins from bolting over the frontier. If any British Kachins fly across the frontier the Chinese officers will bind them and send them in custody back across the frontier. British officers will also act in the same way. Frontier officers on both sides should apply for passports in English and Chinese from the Têngyüeh Prefect, the Deputy Commissioners or the Consul, so that they may go backwards and forwards (across the frontier) to discuss frontier matters. As regards the number of the Chinese braves, this point is to be settled on discussion between the Prefect and General Chang of Têngyüeh, but the number is not to be less than 300.

On the present occasion the Deputy Commissioner, Myitkyina, was prevented by pressure of business from attending the meetings, but the Deputy Commissioner, Bhamo, the Superintendent, Northern Shan States, and the Consul have heard from him that his frontier is disturbed specially at Khawana. It is now agreed that the Consul should write to him requesting him to reply as to the exact place on his frontier where a Chinese post should be established, so that I, the Prefect, in concert with the General, may discuss measures for starting such a post to repress disorders on the Myitkyina frontier.

(3) It is agreed that on my return from Man Ai to Têngyüeh, I should proceed via Manwyne. I also agree, in concert with the Commissioner of Customs, to abolish the pao shang of Manwyne and to hand the office over to the control of the Commissioner. It is decided that when official business is commenced after the China new year, I, in concert with the Commissioner of Customs, will depute a suitable official to the said office at Manwyne, where he will levy a toll on animals according to the Foreign Customs Regulations. The regular toll is to be $\frac{1}{2}$ of a Haikwan tael per animal. An extraordinary toll of $\frac{1}{4}$ of a Haikwan tael will further be levied until the compensation due on frontier cases has been paid off, when the question will be further discussed as to whether I, as Superintendent of Customs, have sufficient funds to protect the trade and make roads. If not, the extra tax may, as a temporary measure, be sanctioned for one or two years more. But no local gentry may, as previously, be put in charge of the said office, so that the numerous abuses may not recur; further no person whatever may, under any pretext, either in the village or the city, levy any tax on animals beyond the toll specified in the Customs Regulations, and the old established tax on the sale of animals in Têngyüeh. This article only refers to beasts using the great through foreign trade routes, and a proclamation by me will be issued for general notification accordingly.

(4) The British officials have decided to make a road on the south bank of the Taping and propose to make rest-houses (serais) for the convenience of traders and the storage of their goods at Kalichat, Kulongka, and Kalicha river. These serais are to be free of charge. But from the Kalicha river (eastwards) it is reported that there is about 7 miles of hilly tract in Chinese territory before the descent to the valley (of the Taping). I agree to depute officers of the Pao Shang Regiment and the Sawbwas, on our return route, to act with the Civil officers of Hsin Lum Pum and the Consul, and to examine the said hill-path. If there really is no more than 7 miles of hill-path in China before the descent to the plains, I agree at once to engage labour and make a proper road down to the plains joining the British road. If it appears that this bit of hill-path is long and difficult or that merchants would not be willing to travel that way, I will, in concert with the General and the Commissioner, take measures after due discussion for the gradual construction of a proper road, so that our mutual desire to develop trade may be made evident.

(5) The road from Bhamo to Lngling via Nam Kham and Meng Mao is used by a good deal of through trade. Most of this is small Shan trade or Chinese trade driven from the Manwyne route by heavy taxes. If I and the Commissioner of Customs desire to put this road under the control of the Foreign Customs, it may be done; but if we desire to retain it for the present under the local tax offices and not to put it at once under the Foreign Customs, the Consul will raise no objection. But after a year or two, when trade develops, this point will come up for discussion again.

(6) Bo Po, a runaway criminal from Burma, has been causing disturbances in Meng Wan. Further he has, on three occasions, stolen oxen from across the frontier. Neither the British nor Chinese officials can forgive such abominable conduct. Formerly a reward of Rs. 500 was offered for this man. Now, I, the Prefect, will also issue a proclamation and order the Sawbwas within a fixed date to arrest him and deliver him to the Deputy Commissioner's office. When this is done the formerly offered reward will be paid without breach of faith.

(7) The case of hill cultivation at Maruchintong is to be dealt with by the Nantien Sawbwa and the Civil Officer of Hsin Lum Pum, who will proceed to the spot to settle it. Lands which (Chinese-Kachins) have in fact always been allowed to cultivate will still be allotted to them, but if there has been trespass it will be dealt with according to Kachin custom.

(8) In future when cases between Kachins on the two sides of the frontier occur, the British frontier officials and the Chinese Sawbwas will communicate officially and monthly with each other, and in concert with the frontier military officers, will discuss and justly settle (the monthly list). Unsettled cases will be drawn up in an annual list every year by the Deputy Commissioners and the Superintendent of the Northern Shan States on the one side and the Têngyüeh Prefect on the other. Cases which have not been reported within a year of occurrence or have not been entered on the respective lists, cannot on any future occasion be brought up. The compensation which it has been agreed will be paid and the cases which it has been agreed shall be settled on the present occasion, are (1) the pao shang case, (2) frontier Kachin cases of looting and robbery. Very important matters which have already been reported to the Central Governments of the two countries are not included herein. This should be specially noted.

ARRANGEMENT FOR THE EXCHANGE OF CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE POSTAL ADMINISTRATION OF INDIA AND THE POSTAL ADMINISTRATION OF CHINA,—1904.

In order to establish an exchange of correspondence between India and China, the undersigned, duly authorised for that purpose, have agreed upon the following articles:—

ARTICLE I.

There shall be between the Postal Administration of India and the Postal Administration of China a regular exchange, via Bhamo and Têngyüeh, of correspondence of all kinds, namely, letters, postcards (both single and with reply paid), printed papers, business papers and samples of merchandise, both ordinary and registered, by means of any services, ordinary or special, now established and hereafter established, which each Administration may have at its disposal.

ARTICLE 2.

Each Administration shall be entitled to send through the intermediate agency of the other either closed mails or correspondence à découvert to any other country with which the latter Administration has postal relations. The charges payable by the despatching Administration in respect of such transit correspondence shall be at the rates prescribed by the Principal Convention of the Postal Union in force for the time being, and the amount of the total yearly payment shall be assessed on the basis of statistics which shall be taken as may be agreed upon hereafter between the two Administrations.

ARTICLE 3.

The offices of exchange shall be on the side of India, Bhamo and on the side of China, Têngyüeh.

ARTICLE 4.

The postage on articles exchanged between the two Administrations shall be paid by means of postage stamps, and this postage, if fully prepaid at the equivalents in India and China, respectively, of the rates laid down by Article 5, paragraph 1, of the Principal Convention of Washington, shall entitle the articles to be delivered free of all charges irrespective of their destinations, provided only that correspondence addressed to places in China where no Chinese post offices exist shall be forwarded by the Chinese Administration to destination through private agencies at the risk and expense of the addressees. Articles other than letters and postcards shall be prepaid at least partly. In case of insufficient prepayment, correspondence of every kind shall be liable to a charge, to be paid by the addressee, equal to double the amount of the deficiency; but this charge shall not exceed that which is levied in the country of destination on unpaid correspondence of the same nature, weight and origin. The two Administrations shall communicate to each other their tariffs of postal charges.

ARTICLE 5.

Each Administration shall keep the whole of the sums which it collects.

No supplementary postage shall be chargeable for the redirection of articles of correspondence. Undelivered correspondence shall not, when returned, give rise to the repayment of the transit charges due to the Administrations concerned for the previous conveyance of such correspondence. Unpaid letters and postcards and insufficiently paid articles of every description, which are returned to the country of origin as redirected or as undeliverable, are liable at the expense of the addressees, or senders, to the same charges as similar articles addressed directly from the country of the first destination to the country of origin. The treatment of redirected and undelivered correspondence shall be governed by Articles XXV and XXVI of the Detailed Regulations for the execution of the Principal Convention of Washington.

ARTICLE 7.

The preparation, transmission and verification of mails exchanged between the two countries shall be governed by the rules contained in Articles VIII, IX, X, XX, XXII, and XXIII of the Detailed Regulations referred to above.

ARTICLE 8.

Business papers, samples, and printed papers which do not fulfil the conditions laid down in Article 5 of the Principal Convention of Washington and Articles XVI, XVII, XVIII, and XIX of the Detailed Regulations for the execution of that Convention, shall not be forwarded. Should occasion arise, these articles shall be sent back to the post office of origin and returned, if possible, to the senders. Articles of correspondence falling under any of the prohibitions of paragraph 3 of Article 16 of the Principal Convention of Washington, which have been erroneously given transmission, shall be returned to the country of origin, except in cases where the Administration of the country of destination is authorized by its laws or by its internal regulations to dispose of them otherwise. Explosive, inflammable, or dangerous substances, however, shall not be returned to the country of origin; when their presence is detected by the Administration of the country of destination they shall be destroyed on the spot under the direction of that Administration.

ARTICLE 9.

The exchange of registered correspondence between the two countries shall be effected according to conditions and procedure prescribed by Articles XI and XXI of the Detailed Regulations referred to above.

ARTICLE 10.

The two Administrations shall accept responsibility for the loss of registered Articles (except in the case of vis major) up to a limit of 50 francs in respect of each such article and according to the conditions laid down in Article 8 of the Principal Convention of Washington and Article XII of the Detailed Regulations for the execution of that Convention.

ARTICLE 11.

Acknowledgments of receipt in respect of registered articles and enquiries as to the disposal of such articles shall be exchanged between the two Administrations in accordance with the procedure described in Article XIII of the Detailed Regulations already referred to.

ARTICLE 12.

Applications for ordinary and registered articles which have failed to reach their destinations shall be dealt with according to Articles XXVII and XXVIII, respectively, of the said Detailed Regulations, such applications being transmitted, when they concern the Indian Administration, to the Director-General of the Post Office of India, Calcutta, and when they concern the Chinese Administration, to the Inspector-General of the Chinese Imperial Posts, Peking.

ARTICLE 13.

The present arrangement shall take effect on the 1st March 1904. It shall then continue in force until it shall be modified or determined by mutual consent of the contracting parties or until six months after the date on which one of the contracting parties shall have notified the other of its intention to terminate it. PART II.

TREATIES AND ENGAGEMENTS

NEPAL.

THE early intercourse of the British Government with Nepal was exclusively of a commercial nature. The political relations with Khatmandu date from the invasion of the valley by the Gurkhas under Raja Prithwi Narayan. In 1767 the Newar Raja of Khatmandu, being hard pressed by the Gurkhas, applied for assistance to the British Government. Aid was granted and Captain Kinloch was despatched with a small force in the middle of the rainy season. He was, however, compelled by the deadly climate of the Tarai to retire. The Gurkha Chief, meeting but a feeble resistance, overran Nepal and extinguished the Newar dynasty, and was eventually recognised by the British Government as Raja of Nepal.

Having conquered the hill country of Makwanpur, the Gurkhas claimed the cultivated lowlands on payment to the British Government of the same tribute as was paid by the Raja of Makwanpur. The claim was admitted. For thirty years the Gurkhas continued to present yearly a large sized elephant as tribute for these lands, but the tribute was eventually relinquished by article 7 of the Treaty (No. XXIV) of 1801.

After the failure of Kinloch's expedition there was little connection with Nepal till the administration of Lord Cornwallis, when negotiations were opened by the Gurkhas through Mr. Duncan, then Resident at Benares, which resulted in the Commercial Treaty (No. XXIII) of March 1792. For several years previous to 1792 the Gurkhas had been extending their conquests in the direction of Tibet. They had advanced as far as Digarchi, the Lama of which place was the spiritual father to the Emperor of China. Incensed by the plunder of the sacred temples of Digarchi, the Emperor of China despatched a large army to punish the Nepal Raja. It was with a view to deter the Chinese from the invasion of Nepal that the Gurkha Chief formed the commercial treaty with the British, to whom he also applied for military aid.

Lord Cornwallis offered to negotiate a peace between Nepal and China, but before Major Kirkpatrick, who was deputed to Khatmandu for this purpose, reached the Nepal frontier, the Gurkhas had been compelled to conclude an ignominious treaty with the Chinese General within a few miles of their capital.

The ostensible object of Kirkpatrick's mission was now at an end. But as he had instructions to take measures to improve the commercial advantages secured by the treaty he advanced to Khatmandu. The Gurkhas, however, evaded all his overtures and showed a determination to avoid a closer alliance, and in March 1793 Major Kirkpatrick quitted Nepal.

From this time till the year 1800 British intercourse with Nepal was restricted to occasional friendly letters, and the presentation by Nepal of the tribute for Makwanpur. In that year Ran Bahadur, the young Raja of Nepal, who in 1795 had forcibly assumed the management of the State and murdered the regent, his uncle, and who for five years had ruled with intolerable tyranny, was forced to abdicate in favour of his illegitimate infant son, Girvan Jodh Bikram, leaving one of his Ranis as regent. He retired to Benares, where Captain Knox was appointed to attend him as Political Agent. Ran Bahadur was received by the British Government with every mark of distinction, and was supplied with large sums of money to meet his expenses. His presence within British territories was deemed a favourable opportunity for the renewal of attempts to form a closer alliance with Nepal. It was accordingly decided to open negotiations with the combined objects of procuring a suitable settlement for the deposed Prince, and of improving relations with Nepal; also of giving full effect to the treaty of 1792 which had become a dead letter, and arranging for the apprehension and surrender of fugitive dakaits who had long given trouble on the frontier. Captain Knox was deputed to the Nepal frontier to meet a deputation from Khatmandu. These objects, as well as the establishment of a Residency at Khatmandu, were provided for in the Treaty (No. XXIV) of October 1801. Captain Knox was appointed the first Resident.

Captain Knox was well received by the Rani Regent, and arrangements had just been concluded to give full effect to the treaty, when Ran Bahadur's elder Rani, who had accompanied him to Benares, suddenly returned to Khatmandu, overthrew the regency, and herself took charge of the young Raja and the government. It now became the policy of the Darbar to evade fulfilment of its engagements with the British Government, and their aversion to the continuance of the Resident became so marked that in March 1803, Captain Knox withdrew from Nepal, and on the 24th January 1804 Lord Wellesley formally dissolved the alliance with the Darbar.

As a consequence of the dissolution of the alliance Ran Bahadur was allowed to return to Nepal, where he inaugurated his re-accession to power by the murder of the leader of the party who was opposed to his interests. He was himself soon after killed in a dispute with his brother; and Bhim Sen Thappa, a young and ambitious man who had accompanied him into exile, obtained possession of the person of the young Raja, the illegitimate son of Ran Bahadur, and being countenanced by Ran Bahadur's chief Rani, assumed the direction of affairs.

From the dissolution of the alliance in 1804 down to 1812 British transactions with Nepal consisted entirely of unavailing remonstrances against the most insolent aggressions on the frontier of British territory throughout its entire length, and in fruitless attempts to induce the Gurkhas to aid British officers in the suppression of dakaitis and robberies along the frontier. As early as 1804 the Nepalese had seized on the parganas of Butwal and Sheoraj, which had been ceded to the British Government by the Wazir of Oudh, under pretext of their having belonged to the possessions of the Palpa Raja, then subdued by Nepal. In 1808 the Gurkha Governor of the Morang seized on the entire zamindari of Bhimnagar, situated on the frontier of Purniah; but this case was so flagrant that Government determined on resenting it in good earnest, and in the month of June 1809 a British detachment was sent to the frontier with orders to resume the zamindari at the point of the bayonet. This decided measure was sufficient; and the Gurkhas, not being yet willing to measure swords with the English, evacuated the lands in 1810. In 1811 the Gurkhas again crossed the frontier of British India and at nearly the same time took possession of some lands on the Butwal and Bettia boundaries. This aggression was forcibly resisted by the people of the Bettia frontier and gave rise to the first border skirmish with the Nepalese.

Commissioners were appointed by the British and Nepal Governments to enquire into and adjust all frontier disputes. The investigation resulted in the establishment of the right of the British Government to the disputed districts, but the Nepalese evaded restitution. Lord Hastings thereupon threatened the forcible occupation of the lands if they were not evacuated by a given date. The prescribed time having expired without a reply from Nepal, the disputed districts were occupied in the middle of April 1814.

War was now inevitable and it was formally declared on the 1st November 1814. An arduous campaign, in which the Gurkhas fought most bravely and with much success, left the British in possession of the hills west of the Kali, and the Gurkhas were disposed to treat for peace. Negotiations were twice broken off by the Gurkhas refusing to comply with the demand for the cession of the Tarai. A second campaign seemed inevitable, when Lord Hastings offered to pay yearly the estimated value of the Tarai, and made some other concessions which induced the Nepal commissioners to sign the Treaty of Segauli on the 28th November, promising that the signature of the Raja should be obtained on the 12th December following.

The ratification of the treaty, however, was withheld by the Darbar, who formally announced their intention of trying the result of a second campaign. Hostilities were therefore vigorously pushed by the British Government, and on the 2nd December 1815 the Nepalese commissioners at last delivered to Sir David Ochterlony the Treaty of Segauli (No. XXV), duly signed and executed. The hill lands east of the Mechi, and part of the Tarai between the Mechi and Tista ceded under this treaty, were made over to Sikkim, against which country the Raja of Nepal bound himself to commit no aggression. On the 11th December 1816 the 4th article of the treaty of Segauli, by which the British Government were bound to pay two lakhs of rupees a year as pensions to certain Nepalese Chiefs, was annulled (No. XXVI) in consideration of the restoration to Nepal of the greater portion of the Tarai lands between the Rapti and the Kusi. The Tarai lands westward to the Kali were made over to Oudh.

The first Resident appointed under the treaty of Segauli was Mr. Gardner. He found Bhim Sen Thappa, the Minister, invested with complete control over the country. Under his influence the attitude assumed by the Darbar was suspicious and haughty. Maharaja Girvan Jodh Bikram died in his 18th year, shortly after Mr. Gardner's arrival at Khatmandu. His successor was then only two years old. The ministry of Bhim Sen was continued during the minority, and from that time till 1832 he enjoyed complete and uninterrupted power. During the whole of this period a martial policy prevailed in the councils of Nepal.

In 1832 signs of opposition to the uncontrolled power of Bhim Sen, whose family held almost every provincial command in the country, began to show themselves. The Pande clan, the leaders of which had been massacred on Ran Bahadur's return to Nepal, again rose gradually into favour with the Maharaja, who was anxious to shake off the control of his minister. The opposition increased every year. In 1837 the Raja's youngest son died suddenly, and the report was spread that he had been poisoned at the instigation of Bhim Sen, or some of his party. Bhim Sen and his nephew, Matabar Singh, were seized, ironed, and thrown into prison, and their families were placed under close arrest; shortly afterwards, however, Bhim Sen and his nephew were released. The former retired with honour into private life; Matabar Singh proceeded to the Punjab, where he found service under the Lahore Darbar.

Two years later the persecution of the Thappa family was revived to serve the purposes of court intrigue. The old minister was dragged from his retirement and hurried to prison, where, after being subjected to the most inhuman tortures, he committed suicide. His body was dismembered, exposed in the city, and left to be devoured by dogs and vultures.

During the latter years of Bhim Sen's ministry several unsuccessful attempts were made to improve British relations with Nepal. In 1833 negotiations relative to the treatment of British subjects attached to the Residency failed through the refusal of the Darbar to enter into any treaty, by which it should waive its rights to punish such offenders according to its own usages. In 1834 negotiations for the revival of the commercial treaty of 1792 were closed, by the Darbar declining to recognise its validity and proposing another, very disadvantageous to British interests. In 1836 another endeavour of the British Government to improve the commercial relations with Nepal was frustrated by the unwillingness of the Darbar to make any suitable concessions with regard to the duties to be levied on British goods. Better success, however, attended the negotiations for the capture and surrender of thags and dakaits, and an Engagement (No. XXVII) was concluded in January 1837, securing mutual advantages in this respect.

After the overthrow of Bhim Sen Thappa the hostility of the Nepalese towards the British Government assumed a more open form, and every effort was made, by the reduction of public expenditure, to prepare for the anticipated outbreak of hostilities. So little was the hostility of the Nepalese concealed that it became necessary for the British Government to station a corps of observation on the frontier. Intrigues had long been carried on by the Nepal Darbar with States in British India; emissaries were sent to Jodhpur, Gwalior, Hyderabad, Nagpur, Lahore; and the meditated marriage of the heir-apparent formed a pretext for despatching numerous spies and messengers throughout Rewa and Rajputana. Similar efforts were made in the direction of Sikkim, Bhutan, and Ava, but the success which at first attended the British arms in Afghanistan necessitated a change in the policy of the Nepalese, and in November 1839 an Engagement (No. XXVIII) was procured from the Darbar promising the cessation of these intrigues.

These obligations were but nominally observed. Intrigues were carried on as before, only more covertly. In 1840 the Nepalese forcibly took possession of several villages in the Ramnagar zamindari and only withdrew when hostilities were threatened. It again became necessary to station a corps of observation on the frontier, which was not withdrawn till 1842 and after repeated assurances of good-will on the part of the Maharaja and his Chiefs (No. XXIX).

The extravagancies and cruelties of the heir-apparent, who was countenanced and supported by the Maharaja, produced much discontent in the country. This, added to the intrigues of the only surviving Rani, who was anxious for the succession of one of her own sons, led to endless family feuds. Matabar Singh, who was recalled from the Punjab in 1843, was made Prime Minister. In 1845 he was murdered at the instigation of one Gaggan Singh, a great favourite of the Maharani, who was immediately made her confidential adviser. The murder of this man and the massacre at Kot of thirty-one of the most influential Chiefs in 1846 paved the way for the rise of Jang Bahadur to the office of Prime Minister. Finding that Jang Bahadur was not so subservient to her purposes as she expected, the Maharani endeavoured to compass his death, but failing, she was expelled with her two sons from the country, and took up her residence at Benares. She was accompanied to Benares by the Maharaja, who returned to Nepal the following year, only to abdicate (12th May 1847) in favour of the heir apparent, Surendra Bikram Sah.

Jang Bahadur's visit to England in 1850 was followed by a more friendly bearing on the part of the Nepal Darbar and less exclusiveness in its relations with the British Government. In 1852 negotiations were resumed for the conclusion of a treaty for the surrender of heinous offenders. The Treaty (No. XXX) was concluded on the 10th February 1855. In 1865 a joint commission, in which Mr. (afterwards Sir J. D.) Gordon represented British interests, travelled along the frontier from the Mechi river to the neighbourhood of Motihari, in Champaran, and their enquiries led to the adoption of measures for the suppression of border crime, and for ensuring greater efficiency in the police, and greater attention generally to the circumstances of the frontier. To this end it was soon afterwards arranged that the Resident should each year make a tour on or near the border, or in some part of the Tarai. Owing to the prevalence of cattle-lifting on the frontier and of serious theft, and to the frequent losses sustained by the Nepalese Government through embezzlements committed by their public officers, these offences were in July 1866 added by a supplementary Treaty (No. XXXI) to those mentioned in article 4 of the treaty of 1855 for which surrender may be demanded by either Government. In June 1881 a further supplementary Treaty (No. XXXII) included in the number of treaty offences that of escaping from custody whilst undergoing punishment after conviction of any of the previously specified treaty offences.

Towards the latter end of 1854 a rupture broke out between the Nepalese and Tibetan Governments, which, however, in no way affected the relations of the British Government with Nepal. After short hostilities and protracted negotiations a treaty* was concluded, by which the Tibetans bound themselves to pay an annual tribute of Rs. 10,000 to Nepal to encourage trade between the two countries and to receive a representative of Nepal at Lhasa. Owing to repeated acts of oppression towards Nepalese subjects in Lhasa by Tibetans, culminating with outrages on the house and some of the servants of the Nepalese Envoy, diplomatic relations were broken off in 1873, and were not resumed till after an amende had been made by Tibetan commissioners specially deputed to Khatmandu for the purpose. In 1880 there was again an uneasy feeling

*TREATY OF PEACE, consisting of ten Articles, between the STATES OF GURKHA and of TIBET (BHOTE), settled and concluded by us, the Chief Sardars, Bharadars, and Lamas of both Governments, whose signatures and seals are attached below. May God bear witness to it. We further agree that the Emperor of China is to be obeyed by both States as before, and that the two States are to treat each other like brothers, for so long as their actions correspond with the spirit of this Treaty. May God not allow that State to prosper that may make war upon the other, unless the other's acts are contrary to this Treaty, in which case the State that declares war upon the other shall be exempt from all blame.

1. The Tibetan Government agrees to pay the sum of ten thousand Rupees annually as a tribute to the Gurkha Government.

2. The States of Gurkha and of Tibet have both borne allegiance to the Emperor of China up to the present time. The country of Tibet is merely the shrine or place of worship of the Lama, for which reason the Gurkha Government will in future give all the assistance that may be in its power to the Government of Tibet, if the troops of any other "Raja" invade that country.

3. The Government of Tibet agrees to discontinue the collection of all the duties that have hitherto been levied upon subjects of the Gurkha State, merchants, and others trading with its country.

4. The Government of Tibet agrees to give up to the Gurkha Government all the Sikh prisoners now in captivity within its territories, and all the Gurkha Sipahis, and officers, and women who were captured in the war, also all the guns that were taken; and the Gurkha at Khatmundu by reason of certain warlike preparations undertaken by the Tibetans on their common frontier. In 1883 a Tibetan mob made an unprovoked attack on the Nepalese quarter of the town in Lhasa, and plundered property to the value of about nine lakhs of rupees. Commissioners from both sides met at Kuti near the frontier to discuss the question of compensation. But it would seem that no settlement satisfactory to both parties was effected.

With the exception of a few months in 1856, and notwithstanding various conspiracies against him, the most dangerous of which was that organised by his own brothers, Bam Bahadur and Badri Nar Singh, in 1851, Jang Bahadur continued to be Prime Minister of the State till his death in 1877. In token of his services to his country he received the title of Maharaja from his sovereign, and was invested with the hereditary sovereignty of two districts, namely, Lamjung and Kaski. Moreover he effected the marriage of a son and two daughters into the ruling family of Nepal. During the mutiny of 1857 and the subsequent campaigns he rendered assistance to the British Government in the re-occupation of Gorakhpur, the re-capture of Lucknow, and the subsequent capture of the rebels who infested the Tarai. In consideration of these services Maharaja Jang Bahadur was created a Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath; and under a Treaty (No. XXXIII) concluded on the 1st November 1860 the whole of the lowlands lying between the river Kali and the district of Gorakhpur, which had been ceded to the British Government in 1815, were restored to Nepal. The boundary of this tract was laid down at the time of its restoration to Nepal (see article 3 of the treaty of 1860). The international frontier on the side of eastern Oudh remained undefined until January 1875, when joint commissioners were appointed, who settled it in accordance with Agreement No. XXXIV.

In 1875 Jang Bahadur, whose personal salute of 19 guns for life had been gazetted in Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 26th June 1867, proposed to pay a second visit to Europe, but the design had to be abandoned owing to an accident he sustained at Bombay on the eve of departure. In 1876 the Prince of Wales visited him in the Nepalese Tarai Government agrees to give up to the Government of Tibet all the Sipahis, also the ryots of Kerong, Kuti, Junga, Tagla Khar and Chewur Gumba, and all the arms and Yaks (chowrie cows) belonging to that country now in its possession, and on the final completion of this Treaty it will restore Tagla Khar, Chewur Gumba, Kerong, Junga, Kuti, and Dhakling, and will withdraw all its troops that may be on this side of the Bhairab Langar range.

in the neighbourhood of Bareilly and Kumaon for sport. The Duke of Edinburgh had accompanied him on a similar expedition in 1870. General Dhir Shamsher Rana Bahadur, Jang Bahadur's brother, was allowed to represent the Maharaja Dhiraj, as His Highness's Ambassador, at the Imperial Assemblage at Delhi on the 1st January 1877. On the 25th February 1877 Jang Bahadur died, at the age of about sixty years, at Pattharghatta on the Baghmata river. His illness, which lasted for a few hours only, showed symptoms both of apoplexy and cholera. Notwithstanding Jang Bahadur's own efforts of late years to discountenance the barbarous rite three of his widows became sati. Three years and a half before his death he had been honoured with the Grand Commandership of the Star of India. His next surviving brother, Sir Ranudip Singh, who was created a Knight Commander of the Star of India in 1875, was endowed by the Maharaja Dhiraj with the titles and honours held by the late Sir Jang Bahadur, and was appointed Prime Minister of Nepal.

Jang Bahadur had arranged that the provinces bestowed upon him should pass to his heirs in hereditary succession, while the office of minister should go to his eldest surviving brother, and thereafter from brother to brother till the death of the last, when it should revert to his own eldest son, Jagat Jang. The appropriation by Ranudip Singh of these provinces, which was in contravention of Jang Bahadur's disposition of them, was one of the main causes of the dissensions that followed.

Trilokya Bir Bikram Sah, heir-apparent and son-in-law of Jang Bahadur, died suddenly on the 30th March 1878. His death was followed

6. The Gurkha Darbar, with the free consent of the Government of Tibet, will establish a trading factory at Lhasa, for the sale of all kinds of merchandize, from jewellery, etc., etc., to articles of clothing and of food.

7. The Gurkha Bharadar residing at Lhasa will not interfere in the disputes of the subjects, merchants, traders, &c., &c., of the Government of Tibet, who may quarrel amongst themselves, neither will the Tibetan Government interfere in any disputes between subjects of the Nepal Government, Kashmiris, &c., &c., who may be residing within the jurisdiction of Lhasa, but whenever quarrels may occur between Gurkha and Tibetan subjects, the authorities of the two States will sit together and will jointly adjudicate them; and all Amdani (by this term is meant income resulting from fines, confiscations, &c.) will, if paid by subjects of Tibet, be taken by that Government, and if paid by Gurkha subjects, Kashmiris, &c., will be appropriated by the Gurkha Sarkar.

8. Should any Gurkha subject commit a murder within the jurisdiction of that Government and take refuge in Tibet, he shall be surrendered by that country, and if any Tibetan subject who may have committed a murder there take refuge in the Gurkha country, he shall in like manner be given up to the Government of Tibet.

9. If the property of any Gurkha subjects and merchants be plundered by any subject of the Tibetan Government, the party who has stolen it shall be compelled by the Tibetan authorities to restore it; should he not be able to do so at once, he shall be obliged by the on May the 17th, 1881, by that of his father, the Maharaja Dhiraj Surendra Bikram Sah, after a long and wasting illness; and on the 13th July 1881 by that of the ex-Maharaja Dhiraj Rajendra Bikram Sah, who had been forced to abdicate the throne thirty-four years previously. Surendra Bikram Sah was succeeded by his grandson, Prithwi Bir Bikram Sah, a child of six years old, who was enthroned on the 1st December 1881.

A conspiracy against the Minister (Ranudip Singh) and the Commander-in-Chief (Dhir Shamsher) was detected in January 1882 and was met with considerable severity. Jagat Jang was suspected of complicity, and a sentence of exile was passed against him. For some months there was an unquiet feeling at the capital; but in time anxiety subsided and apparent tranquillity was so far restored that in 1885 two Sardars of very high rank, who were believed to be implicated, and who were deported for a while as State prisoners to British India, were received back.

Ranudip Singh was granted a personal salute of 19 guns in 1883.

Jagat Jang was permitted to return to Nepal in the spring of 1885. Thereafter there were signs of a rapprochement between Jagat Jang and Ranudip Singh. This was regarded as inimical to their interests by the sons of Jang Bahadur's youngest brother, Dhir Shamsher, who had died in 1884; and on the night of the 22nd November 1885 they rose against Ranudip Singh and having put him to death, seized all power in the State in the name of the sovereign. Jagat Jang and his eldest son were also killed at the same time. Bir Shamsher, the eldest son of Dhir Shamsher, assumed the post of minister together with the titles and the estates enjoyed by Ranudip Singh.

Tibetan Bharadar to make some arrangement, and will be allowed a reasonable time to make it good. In like manner, if the property of any Tibetan subjects and merchants be plundered by any subject of the Gurkha Government, the party who has stolen it shall be compelled by the Gurkha authorities to restore it; should he not be able to do so at once, he shall be obliged by the Gurkha Government to make some arrangement, and will be allowed a reasonable time to make it good.

10. All subjects of Tibet who may have joined the Gurkha cause during the war, and all subjects of the Gurkha Sarkar who may have taken part with the Tibetan Sarkar, shall, after the completion of this Treaty, be respected both in person and in property, and shall not be injured by either Government.

A daughter (the Jetha Maharani) and two sons (Padam Jang and Ranbir Jang) of Sir Jang Bahadur, as well as other Sardars (notably Kedar Nar Singh, adopted son of Ranudip Singh) found refuge in the British Residency and were eventually, through the influence of the Government of India, sent in safety with their families and much property to India.

The Maharaja Dhiraj announced in a kharita, dated the 23rd November 1885, the succession of Bir Shamsheer as Prime Minister of Nepal. The Government of India decided to recognise the de facto administration which had been established, and this was intimated to the Maharaja Dhiraj on the 30th January 1886 in a kharita which, while absolving him from personal responsibility or concern in the matter, pointed out that the act by which the lives of Sir Ranudip Singh and General Jagat Jang were brought to an end seemed very difficult to justify.

In March 1892 Lord Roberts, Commander-in-Chief in India, visited Nepal at the invitation of the Darbar and was well received at Khatmandu. In May of the same year Bir Shamsheer was appointed a Knight Commander of the Star of India. In the cold weather of 1892-93 he visited India in the capacity of Ambassador on the part of the Maharaja Dhiraj and made an extended tour throughout the country. In June 1897 Sir Bir Shamsheer was honoured with the Grand Commandership of the Star of India, and in February 1899 he proceeded to Calcutta, as the representative of His Highness the Maharaja Dhiraj, on a complimentary visit to Lord Curzon, the newly appointed Viceroy.

Sir Bir Shamsheer died a natural death on the 5th March 1901, and was succeeded as Prime Minister by his brother, Deb Shamsheer. Within a very few months, however, Deb Shamsheer was deposed by a bloodless revolution, and on the 26th June 1901 his younger brother the Commander-in-Chief, General Chandra Shamsheer Jang, Rana Bahadur, was appointed Prime Minister and Marshal. Deb Shamsheer was removed to Dhankuta. From there he went to Elam, near the Darjiling frontier, whence he escaped to British India, where he has since resided an exile near Mussoorie. His brother, Kadga Shamsheer Jang, who, with the other sons of Dhir Shamsheer, took part in the rising against Ranudip Singh in 1885, has also been an exile in India in the Central Provinces since his suspected plot to kill Chandra Shamsheer in 1903.

His Excellency Maharaja Chandra Shamsheer has visited India twice. He represented the Maharaja Dhiraj at the Delhi Darbar in 1903, and in January 1904 he paid a special visit to His Excellency Lord Curzon in Calcutta. He was created a Knight Grand Commander of the Star of India in January 1905.

The reigning house of Nepal claims descent from the Rajput (Sisodiya) family which rules over Udaipur. The present Maharaja Dhiraj married two of the daughters of Bir Shamsheer in 1889, but has no male issue. In April 1904 he married his eldest daughter to General Kaisar Shamsheer, the third son of Chandra Shamsheer, and in May 1906 his second daughter was married to the latter's fourth son, Singha Shamsheer.

The Darbar received the thanks of the Government of India for the correct and very friendly attitude adopted by the Nepal Government on the occasion of the British mission to Tibet in 1904, and for their offers of assistance with transport, some of which were accepted.

The recruitment of Gurkha sepoys for the British Army, which has shown a marked improvement ever since 1888, continues satisfactory. Since 1904 the Nepal Darbar have exempted during peace time all Native officers of Indian Gurkha regiments from the forced labour known as 'begari' and 'jhara,' when on furlough or after retirement in Nepal.

Although Nepal pays no tribute to the British Government it is usual, on the arrival in India of a new Viceroy, for a Nepalese Sardar of high rank to be deputed to Calcutta with messages and presents from the Maharaja Dhiraj.

The Nepalese Darbar have bound themselves by the 7th article of the treaty of the 2nd December 1815 (No. XXV) not to take into their service any British subject or the subject of any European or American State without the consent of the British Government.

The relations of the State with the Government of India are now of the most intimate and cordial character.

Soon after the war between Nepal and China in 1792 the custom was inaugurated of despatching a quinquennial mission from Nepal to China with presents for the Emperor; this custom still continues, though in the past the practice has by no means been regularly observed.

It is impossible, in the absence of any census, to form a correct estimate of the population of Nepal. The Darbar estimates it from 5,200,000 to 5,600,000, but in all probability it does not exceed 4,000,000. The city of Khatmandu contains from 30,000 to 35,000 and the whole valley of Khatmandu about 500,000 inhabitants. The area of the State is about 54,000 square miles. The yearly revenue is supposed to be not far short of two crores of rupees.

The Nepalese army consists (1905) of 123 cavalry, 32,493 infantry, 200 armed police, and 2,517 artillery men with 107 serviceable and 140 unserviceable guns.

The Maharaja Dhiraj is entitled to a salute of 21 guns from British batteries.

Treaty authenticated under the seal of Maha Rajah Run Behauder Shah Behauder Shumshere Jung; being according to the Treaty transmitted by Mr. Jonathan Duncan, the Resident at Benares, on the part of Right Honourable Charles, Earl Cornwallis, K.G., Governor-General in Council, and empowered by the said authority to conclude a Treaty of Commerce with the said Maha Rajah, and to settle and fix the duties payable by the subjects of the respective States of the Honourable English Company and those of Nepaul, the said gentleman charging himself with whatever relates to the duties thus to be payable by the subjects of the Nepaul Government to that of the Company; in like manner as hath the aforesaid Maha Rajah, with whatever regards the duties thus to be payable by the subjects of the Company's Government to that of Nepaul; and the said Treaty having been delivered to me (the said Maha Rajah) by Mowlavy Abdul Kadir Khan, the aforesaid gentleman's vakeel, or agent; this counterpart thereof having been by the Nepaul Government, hath been committed to the said Khan, as hereunder detailed :—

Inasmuch as an attention to the general welfare, and to the ease and satisfaction of the merchants and traders, tends equally to the reputation of the administrators of both Governments of the Company and of Nepaul; it is therefore agreed and stipulated, that $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. shall reciprocally be taken, as duty, on the imports from both countries; such duties to be levied on the amount of the invoices of the goods which the merchants shall have along with them; and to deter the said traders from exhibiting false invoices, the seal of the customs houses of both countries shall be impressed on the back of the said invoices, and copy thereof being kept, the original shall be restored to the merchants; and in cases where the merchant shall not have along with him his original invoice, the custom house officers shall, in such instance, lay down the duty of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on a valuation according to the market price.

ARTICLE 2.

The opposite stations hereunder specified, within the frontiers of each country, are fixed for the duties to be levied, at which place the traders are to pay the same; and after having once paid duties and receiving a rowannah thereon, no other or further duty shall be payable throughout each country or dominion respectively.

ARTICLE 3.

Whoever among the officers on either side shall exceed in his demands for, or exaction of duty, the rate here specified, shall be exemplarily punished by the government to which he belongs, so as effectually to deter others from like offences.

ARTICLE 4.

In the case of theft or robberies happening on the goods of the merchants, the Foujedar, or officer of the place, shall advising his superiors or Government thereof speedily cause the zamindars and proprietors of the spot to make good the value, which is in all cases, without fail, to be so made good to the merchants.

ARTICLE 5.

In cases where in either country any oppression or violence be committed on any merchant, the officers of country wherein this may happen shall, without delay, hear and inquire into the complaints of the persons thus aggrieved, and doing them justice, bring the offenders to punishment.

ARTICLE 6.

When the merchants of either country, having paid the established duty, shall have transported their goods into the dominions of one or the other State if such goods be sold within such State, it is well; but if such goods not meeting with sale, and that the said merchants be desirous to transport their said goods to any other country beyond the limits of either of the respective States included in the Treaty, the subjects and officers of these latter shall not take thereon any other or further duty than the fixed one levied at the first entry; and are not to exact double duties, but are to allow such goods to depart in all safety without opposition.

ARTICLE 7.

This Treaty shall be of full force and validity in respect to the present and future rulers of both Governments, and, being considered on both sides as a Commercial Treaty and a basis of concord between the two States, is to be, at all times, observed and acted upon in times to come, for the public advantage and the increase of friendship.

On the 5th of Rejeb, 1205 of the Hegira, and 1199 of the Fussellee style, agreeing with the 1st of March 1792 of the Christian, and with the 22nd of Phagun 1848 of the Sunbut Æra, two Treaties, to one tenor, were written for both the contracting parties, who have mutually engaged that from the 3rd Bysack 1849 of the Sunbut Æra, the officers of both States shall, in pursuance of the strictest orders of both Governments, immediately carry into effect and observe the stipulations aforesaid, and not wait for any further or new direction.

TREATY with the RAJA of NEPAUL,—1801.

Whereas it is evident as the noonday sun to enlightened understanding of exalted nobles and of powerful Chiefs and Rulers, that Almighty God has entrusted the protection and government of the universe to the authority of Princes, who make justice their principle, and that by the establishment of a friendly connection between them universal happiness and prosperity is secured, and that the more intimate the relation of amity and union the greater is the general tranquillity ; in consideration of these circumstances, His Excellency the Most Noble the Governor-General, Marquis Wellesley, etc., etc., and the Maharaja have established a system of friendship between the respective Governments of the Company and the Raja of Nepaul, and have agreed to the following Articles :—

ARTICLE 1.

It is necessary and incumbent upon the principals and officers of the two Governments constantly to exert themselves to improve the friendship subsisting between the two States, and to be zealously and sincerely desirous of the prosperity and success of the Government and subjects of both.

ARTICLE 2.

The incendiary and turbulent representations of the disaffected, who are the disturbers of our mutual friendship, shall not be attended to without investigation and proof.

ARTICLE 3.

The principals and officers of both Governments will cordially consider the friends and enemies of either State to be the friends and enemies of the other; and this consideration must ever remain permanent and in force from generation to generation.

ARTICLE 4.

If any one of the neighbouring powers of either State should commence any altercation or dispute, and design, without provocation, unjustly to possess himself of the territories of either country, and should entertain hostile intentions with the view of taking that country, the vakeels on the part of our respective Governments at either Court will fully report all particulars to the head of the State, who, according to the obligations of friendship subsisting between the two States, after having heard the said particulars, will give whatever answer and advice may be proper.

ARTICLE 5.

Whenever any dispute of boundary and territory between the two countries may arise, such dispute shall be decided, through our respective vakeels or our officers, according to the principles of justice and right; and a landmark shall be placed upon the said boundary, and which shall constantly remain, that the officers both now and hereafter may consider it as a guide, and not make any encroachment.

ARTICLE 6.

Such places as are upon the Frontiers of the dominions of the Nabob Vizier and of Nepaul, and respecting which any dispute may arise, such dispute shall be settled by the mediation of the vakeel on the part of the Company, in the presence of one from the Nepaul Government, and one from His Excellency the Vizier.

ARTICLE 7.

So many elephants, on account of Muckanacinpoor, are annually sent to the Company by the Raja of Nepaul, and therefore the Governor-General with a view of promoting the satisfaction of the Raja of Nepaul, and in consideration of the improved friendly connection, and of this new Treaty, relinquishes and foregoes the tribute above-mentioned, and directs that the officers of the Company, both now and hereafter, from generation to generation, shall never, during the continuance of the engagement contracted by this Treaty (so long as the conditions of this treaty shall be in force), exact the elephants from the Raja.

ARTICLE 8.

If any of the dependents or inhabitants of either country should fly and take refuge in the other, and a requisition should be made for such persons on the part of the Nepaul Government by its constituted vakeel in attendance on the Governor-General, or on the part of the Company's Government by its representative residing at Nepaul, it is in this case mutually agreed that if such person should have fled after transgressing the laws of his Government, it is incumbent upon the principals of both Governments immediately to deliver him up to the vakeel at their respective courts, that he may be sent in perfect security to the frontier of their respective territories.

ARTICLE 9.

The Maha Raja of Nepaul agrees, that a pergunnah, with all the lands attached to it, excepting privileged lands and those appropriated to religious purposes, and to jaghires, &c., which are specified separately in the account of collections, shall be given up to Samee Jee for his expenses, as a present. The conditions with respect to Samee Jee are, that if he should remain at Benares, or at any other place within the Company's provinces, and should spontaneously farm his jaghire to the officers of Nepaul, in that event the amount of collections shall be punctually paid to him, agreeably to certain kists which may be hereafter settled; that he may appropriate the same to his necessary expenses, and that he may continue in religious abstraction, according to his agreement, which he had engraved on brass, at the time of his abdication of the Roy, and of his resigning it in my favour. Again, in the event of his establishing his residence in his jaghire, and of his realizing the collections through his own officers, it is proper that he should not keep such a one and other disaffected persons in his service, and besides one hundred men and maid servants, &c., he must not entertain any persons as soldiers, with a view to the collection of the revenue of the pergunnah; and to the protection of his person he may take two hundred soldiers of the forces of the Nepaul Government, the allowances of whom shall be paid by the Raja of Nepaul. He must be cautious, also of commencing altercation, either by speech or writing; neither must he give protection to the rebellious and fugitives of the Nepaul country, nor must he commit plunder and devastation upon the subjects of Nepaul. In the event of such delinquency being proved to the satisfaction of the two Governments, the aid and protection of the Company shall be withdrawn from him; and in that event, also, it shall be at the option of the Raja of Nepaul whether or not he will confiscate his jaghire.

The Maha Raja also agrees, on his part, that if Samee Jee should take up his residence within the Company's provinces, and should farm out his land to the officers of Nepaul, and that the kists should not be paid according to agreement, or that he should fix his residence on his jaghire, and any of the inhabitants of Nepaul should give him or the ryots of his pergunnah any molestation, a requisition shall be made by the Governor-General of the Company, on this subject, to the Raja. The Governor-General is security for the Raja's performance of this condition, and the Maha Raja will immediately acquit himself of the requisition of the Governor-General, agreeably to what is above written. If any profits should arise in the collection of the said pergunnah, in consequence of the activity of the officers, or any defalcation occurs from their inattention, in either case the Raja of Nepaul will be totally unconcerned.

ARTICLE 10.

With the view of carrying into effect the different objects contained in this Treaty, and of promoting other verbal negociation, the Governor-General and the Raja of Nepal, under the impulse of their will and pleasure, depute a confidential person to each other as vakeel, that remaining in attendance upon their respective Governments, they may effect the objects above specified, and promote whatever may tend to the daily improvement of the friendship subsisting between the two States.

ARTICLE 11.

It is incumbent upon the principals and officers of the two States that they should manifest the regard and respect to the vakeel of each other's Government, which is due to their rank, and is prescribed by the laws of nations; and that they should endeavour, to the utmost of their power, to advance any object which they may propose, and to promote their ease, comfort, and satisfaction, by extending protection to them, which circumstances are calculated to improve the friendship subsisting between the two Governments, and to illustrate the good name of both States throughout the universe.

ARTICLE 12.

It is incumbent upon the vakeels of both States that they should hold no intercourse whatever with any of the subjects or inhabitants of the country, excepting with the officers of Government, without the permission of those officers; neither should they carry on any correspondence with any of them; and if they should receive any letter or writing from any such people, they should not answer it, without the knowledge of the head of the State, and acquainting him of the particulars, which will dispel all apprehension or doubt between us, and manifest the sincerity of our friendship

ARTICLE 13.

It is incumbent upon the principals and officers mutually to abide by the spirit of this Treaty, which is now drawn out according to their faith and religion, and deeming it in force from generation to generation that they should not deviate from it; and any person who may transgress against it will be punished by Almighty God, both in this world and in a future state.

SEPARATE ARTICLE of a TREATY with the RAJAH of NEPAUL concluded at DINAPORE, — October 26th, 1801.

The Engagement contracted by Maha Rajah, &c., &c., with His Excellency the Most Noble the Governor-General, &c., &c., respecting the settlement of a provision for the maintenance of Purncahir Goonanund Swammee Jee, the illustrious father of the said Maha Rajah, is to the following effect :—

That an annual income, amounting to Patna Sicca Rupees eighty-two thousand, of which seventy-two thousand shall be paid in cash and ten thousand, in elephants, half male and half female, to be valued at the rate of one hundred and twenty-five rupees per cubit, shall be settled on the said Swammee Jee, commencing from the month of Aughun 1858, as an humble offering to assist in the maintenance of his household ; and for the purpose of supplying the said income, that the Purgunnah of Beejapoor, with all the lands thereunto attached (excepting rent-free lands, religious or charitable endowments, jaghires, and such like as specified separately in the account of collections) be settled on the said Swammee Jee, under the following conditions : That, in the event of his residing at Benares or other place within the territories of the Honorable Company, and of his voluntarily committing the collections of the said jaghire to the servants of the Nepal Government, in such case seventy-two thousand rupees in cash, and elephants to the value of ten thousand rupees, shall be punctually remitted year after year, by established kists, to the said Swammee Jee, without fail or delay, so that, appropriating the same to his necessary expenses, he may devote himself to the worship of the Supreme being in conformity to his own declaration, engraved on copper at the time of his abdicating the Raje and of his bestowing it on the said Maha Rajah ; and further, in the event of his establishing his residence upon his jaghire and of his realizing the collections through his own officers, it is requisite that he should not keep in his service fomenters of sedition and disturbance, that he shall retain no more than one hundred male and female attendants, and that he shall not retain about his person soldiers of any description. That for the purpose of collecting the revenues of the aforesaid pergunnahs and for his personal protection, he may have from the Rajah of Nepal as far as two hundred men of the troops of that country, and the allowance of such men shall be defrayed by the Maha Rajah himself. He must not attempt, either by speech or writing, to excite commotion nor harbour about his person rebels and fugitives from the territories of Nepal, neither must he commit any depredations upon the subjects of that country. And in the event of such delinquency being established to the satisfaction of both parties, that the aid and protection of the Honorable Company shall be withdrawn from the said Swammee Jee, in which case it shall be at the option of the Maha Rajah to confiscate his jaghire. It is also agreed by the Maha Rajah that, provided Swammee Jee should fix his residence within the Honorable Company's territories, and should commit the collections of his jaghire to the officers of the Nepaul Government, in that case, should the kists not be paid according to the conditions above specified, or in the event of his residing upon his jaghire, provided any of the subjects of Nepaul give him or ryots of his pergunnah any molestation, in either case the Governor-General and the Honorable Company have a right to demand reparation from the Rajah of Nepaul. The Governor-General is guarantee that the Rajah of Nepaul performs this condition, and the Maha Rajah, on the requisition of the Governor-General, will instantly fulfil his engagements as above specified. In any augmentation of the collections from the judicious management of the officers of Swammee Jee, or in any diminution from a contrary cause, the Maha Rajah is to be equally unconcerned, the Maha Rajah engaging that, on delivering over the Pergunnah of Beejapoor to the officers of Swammee Jee, the amount of the annual revenue shall be Patna Sicca Rupees 72,000; that should it be less he will make good the deficiency, and in case of excess, that Swammee Jee be entitled thereto.

TREATY OF PEACE between the HONOURABLE EAST INDIA COMPANY and MAHA RAJAH BIKRAM SAH, Rajah of Nipal, settled between LIEUTENANT-COLONEL BRADSHAW on the part of the HONOURABLE COMPANY, in virtue of the full powers vested in him by HIS EXCELLENCY the RIGHT HONOURABLE FRANCIS, EARL of MOIRA, KNIGHT of the MOST NOBLE ORDER of the GARTER, one of HIS MAJESTY'S MOST HONOURABLE PRIVY COUNCIL, appointed by the Court of Directors of the said Honourable Company to direct and control all the affairs in the East Indies, and by SREE GOOROO GUJRAJ MISSER and CHUNDER SEEKUR OPEDEEA on the part of MAHA RAJAH GIRMAUN JODE BIKRAM SAH BAHAUDER, SHUMSHEER JUNG, in virtue of the powers to that effect vested in them by the said Rajah of Nipal,—2nd December 1815.

Whereas war has arisen between the Honorable East India Company and the Rajah of Nipal, and whereas the parties are mutually disposed to restore the relations of peace and amity which, previously to the occurrence of the late differences, had long subsisted between the two States, the following terms of peace have been agreed upon:—

ARTICLE 1ST.

There shall be perpetual peace and friendship between the Honourable East India Company and the Rajah of Nipal.

MEMORANDUM for the approval and acceptance of the RAJAH of NIPAL, presented on the 8th December 1816.

Adverting to the amity and confidence subsisting with the Rajah of Nipal, the British Government proposes to suppress, as much as is possible, the execution of certain Articles in the Treaty of Segowlee, which bear hard upon the Rajah, as follows:—

2. With a view to gratify the Rajah in a point which he has much at heart, the British Government is willing to restore the Terai ceded to it by the Rajah in the Treaty, to wit, the whole Terai lands lying between the Rivers Coosa and Gunduck, such as appertained to the Rajah before the late disagreement; excepting the disputed lands in the Zillahs of Tirhoot and Sarun, and excepting such portions of territory as may occur on both sides for the purpose of settling a frontier, upon investigation by the respective Commissioners; and excepting such lands as may have been given in possession to any one by the British Government upon ascertainment of his rights subsequent to the cession of Terai to that Government. In case the Rajah is desirous of retaining the lands of such ascertained proprietors, they may be exchanged for others, and let it be clearly understood that, notwithstanding the considerable extent of the lands in the Zillah of Tirhoot, which have for a long time been a subject of dispute, the settlement made in the year 1812 of Christ, corresponding with the year 1869 of Bikramajeet, shall be taken, and everything else relinquished, that is to say, that the settlement and negotiations, such as occurred at that period, shall in the present case hold good and be established.

3. The British Government is willing likewise to restore the Terai lying between the Rivers Gunduk and Rapti, that is to say, from the River Gunduk to the western limits of the Zillah of Goruckpore, together with Bootwul and Sheeraj, such as appertained to Nipal previous to the disagreements, complete, with the exception of the disputed places in the Terai, and such quantity of ground as may be considered mutually to be requisite for the new boundary.

4. As it is impossible to establish desirable limits between the two States without survey, it will be expedient that Commissioners be appointed on both sides for the purpose of arranging in concert a well defined boundary on the basis of the preceding terms, and of establishing a straight line of frontier, with a view to the distinct separation of the respective territories of the British Government to the south and of Nipal to the north; and in case any indentations occur to destroy the even tenor of the line, the Commissioners should effect an exchange of lands so interfering on principles of clear reciprocity.

5. And should it occur that the proprietors of lands situated on the mutual frontier, as it may be rectified, whether holding of the British Government or of the Rajah of Nipal, should be placed in the condition of subjects to both Governments, with a view to prevent continual dispute and discussion between the two Governments, the respective Commissioners should effect in mutual concurrence and co-operation the exchange of such lands, so as to render them subject to one dominion alone.

6. Whensoever the Terai should be restored, the Rajah of Nipal will cease to require the sum of two lakhs of Rupees per annum, which the British Government agreed the advance for the maintenance of certain Barahdars of his Government.

7. Moreover, the Rajah of Nipal agrees to refrain from prosecuting any inhabitants of the Terai, after its revertance to his rule, on account of having favoured the cause of the British Government during the war, and should any of those persons, excepting the cultivators of the soil, be desirous of quitting their estates, and of retiring within the Company's territories, he shall not be liable to hindrance.

8. In the event of the Rajah's approving the foregoing terms, the proposed arrangement for the survey and establishment of boundary marks shall be carried into execution, and after the determination in concert of the boundary line, Sunnuds conformable to the foregoing stipulations, drawn out and sealed by the two States, shall be delivered and accepted on both sides.

SUBSTANCE of a LETTER under the Seal of the RAJA of NIPAL, received on the 11th December 1816.

After compliment ;

I have comprehended the document under date the 8th of December 1816, or 4th of Poos 1873 Sumbut, which you transmitted relative to the restoration, with a view to my friendship and satisfaction, of the Terai between the Rivers Coosa and Rapti to the southern boundary complete, such as appertained to my estate previous to the war. It mentioned that in the event of my accepting the terms contained in that document, the southern boundary of the Terai should be established as it was held by this Government. I have accordingly agreed to the terms laid down by you, and herewith enclose an instrument of agreement, which may be satisfactory to you. Moreover, it was written in the document transmitted by you, that it should be restored, with the exception of the disputed lands and such portion of land as should, in the opinion of the Commissioners on both sides, occur for the purpose of settling a boundary; and excepting the lands which, after the cessions of the Terai to the Honorable Company, may have been transferred by it to the ascertained proprietors. My friend, all these matters rest with you, and since it was also written that a view was had to my friendship and satisfaction with respect to certain Articles of the Treaty of Segowlee, which bore hard upon me, and which could be remitted, I am well assured that you have at heart the removal of whatever may tend to my distress, and that you will act in a manner corresponding to the advantage of this State and the increase of the friendly relations subsisting between the two Governments.

Moreover I have to acknowledge the receipt of the orders under the red seal of this State, addressed to the officers of Terai between the Rivers Gunduk and Rapti, for the surrender of that Terai, and their retiring from thence, which was given to you at Thankote, according to your request, and which you have now returned for my satisfaction.

PAPER received from the DURBAR regarding the surrender of THUGS, on the 20th January 1837.

The following is the arrangement proposed in thuggee surrenders, and is translated verbatim et literatim.

When a thug approver or approvers make an allegation of murder by means of poison, or strangling, against an individual said to be residing in Nipal, and when the charge is accompanied by a description of the accused person, an enumeration of his family, brothers or other relations, and the name of his village given, or his habitation otherwise described, and when on investigation by the local officers of Nipal into the above, it appears that the accused has not been a permanent resident at the place, that his people and family are not forthcoming, that he has no ostensible means of livelihood, and that his mode of living is nevertheless comfortable, or that it appears that he has been in the habit of residing for three or four months together at different places in the neighbourhood, and that without ostensible means of livelihood he is still enable to exist, and when all or several of these circumstances correspond with the approver's statement then will the Nipal Government make surrender of such individuals to the Magistrates of the British Government for trial and punishment. On the other hand (recapitulate the above details), it is expected that the Magistrates of the British Government will surrender such individuals to the Nipalese authorities of the Terai, for trial and punishment by the Nipal Government.

Further, when on investigation of the allegations of the approvers by the local officers of either Government, the charge is found not to correspond with the circumstances of the individuals, or to be otherwise untenable it will by all means be necessary that in such cases surrender be withheld.

TREATY with NIPAL,—1st November 1860.

During the disturbances which followed the mutiny of the Native army of Bengal in 1857, the Maharaja of Nipal not only faithfully maintained the relations of peace and friendship established between the British Government and the State of Nipal by the Treaty of Segowlee, but freely placed troops at the disposal of the British authorities for the preservation of order in the Frontier Districts, and subsequently sent a force to co-operate with the British Army in the re-capture of Lucknow and the final defeat of the rebels. On the conclusion of these operations, the Viceroy and Governor-General in recognition of the eminent services rendered to the British Government by the State of Nipal, declared his intention to restore to the Maharaja the whole of the lowlands lying between the River Kali and the District of Goruckpore, which belonged to the State of Nipal in 1815, and were ceded to the British Government in that year by the aforesaid Treaty. These lands have now been identified by Commissioners appointed for the purpose by the British Government, in the presence of Commissioners deputed by the Nipal Darbar; masonry pillars have been erected to mark the future boundary of the two States, and the territory has been formally delivered over to the Nipalese Authorities. In order the more firmly to secure the State of Nipal in the perpetual possession of this territory, and to mark in a solemn way the occasion of its restoration, the following Treaty has been concluded between the two States:—

ARTICLE 1ST.

All Treaties and Engagements now in force between the British Government and the Maharajah of Nipal, except in so far as they may be altered by the Treaty, are hereby confirmed.

ARTICLE 2ND.

The British Government hereby bestows on the Maharajah of Nipal in full sovereignty, the whole of the lowlands between the Rivers Kali and Raptée, and the whole of the lowlands lying between the River Raptée and the District of Goruckpore, which were in the possession of the Nipal State in the year 1815, and were ceded to the British Government by Article III of the Treaty concluded at Segowlee on the 2nd of December in that year.

ARTICLE 3RD.

The boundary line surveyed by the British Commissioners appointed for the purpose extending eastward from the River Kali or Sardah to the foot of the hills north of Bagowra Tal, and marked by pillars, shall henceforth be the boundary between the British Province of Oudh and the Territories of the Maharajah of Nipal.

This Treaty, signed by Lieutenant-Colonel George Ramsay, on the part of His Excellency the Right Honorable Charles John, Earl Canning, G.C.B., Viceroy and Governor-General of India, and by Maharajah Jung Bahadoor Rana, G.C.B., on the part of Maharajah Dheraj Soorinder Vikram Sah Bahadoor Shumshere Jung, shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Khatmandoo within thirty days of the date of signature.

Signed and sealed at Khatmandoo, this First day of November, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and sixty corresponding to the third day of Kartick Budee, Sumbut Nineteen Hundred and Seventeen.

AGREEMENT with Nipal,—7th January 1875.

MacAndrew, Officiating Commissioner of Sitapoor and Commissioner of the British Government for settlement of the Nipal boundary on the Dhundwa range of hills, and Colonel Sidhiman Sing Sahib Bahadur Raj Bhandari, Commissioner of the Nipal Government for the settlement of the said boundary, do agree that the boundary between the two States on the Dhundwa range of hills from the Arrah Nuddee to the hills above Baghora Tal shall be the foot of the lower spurs where they meet the plain to the south of the range, on the following conditions:—

First.—That the subjects of the British Government who come to the hills for bankas shall have it at the rate of payment they have been used to make to Tulsipoor.

Second.—That the Nipal Government shall accept the boundary laid down by the Surveyor at the foot of the hills as a final settlement of the question.

PART III.

TREATIES, ENGAGEMENTS, AND SANADS

TERRITORIES COMPRISED WITHIN, OR IN POLITICAL RELATION WITH,

BENGAL AND ASSAM.

I.—EASTERN BENGAL AND ASSAM.

THE province of Eastern Bengal and Assam was called into being by a proclamation, dated the 1st September 1905, by which the territories hitherto under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Assam, united with the districts of Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Bakarganj, Tipperah, Noakhali, Chittagong, the Chittagong Hill Tracts, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bogra, Pabna, and Malda, hitherto under the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, were declared to be, for the purposes of the Indian Councils Act I of 1861, a province to which the provisions of that act should be applicable. The proclamation took effect from the 16th October 1905.

The different portions of territory thus included in one province were formerly quite distinct and have in some cases very different histories: they were brought under British administration at different times and in different ways, and it is therefore necessary to treat them separately. For the purposes of this narrative the following division will suffice:—

- (I) The transferred districts; that is, the districts enumerated in the Governor-General's proclamation of the 1st September 1905.
- (II) Assam Proper; that is, the five districts of Kamrup, Darrang, Nowgong, Sibsagar, and Lakhimpur.

- (III) Goalpara, including the Eastern Duars.
- (IV) Cachar, including the North Cachar Hills.
- (V) The Khasi and Jaintia Hills.
- (VI) The Garo Hills.
- (VII) The North-Eastern Frontier.

The province of Assam, incorporated with the new province of Eastern Bengal and Assam by the proclamation of the 1st September 1905, had itself been created by two earlier proclamations, dated the 6th February and the 12th September 1874. By the first of these the districts of Goalpara, Kamrup, Darrang, Nowgong, Sibsagar, Lakhimpur, the three hill districts, and the district of Cachar, had been separated from Bengal and placed under the immediate authority and management of the Governor-General in Council, while by a notification of the same date they were formed into a Chief Commissionership. By the second proclamation Sylhet was added, and the province of Assam as constituted prior to its incorporation in the new province of Eastern Bengal and Assam, was completed.

(1) THE TRANSFERRED DISTRICTS; THAT IS, THE DISTRICTS ENUMERATED IN THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S PROCLAMATION OF SEPTEMBER 1ST, 1905.*

The story of the formation of the East India Company and its gradual growth, until the final acquisition by it of the Diwani of Bengal, Orissa, and Behar in 1765, has already been narrated in brief in the narrative of Bengal (see Volume I).

Of the transferred districts the first to come into the possession of the East India Company was Chittagong. The first connection of the English with Chittagong took place in 1685, but the expedition organised by them against it in that year was a failure, and never reached its destination. It was not till the next century that they obtained possession of the place, when, on the deposition of Mir Jaffar and the elevation of his son-in-law, Mir Kasim Ali Khan, to be Subadar of Bengal, Chittagong was made over to the East India Company by the latter in a treaty, dated the 27th September 1760 (see Volume I).

*Abstracted from the Imperial Gazetteer of India, the Statistical Account of Bengal, and the Dacca Blue Book.

The grant then obtained was renewed by Mir Jaffar on the 10th July 1763 (see Volume I), when he was restored to the Governorship of Bengal, and was confirmed by a farman from the Emperor Shah Alam on the 12th August 1765 (see Volume I). At the time of its cession Chittagong contained an area of 2,987 square miles. After that date the political history of Chittagong was mainly confined to disturbances caused by the proximity of the Burmese, who in 1784 had invaded and annexed the Kingdom of Arakan. In 1823 the Governor of Arakan, acting under orders from the Court of Ava, attacked and drove off the British from the island of Shahpuri, a proceeding which led directly to the first Burmese war of 1824-26. In 1857 the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th companies of the 34th Regiment, Native Infantry, stationed at Chittagong, mutinied and left the station, but were twice beaten by the Sylhet Light Infantry, and nearly all perished in the jungles of Tipperah.

The district now known as the Chittagong Hill Tracts also came into British possession in 1760; but for a very long time the tribes were left under the rule of their own Chiefs, who paid a tribute in the shape of a tax on cotton. Gradually this tribute took the form of a settled revenue, but it was not until 1860 that, by Act XXII of that year, the hilly tracts were placed under direct British control, exercised by an officer entitled Superintendent of the Hill Tribes. In the year 1900 Regulation No. I of 1900 was passed for the government of the Chittagong Hill Tracts, and the administration of the district was entrusted to a superintendent, subject to the control of the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, who exercises also the powers of a sessions judge.

The district of Tipperah, when it first came under the control of the East India Company in 1765, was, as to one-fifth of its territory, ruled by the Raja of Hill Tipperah, and was noted mainly for its wealth in elephants, even the revenue being paid in elephants and tusks. It was first invaded by the Muhammadans in 1279 A.D., but was not really conquered until the time of Shuja-ud-din Khan, about the year 1733, although in 1588 the districts of Tipperah and Noakhali are found included in the Sarkar of Sonargam, one of the 19 divisions of Todar Mall. In 1722, when the original Sarkars of Todar Mall were formed into chacklas or military jurisdictions, the two districts were included in the Jahangirnagar (Dacca) chackla. In 1781 the British formed them into a separate revenue division, while in 1822 they were finally divided—the district of Noakhali being formed, as to the mainland, out of Tipperah with certain islands (including Sandwip) from the district of Chittagong.

The historical interest of the British division of Dacca centres round the district, and more especially the city, of Dacca. The rise of the city dates from the beginning of the seventeenth century, when Islam Khan, the Moghal Viceroy, transferred the seat of government from Rajmahal to Dacca. Except during an interval of twenty years, when Muhammad Shuja moved the administration back again to Rajmahal, Dacca was the capital of Bengal throughout the seventeenth century. The downfall of the city dates from the beginning of the eighteenth century. In 1704 Murshid Kali Khan transferred the seat of government to Maksudabad, henceforth called after him Murshidabad. From that date until the establishment of the British power, practically in 1757 after the battle of Plassey, but nominally in 1765 after the grant of the Diwani to the East India Company, Dacca was ruled by a Naib or Nawab of the Murshidabad Viceroy. On the acquisition of the Diwani by the East India Company, the Nawab became a roi fainéant, but the title continued until 1845. Neither the title nor the family of the present Nawabs of Dacca are in any way connected with the former Nawabs. Since the establishment of British supremacy the annals of Dacca have been for the most part devoid of incidents of historical importance. In 1778 and 1781 the French and Dutch factories in the city of Dacca passed into British possession, but in subsequent years the Dacca trade in muslins declined so rapidly that in 1817 the British factory was itself closed. In 1793, at the time of the permanent settlement, the Dacca collectorate included what are now the districts of Faridpur and Bakarganj, but in 1817 these were detached and formed into separate districts. In 1857 two companies of the 73rd Regiment of Native Infantry mutinied, but were disarmed, after a sharp skirmish, by a body of 100 sailors from Calcutta and a force of 60 civilian volunteers.

North Bengal, like east Bengal, also passed into the possession of the East India Company in 1765. Its most important district was Rajshahi. In that year the district was coterminous with the estate of the Brahman Raja of Nator, Ramjan by name, and its total area was estimated at 12,909 square miles, or about five times the size of the present district. It extended from Bhagalpur on the west to Dacca on the east, and included a large subdivision, south of the Ganges, stretching as far as the frontier of Birbhum and Burdwan. Its unwieldy size was gradually reduced. In 1793 the tract south of the Ganges was divided among the neighbouring districts of Murshidabad, Nadiya, and Jessore. In 1813 a further portion was cut off, and, with contributions from Dinajpur and Purneah, formed into the district of Maldah. The district of Bogra was formed in a similar way in 1821, and that of Pabna in 1832. Its original importance is now testified to only in the fact that it gives its name to the division.

The district of Jalpaiguri is of very recent formation, consisting in part of the western Bhutan Duars annexed at the termination of the war with Bhutan in 1865 (see Bhutan), and certain police circles taken from Rangpur in 1869 and 1870.

(II) ASSAM PROPER ; THAT IS, THE FIVE DISTRICTS OF KAMRUP, DARRANG, NOWGONG, SIBSAGAR, AND LAKHIMPUR.

The history of Assam proper, or of so much of the valley of the Brahmaputra as belongs to the modern province of Assam, may be said to begin with the growth of the Koch power upon its western frontier, and the invasion of the Ahoms in the east. It appears certain that, while the bulk of the inhabitants have always been of non-Aryan origin, the colonisation or conquest of parts of the valley by Aryan settlers began at an early date.

About the beginning of the thirteenth century occurred an event which was destined to have a great influence on the destinies of Assam. This was the invasion of the Ahoms. The Ahoms were Shans from the ancient Shan kingdom of Pông, whose capital, Mogaung, still exists. Chukapha, their leader, entered Assam with a small following in the year 1228 A.D. The Ahoms found the country into which they descended either empty of inhabitants or held by small settlements of Chutias, a people of the Bodo race, whom they had no difficulty in subduing. Within the narrow limits of a territory corresponding to the south-eastern part of the Lakimpur and part of the Sibsagar districts, the Ahom kings succeeded each other with great regularity. The Ahoms, extending their power along the south bank of the Brahmaputra, subdued the Bara Bhuiyas (about 1450 A.D.), and thus touched the Koch power on the west, as they touched the Chutia power on the south-east.

The Ahoms overthrew the Chutia dominion in upper Assam about 1500 A.D., and held their own against the Koch. Several Muhammadan invasions are recorded in the history of the Brahmaputra valley, and they all bear the same character of temporary success due to superior arms and discipline, and ultimate failure attributable to the unfavourable nature of the climate, ignorance of the country, want of communications, and the impossibility of repairing losses by reinforcements. The first expedition of the kind was unsuccessful. A second invasion occurred about the middle of the sixteenth century. The last and greatest was that undertaken by Mir Jumla in 1660-62. He captured the capital of the Ahoms, but his force melted away in the rains, and he was obliged to retreat with the loss of his guns. Though unable to wrest any territory from the Ahoms, the Muhammadan viceroys of Bengal were strong enough to conquer the greater part of the Koch kingdom, so much nearer to their frontiers. In 1682 the Imperial General, Manzur Khan, carried off the last Koch king, Surya Narayan, a prisoner to Delhi. Even in Bengal, however, a relic of the Koch kingdom survived, and forms the present State of Kuch Behar; while the Koch territories in Assam, ruled by the tributary Rajas of Darrang, were never annexed to the Muhammadan dominions.

Before the last Muhammadan invasion the Ahoms had been largely converted to the Hindu religion. The reigning monarch became a convert in 1655 A.D., and adopted the name of Jayadhwaja Singh, and henceforward all the Ahom kings bear both Ahom and Hindu names. There were now no rivals to the Ahoms in the Assam valley. The Cacharis had been defeated just before Mir Jumla's invasion, and the Rajas of Darrang and Bijni became tributary to the Ahom power on the fall of the Koch monarchy. In 1695 Rudra Singh, the greatest of the Ahom kings ascended the throne. His dominions comprised the whole of the Brahmaputra valley so far as it was inhabited, except a strip of submontane territory claimed by the Bhutias. In 1780 Gaurinath Singh succeeded to the throne. His reign was marked chiefly by a formidable rising of the Moamarias, a powerful religious sect. Gaurinath being hard-pressed, applied in his extremity to Mr. Rausch, a salt farmer at Goalpara. Mr. Rausch, it is said, sent a body of 700 sipahis to Gaurinath's aid, but these sipahis were cut to pieces by the Moamarias. In the meanwhile Krishna Narayan, Raja of Darrang, taking advantage of Raja Gaurinath's difficulties, made a descent upon Gauhati. Gaurinath, meeting with further reverses, again applied to Mr. Rausch for help, and also sent a deputation to Calcutta. At the close of 1792, the British Government sent a detachment, under the command of Captain Welsh, to assist Gaurinath. Captain Welsh defeated Krishna Narayan, put down the Moamaria insurrection, and reduced the whole valley to obedience. The first treaty with any of the Assam Chiefs was a Commercial Agreement (No. XXXV) made in 1793 with Raja Gaurinath Singh; but this was never ratified or published by Government, on the ground that the Raja's administration was not sufficiently strong to ensure the observance of the agreement. Captain Welsh was recalled in 1794. A few months later Gaurinath died. He was succeeded by Kamaleswar Singh, who died in 1809, and was succeeded by his brother, Chandra Kanta Singh. The reign of this prince was marked by the appearance of the Burmese in Assam. Chandra Kanta having quarrelled with his minister, the Bura Gohain, applied for aid to the Burmese. The Burmese entered Assam with a force with which the Assamese was utterly unable to cope. Shortly after, however, the Burmese retired, on which the Bura Gohain deposed Chandra Kanta and set up Purandar Singh. Chandra Kanta again applied to the Burmese, who sent an army and reinstated him. In 1819 Purandar Singh applied for aid to the British Government, but was refused. Chandra Kanta, however, quarrelled with the Burmese, who finally expelled him from Assam, and he sought refuge with the British officers at Goalpara. But at this juncture matters had come to a crisis between the British and the Burmese, and on the 5th March 1824 war was declared against Burma. A British force advancing with a gunboat flotilla conquered the valley as far as Koliabor, and during the next cold season completed the subjugation of the rest. Finally on the 24th February 1826, the Burmese by the treaty of Yandabo, ceded Assam to the East India Company.

For some time after the conquest it was still doubtful whether the Company would retain in their hands the province they had won. Mr. Scott, the Commissioner of North-East Rangpur, administered the country, Captain White being appointed in 1827 to assist him in lower Assam, and Captain Neufville in 1828 to have charge under him of upper Assam. The Moamarias, whose country, known as Matak, is now comprised in the Lakhimpur district, were left under their own ruler, styled the Bar Senapati, who in May 1826 executed an Agreement (No. XXXVI) whereby he acknowledged the supremacy of the British Government, and bound himself to supply 300 soldiers in time of war. The management of the country was left in his own hands, except as regards capital offences. In January 1835 the obligation to supply troops was commuted to a money payment of Rs. 1,800 a year (No. XXXVII). The Bar Senapati died in November 1839, and, as his successor refused the terms offered him, the management of the country was assumed by the British Government in 1842, and pensions were given to the members of the family.

The Khampti Chief of Sadiya, called the Sadiyakhwa, was, on the 15th May 1826, confirmed as the Company's feudatory in possession of that district. In 1839 the Khamptis headed an insurrection of the border clans, attacked and partially destroyed the military station of Sadiya, and killed the Commandant and Political Agent, Colonel White. The combination was not broken up and dispersed till many lives had been lost. The son of the Sadiyakhwa, for his complicity in this rebellion, was exiled with his followers to Narayanpur on the Dikhrang, in the west of the Lakhimpur district, where the colony still exists. Sadiya, the district of the Khampti

Chief, was by a proclamation, issued in 1842, incorporated with the rest of the province.

In 1833 the districts of Sibsagar and Lakhimpur, north of the Brahmaputra, were placed under the administration of Raja Purandar Singh, who executed a Treaty (No. XXXVIII) binding himself to administer the country upon the principles of justice established in their territories by the East India Company; to act according to the advice of the Political Agent stationed in his principality; and to pay an annual tribute of Rs. 50,000. Thus of Assam proper there remained British, in 1833, only the districts of Kamrup, Nowgong, and Darrang; the latter then only extended to and included Bishnath, beyond which was Lakhimpur, subject to Purandar Singh.

In October 1838 Purandar Singh's territories were resumed by the Government of India; the Raja had fallen deeply into arrears with his tribute, and declared himself unable any longer to carry on the administration. In July 1839 a proclamation was issued by the Governor-General in Council annexing the territory to Bengal, dividing it into two districts, Sibsagar and Lakhimpur, and directing that these two districts should be administered in the same manner as the districts of lower Assam. The incorporation of the Kamrup and Darrang Duars in British territory in 1842 is noticed under Bhutan.

In 1872 the provisions of Act XXXIII Vict., Cap. 3, Section I, which gives the power of summary legislation for backward tracts to the executive government, was made applicable, with effect from the 1st January 1873, to the following districts, Kamrup, Darrang, Nowgong, Sibsagar, Lakhimpur, Garo Hills, Khasi and Jaintia Hills, Naga Hills, Cachar, and Chittagong Hills. The first use of the power of summary legislation given by that Act was to pass a regulation, Bengal Eastern Frontier Regulation I of 1873, for the frontier districts. This regulation gives power to the Lieutenant Governor to prescribe a line, to be called "the inner line," in each or any of the districts affected, beyond which no British subjects of certain classes or foreign residents can pass without a license. The pass or license when given may be subject to such conditions as may appear necessary, and rules are laid down regarding trade, the possession of land beyond the lines, and other matters which gives the executive government an effective control. In the first instance an inner line was laid down only for the districts of Darrang, Sibsagar, Lakhimpur, and Cachar, where the frontier is inhabited by savage and independent tribes, and no prohibition was imposed on free passage into Bhutan. In 1906, in pursuance of the policy of the Government of India concerning the control of Europeans and others crossing into Tibet, a series of notifications were issued prescribing an inner line in the districts of Goalpara and Kamrup, and prohibiting in these districts and in the districts of Darrang and Lakhimpur all persons residing in, or passing through, those districts, other than officers on Government duty, from going beyond the inner line without a pass from the Deputy Commissioner.

TRANSLATION of a new system of COMMERCE adopted by the MAHARAJAH SURGY DEO, ASSAM, 28th February 1793.

The Maharajah Surgy Deo, highly sensible of the benefit he has experienced from the aid which has been afforded to him by the English Government, and desirous not only of cementing the harmony and friendship which subsists between him and that power, but also of extending the beneficial effects thereof, in general, to the subjects of Bengal and Assam, has, at the recommendation of Captain Welsh, the representative at his Court of the said English Government, agreed to abolish the injudicious system of Commerce which has heretofore been pursued, and to adopt in its stead the following plan, liable however to such alterations and amendments as occasions may require, for the mutual benefit and comfort of the subjects of both countries:

That there shall henceforth be a reciprocal and entire liberty of Commerce between the subjects of Bengal and those of Assam for all and singular goods and merchandizes on the conditions and in such manner as is settled in the following rules.

ARTICLE 2.

That to facilitate this free intercourse between the subjects of both nations, those of Bengal, in fulfilling the conditions hereafter prescribed, be permitted to proceed with their boats loaded with merchandizes into Assam, and to expose their goods for sale, at any place or in any manner may best suit their purposes, without being subject to any other duties than are established by these Articles.

ARTICLE 3.

That a regular Impost be levied on all goods or merchandizes, whether of Export or Import, and that these duties be fixed as follows:—

Imports.

1st.—That the Salt of Bengal be subject to an Impost of 10 per cent. on the supposed prime cost, reckoning that invariably at 400 Rupees per 100 maunds of 84 sicca weight to the seer.

2nd.—That the Broad Cloths of Europe, the Cotton Cloths of Bengal, Carpets, Copper, Lead, Tin, Tutanag, Pearls, Hardware, Jewellery, Spices, and the various other Goods imported into Assam, pay an equal Impost of 10 per cent. on the Invoice price.

3rd.—That Warlike Implements and Military Stores be considered contraband and liable to confiscation, excepting the supplies of those articles which may be required for the Company's troops stationed in Assam, which, and every other matter of convenience for the said troops, whether of clothing or provisions, are in all cases to be exempt from duties.

Exports.

1st.—That the Duties to be levied on all articles of Export (except in such cases as are hereafter mentioned) be invariably 10 per cent., reckoning agreeable to the rates hereby annexed to each, viz. :—

				Rs.	As.	P.
Mooga Dohtees, per md. of 84 sa. wt. to the seer	.	.	.	95	0	0
Mooga Thread,	ditto	ditto	.	70	0	0
Pepper,	ditto	ditto
Elephants' Teeth,	ditto	ditto	.	50	0	0
Cutna Lac,	ditto	ditto	.	4	0	0
Chuprah and Jury Lal,	ditto	ditto	.	3	8	0
Munjeet,	ditto	ditto	.	4	0	0
Cotton	ditto	ditto

2nd.—That all articles of Export not herein specified (with the exception of the following), and for which no certain calculation can be made, be subject to an equal Impost, in such instances always to be paid in kind; and with respect to these articles which have been particularized, that the Duties be received either in money or kind, as may be most convenient to the Merchant; but as it may happen that a temporary scarcity of grain may occur either in Bengal or Assam, to provide against which, Rice and every description of Grain to be exempt from Duties.

ARTICLE 4.

That any person or persons detected in attempting to defraud the Surgi Deo of the Duties hereby established, shall be liable to a confiscation of his or their property, and for ever after debarred the privilege of the trade.

ARTICLE 5.

That for the purpose of collecting the said Duties, Agents be appointed and Custom Houses established for the present, one at the Candahar Chokey and one at Gowhatty.

ARTICLE 6.

That it be the business of the Agents to be stationed at the Candahar Chokey to collect the Duties on all Imports and on all Exports, the produce of the country to the westward of Gowhatty, for which they are to be held responsible. They are to examine all boats passing up and down the river, and, after having settled with the proprietor for the amount of the Duties, they are to grant him a passport, specifying the number and quantity of each article, a copy of which they are to forward, without delay, to the Agents at Gowhatty, whither, or further, if it be necessary, the Merchant may proceed under sanction of the said pass.

ARTICLE 7.

That it be the business of the Agents stationed at Gowhatty to collect the Duties on all Exports the produce of the country parallel to it north and south, and also on all Exports the produce of the country to the eastward, as far as Nowgong, for which in like manner they are to be held responsible. They are to examine all boats passing down the river, and to grant passports to the proprietors, copies of which to be forwarded to the Agents at the Candahar Chokey, who are to re-examine the cargo, lest, on the way between Gowhatty and their station, the merchant may have taken goods on board which could not be specified in the pass granted at that place.

ARTICLE 8.

That as an incitement to the Agents to be industrious in the discharge of their duty, a recompense be made to them, bearing a proportion to the amount of the collections, and that for the present it be fixed at 12 per cent. on the said collections, which is calculated to defray all incidental expenses.

ARTICLE 9.

That the said Agents be required to be sureties for each other, and that the whole be bound by engagements to the Surgy Deo, not only for the purity of their conduct in the collections, but also that they abstain from having any concern, either directly or indirectly, in trade.

ARTICLE 10.

That a copy of their accounts be produced on or before the 10th of every month, and that the payment of the collections be made into the hands of any person the Surgy Deo may appoint to receive it at the expiration of every quarter.

ARTICLE 11.

That the standard weight hereafter, both for Exports and Imports, be 40 seers to the maund, and 84 sicca weight to the seer.

ARTICLE 12.

That as much political inconvenience might arise to both Governments from granting a general license to the subjects of Bengal to settle in Assam, no European merchant, or adventurer of any description, be allowed to fix their residence in Assam, without having previously obtained the permission of the English Government and that of the Surgi Deo.

ARTICLE 13.

That as Captain Welsh, the representative of the said English Government, in consideration of the Surgi Deo having removed the prohibitory restrictions which have hitherto existed, to the detriment of a free intercourse, has signified his intention of bringing to punishment all persons from Bengal, offending against the established laws of Assam, or infringing these Articles, so the Surgi Deo, on his part, declares he will punish all abuses in his subjects, tending to obstruct or discourage the reciprocal intercourse this system is designed to promote.

ARTICLE 14.

That copies of these Articles be affixed at every public place throughout Assam, that none may plead ignorance, and that Captain Welsh be requested to send one officially to his Government.

Captain.

TRANSLATION of an AGREEMENT entered into by MATEE BUR
BUR SENAPUTTEE, on the 23rd January 1835, in the presence of the POLITICAL AGENT, UPPER ASSAM.

ARTICLE I.

I agree to relinquish my claim to the village of Suckhowah, which has been the cause of dispute between the Suddeya Khawah Gohain and myself; further, I agree that the following shall be recognized as the territorial boundaries of my district. On the north the Berhampooter; on the west the Boormee Dehing River, separating my territory from that of Rajah Poorunder Sing; to the east the Dibroo River and the Danquree Nullah, which falls into it. From the rise of the nullah a boundary line will be formed to connect it with the Boore Dehing River; for this purpose Lieutenant Charlton can depute one person and I will depute another.

The lands lying between the Dhul Jan and Gooroo Jan Nullahs, which fall into the Danquree Nullah, to be considered under my jurisdiction, and the persons deputed as above mentioned can connect them by definite marks, so as to form a boundary line. These are the territorial boundaries of the country under my jurisdiction, and have no reference to the pecuniary questions now pending between me and the British Government.

I cannot agree to the demand which the British Government has made me to contribute towards the expenses of the State in an increased proportion, quinquennially, or by paying a tribute of Rs. 10,000 per annum, as I engaged to do under the Assam Government. But if the British Government requires me no longer to furnish a Military Contingent of 300 men, I agree to pay in their stead the usual Capitation Tax for these 300 men, which, at the rate of Rs. 6 per head, will amount to Rs. 1,800 per annum. I further agree to restore to the British Government the arms of this force if required. I likewise will adhere to the engagement I formed with Captain Neufville, to pay Rs. 551 per annum, on account of Pykes who absconded from Upper Assam, whilst that Province was under his charge in 1829; and further I agree to pay to those who have absconded from Rajah Poorunder Sing's territory within the last two years. I will cause them to be counted, but if suspicion is entertained that a false enumeration will be given in, I agree that the British Government may nominate an Officer to take a new census.

No. XXXVIII.

TREATY and AGREEMENT concluded between MR. THOMAS CAMPBELL ROBERTSON, AGENT to the GOVERNOR-GENERAL on the NORTH-EAST FRONTIER, on the part of the HONOURABLE COMPANY and RAJAH POORUNDER SING, now residing at GOWHATTY, in ASSAM,—1833.

ARTICLE I.

The Company give over to Rajah Poorunder Sing the portion of Assam lying on the southern bank of the Burrumpooter to the eastward of the Dhunsiree River, and on the northern bank to the eastward of a nullah immediately east of Bishenath.

ARTICLE 2.

The Rajah Poorunder Sing agrees to pay an annual tribute of 50,000 Rupees of Rajah Mohree coinage to the Honorable Company.

ARTICLE 3.

The Rajah Poorunder Sing binds himself, in the administration of justice in the country now made over to him, to abstain from the practices of the former Rajahs of Assam, as to cutting off ears and noses, extracting eyes or otherwise mutilating or torturing, and that he will not inflict cruel punishment for slight faults, but generally assimilate the administration of justice in his territory to that which prevails in the dominions of the Honorable Company. He further binds himself not to permit the immolation of women by suttees.

ARTICLE 4.

The Rajah Poorunder Sing binds himself to assist the passage of the troops of the British Government through his territory, furnishing supplies and carriage on receiving payment for the same.

ARTICLE 5.

Whether at Jorhath or elsewhere, wheresoever a spot may be required for the permanent cantonment of the troops of the British Government, the Rajah agrees that, within the limits assigned to such cantonment, he shall exercise no power whatever; all matters connected with such cantonment to be decided on by the Officer of the British Government.

ARTICLE 6.

In the event of a detachment being stationed at Suddeya or elsewhere, the Rajah Poorunder Sing binds himself to render it all the assistance that it shall require in regard to provisions and carriage.

ARTICLE 7.

The Rajah binds himself ever to listen with attention to the advice of the Political Agent to be stationed in Upper Assam, or to that of the Agent to the Governor-General, with a view to the conduct of affairs in the country made over to him in conformity with the stipulation of this agreement.

ARTICLE 8.

The Rajah binds himself not to carry on any correspondence by letter or otherwise, or to enter into any Contract or Agreement with the Rulers of any Foreign States. In all cases of necessity he will consult with the Political Agent or Agent to the Governor-General, by whom the necessary communication will be made.

ARTICLE 9.

The Rajah binds himself to surrender, on demand from the Agent to the Governor-General or Political Agent, any fugitive from justice who may take refuge in his territory; and always to apply to those Officers for the apprehension of any individuals who may fly from his territory into that of the Honorable Company, or of any other State.

ARTICLE 10.

It is distinctly understood that this Treaty invests Rajah Poorunder Sing with no power over the Moarmaria Country of the Bur Senaputtee.

ARTICLE 11.

It being notorious that the quantity of opium produced in Assam is the cause of many miseries to the inhabitants, the Rajah binds himself that, whatever measures may be determined on with a view to checking this source of mischief in the territory of the Honorable Company, corresponding measures shall be adopted in the territory made over to him.

In the event of the Rajah's continuing faithful to the Articles of this Treaty, the British Government engages to protect him from the aggressions of any foreign foe, but if, which God forbid, he should in any way depart from a faithful adherence to the same, and be guilty of oppressing the people of the country entrusted to his charge, then the right is reserved to the Government of the Honorable Company, either to transfer the said country to another ruler, or take it into its own immediate occupation.

(III)—GOALPARA.

This district consists of two very distinct portions—the permanently-settled part, comprising the three thanas of Goalpara, Dhubri and Karaibari, and the temporarily-settled part, called the Eastern Duars. The first tract was originally a portion of the district of Rangpur, and as such was included in the province of Bengal, which by the Moghal Emperor's farman of the 12th August 1765 became part of the dominions of the East India Company. Like the neighbouring district of Kamrup, this tract was inhabited chiefly by Meches or Cacharis, and members of the same race converted to Hinduism under the name of Koch. It formed part of the dominions of the Koch dynasty of Rangpur, and, as has already been related above, passed out of their hands when Manzur Khan in 1682 overthrew King Surya Narayan.

In 1867 the five Eastern Duars, which were annexed by the British Government on the conclusion of the Bhutan war (see Bhutan), were incorporated in Goalpara.

Bhutia tribes on the frontier.—The Bhutias of the Kuriapara Duar, which lies east of Bhutan proper and extends from the Doisham to the Rota river, are dependent upon the Towang Raja, who is himself an official subject to the Government of Lhasa. The Chiefs of this Duar, called the Sat Rajas, used to levy dues from the inhabitants of the adjoining plains. In 1844 their claims were bought out (see Bhutan) by the British Government on payment of an annual sum of Rs. 5,000. Since then British relations with these people have only once been disturbed. In 1852 one of the Gelongs, or Tibetan officials appointed from Lhasa to supervise the local Chiefs, having some misunderstanding with his superiors, fled to British territory. His surrender was peremptorily demanded by the authorities of Lhasa, and a Tibetan army moved towards the frontier. A British force was assembled at Uddalgiri with two guns. But no hostilities actually occurred, the Tibetans retired, the fugitive Gelong was removed to Gauhati, and the Duar was re-opened for trade.

Next to these Bhutias subject to Towang come the Sat Rajas of Char-duar, Chiefs who live at villages called by the people of the plains Ruprai-gaon and Shergaon. They claim to be independent of Towang, and rule the tribes from the Rota to the Diputa river. The first treaty with them was concluded in 1853 (No. XXXIX). The Thebengia Bhutias are a distinct race, and extend several days' journey into the hills; but they used, in Junction with the Sat Rajas, to levy contributions from the people of the adjacent plains. From 1839 to 1844 these people were excluded from the plains by the British Government in punishment for outrages committed by them. On their submitting and executing a formal Agreement (No. XL) to refrain from aggressions, the Shergaon and Rupraigaon Bhutias received an annual pension of Rs. 2,526-7 a year. A similar payment of Rs. 145-13-6 is made to the Thebengia Bhutias, but they do not appear to have subscribed any engagement. These tribes come down annually to receive their pensions at Tezpur.

TREATY signed by CAPTAINS REID and CAMPBELL and CHANGDANDOO NAMANG LEDEN and DAO NURHOO, BHUTIA RAJAS, on the 28th JANUARY 1853, at KURREAHPARAH, ZILLAH DARRUNG.

We, Changdandoo Raja Namang Leden Raja Dao Nurhoo Rajah, being deputed by the Daba Rajas to carry letters of friendship to the Agent, Governor-General, North-East Frontier, desiring that the former friendly relations which existed between the Government of India and our Lhasa Government (lately disturbed by the misbehaviour of one of our Gellings) should be again resumed, and being ourselves desirous above all things that peace should exist between our Government and that of India, do (now that we are assured the Government of India do not intend to invade our country) hereby solemnly declare that all military force in excess of what is required to maintain order in our own country shall be immediately withdrawn, and the soldiers sent to their houses, and should the peace be ever broken by us, we shall consider that all claims to the Rs. 5,000 hitherto yearly paid to our Government by the Government of India shall be forfeited, and that our trade with the people of the plains shall be put a stop to.

And all this we of our own good will agree to and swear to in the presence of Captains Reid and Campbell, signing the agreement as copied out in Bhutia language from the Bengali copy made by Tuckha Mahomed Darogah.

And moreover, with regard to the followers and others of the Gelling who have come down to the plains for protection, we promise not to molest them, but hope, with the good help of the Agent, Governor-General, to make friends with them and persuade them to return to their own country.

No. XL.

AN AGREEMENT entered into by DURJEE RAJAH, TAUGJOOG RAJAH, DUKPAH RAJAH, JOYPOO RAJAH, CHANG KHANGDOO RAJAH SAUGJA RAJAH, ROOP RAE GYA TOOUNG BHUNGDOO RAJAH, SAURGYAH, of BHOOTAN, dated 29th Maug 1250 B. S.

Under the supposition that we were concerned with Niboojoo Rajah, Kawree Bhoot, and Bogah Bhoot, in the murder of Muddoo Sykeah, of Ooang, in Chardoar, and therefore required to give up the above-mentioned supposed murderers, which we were unable to do, in consequence of which the

Duars were attached, and we forbidden to frequent them; and it being now ordered that we be allowed a pension in lieu of black-mail and may again visit the Plains for the purposes of traffic under a sworn Argeement, to ensure the ryots from any oppressions from us:—We hereby pledge ourselves to act up to the following terms, swearing according to our custom by placing salt on a daw or Bhootan sword, and biting it, and cutting the skins of a tiger and bear:—

1st.—We pledge ourselves to report our arrival in the plains to the Patgarree, and never to commit any fraud or theft against any ryot or Patgarree in trafficking with them, or any other act of oppression. Neither will we allow any of our people to do so, or we shall forfeit our privilege of visiting the Plains.

2nd.—We pledge ourselves never to join any person or persons that may be at enmity with the British Government; and furthermore to oppose every effort made against the Government the instant it shall be brought to our knowledge, and report faithfully any intelligence we may get of any conspiracy being carried on. We also pledge ourselves to act up to any orders we may get from the British authorities. Should it ever be proved that we have joined in any conspiracy, we shall not be allowed to visit the Plains.

3rd.—We will never come into the Plains armed, and in our traffic confine ourselves exclusively to the established market places at Lahabarree, Balle, Barah, Oobung, and Tezpur, and not deal with the ryots in their private houses, neither will we permit any of our people doing so.

4th.—We consider ourselves in all civil aggrievances bound to abide the decision of the British Courts.

5th.—I, Durjee Rajah, am content to receive a monthly pension of 25 Rupees, and for the rest of my people 20 Rupees each, altogether 145* Rupees in lieu of our black-mail, and we relinquish every other right in Chardoar.

6th.—The moment we hear that any of our people have been guilty of any crime in the Plains, we engage to give up the offender.

7th.—We pledge ourselves to act up to the foregoing terms, or forfeit our pension.

(IV)—CACHAR.

The early history of Cachar, or Hiramba, is obscure. Although it has given their current name to the Bodo population of Assam, the part of the district south of the Barail was not till some two hundred years ago in the possession of the race now called Cacharis. It would appear that it formerly belonged to the kingdom of Tipperah or Tripura. It is, however, certain that the last native king of Cachar was the descendant of a line of princes who came originally from the Assam valley. The Cachari kings were forced, by the aggressions of the Ahoms on the north and of the Angami Nagas on the south, to remove and take up their abode on the Mahur river. While settled there, about the beginning or middle of the seventeenth century, the Cachari king married a daughter of the Tipperah Raja, and received the valley of Cachar as her dowry. And some time between 1700 and 1750 the capital was transferred to Khaspur, on the Madhura river in the plains. In 1790 the Raja, by appropriate ceremony, became a Hindu and a Kshatriya.

In the beginning of the nineteenth century the valley of Cachar was the scene of a struggle for supremacy between the Manipuri brothers, Marjit, Chaurjit and Gambhir Singh, who had been driven from their own country by the Burmese. The Burmese were then in Assam, and, as lords of Manipur (which they had conquered from Marjit in 1819), threatened to annex Cachar. This the British Government, seeing the danger which it would cause to Sylhet, decided to prevent. Negotiations were first entered on with a view to an alliance with the Manipuri brothers. These overtures fell through, and it was resolved to take up the cause of Govind Chandra, the refugee Raja of Cachar, who, with the Raja of Jaintia, was taken under British protection. The Burmese armies, which had advanced both from Assam and Manipur were driven out, and Govind Chandra was replaced on the throne. A Treaty (No. XLI) was executed on the 6th March 1824, by which the Raja placed himself under British protection, and agreed to pay a tribute of Rs. 10,000. Govind Chandra was assassinated in 1830, and as he left no heir, either natural or adopted, the country was annexed by proclamation on the 14th August 1832.

Since Cachar became British territory, the only important political events which have marked its history have been the Lushai raids of 1849 and subsequent years until 1871, the last of which was followed by the expedition of 1871-1872. In 1857 the sepoys of the 34th Native Infantry, who mutinied in Chittagong in November of that year, were met in Cachar, defeated, and dispersed by the Sylhet Light Infantry.

North Cachar.—North Cachar is divided from the valley of the Barak by the range of the Barail, and lies between the Jaintia and the Naga hills. When the district was under Native rule, during the last years of the reign of Govind Chandra, north Cachar was the scene of a struggle between that prince and one of his officers, Kacha Din, who rebelled and endeavoured to establish an independent government. He was captured and put to death by Govind Chandra, but his son, Tularam, revived the rebellion, and in 1824 joined the Burmese in their attack on Cachar. After a series of years, during which Tularam successfully held his own, Mr. Scott induced Govind Chandra in 1829 to assign to him a tract of country in the hills, and bind himself not to molest him within these limits. After the assassination of the Raja of Cachar, Tularam was a candidate for the vacant Chiefship, but failed to establish his title. In 1834 he entered into an Agreement (No. XLII) with the British Government, in which he resigned all the western portion of the tract ceded by Govind Chandra, retaining the tract on the east, bounded on the south by the Mahur river and the Naga hills, on the west by the Diyung, on the east by the Dhansiri, and on the north by the Jamuna and Diyung. For this he was to pay a tribute of four pairs of elephants' tusks annually, which was subsequently commuted to a money payment of Rs. 490 a year, and received a monthly pension of Rs. 50. Tularam died in October 1850. His sons, Nakulram and Brajanath, held the country for two and a half years more, when the former was killed in the Naga hills, whither he had led an expedition to avenge an attack on his village of Semkhor; and in 1854 the tract was resumed by the British Government, the surviving members of Tularam's family receiving pensions.

In 1839 the portion of north Cachar not included in Tularam's dominions was annexed to Nowgong; and in 1858 a separate officer was placed in charge at Asalu, near the northern skirts of the Barail, whose business it was to keep order among the Kukis and Arung Nagas dwelling in that neighbourhood, and to protect them against the Angami Nagas to the east, who were constantly making raids into this country and that held by Tularam. In 1854 this officer's charge was augmented by the addition of Tularam's principality.

In 1866 the Government of India agreed to a proposal that a new district should be formed, with its head-quarters at Samaguting, Asalu being abolished as a subdivision, and north Cachar being divided between the Khasi and Jaintia hills, south Cachar and Nowgong, that portion lying to the west of the Dhansiri and the country on both banks of the Diyang forming, with the Angami Naga hills, the new district.

At the close of the Naga war of 1879-1880 sanction was given to the re-establishment of the subdivisional charge of north Cachar, where, since 1866, no officer had been located, the hillmen being left, save for the rare cold weather tours of the Deputy Commissioner, entirely to themselves. The subdivision was opened in December 1880, and placed in charge of an assistant superintendent of police, who was at first stationed, for the dry weather months only, at Gunjong, in the centre of the tract. The headquarters of the subdivision have since been transferred to Haflong, where the subdivisional officer, of the status of assistant superintendent or district superintendent of police, is stationed throughout the year. The tract has been removed from the jurisdiction of the high court and is administered under special rules framed by the Local Government under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 (XIV of 1874).

Towards the end of 1881 a Cachari fanatic, named Sanbhudan, gave out that he was possessed of supernatural powers, and that his mission was to restore the ancient Cachari kingdom. He gathered about him an ignorant following, and, in January 1882, after demanding the cession of north Cachar, attacked Gunjong and burnt it to the ground. In a subsequent attack on Maibong, where Major Boyd, the Deputy Commissioner, with a party of police was encamped, the assailants were repulsed with loss, but Major Boyd unfortunately received a wound from the effects of which he died shortly after. Sanbhudan, after the collapse of the insurrection, evaded capture until the end of 1882, when, in endeavouring to escape from the police, who had succeeded in surrounding him, he was wounded, and bled to death.

(V)—JAINTIA AND KHASI HILLS.

Jaintia.—The Raja of Jaintia, a Chief of Khasi lineage, was found by the British, on the annexation of the district, in possession of a tract of plain country lying between the town of Sylhet and the Cachar border, and measuring about 450 square miles, in addition to his hill territory stretching from the foot of the hills overlooking the Surma valley to the Kalang river in Nowgong. At the same time that Cachar was taken under British protection, in March 1824, a Treaty (No. XLIII) was made with Ram Singh, the Raja of Jaintia, by which he acknowledged allegiance to the Company, and promised to aid in the military operations then commenced against the Burmese in Assam. In 1832 four British subjects were seized by Chattar Singh, Chief of Gobha, under the orders of the heir-apparent, Rajendra Singh, and three of them were sacrificed to Kali, the tutelary goddess of the Raja's family. One escaped and gave information of the outrage, which led to a demand by the British Government for the surrender of the culprits. Negotiations went on for two years without any result; in November 1832 Ram Singh died, and Rajendra Singh succeeded him; and it was finally resolved to punish this atrocious crime (which had been preceded by similar outrages in 1821, 1827, and 1832) by dispossessing the Raja of his territory in the plains, and confining him thenceforth to the hilly tract. On the 15th March 1835 formal possession was taken of Jaintiapur, and the annexation of the plain territory was proclaimed by Colonel Lister; in April the district of Gobha was similarly annexed to Nowgong in Assam. Upon this, the Raja declared himself unwilling to continue in possession of his hill territory, over which he had but little control, and this also became included in the Company's dominions. The population of the plains of Jaintia, like that of Cachar, is made up of Sylhet rayats, with but a slight leaven of settlers from the hills.

The Khasi Hills were first brought into direct relations with the British Government in 1826, after the conquest of Assam. The Chiefs or Seims of the Khasi States on the northern border of the hills had gradually, since the decay of the Ahom power in the year 1794, established themselves in the plains of Kamrup in the tracts known as Duars, and were accustomed to pay only a nominal allegiance to the Assam kings. When Assam was acquired by the East India Company, it became an object with Mr. Scott to establish communication through the hills with Sylhet, and while the new administration of Kamrup refused to recognise the right of the Khasi rulers to encroach on the plains of Assam, Mr. Scott was able, by agreeing to allow Tirat Singh Seim of Nongkhlaio, to rent some lands in Borduar, to induce that Chief, and to persuade the other Seims, to permit a road to be made through the hills via Cherra Punji, Maoflang and Nongkhlaio to Gauhati.

In 1829 an attack was made on a survey party at the village of Nongkhlaio, and Lieutenants Burlton and Bedingfield, with about 50 or 60 natives were massacred. This event was followed by a general confederacy of most of the neighbouring Chiefs to resist the British, and by a long and harrassing war in which troops from Assam and Sylhet co-operated in the retaliatory measures which became necessary. Eventually, Tirat Singh submitted in 1833, and was confined as a prisoner for life in the Dacca jail. The other Chiefs had either previously made terms with the British Government, or did so immediately after; and since that date the establishment of a British officer, with an adequate military force, in the midst of the people has sufficed to maintain the most absolute tranquillity. The force was originally stationed at Cherra Punji, but was moved in 1866 to Shillong.

The greater part of the Khasi hills consists of the territories of Native Chiefs in subsidiary alliance with the British Government; only a few scattered villages have remained British since the conquest of 1833, or have been ceded since then under special circumstances. The people govern themselves through their elected rulers, who are bound to follow the advice of their darbars. They pay no revenue to the British Government, but under sanads based upon agreements that were taken in 1858, which each Seim is required to confirm on investiture, they have ceded to the paramount power the mineral products of their States, on condition of their receiving half the profits arising from their sale or lease, and also, on the same terms, the rights over wild elephants and over such waste lands, not being subject to private rights, as may be required to be sold as waste lands. All petty crime committed by their subjects is dealt with by the Chiefs and their darbars; only heinous offences, or those cases in which subjects of different States are concerned, are tried by the British authorities. The people are well-to-do.

Regarding the Jaintia hills, it has already been related how, on the annexation of the plains country of Jaintia in 1835, Raja Rajendra Singh declined to retain the hilly portion of his principality, which thus lapsed to the British Government. This tract, inhabited by the same race of mountaineers as the neighbouring Khasi territory, was thereupon placed under the administration of the Political Agent at Cherra Punji. The Jaintia hills were (and still are) divided into twenty-three petty districts, twenty of which are in charge of headmen, called Dollois, chosen by the people themselves, while the remaining three are under hereditary Sardars. From 1835 to 1855 the people were left very much to themselves. The Dollois heard all civil cases, at first without exception, and after 1841 up to a certain limit, and all criminal complaints, not of a heinous character, in which only people of their own villages, were concerned. No taxes of any kind were levied throughout the hills, the only contribution required being the annual offering of a he-goat from each village, which had been exacted by the Jaintia Raja. In 1853 Mr. Mills, of the Sadar Court, reported on the district, and on his recommendation a police thana was established in the hills at Jowai. In 1860 a house-tax was imposed, and within a few months the people were in open rebellion. Fortunately a large force of troops was close at hand, and before the revolt could make any head, it was stamped out and the villages awed into apparent submission. After this rising, measures were taken to improve the administration of the Dollois, who were notoriously corrupt, but still no officer was posted to the sub-division. In January 1862 the people of the Jaintia hills were again in fierce rebellion. The occasion was the imposition, only a year after the house-tax had been introduced, of the income-tax, to which 310 persons in the hills were subjected. The suppression of the revolt was long and tedious. It was not till November 1863 that the last of the rebel leaders surrendered, and the pacification of Jaintia could be said to be complete.

An English officer with full powers has since those events been stationed at Jowai; the administration of the Dollois has been reformed, education has been encouraged, and the country has been thoroughly opened up by roads. The Jaintia hills are now secure and peaceable.

In 1859 it was decided to require the execution of an agreement on each occasion of the election of a new Chief, and in return to confer upon him a sanad confirming his election. In 1867 a general form was prescribed for such Agreements (No. XLIV), and the opportunity was taken to insert a clause (No. 8) which had been omitted from some of the previous engagements. The terms of this agreement were modified in 1875 (No. XLV). In November of the same year it was decided that the terms, on which the succession of a Khasi Chief is recognised by the British Government, should be thrown into the form of a sanad conferred upon the Chief, instead of an agreement taken from him; and in October 1877 the terms of the sanad were finally settled, and the form is still in use (No. XLVI).

In 1883 a question arose as to jurisdiction in suits for divorce and

- (b) In the case of Nongspung, Nawiong, Nongsophoh, Bhawal and Maosenram, the nomination should, in the first instance, similarly lie with the small electoral bodies in each State, but, in the event of their votes not being unanimous, the decision should in the case of the first four States be by popular election, while in Maosenram it should rest with Government.
- (c) In the State of Langrin, where no small electoral body is recognised, the Seim should be chosen by popular suffrage.

Sohrah (Cherra).—The Treaty (No. XLVII) with the Cherra Raja, Diwan Singh, was concluded on the 10th September 1829, and on the same date the Raja ceded (No. XLVIII) land for the station of Cherra Punji in exchange for an equivalent in the Sylhet zilla. In the same year an Engagement (No. XLIX) was made with the Sardars of Bairangpunji, by which they bound themselves to be subject to Diwan Singh. In 1876 the Bairangpunji villages were resumed and brought under direct control; the inhabitants since then have always paid revenue (house-tax) to Government at Rs. 2 per house.

In 1830 Diwan Singh's nephew and successor, Subha Singh, ceded (No. L) additional land for the station of Cherra Punji, and in 1840 Subha Singh gave a perpetual lease (No. LI) to the British Government of the coal hills at Cherra Punji, and confirmed a perpetual lease of the Bairangpunji coal mines granted by the Sardars of that group (No. LII), Government in both cases undertaking to pay the lessors one rupee a hundred maunds of coal broken at the places leased. Subha Singh was succeeded by Ram Singh, who, on the 16th May 1857, signed an Agreement (No. LIII) confirming the engagements of his predecessors, Diwan Singh and Subha Singh. Ram Singh died on the 23rd April 1875, and a collateral member of the family, U Hajan Manik, was elected in his stead, and given a Sanad (No. LIV) in 1877. U Hajan Manik died on the 25th May 1901. The people of the State held three Darbars and appointed U Roba Singh, of the house of U Ram Singh, in his place. The Chief Commissioner declined to confirm the appointment and ordered that an election by the twelve Myntries of the State should be held. Accordingly an election took place and by a majority of 8 Myntries U

Chandra Singh was elected. The Chief Commissioner confirmed these proceedings, and a sanad of appointment was conferred on U Chandra Singh. U Roba Singh and his adherents appealed to the Government of India, who cancelled the appointment of U Chandra Singh, and ordered a popular election, as a result of which U Roba Singh was elected unanimously. He was born on the 1st April 1871 and succeeded on the 22nd April 1902, and was given a sanad in the usual form (No. XLVI).

Khyrim.—On the death of Singh Manik, Raja of Khyrim, his grand-nephew, Rabon Singh, was elected by the Chiefs and elders of the country; the election was confirmed, and an agreement similar to that executed by the Nongkhlaio Chief (see No. LVIII) was taken from Rabon Singh. Rabon Singh died in August 1871, when his next brother, Klur Singh, was elected as his successor, and the election was confirmed on his signing the usual Agreement (No. XLIV). Rabon Singh rendered valuable services to the British Government during the Jaintia rebellion of 1862-63, and obtained a pension of Rs. 150 a month; it was granted for two lives and terminated with the death of U Klur Singh, Seim.

In the year 1878-79 the people of 25 villages in the State of Khyrim complained of long-continued oppression and undue exactions on the part of their Seim, U Klur Singh, and prayed that they might be allowed to become British subjects. The Seim, retorted with complaints of rebellious refusal on their part to submit to his lawful authority and to his customary demands. The matter was enquired into by the Deputy Commissioner of the district, and a reconciliation between the parties was effected, the disaffected villages promising to return to their allegiance and to pay the Seim all his dues as sanctioned by the local authorities, on the following conditions:—

- (1) The Government to select and appoint from among their community four Sardars to take charge of, and watch over, their interests.
- (2) All petty cases in their villages to be tried and decided by the four men appointed as above.
- (3) All serious and difficult cases or disputes between the 25 villages and either the Seim or outsiders to be referred to the Court of the Deputy Commissioner and to be decided by him.

The Sardars and the disaffected people subsequently applied to return unconditionally to their allegiance to the Seim, and after a local enquiry by the Deputy Commissioner, Khasi Hills, the authority of the Seim was restored. U Klur Singh died on the 26th December 1903. He was succeeded on the 28th March 1904 by U Dakhor Singh, who was elected by a majority of the Darbar, and received the usual sanad (No. XLVI). U Dakhor Singh was born about 1873.

Nongstain.—Mut Singh, Chief of Nongstain, died in 1862, before the completion of the agreement with the British Government into which he had proposed to enter. He was succeeded by Don Singh, who had been chosen by the elders of the tribe. The title of Raja Bahadur was conferred on Don Singh on his signing an Agreement (No. LV). Don Singh died, and was succeeded on the 15th March 1878 by his brother, U Borson Singh, whose election was duly confirmed. Borson Singh died in February 1890, and was succeeded by his brother, Ji Singh, but before receiving the sanad granted to him, he too died, and was succeeded by his nephew, U Madan, in December 1890. In 1894 U Madan was removed and his sanad cancelled for concealing certain murders which had occurred within his jurisdiction. His cousin, U Rabon, was elected on the 13th April 1894. On his death in 1897 his brother, U Mon, was appointed without an election. The latter died on the 2nd April 1901, and his brother, U Suna, who was born in 1841, was appointed in his place.

of these are Nongkhlaol, Myliim, Langrin and Nongspung. All of these (excluding, Nongkhlaol, Nongsohphoh and Pomsaangut), as well as Nongstain, executed Agreements (No. LVI) in 1859, leasing in perpetuity to the British Government all uncultivated waste lands, and forest tracts, and all such places where minerals existed, or might thereafter be discovered within their respective ilakas, on condition of their receiving half the profits arising from the lands leased, and undertaking not to lease or transfer any land to any Bengali or European without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner.

In 1883 the Wahadadars of Shella and Nongtraï executed an Agreement (No. LVII) with Government regarding the Shella lime quarries.

Nongkhlaol.—A Treaty (No. LVIII), with a view to open up communication between Sylhet and Assam, was formed in 1826 with Raja Tirat Singh, by which the Raja, on receiving a promise of the protection of the British Government, voluntarily surrendered his independence. In 1829 Tirat Singh was prominently concerned in the massacre of two British officers, with about sixty native subjects. Hostilities ensued, and after a harassing war with the hill Chiefs, most of whom joined Tirat Singh, the Raja surrendered. He was imprisoned for life in the Dacca jail, and Government conferred the Chiefship on his nephew, Rajan Singh, who was installed on the 29th March 1834, and with whom a new Engagement (No. LIX) was made.

Rajan Singh became deeply involved in debt, and abdicated in favour of Jidar Singh, on condition of his debts being paid and a stipend being allowed him. Jidar Singh died in 1856, and the succession was disputed between Rajan Singh and Bor Singh, a distant collateral relation of Jidar Singh in the female line. Rajan Singh died before the dispute was settled, and as Bor Singh was considered to have no claims of family, and was objected to by many of the Sardars, Government resumed the country. The Home Government, however, disapproved of the resumption, and directed that a Chief should be chosen by the assembled Myntris and heads of clans. The choice fell on Bor Singh, and the Chiefship was conferred on him and his lineal heirs for ever, subject to certain conditions (No. LX). In May 1866, finding himself incapable of managing his affairs, Bor Singh abdicated (No. LXI) in favour of his heir, Chand Rai, who was recognised in 1868 under the usual conditions (No. XLVI) as Chief of Nongkhlaio. Chand Rai died, and was succeeded, on the 19th January 1874, by U Hajan Singh. This Chief was, at the request of his subjects and on proof of grave maladministration, deposed, and his cousin, U Kine Singh, the present Seim, who was born in 1844, was appointed in his stead on the 16th March 1876. This Chief became a convert to Christianity after his election, and, in recognition of his good services and interest in the welfare of his subjects, was given the title of Raja as a personal distinction on the 1st January 1903.

Myliim.—Originally this State was included in that of Khyrim, but in the time of one Ron Singh, Seim of Khyrim, a dissension arose, his nephew, Singh Manik, disputing the succession. Ron Singh, however, fought and conquered this Singh Manik, who retired to Longkyrdem in Khyrim, where he lived in obscurity.

U Ron Singh was succeeded by U Lhatu Manik, and he by U Bor Manik. In U Bor Manik's time, a second Singh Manik, a great-grand-nephew of the Singh Manik above referred to, requested permission to reside at Nongkrem, he and U Bor Manik, having struck up a friendship, it was agreed that U Singh Manik should succeed U Bor Manik. But when U Bor Manik died, U Singh was not allowed quietly to succeed him. A nephew of U Bor, named U Hajan Singh, contested the succession, and it ended by the people dividing into two parties and electing U Singh Manik Seim of Nongkrem and Longkyrdem (Khyrim), and U Hajan Singh as Seim of the remainder of the State under the name of Myliim. After the conquest of the Myliim country in 1829, the Chief Bor Manik, then called Chief of Khyrim, ceded to the British Government the territory on the south and east of the Umiām or Boga Pani river, called also Um-miao in the upper parts of its course (No. LXII). In 1834 a proposal was made to restore this tract to the Chief, but the proposal was never carried out.

In 1860 the chief men of Myliim presented a petition, complaining against the Chief Hajan Singh, who had succeeded U Bor Manik. As the Chief was extremely unpopular, violated the customs of the country, and gave himself up to habitual drunkenness, he was deposed in 1861, and Milai Singh was elected by the elders and people in his stead. A new Engagement, similar to that made with the Nongkhlaō Chief (No. LX), was taken from Milai Singh. In December 1863 Milai Singh signed an Agreement (No. LXIII) by which he ceded the lands required for the military cantonment and sanitarium of Shillong, and renounced all his sovereign and personal rights therein. By his Engagements he was bound to give such lands rent-free, compensation was, however, allowed to him in the shape of a money payment of Rs. 2,000, while the rights of private proprietors were bought up for Rs. 6,325, and an annual payment of Rs. 108. Milai Singh died in January 1868, and the election of his successor, Hain Manik, was confirmed on his signing the usual Agreement (No. XLIV). In 1878 it was found necessary to include the suburbs of Maukhar and Laban within the boundaries of the Shillong station. U Hain Manik Seim accordingly executed an Agreement (No. LXIV) assenting to this. In November 1892 he also ceded a portion of land bordering on the Gauhati-Shillong road (No. LXV). In 1895 he gave his consent to the inclusion of the estate of La Chaumiere within the Shillong station (No. LXVI). U Hain Manik died in November 1896, and, pending the appointment of a successor, U Mur Manik was allowed to carry on the affairs of the State. On the 26th May 1897, the election by a large majority of U Ron Singh, who was born in 1862, was confirmed and a sanad (No. XLVI) in the usual form was granted to him on the 5th February 1898.

Langrin. The Chief of Langrin died in December 1862, and was succeeded by his nephew, U Mit Singh, whose election was confirmed on his subscribing to an Agreement (No. LXVII). U Mit Singh died on the 24th of April 1874, and was succeeded by U Bor Singh, on the 6th of June 1874, whose election was confirmed on execution of the usual agreement.

He was succeeded, on his death in 1896, by the present Seim U Lagngat, who was born in 1873 and elected on the 28th March 1897.

During the régime of U Bor Singh it was arranged that the trial of suits for divorce and other matrimonial cases, arising between Native Christians, should take place before a mixed court consisting of the Seim and the Deputy Commissioner. Subsequently, in May 1897, U Lagngat consented to the trial of the abovementioned cases by the Deputy Commissioner alone, and the fact was inserted as clause 7 in the sanad granted to him.

Nongspung.—In 1872 Phanbalang, Chief of Nongspung, died and his nephew U Step was elected in his stead. The election was confirmed under the usual conditions. On the death of U Step, Santu Singh was duly elected on the 2nd March 1877 and confirmed in his appointment. Santu Singh resigned in 1885 in favour of his nephew, U Parba Singh, whose nomination was unanimously accepted by the Chiefs and elders of the State in a public Darbar. U Parba Singh, who was born in 1861, was therefore confirmed in the Chiefship on his executing the usual agreement in December 1885.

Mariao.—An Agreement (No. LXVIII) was made with U Lar Singh, Chief of Mariao, in 1829.

U Phan, Chief of Mariao, died in 1862, and was succeeded by U Ron, who signed an Agreement (No. LXIX) and received the title of Raja. U Ron was, on his death, succeeded by his brother, U Jiei, on the 14th October 1879, who received the usual sanad. Upon U Jiei's death on the 4th April 1888, his nephew, U Burom Singh, the present Seim, succeeded and was given the customary sanad. He was born in 1864.

Dwara Nongtyrmen.—In 1833 an agreement, no copy of which, however, is extant, was made with this State. On the 5th May 1870 the present Sardar, U Jantrai, executed another Agreement (No. LXX).

Maosenram.—An Agreement (No. LXXI) was taken from Adhor Singh, Chief of Maosenram, in 1831. U Mit died in 1867, and was succeeded by his nephew, Adhon Singh under the usual conditions (No. XLIV). Adhon Singh was deposed for drunkenness and inefficiency, and his nephew, U Ramon, was appointed Seim in his place on the 25th January 1875. He executed an Agreement (No. LXXII). On his death in 1889, his nephew, U Symburai, was, by an unanimous vote of the populace, elected Seim in March 1890. In October 1903 U Symburai was sentenced to transportation for life for being privy to two cases of murder in his State, and U Babon Singh was appointed Seim in his place on the 6th May 1905, receiving a sanad in the usual form.

Maharam.—Agreements were made with the Chiefs of Maharam in 1839 and 1852 (Nos. LXXIII and LXXIV). In October 1864 U Sai Singh was elected Chief of Maharam in succession to U Step Singh, and was recognised by Government on his signing an Agreement (No. LXXV). In 1875 U Sai Singh was deposed for misgovernment. It had been the practice in this State to elect two Seims, a senior, called Seim-lih (lih=white), and a junior, called Seim-iong (iong=black), the one being supposed to act as a check on the other; but this system, which was in force in most, if not all, of the Khasi States in former times, gave rise to inconveniences, and the opportunity of U Sai Singh's deposition was taken to abolish it, Adhor Singh, a member of the Seim-iong family, being appointed sole Chief of Maharam. On Adhor Singh's death, U Kison Singh, his nephew, who was born in 1860, was appointed on the 15th December 1877, and received the usual sanad.

Bhawal.—An Agreement (No. LXXVI) was in December 1832 executed by U Phaz, Chief of Bhawal Punji. In 1860, on the succession of Dhabur Singh, an Agreement, similar to that taken from Nongkhlaoh (No. LX) was made with him. Dhabur Singh died in 1874, and was succeeded, under the usual conditions (No. XLIV), by Lorshai Singh. U Lorshai was succeeded by U Bamon Singh, his nephew, on the 20th January 1875. He executed an Agreement (No. LXXVII). Bamon Singh died in August 1889, and was succeeded by his nephew, U Ram Singh, who was born in 1865, and has received the usual sanad.

Maoiong.—The first engagement with Maoiong dates from the 24th June 1829, but there is no copy of it extant. U Wan Singh, Chief of Maoiong, was killed in a tribal affray in March 1865, and his cousin, U Jan Singh, was elected his successor. The occasion of his succession was taken to introduce the general form of Agreement (No. XLIV), but U Jan Singh died before a sanad could be conferred on him. U Jit Singh was elected in his stead, and executed an Agreement (No. LXXVIII). He died in November 1898, and was succeeded by U Moi Singh, born in 1861, whose election was confirmed on the 4th July 1899. The sanad (No. XLVI), which was granted to this Seim, contains for the first time a clause relegating the trial of matrimonial cases between Native Christians to the Deputy Commissioner.

Treaties with other Chiefs are given under Nos. LXXIX to LXXXVI. Agreements (Nos. LXXXVII to LXXXIX) were made with the present Chiefs of Nongsohphoh, alias Nobosohphoh, Jirang and Malaisohmat.

The revenue of the Khasi and Jaintia Hills, which is chiefly derived from a house-tax and from the rent of mines and quarries, and from royalty on forest produce and on elephants, amounts to about Rs. 87,000. The area of these hills is 6,027 square miles, with a population (according to the census of 1901) of 202,250.

No. LXIII.

AGREEMENT with the CHIEF of MOLEEM,—1863.

Whereas it was stipulated in the Agreement entered into by me, Melay Sing, Rajah of Moleem, under date 19th March 1861, with the British Government, that the right of establishing civil and military sanitarium, posts and cantonments, within my country should remain with the British Government; whereas Lieutenant-Colonel J. C. Haughton, Agent to the Governor-General, North-West Frontier, under the instructions of the said Government, has selected, for the purpose of civil and military sanitarium, etc., the land hereinafter described, I hereby renounce, with the advice and consent of my Muntrees and the heads of my people, all sovereign and personal rights therein to Her Majesty the Queen of England and the British Government. It is, however, stipulated, should the proprietors of any of the land within the limits hereinafter described be unwilling to sell or part with their land to the British Government, the said persons shall continue fully to enjoy the same without impost or taxation as heretofore, but that in all other respects the jurisdiction and sovereignty of Her Majesty the Queen of England, and of the British Government, and the officers of Government duly appointed, shall extend over the said land and over all persons residing thereon, and to all offences committed therewithin.

Boundary.—The boundary of the lands of Oo Don Sena to the south and east of the Oom Ding Poon stream which have been purchased; the boundary of the lands of Ka Stang Rapsang, south of the stream south of the Oom Ding Poon adjoining the village of Sadoo which have been purchased; the boundary of the lands of Oo Bat Khaobakee touching the Oom Ding Poon stream which have been purchased; the boundary of the lands of Ka Doke adjoining the last-named which have been purchased; the boundary of the land of Soosaka adjoining the last-named which have been purchased; the boundary of the Shillong lands which have been purchased from which point the boundary will follow the north and west sides of the present Government roads till the boundary of the lands of Borjon Muntree which have been purchased is met. It will then follow the boundary of the said Borjon's land till the boundary of the said land again meets the Government road now existing, which it will follow till the boundary of the Raj lands purchased is met. It will follow the boundary of the Raj lands till that dividing the Longdo lands of Nongseh from the Raj land and the land purchased from Oo Reang-Karpang of Nongseh, and will go between the two last on the east side of a hill by a path till the boundary stone of the Longdo of Nongseh at the head of a watercourse is met. It will then follow that watercourse to the junction of it with the Oom Soorpee, leaving the hill with the Lungdo jungle of fir trees on it to the left or north and west side. The boundary will then cross the Oom Soorpee river and ascend by a ravine opposite inclining somewhat to the right hand to monumental stones (Mowshin Ram), near one of which a peg and pile of stones is placed. The boundary will then descend the hill backwards towards the point of Youdoe Hill, that is, the hill on which the Youdoe Bazar is held, to a pile of stones and a peg not far from the Government road which it crosses and not far from the Oom Soorpee river. The boundary thence turns north-east by ascending the hollow to the ridge which divides the water-flow, on which is a mark, to the hollow to the north-east, which it follows by the water to the Oom Kra river leaving the Youdoe Bazar hill and the village of Mao Kra on the left hand. The boundary thence turns eastward, following the base of the hills and excluding all cultivation in the plains, including within it the hill lands given to the Government by Oo Beh till the lands of Oo Dor given to Government are met, whence the boundary, in the same way, follows the base of the hills excluding the cultivation in the plains till the river Pomding Neyam is met. Opposite a cave at the mouth of this stream, when it enters the plain, a peg and pile of stone is met. The boundary thence follows the same stream to its head in the rice lands of Oo Beh aforesaid; thence it follows the foot of the hills, leaving the village of Limera to the left or east side, and excluding the rice cultivation of Oo Beh but including the hill land given by him to Government till it reaches the head of the said rice cultivation, where it turns sharply to the left or east between two hills till it reaches the banks of the stream Oom Ponteng Kom the downward course of which it follows till the junction of the same water, now called Oom Soorpee, with the Oom Jussaci is reached. This river is the boundary till its source is reached from a pile of stones, near which, marking the boundary of land purchased from Oo Don Sena, the boundary crosses over south-westerly to the point where the Oom Shillong makes a bend; at that point stones have been placed opposite ten fir and five oak trees on the spur of a hill. The boundary then follows the Oom Shillong till the boundary of Oo Don Sena's land is met, which it follows the point from whence it started is reached. I agree that the Government, or the possessor of the land within named, as well as the Shillong lands, shall have the joint right of turning off all water adjoining the said land for use, subject to such rules as the Government may prescribe. I promise also, as far as in me lies, to preserve the sacred groves whereon the water supply is dependent, and to punish any of my subjects found cutting the trees of the said groves and to deliver up for punishment any British subject found so offending.

With regard to your parawana No. 367, dated the 29th October 1895, asking me to allow the land in which the Railway authorities build their office to be included within the limits of the Shillong Municipality, as desired by the Chief Commissioner, in reply, I most respectfully beg to say that as the objections set forth in the previous reports were considered unreasonable, as far as myself is concerned. To

MAJOR LISTER,

I, Songaph, Rajah resident of the Mahram country, having wantonly made war against the Honourable Company, and caused great loss of life to their people, and put them to considerable expense, have myself been driven through fear a fugitive to the jungles, and acknowledge having committed great faults; but I now crave an amnesty for the past offences of myself and my Cossiah people, and enter into this Agreement, in the hope of being permitted to remain in my country in the capacity of a Sirdar (Chief) on the following terms:—

2nd.—That I acknowledge my dependency on the Government, and agree to stay in my country, as a Sirdar (Chief), or as if I have been appointed a Sirdar by the Government. I am, however, to adjudicate, amongst my own people, according to custom, but will not put any one to death.

3rd.—That if any of the Government troops should pass through my country, I will attend and furnish them with such provisions as they may require, receiving payment for the same at the customary rates.

4th.—That should any disturbances arise in the hills, I will, if so ordered, attend with all the Cossiahs of my country, and remain in attendance as long as I may be required to do so, receiving merely subsistence for my people from the Government.

5th.—That if any murderers or dacoits should take refuge in my country, I will apprehend them and deliver them up when called on to do so.

6th.—That, in atonement for my faults, I promise to pay the Government a total fine of 2,000 Rupees; but I am to lodge this amount within a month from the present date.

7th.—That I give Chand Manick Rajah, and Bur Manick, Rajah of Moleem Poonjee, as my securities for the fulfilment of the terms of this Agreement, and I also place at Moleem Poonjee my nephew, Soolong Rajah, who will carry out all orders that may be given at any time regarding my country.

To which end I have executed this Agreement.

To

OOSEP SING, DHOLLAH RAJAH,
Resident of Rongthong Poonjee, in the Mahram Territory.

KNOW HEREBY:

It appears that Oober Sing, Dhollah Rajah of the Mahram territory, having deceased, you requested to be appointed Rajah there, on the ground of the country having been under the control of your uncle, the late Songaph, Dollah Rajah, your application being supported by a petition from Ooman Muntree, Oolar Sing Rajah, and other persons consenting to it; but final orders were deferred on it, in consequence of Ramsye, Kallah Rajah of Nonglang Poonjee, in that territory, having set up a claim founded on the right of his uncle, the late Ram Sing, Kallah Rajah, to which Oojeet Lungdeo, Ooksan Sirdar, and certain other persons signified their assent in a petition they presented. As you and Ramsye Rajah have, however, this day come to an amicable arrangement, and filed a deed of compromise to the effect, that of the two Kallah and Dhollah Rajahs of Mahram, the Kallah Rajah is to be subordinate to the Dollah Rajah, and the investigations connected with the duties of the Raj are to be conducted by them together in consultation, and the profits derived therefrom are to be enjoyed by them both, and as you have therein stated that you are to be Rajah in the place of the foresaid Dhollah Rajah, retaining the said Ramsye Rajah as your subordinate, and investigating and deciding cases occurring in the country in concert and consultation with him, which are otherwise to be considered null and void, and the afore-mentioned Ramsye Kallah Rajah has expressed his willingness to remain as your subordinate, and according to former custom to investigate and decide cases taking place in the country in company and consultation with you, the decisions being invalid, unless so conducted, etc., besides which, you two persons are, agreeably to previous practice, to enjoy the profits derived from the country, and to share the losses incurred therein, and as you have assented to the above stated terms, and requested that a Perwannah may be given to you, appointing you as Rajah in accordance therewith, you are, therefore, informed that you are hereby appointed Rajah in the room of the Dhollah Rajah of the territory of Mahram, and it will be your duty to conduct investigations and give decisions there as stipulated in the deed of compromise, and according to your own sense of proper justice, retaining Ramsye Kallah Rajah as your subordinate, and both of you acting together and in consultation to do what is incumbent on you. You will, moreover, obey all orders that may be issued to you, from time to time, on the part of the Honourable Company, without delay, observing the terms agreed on in the deed of compromise referred to.

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH,

That previous to the occupation of these Hills by the Honorable Company, we were appointed to the offices of the four Wahadadars of our village of Cheyla Poonjee, and protected the people by conducting enquiries and investigations in our country. That when these Hills afterwards came into the possession of the Honorable Company, we were confirmed in our appointments, agreeably to former custom, with the approval of the late Mr. David Scott, and most efficiently protected the inhabitants by investigating cases in the country by our own authority ; but during the last two or three years, certain Cossiahs of our village, who are unruly, powerful, and evil-advising persons, have formed themselves into a party to carry out their own purposes, and are oppressing and harassing some of the poor Cossiahs, and if they complain, and we send for these persons through our officers, they openly resist our authority and assault them, besides making various remarks about us. When we also summon defendants in cases under trial before us, these violent individuals screen them, and in resistance of orders beat our men and snatch away the defendants from them ; thus causing great annoyance to the poor people under our control, which we have frequently complained of to you by petitions ; and the individuals of this party who harass the poor people in this manner are, moreover, not unknown to you. It is besides probable that unless this faction is put down, serious affrays and murders may hereafter occur, attended with ruination to our country, which it will be difficult for us to account for to you, and we shall be punished by Providence if the poor are violently oppressed by such persons of our village as have numerous friends and relatives, and we, as rulers of the country, do not redress their grievances. But as the calamities of our poor people cannot be removed, or the country rendered tranquil without your assistance, we therefore throw ourselves on your protection, and voluntarily present this petition, soliciting that the persons under our control, who resist our officers, may be tried by you, and that you will, on our solicitation, grant us your help to bring to our Durbars all such persons as pertinaciously refuse to attend there when we send for them ; and if any persons who are dissatisfied with our orders should appeal to you against them, or if we oppress or injure any persons, and they complain to you about it, we will agree to any investigations and orders that you may pass, and will never act in contravention of them, but will obey them without urging any objections. There is no prospect of relief to our country, unless you so favour us, and in this your power is absolute.

Dated the 30th of Bysack 1258 B.S. (Received 14th May 1851.)

Present : COLONEL LISTER, Political Agent.

The request of the Wahadadars is granted, and it is hereby ordered that a Perwannah be written to them, to the effect that if any person hereafter oppresses or injures another, and the person so oppressed complains to the Wahadadars and the oppressor, when called for by them obstinately and in disobedience of the Wahadadars' orders refuses to attend at their Durbars, they must send him to Cherra Poonjee with the witnesses to the fact of the opposition made to their authority, and the prosecutor and his witnesses, when proper orders will be passed.

(VI).—THE GARO HILLS.

The Garo hills, peopled by a wild race nearly akin to the Meches or Cacharis of the plains, were surrounded on all sides, except the east, by the estates of the great frontier zamindars or chaudharis of Rangpur and Mymensingh; the Garos were in the habit of resorting to the markets in the plains estates of these zamindars for the sale of their cotton and the purchase of the supplies they needed; and the police of the border was maintained, and taxation levied on the hill produce, by the zamindars. The Garos lived in a state of constant internecine warfare. The border was vexed by constant raids for the purpose of obtaining heads or prisoners which they required in their funeral ceremonies; and the exactions of the plains zamindars at the hâts likewise furnished frequent occasions for quarrel.

The raids of the Garos on the plains being a source of constant trouble, Mr. David Scott was deputed in 1816 to report on the best means of preserving the peace of the frontier. He found that at that time the frontier zamindars had for the most part succeeded in reducing a greater or smaller area on their borders to a state of subjection; beyond these areas thus incorporated in their zamindaris, the chaudharis had so far established their influence that several villages in the interior paid them tribute. Beyond these, again, in the heart of the hills, were the independent or bemalwa Garos. Mr. Scott proposed to separate from the zamindars' control all the tributary Garos (from whom, and from the independent villages beyond, the raids proceeded) and to take them under Government management, compensating the zamindars for any losses which they might show that they had sustained; to make the Chiefs of the villages thus brought under British jurisdiction responsible for the peace and the collection of revenue; and to bring the submontane hâts under Government control, all duties being abolished there, except upon independent Garos frequenting them.

In 1817 the Garo Sardars of Tikri Duar executed an Agreement (No. XC).

Mr. Scott was appointed Special Commissioner, his proposals being approved by Government, and afterwards embodied in Regulation X of 1822, which gave him authority to extend British administration over other Garo communities which might be still independent, and exempted the whole tract (together with the district of Goalpara) from the operation of the general regulations. After the passing of the regulation, Mr. Scott proceeded to conclude engagements with the independent Chiefs, and no fewer than 121 of those living west of the Someswari are said to have entered into terms with him.

A feature of Mr. Scott's administration, traces of which still survive, was the settlement of the lands known as the bibhagnama plots. There had been continual disputes between the Garos and the Bijni Raja over certain lands in the Duars or passes into the hills, from which it was alleged the Raja was trying to oust the Garos. Accordingly in 1831 the Special Commissioner framed the deed called the bibhagnama patra, under which the Bijni Raja made over 21 plots of land in the Duars to the Maharis (Garo Mitriar chates) concerned, through certain laskars. These laskars in turn executed muchalikapatras or recognizance bonds, in which they undertook to defend the passes against any Garo inroads. Mr. Scott's arrangements did not, however, prevent the recurrence of disputes, which have continued to smoulder with occasional outbursts up to the present time.

In 1866, in consequence of the raids which, under the irritation caused by the attempts of the Mymensingh zamindars to levy rents in the hills, were constantly being perpetrated, the Garo hills were formed into a separate district and placed under the charge of a special officer. A number of villages submitted peaceably; but the independent tribes in the interior continuing to raid upon Garos subject to the British Government, an expedition was sent against them in 1872, which ended in the subjugation of the whole country. In February and March 1881 a slight disturbance took place near Bangalkhata at the north-west corner of the hills in consequence of the construction of a road, but it was speedily suppressed without bloodshed.

In December 1902 there was a disturbance at Dalgoma. The Garos came down in large numbers and began a demonstration against the Bijni zamindar in connection with disputed rights over certain lands. They were, however, dispersed by the police without bloodshed, and the ringleaders of the riot were imprisoned. The whole of the district, with the exception of a small tract of plains-land on the north, is now under the exclusive management of the Deputy Commissioner, and is free from the exactions of zamindars, the greater part of whose interests in the area formerly included in their zamindaris or tributary to them have been bought out and extinguished.

The area of the Garo hills is 3,140 square miles; the population, according to the census of 1901, is 138,274. The revenue which is principally derived from a house-tax, and in a less degree from fisheries, forest produce and royalty on elephants, amounts to about Rs. 1,52,000 a year.

(VII).—NORTH-EASTERN FRONTIER OR NAGA HILLS.

To the east of the Jaintia hills and north of Manipur lie the Naga hills, stretching from about the 93rd to the 97th degree of longitude. For many years, commencing from 1835, Naga raids were of almost annual occurrence. Between 1835 and 1851, ten military expeditions were led into the hills. But the country was never permanently occupied. The policy of non-interference, which was decided on after the successful capture of Khonoma in December 1850, and the withdrawal of British troops, resulted in an increase in the number of raids. In 1866 it was found necessary for the protection of British villages in the plains to form part of the Naga hills into a district, the head-quarters of which were fixed at Samaguting on the extreme edge of the Angami country. This measure proved for several years successful in putting an end to raids on British villages. In February 1877, however, the Angami Nagas of Mezuma raided upon the village of Gumaigaju, in the heart of north Cachar, killing six and wounding two persons: the cause of the attack was a feud thirty years old. With this exception, no raid had been committed by Angami Nagas within British territory since 1866, although there were numerous complaints of their depredations in Manipur; and their internal feuds were, as always, incessant. The village of Mezuma refused to give up the raiders, and in the cold weather of 1877-78 an expedition was sent against it, and the village was burned. These events led to a review of the position which the British occupied in the hills; and in 1878 it was determined to abandon Samaguting, a low and unhealthy site, and to fix the head-quarters of the Political Officer at Kohima, in the midst of the group of powerful villages which it was specially necessary to control.

In the course of the rains of 1879 indications of coming trouble began to present themselves, but no serious apprehensions were entertained by the Political Officer, Mr. Damant. On the 14th October, however, while on a visit to Khonoma, he was shot dead in front of the village gate, which on arrival he found closed, and a number of his escort and followers were killed. A military expedition was immediately despatched. The British troops were aided by a force of Manipuris. Khonoma was taken on the 22nd November 1879, and the defenders retired to a fort above the village which they held till the end of the campaign. But the resistance was not broken. In January 1880 a party to Khonoma men made a raid upon a tea-garden in Cachar, more than 80 miles distant, killed the manager, Mr. Blyth, and sixteen coolies, and sacked the place. On the 27th March the fort of Khonoma submitted, and the campaign was at an end. Fines were imposed upon offending villagers, and the Nagas were obliged to surrender their firearms. Khonoma was razed to the ground; and its site occupied by a British outpost. An agreement was taken from all villages to pay revenue in the shape of one maund of rice and one rupee per house; to provide a certain amount of labour annually for State purposes; and to appoint a headman who should be responsible for good order and for carrying out the wishes of Government.

After the close of this, the twelfth and last expedition, the whole policy to be adopted in dealing with the Nagas was reconsidered; and in February 1881 it was finally decided that the British position at Kohima should be retained, a regiment permanently stationed in the hills, and the district administered as British territory. Since that date the history of the district shows the progressive establishment of peace and good order, and the quiet submission of the Nagas to British rule.

Soon after the formation of the Naga hills district difficulties respecting its southern boundary arose with Manipur. In 1842 the northern boundary of Manipur had been demarcated as far as the river Mao, and the Manipur Government claimed the right of extending its jurisdiction east of that river, and had in fact done so by breaking over the watershed west of the Telizo peak, and occupying the Sopomah group of villages. In 1872 these villages were included within the Manipur frontier which was demarcated as far as the Telizo peak; eastward of this peak the watershed of the main range of hills dividing the affluents of the Brahmaputra from those of the Irawadi was to form the northern boundary of Manipur. To determine this watershed and open up the unexplored country between the southern frontier of Sibsagar and the Patkoi pass, some 20 miles south-east of Jaipur, surveying parties were sent out. One of these under Lieutenant Holcombe was treacherously attacked by Nagas at the village of Nibang on the 2nd February 1875: Lieutenant Holcombe was murdered, and of a total strength of 197 men 80 were killed and 51 wounded. Troops were at once despatched against the villages implicated in the massacre; the operations were completely successful and due reparation was exacted.

The principal tribes on the frontier of upper Assam, taking them in geographical order from west to east, are—

|------------|--------------|--------------|
| 1. Akas, | 4. Abors, | 7. Singphos, |
| 2. Daflas, | 5. Mishmis, | 8. Nagas, |
| 3. Miris, | 6. Khamptis, | 9. Lushais. |

1. Akas.—The Akas occupy the sub-Himalayan region as far east as the issue of the Khari-Dikarai river. This tribe is divided into two sections, called by the Assamese the Hazarikhoas and the Kapaschors. The former received a posa, or stipend, from the Assam Rajas, and the latter levied contributions without having any such title. Both tribes are believed to be very few in number; but to the north of them is an allied race called the Mijis, of whose strength nothing certain is known. Though small, however, this tribe has a great reputation for violence and audacity. For many years Tagi Raja, the Chief of the Kapaschor Akas, gave Government much trouble by his robberies and murders in the plains. In 1829 he was captured, and lodged for nearly four years in the Gauhati jail. In 1832 he was released in the hope that he had learnt a lesson and would be quiet in future; but he immediately resumed his attacks, and in 1835 massacred all the inhabitants of the British village and police outpost of Balipara. For seven years after this he evaded capture, his tribe remaining outlawed in the hills. At length, in 1842, he surrendered, and it was decided to use his influence with the other Chiefs to secure the peace of the border. Agreements (Nos. XL, XCI, and XCII) were made under which the Kapaschor Aka Chiefs were to receive Rs. 520, and the Hazarikhoas Rs. 180, (but these amounts are liable to variation) a year as pension. Both tribes have certain small areas of land in the plains allotted to them for cultivation. The Kapaschors threatened in 1875 to give trouble, claiming an extensive tract of forest and other land on the Bhoroli river which was cut off by the demarcation of the boundary in 1874-75. Nothing further occurred at the time, and the new boundary was quietly accepted. This dispute, however, was the cause of the aggression which led to the Aka expedition of 1883-84. The ostensible pretext was the visit to their country of an Assamese gentleman, named Lakhidar, to procure agricultural and ethnological specimens for the Calcutta exhibition. They seized and imprisoned Lakhidar. This was in November 1883. At the same time a party of Akas committed an outrage at Balipara in British territory. In December a military punitive expedition was despatched under Brigadier-General Hill. On the 8th January 1884 the Akas were attacked and dispersed; but after visiting a few villages the force returned on the 23rd January to the plains. The Aka Chiefs promised to come down after the rains and submit. Until they did so the posa was suspended, and the Kapaschor Akas prevented from visiting the low country. After the expedition the Hazarikhoa Akas submitted and remained on friendly terms, receiving their posa. The Kapaschor Akas did not submit till January 1888. In the meantime they were blockaded and prevented from coming to the plains to trade. In 1886-87 the Hazarikhoas were preventing from trading in the plains. It was supposed that they were acting as commissariat agents for the Kapaschors, and pressure was put upon them. A written agreement was entered into with the Kapaschor Chief in 1888, but the posa was withheld for two years to see how they behaved themselves. Their conduct having been satisfactory, their posa, amounting to Rs. 382, was paid to all the Kapaschor Chiefs in the cold weather of 1889-90; since that date British relations with both sections of the tribe have been uneventful.

2. Daflas.—Next to the Akas come the Daflas, who, with the hill Miris and the Abors, occupy the whole of the rest of the sub-Himalayan hills until the Mishmi country is reached. These three races speak languages which are said to be mutually intelligible, and they are evidently nearly akin. The Daflas and Miris were, like the Akas, in receipt of posa, or pensionary allowance, under the Assam Government, as a condition of their refraining from aggression on the northern tracts of Darrang and Lakhimpur; these allowances have been continued by the British Government. The Daflas are divided into two sects, called the Paschim or western Daflas, and the Tagin Daflas who live to the east of these. For many years the Daflas have been quiet neighbours. Previous to 1837 their raids on the frontier were numerous; but in that year the system of annual pensions was settled. The only occasions since then when they have given trouble were in 1872 and 1873, when the Tagin Daflas broke the peace by seizing some plains Daflas who were believed by them to have caused sickness in the hills. These outrages were first punished by a blockade; but as the surrender of the captives was not thereby secured, an expedition was sent into the hills north of the Dikhrang river in the cold weather of 1874-75, and this was followed by the release of the prisoners and the submission of the tribe. Since then, the relations of the British with the Daflas have been peaceful. Considerable numbers of this people have settled in the plains of Darrang and Lakhimpur. In 1883 Colonel Woodthorpe, R.E., who was sent to survey part of the country, met with a favourable reception. The posa of the Miripathar Daflas, amounting to about Rs. 800, was stopped in 1904 on account of their action in looting an European elephant mahaldar's stockade and kidnapping four men. This punishment is to remain in force until the tribe makes humble submission.

3. Miris.—The Miris are a quiet and inoffensive race. They received an annual allowance in money, salt and rum. It is believed that they stand in some sort of servile relation to the Abors, to avoid which large numbers of this tribe have settled in upper Assam as British subjects. Retaining their own language among themselves, they also speak Assamese, to which is due the name by which they are known in Assam (Miri or Mili meaning 'go-between or interpreters'), as they form a channel of communication with the Abors of the hills.

4. Abors.—The Abors, who call themselves Padam, occupy the hills east of the Miris as far as the Dihong river. They bear a different character from these latter, and the want of population on the north bank of the Brahmaputra from opposite Dibrugarh to Sadiya is chiefly due to dread of their raids. Their principal villages are in the hills about the course of the Dihong, but several recent settlements have been founded on the plains. Murders and outrages committed by them on Government rayats, in some cases close to the head-quarters station of Dibrugarh, have led to several punitive expeditions against them. In 1858 a force was sent to punish the massacre of a Bihia village by the Bhor Meyong Abors, but was not successful in its object. In 1859 another expedition was sent, and met with better fortune. In 1861 a further massacre of Bihias, a few miles from Dibrugarh on the south side of the Brahmaputra, occurred. This was followed by preparations for establishing a line of outposts along the north bank of the Brahmaputra, connected by a road, to guard against such attacks in future. The Abors appear to have been impressed by these operations; they made overtures which were responded to, and a meeting took place in November 1862 between them and the Deputy Commissioner. An Agreement (No. XCIII) was here arranged with eight communities of the tribe, promising them, on condition of good behaviour, an annual allowance of iron hoes, salt, rum, opium, and tobacco. Subsequently, in November 1862 and in January 1863, other powerful villages made similar Agreements (No. XCIV); the one last concluded was made with the remaining communities in April 1866 (No. XCV). The dues in kind stipulated for in these engagements were commuted in 1877 to money payments aggregating Rs. 3,312 a year, but the distribution of this amount among the different tribes is subject to variation. Payment is generally made at Sadiya. Both the agreements of 1862 recite that British territory extends to the foot of the hills.

In 1881 it was apprehended that certain Abor villages, who had expressed an intention to cross the Dihong river and settle upon the hills beneath those occupied by the Chulikata Mishmis, would carry their hostilities with the latter tribe into British territory, and cut them off from access to Sadiya. As the relations between the British Government and the Mishmis were then friendly, it was determined to prevent the execution of this plan by establishing a post at Nizamghat, where the Dihong river issues from the hills north of Sadiya, and another lower down, opposite the Abor village of Bomjur. The occupation was carried out by a mixed force of troops and police. The posts were held through the cold weather of 1881-82, and were again occupied in 1882-83. The measure was completely successful in effecting its object; no overt opposition was offered by the Abors; and although there were threats and rumours of hostile preparations from the more warlike (and distant) villages, no active measures were taken to give effect to them. The posts have been held continuously since 1883, but are abandoned annually during the rainy season.

In November 1882 the Government of India sanctioned the appointment of an officer at Sadiya to control the relations of Government with the Abors in particular, and also with all the tribes bordering on Sadiya, i.e., the Miris, Mishmis, Singphos, and Khamptis.

In 1888-89 a somewhat serious case occurred in connection with the Meyong Abors, two of whose villages had combined and murdered four British subjects, Miris, whom they had induced to go beyond the inner line; and there were also not wanting signs of unrest among the other Abor tribes. Enquiries showed that the object of the Meyongs was to obtain posa, and a blockade of the whole of the Meyong and Passi Abors was accordingly ordered, with the result that the offending villages expressed regret for the outrage and paid a fine. The increasing insolence of the Abors culminated in attacks on parties of military police patrolling in the vicinity of Sadiya in November and December 1893. In January 1894 an expedition was sent against them. The expeditionary force occupied in succession the villages of Bomjur, Dambuk, Mimasipu, and Silluk. After visiting the villages of Membu and Padu an attempt was made to reach Damroh the stronghold and capital of the Padam Abors. This was unsuccessful owing to a disaster which overtook a small party left at Bordak in charge of supplies, due to the treachery of the villagers of Padu and Membu, who had professed to be friendly. Rumours of the catastrophe and shortness of provisions necessitated the return of the column advancing on Damroh. The treacherous villages were afterwards re-visited and adequately punished. The Government of India sanctioned the imposition of a blockade against the Abors, the Passis, and the Mishmis in August 1894. The blockade of the Passis was raised during 1896, and that of the Mishmis in 1897, the Bor Abor blockade being continued till 1900.

5. Mishmis.—The Mishmis, who occupy the hills from the Dihong to the Bramakund, in the north-eastern corner of the valley, are divided into three tribes, called respectively the Chulikata or crop-haired Mishmis, the Tain or Digaru Mishmis, and the Mizhu or Midhi Mishmis. The first-named have on several occasions attacked Khampti settlements in the neighbourhood of Sadiya, and have threatened to give trouble. Of late years, however, they have become embroiled with the Abors, and have looked to the British Government for protection and assistance. They resort in considerable numbers to the Sadiya fair, and are active traders. The Digaru Mishmis are a quiet inoffensive people, and act as guides to the pilgrims to the Brahmakund. Of the Mizhu or Midhi Mishmis, who are the most remote of the three, little is known. In 1854 two French priests, MM. Krick and Bourry, who endeavoured to pass through their country from Assam to Tibet, were murdered by a party of these Mishmis. This outrage was avenged in February 1855 by an expedition under Lieutenant Eden. None of the Mishmi tribes receive any posa, nor do formal treaties or agreements with them exist.

In 1884 the Chulikata Mishmis were placed under blockade in consequence of the murder of a British subject. The blockade was maintained until the cold weather of 1887-88, when it was raised, without the perpetrators having been discovered, on the tribe paying a fine of Rs. 2,000.

The Chulikata Mishmis were found to have been implicated in the Abor outbreak of 1893, and as a punishment for their complicity they were prohibited from holding any intercourse with the plains until all property in the possession of the Abors were returned. This blockade against them was raised in 1897.

In May 1899, a party of Bebejiyas attacked a small Khampti hamlet called Mitaigaon in British territory. A punitive expedition was sent against them which burnt the guilty villages and recovered the captives. One of the raiders was subsequently given up and was tried and executed at Sadiya. Both the Chulikata and the Bebejiya Mishmis are at present (1906) under blockade on account of an outrage committed by Bebejiya Mishmis in July 1905 at Dikrang, close to Sadiya, in which a Duaniya, his wife, and child, lost their lives.

6. Khamptis.—The Khamptis, settled about Sadiya, are immigrants from a Shan State beyond the Patkoi range, which was tributary to Burma, and is known to the Assamese as Bor Khampti. They are of the same race as the Ahoms, but differ from the latter in being Buddhists. They are more civilised than any of their neighbours. They first settled in Sadiya during the latter part of the eighteenth century. When the Burmese were expelled from Assam, the Khampti Gohain, or Chief of Sadiya, executed an Agreement (No. XCVI) of allegiance to the British Government, and Sadiya was selected as the residence of the Political Agent in Upper Assam. In 1839, after the death of the Khampti Chief with whom the agreement was made, the Khamptis of Sadiya suddenly rose, and massacred the Political Agent, Colonel White, and many of his guards and attendants. The hostilities which followed ended in the transportation of the Khampti Chief's son and his followers to a distant part of British territory. In 1843 some Chiefs of this race surrendered on conditions (No. XCVII), and were again allowed to settle about Sadiya; and in 1850 a new immigration from Bor Khampti took place. The Khamptis living about Sadiya and Saikwa are British rayats, and pay revenue. Those living on the Tengapani beyond the inner line acknowledge allegiance to the British Government, but pay no revenue. A small force of 24 men, known as the Khampti volunteers, were formerly employed for the protection of the villages about Sadiya. They received a trifling yearly pay from Government, and were supplied with guns and ammunition. They were disbanded by the Chief Commissioner in 1886 and pensioned off, their services being no longer required.

The Phakials, who are chiefly settled on the Buri Dihing river, are almost undistinguishable in dress, manners and language, from the Khamptis. They are, in fact, but a separate body of immigrants from the same country.

7. Singphos.—The Singphos, who live intermixed with the Khamptis on the new and old Dihings, the Tengapani, and the mountains beyond, are only an outlying branch from the main race, who occupy in force the hilly country between the Patkoi and the Chindwin river and the tracts near the head-waters and confluence of the Irawadi, and who were nominally subject to the King of Burma. To the Burmese they are known as Kachins; and Singpo (or Chingpaw) is but the word in their language meaning "man"; they are apparently related to the adjacent Naga tribes, to whom, however, they stand in the position of masters and superiors.

The Singphos are recent arrivals in Assam, having made their appearance at the head of the valley during the troubles of Raja Gaurinath Singh with the Moamaris about 1793. It was through their country that the Burmese invaders passed into Assam in 1818 and 1822; and the ravages of the Singphos added to those of the Burmese contributed greatly to the depopulation of the Matak country and Sibsagar. When Assam was conquered from the Burmese, the Chiefs of the Singphos, after several engagements with Government troops, tendered their allegiance, and entered into Agreements in 1826 (No. XCVIII) and in 1836 (No. XCIX) not to disturb the peace of the frontier. Great numbers of Assamese slaves, who had been carried off by them in the early years of the century, were released, and the wealth and power of the tribe in this manner much reduced. In 1839 they joined the Khamptis in their attack on Sadiya; but by 1842 they had again been brought to acknowledge their subjection. Many of the Singpho immigrants, with whom agreements were made in 1826, have since retired across the frontier into Hukong.

The Duanias, or Singpho-Assamese half-breeds, are the offspring of the intercourse between these slaves and their captors; they are chiefly settled along the Buri or old Dihing, and are peaceable subjects.

The Chiefs of these people meet annually at the full moon of Magh (in the end of January or beginning of February) at Sadiya, to present themselves, with the Chiefs of the Mishmi and Abor tribes, before the political officer, who receives their offerings and gives them in return small presents. They pay no revenue except where settled within the inner line.

8. Nagas.—The tribes known to the Assamese as Nagas or Nogas stretch uninterruptedly from the Patkoi, along the southern frontier of the Lakhimpur and Sibsagar districts, to the valley of the Dhansiri and north Cachar. British relations with these tribes, excepting those of the British district of the Naga hills, viz., the Angamis, Kacha Nagas, Rengmas, Semas and Lhotas, are conducted through the Deputy Commissioner of Lakhimpur and Sibsagar. From the Tirap river eastward to the Patkoi the Nagas are completely in subjection to the Singphos, and are apparently a very quiet race. West of this point begins a succession of groups of villages, known to the Assamese by the names of the passes or Duars through which their inhabitants resort to the plains, as the Namsangias, Borduarias, Paniduarias, Mithonias, Banpheras, Jobokas, Bhitarnamsangias, Jaktungias, Tablungias, Assiringias, Hathigorias, and those who come down through the Geleki and Dhopdas Duars. The outer tribes of this region are in constant communication with the plains, and in the times of the Assam Rajas used to make annual offerings of elephants' tusks and other such articles. They do a considerable trade in cotton and other hill produce, and carry back large quantities of salt and rice. The inner tribes, known to the Assamese as Abors or wild men, are kept from access to the plains by these outer or Bori (subject, civilised) Nagas, who thus keep the carrying trade in their own hands. Besides trade, these outer Nagas come down in considerable numbers for labour in tea plantations and on roads during the cold weather. Unlike the Angamis, Semas, and Lhotas, who are intensely democratic in their social economy, many of the eastern Nagas appear to acknowledge the authority of Rajas and minor Chiefs among themselves.

With the internal affairs of these people the Government hardly meddle at all; but they are prohibited from carrying their quarrels into the settled British territory; and if they do so, are tried and punished by British courts

On this frontier a system prevails by which the Nagas of each group have allotted to them certain Assamese agents, called kotokis, who manage small plots of revenue free-land, called Naga khats, on behalf of the tribes. When the attendance of the Chiefs in the hills is required for any purpose, they are summoned through these kotokis. If satisfaction for robberies and other outrages is not in this way obtained, the Duar or pass through which the tribe visit the plains is blocked, and no one is allowed to come down or go up. This system has rarely failed to secure reparation, and, on the whole, the conduct of the Nagas on this frontier, when left to themselves, has been peaceable and quiet, so far as the settled lands of the plains are concerned. Among themselves, however, their feuds are incessant, and are only composed to break out anew.

The Naga country up to the Patkoi range is nominally British territory by inheritance from the rulers of Assam, and was recognised as such in treaties with Burma. It has from time to time been explored by survey parties, and on one of these occasions, in February 1875, a party sent into the hills south of Jaipur was treacherously attacked at Ninu, a village four marches from the plains up the valley of the Disang, and Lieutenant Holcombe, the Assistant Commissioner, accompanying the party, with 80 coolies and followers, was killed, Captain Badgley the survey officer, and 50 others being wounded. This outrage led to a punitive expedition, resulting in the capture and destruction of the villages which took part in the massacre. During the same season the survey party in the western Naga hills was attacked by Nagas; and in December 1875 Captain Butler, the Political Agent, who was accompanying the survey party, was again attacked near the Lhota Naga village of Pangti, and received a wound of which he died a few days later. The village was at once destroyed by the force which accompanied the survey party.

In 1883 and 1884 the Nagas on the Sibsagar frontier committed three outrages within the British border on account of inter-tribal or inter-village disputes. Although these outrages were punished, yet the feuds on the borders of the Sibsagar and Naga hills districts continued, and it was found necessary in 1884-85 to send a considerable military force into the country included between these districts and the Dikhu river; no opposition was, however, encountered. It was subsequently considered advisable to place a portion of this country, lying to the west of the Dikhu, under the political control of the Deputy Commissioner of the Naga Hills, whose action was, however, to be confined to a yearly visit. After a series of expeditions, necessitated by the continued lawlessness of the tribes, the whole question as to the manner in which this tract should be controlled was reconsidered, with the result that it was decided to incorporate it within the district boundary, and it now forms the Mokokchang sub-division of the Naga hills district. This measure was carried out without opposition.

In December 1903 sanction was granted to the inclusion of the Sarkari Nagas country within the inner line of the Lakhimpur district. This extension of jurisdiction was a necessity for the protection and security of the important settlements about Margherita.

A belt of country along the eastern frontier of the district was for some years managed informally by the Deputy Commissioner as an area of "political control." The supervision exercised was of a practical character, and the villages were, in fact, treated as an integral part of the district, except that no tax was levied. The inhabitants of this strip of country practically enjoyed all the benefits of British government without payment. It being considered that this position was anomalous, and liable, if prolonged, to have inconvenient results, the formal incorporation of this tract in the Naga hills district was sanctioned in January 1904, and put into practical effect quietly and successfully in February of that year. The area thus included in the Naga hills district comprised eastern Angami and Sema villages, and the Tizu river practically became the boundary of the district on the east and south-east.

The area of the Naga Hills is 3,070 square miles; and the population, by the census of 1901, 102,402.

ARTICLE 8.

The Abors engage not to cultivate opium in the British territory or to import it.

Agent to the Governor-General.

II.—MANIPUR.

Manipur is a protected State lying between Burma on the east, the Naga hills on the north, Cachar on the west, and Lushai-land and the country of the Sôkté Kukis on the south. By the Burmese the Manipur country is called Kathay, and by the Shans and tribes east of the Chindwin river, Kassay; by the inhabitants of Chachar it is termed Moglie, and by those of Assam, Miklie. With the exception of the central valley in which the capital is situated, Manipur is almost entirely a hill country.

The claim of the Manipuris to be Hindus rests on no better foundation than the same claim on the part of the Ahoms, Cacharis, or Tipperahs (with all of whom the Manipur ruling family has intermarried); and while their features clearly show that they belong to the Indo-Chinese stock, their language is closely allied to that of the Kuki tribes on the south. *

The kingdom of Manipur first emerges from obscurity as a neighbour and ally of the Shan kingdom of Pông, the capital of which was at Mogaung. The regalia of the royal family are said to have been bestowed by King Komba of Pông, who at the same time added the Kubo or Tammu-Kampat valley to Manipur. In 1714 a Naga named Pamhaiba became Raja of Manipur, and adopted Hinduism, taking the name of Gharib-Nawaz. His people followed his example, and since that date have been conspicuous for the rigidity with which they observe the rules of caste and ceremonial purity. Gharib-Nawaz, during his reign of forty years, was engaged in constant warfare with Burma, and this state of things continued under his successors.

Gharib-Nawaz had three sons, named Sham Shah, Ugat Shah, and Barat Shah. Ugat Shah murdered his father and his elder brother, but was expelled by Barat Shah, who ruled two years, and was succeeded by Guru Sham, son of Sham Shah. Guru Sham associated with himself his brother, Jai Singh, and they ruled alternately until Guru Sham's death, about 1764, when the sole authority fell to Jai Singh.

After the death of Gharib-Nawaz the Burmese invaded Manipur, and Jai Singh having sought the aid of the British, a treaty of alliance, offensive and defensive, was negotiated by Mr. Verelst on behalf of the East India Company on the 14th September 1762. The force sent to assist Manipur was, however, recalled, and in October of the following year Guru Sham confirmed, with some modifications, the treaty which had been made with Jai Singh. No copies of these treaties appear to be extant.

* Although the above is true of the present people of Manipur, there is some reason for believing that this territory was the road by which Hindu influence from the west was first brought to bear upon the Burmese races of the Irawadi valley. See Phayre, History of Burma, pages 3, 4. and 15.

The invasions of Manipur by the Burmese were frequent; their last occupation of the country began in 1819. The three Manipuri princes, Marjit, Chaurjit, and Gambhir Singh, sons of Jai Singh, were compelled to escape to Cachar, which country they occupied. With them large numbers of Manipuris emigrated, and a considerable population of this race is still to be found in Cachar and Sylhet.

When war was declared against Burma by the British Government in 1824, and the Burmese had been expelled from Cachar, assistance in arms and money was given by the Company to Gambhir Singh in an attempt to recover possession of Manipur. In this he was successful, occupying not only the valley in which the capital is situated, but also the Kubo valley, lying to the east of the former boundaries of the State, and peopled by Shans (called Kabau in Manipuri). By the Treaty of Yandabo with Burma, executed in February 1826 (No. II), the King of Ava recognised (article 2) the independence of Gambhir Singh as Raja of Manipur.

Gambhir Singh being thus established on the gadi, the levy with which he had effected the re-conquest of his country was placed under the management of two British officers, and supplied with ammunition, and also with pay, by the British Government. In 1833 the British Government agreed (No. C.) to annex to Manipur the ranges of hills on the west, between the eastern and western bends of the Barak, giving the State the line of the Jiri and the western bend of the Barak as its boundary, on the condition that the Raja removed all obstructions to trade between Manipur and Cachar; kept in repair the road between Manipur and British territory; and promised to assist the Government both with carriage and troops in the event of war with Burma. In 1834 Gambhir Singh died, and Nar Singh, his minister, and a great-grandson of Gharib-Nawaz, was appointed regent on behalf of the dead king's son, Chandra Kirti Singh, then one year old. In the same year the British Government decided to restore the Kubo valley to the King of Burma, who had never ceased to remonstrate against its separation from that country: the valley was given back, and a new boundary laid down in the presence of British commissioners, under an Agreement (No. CI), dated the 9th January 1834, and at the same time the British Government bound itself to pay a monthly stipend of Rs. 500 to the Raja of Manipur in compensation for his loss. In 1835 the assistance formerly given to the Manipur levy was withdrawn, and a political agent was appointed to reside at Manipur.

In 1844 the Rani dowager, widow of Gambhir Singh and mother of Chandra Kirti, attempted to poison Nar Singh, the regent; her attempt failed and she fled from the country with her son. Nar Singh then assumed the Chiefship in his own name and ruled till his death in 1850. He was succeeded by his brother, Debendra Singh, but this prince ruled for only three months; Chandra Kirti Singh, with the help of Nar Singh's three sons, succeeding in ejecting him and recovering possession of the gadi. This was followed by some disorder in the State, but in 1851 the Government of India decided to recognise Chandra Kirti Singh, guaranteeing the Chiefship to him, and declaring that any attempts to dislodge him would be suppressed by force of arms if necessary.

Since that time there have been many efforts on the part of various members of the Manipur ruling family to gain possession of the chief power in the State; but all have been defeated, and the leaders have been either killed, imprisoned, or placed under surveillance in British territory. In 1851 the sons of Debendra Singh and Nar Singh attempted a rising. In 1852 another attempt occurred, led by Kanhai Singh, son of Marjit, Ghambhir Singh's brother. In 1857 some of the rebellious sepoy from Chittagong, who had found their way to Cachar, were used by one Narendrajit, a younger son of Chaurjit, to raise a disturbance; but it was suppressed and Narendrajit was transported. In 1859 Maipak, a descendant of Gharib-Nawaz, invaded the valley, but was defeated and fled. In 1862, in conjunction with another Rajputra, named Khaifa Singh, he headed a second attack, and penetrated to the Raja's palace, where he was captured. Kanhai Singh also made an attempt in 1865, when his followers were dispersed by British troops and police. In 1866 a raid was perpetrated by Gokul Singh, a younger son of Debendra Singh; his enterprise failed like the rest, but he himself escaped for the time. He was captured in 1868, tried in Cachar, and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment.

Chandra Kirti Singh died in May 1886, and was succeeded by his son, Sur Chandra Singh. The succession was not accepted without a rising under Bara Chauba Singh, the eldest son of Nar Singh, who attempted to get possession of the gadi. After some skirmishes with the Cachar frontier police, who had been sent to help the rightful heir, Bara Chauba's force was defeated, and his son and two brothers were taken prisoners. Shortly after this Bara Chauba gave himself up, and he and his relatives were deported to Hazaribagh. Two other unsuccessful risings took place in September 1887. The first under the Wangkhairakpa, the highest judicial officer in the State, came to an abrupt termination by the leader being shot. The second and more important rebellion was headed by one Jogendra Singh, who, though not himself related to the ruling family, acted on behalf of the exiles. The insurgent force was attacked and routed by parties of the 44th Gurkhas and the Cachar frontier police. Jogendra Singh was killed and several of his followers were made prisoners. Many of the latter were imprisoned for waging war on a friendly State.

During the year 1890-91 the Manipur State was the scene of much anarchy. Maharaja Sur Chandra Singh, who succeeded his father, Chandra Kirti Singh, in 1886, was a prince of weak character; the peace of the State was frequently disturbed by the quarrels of his seven brothers, and the family was broken up into two factions. On one side were the Maharaja's three uterine brothers headed by Pakka Sena, and on the other his four half-brothers under the leadership of the Senapati Tekendrajit Bir Singh. The Maharaja was quite unable to assert his authority over these two turbulent relatives, and matters reached a climax on the 21st September 1890, when the palace walls were suddenly scaled by the two younger brothers and a few shots in the air were sufficient to drive the timid Sur Chandra Singh to seek safety at the Residency. The next day, contrary to the advice of the Political Agent, the Maharaja proclaimed his intention to abdicate, and to proceed on a pilgrimage to Bindraban, and on the 23rd idem he left the State, accompanied by his three uterine brothers and a few followers, and arrived at Cachar by the end of the month. Here he changed his tone, represented to the Chief Commissioner that he had no intention of abdicating and solicited assistance to regain the gadi. In the meanwhile the Senapati, who was the real mover in the rebellion, had induced his elder brother, the Jubraj Kula Chandra Dhaja Singh, to occupy the gadi, and application was made to the Government of India to ratify this accession. The whole question was considered by the Government of India, and it was concluded that it would be to the advantage of the Manipur State, and to the furtherance of British interests, to recognise the Jubraj in his new position rather than to restore the Maharaja Sur Chandra Singh; it was, however, decided to remove the Senapati from Manipur and punish him for his lawless conduct towards his eldest brother. The Chief Commissioner of Assam was directed to visit Manipur and carry out the orders of the Government of India. Accordingly, Mr. Quinton, the Chief Commissioner, left Golaghat with an escort of 400 men of the Assam Gurkha Battalions under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Skene of the 42nd Regiment. This force, with the Political Agent's escort at Manipur and the support of 200 men en route from Silchar, was considered sufficient to over-awe the malcontents and quell any possible resistance. On the 22nd March Mr. Quinton and his party reached the neighbourhood of Manipur, and were met by the Senapati, who had with him two Manipuri regiments. On arrival at Manipur the Chief Commissioner was saluted by the Manipuri troops and by the regent, and he announced that a Darbar would be held in the Residency the same day. As the Senapati did not attend on the plea of ill-health, the Darbar was postponed until next morning, when again he failed to appear, and at an interview with the regent the Political Agent was informed that the regent was unable to enforce his brother's arrest. Political negotiations having failed the Chief Commissioner decided to capture the Senapati in his house, which was surrounded on the morning of the 24th by the British troops. A serious engagement ensued and the Manipuris attacked the Residency which was held till 8 P.M., when an armistice was arranged and Mr. Quinton and four other * officers, who accompanied him under a flag of truce from the Residency to the palace, were cruelly and treacherously murdered. The British troops retired to Silchar.

An expedition was then ordered to Manipur to re-assert the political supremacy of the British Government, and to enforce the unconditional submission of the Darbar. The force marched in three columns from Kohima, Silchar, and Tammu, all of which reached the capital on the 27th April 1891. The Tammu column was the only one which met with resistance, the other two columns entering Manipur unmolested. On arrival the force found the capital deserted; the arsenal with its guns had been destroyed, and the principal houses had been looted by the villagers. The regent, the Senapati, and the other brothers had taken to flight, and the leading officials were in hiding. Within a month all were captured, and the Senapati and the two elder brothers were tried by a special commission, at which Tekendrajit Bir Singh, alias the Senapati, was convicted of waging war against the Queen-Empress and of abetment of the murder of British officers; he was sentenced to death and hanged, as was also the Tongal (Tangkhu) General, who was convicted on the same charges by the Chief Political Officer with the force. Kula Chandra Dhaja Singh and his brother were also convicted of the first-mentioned charge, and were sentenced to transportation for life along with thirteen other persons. In September 1891, the question of the future of the Manipur State was decided by His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, and Chura Chand, a minor, born on the 15th April 1885, the son of Chowbi Yaima, and a grandson of Nar Singh, was selected as Raja and granted a salute of 11 guns. It was further ordered that the Chiefship of the Manipur State, and the title and salute would be hereditary, and would descend in the direct line by primogeniture, provided that in each case the succession was approved by the Government of India.

The Sanad (No. CII) granted to the new Chief provides for the complete subordination of the Manipur State, and for the payment of a yearly tribute, which was fixed in 1892 at Rs. 50,000. The tribute was payable from the 21st August 1891. For the treacherous attack on British officers a fine of Rs. 2,50,000 was imposed in 1892, and this sum was paid off in five yearly instalments. The administration of the State during the minority of the Raja was entrusted to a Superintendent and Political Agent, who was given full power to introduce any reforms that he considered beneficial, but with instructions to pay due regard to the customs and traditions of the Manipuris, and to interfere as little as possible with existing institutions. On the 29th September 1892 the investiture of the Raja was carried out, and the opportunity was taken to abolish slavery, allowing existing slaves to work out their redemption in five years. At the same time the custom of lalup was done away with, whereby every male in the valley was bound to work ten days in every forty for the Raja, and a tax of Rs. 2 a house per annum throughout the valley was substituted for it. The house tax throughout the hills was fixed at Rs. 3 a year. A regular system of land tenure was instituted, the annual rent being fixed at Rs. 2 an acre.

The powers and constitution of the existing local courts for the trial of civil and criminal cases were defined, and appeals from their decisions allowed to the Superintendent, and extensive powers of revision given to the Political Agent and to the Chief Commissioner of Assam (now the Lieutenant-Governor of Eastern Bengal and Assam). A small battalion of military police was formed, but it has not proved very satisfactory, and its disbandment is (1906) contemplated.

The minor Raja and his half-brother, Raj Kumar Digendra Singh, were educated at the Mayo College, Ajmer, from August 1895 to July 1901. On their return to Manipur a tutor was appointed for the Raja until he joined the Imperial Cadet Corps in May 1905.

The boundaries of the State have been defined. It marches with British territory on every side except for about 80 miles on the east, where a strip of unadministered country, inhabited by Kuki and other tribes, intervenes between Manipur and British Burma.

The area of Manipur is 8,456 square miles; population, by the census of 1901, 284,465; revenue, Rs. 4,12,798; and tribute, Rs. 50,000. The State possesses (1905) 325 armed police.

The Chief is entitled to a salute of 11 guns, fixed in 1891.

Relations with Hill Tribes.—Manipur has been repeatedly the subject of raids by the Lushai tribes, and in the British expedition against the Lushais in 1871 the levies of Manipur were employed as auxiliaries. The expedition was successful; and while submitting to the Government of India, several of the Lushai Chiefs entered into an engagement with the Manipur authorities also, to keep the peace with that State for the future. In 1870, and again, after this expedition, in 1872, the Government of India laid down the policy to be followed by Manipur with regard to the Lushais. The Raja was held responsible for acts of unprovoked aggression on the tribes, and for taking effective steps to make his subject Kukis understand this, and to punish them should they disregard these instructions; at the same time it was declared to be the Raja's duty to take all necessary measures for the protection of his frontier. In 1873 orders were issued that the Political Agent at Manipur should not visit the Lushai country without the express sanction of the Government of India.

Manipur has also for many years had hostile relations with the Suti, Sukti, or Sôkté tribe, also called Kamhow after their great Chief who died in 1868. This tribe lies to the south of Manipur and east of the Turul or Manipur river between the country of the Lushai proper and the territory which once formed the Shan State of Kale. The Manipuris consider this tribe more formidable than the Lushais. It is a constant source of trouble to them, and has at times rendered the southern portion of Manipur uninhabitable. The raiding propensities of the Kamhows have been ascribed to a tribal migration northwards under the influence of a forward movement of the Shindus, a powerful confederacy living to the south-east of the Chittagong hill tracts.

The Lushais also hold the Sutis in great dread. In 1871, when preparations were being made for the expedition against the Lushai tribes, the Sutis sent a deputation to the Manipur Raja with friendly assurances, which there is reason to believe were sincere. But at the conclusion of the expedition the Manipuris repaid the pacific intentions of the Sutis by treacherously attacking a party of them, and making them prisoners together with their Chief, Kokatung, who died shortly after in the Manipur jail. The Manipur authorities justified their conduct on the ground that many of their countrymen were still in captivity with the Sutis. In 1872 the Government of India intimated that the Darbar must be guided in its policy towards this tribe by the principles laid down in connection with the treatment of the Lushais, and the Political Agent, Colonel Mowbray Thomson, succeeded in arranging for the mutual exchange of nearly all the prisoners. In March 1873 peace was sworn between Kokatung's son and Manipur. This did not, however, last long. In October 1874 the Sutis made an unprovoked attack upon two Manipur villages. In retaliation the Raja in 1875 organised an expedition, but no collision appears to have occurred between the opposing parties; and the matter ended in the surrender by each side of all the remaining captives. Nevertheless raiding did not cease; and in 1876, 1877, and 1879, frequent Suti outrages were reported. There was, however, reason to believe that these were not altogether unprovoked. In 1877 there was a remarkable migration of some 2,000 Sutis into Manipur territory, where they settled on lands assigned to them by the Maharaja. In 1879-80 the tribe again committed a number of outrages on the frontier, but it was observed that considerable numbers came into Manipur and took up cultivation. In 1880-81 the Sutis were reported quiet so far as regards Manipur, although they were guilty of several raids on the Kubo and Kale valleys. In 1883 the Sutis raided on Tepasimukh bazar, but the perpetrators were discovered with the assistance of the Manipur Chief and immediate reparation was exacted from the Chiefs of the tribe. In 1885 and 1886 further raids were committed on the Kubo valley.

The aggressions of the Chasad or Chuksad tribe of Kukis on the eastern frontier of Manipur have also given rise to much trouble. No notice of them prior to 1878 has been traced. When they first came under observation they lived on the borders of the Kubo valley in territory which has often been in dispute between Manipur and Burma. They are one of the Kuki tribes which are being gradually pushed on towards the north-east from the country south of the valley. It was believed that their raids were abetted by the Shan Sawbwa, who is known to the Manipuris as the Chief of Samjök, in the Kubo valley, and to the Burmese as the Sawbwa of Thaungthut (Hsawng-Hseep) on the Chindwin river. The frontier north of the Kubo valley proper, as set forth in the agreement of 1834, was disputed, and the Government of India accordingly sent a commission to define and demarcate the boundary of Manipur in this direction. The task was accomplished in the cold weather of 1881-82. It was ascertained that the raiding Kukis, who were favoured in their enterprise by the uncertainty of the frontier, were settled within Manipur territory, and some of them have been induced to move further in, and have thus been brought under stricter control. The Chasads refused to submit to the Raja, and were in the habit of levying revenue and exacting labour from the Tungkhal Naga villages, until in December 1888 the Raja organised a successful expedition which ended in the surrender of the Chasad Chief.

These tribes have been completely pacified and are now administered by British officers.

A TRANSLATION of the CONDITIONS entered into by RAJAH GUMBHEER SINGH of MUNNIPORE, on the BRITISH GOVERNMENT agreeing to annex to Munnipore the two ranges of Hills situated between the eastern and western bends of the Barak, dated 18th April 1833.

The Governor-General and Supreme Council of Hindoostan declare as follows:—With regard to the two ranges of Hills, the one called the Kalanaga Range, and the other called the Noon-jai Range, which are situated between the eastern bend of the Barak and the western bend of the Barak, we will give up all claim on the part of the Honorable Company thereunto, and we will make these Hills over in possession to the Rajah, and give him the line of the Jeeree and the western bend of the Barak as a boundary, provided that the Rajah agrees to the whole of what is written in this paper, which is as follows:—

1st.—The Rajah will, agreeably to instructions received, without delay remove his Thanna from Chundrapore, and establish it on the eastern bank of the Jeeree.

2nd.—The Rajah will in no way obstruct the trade carried on between the two countries by Bengali or Munipooree merchants. He will not exact heavy duties and he will make a monopoly of no articles of merchandise whatsoever.

3rd.—The Rajah will in no way prevent the Nagas inhabiting the Kalanaga and Noon-jai Ranges of Hills, from selling or bartering ginger, cotton, pepper, and every other article, the produce of their country, in the Plains of Cachar, at the Banskandee and Oodharbun bazaars, as has been their custom.

4th.—With regard to the road commencing from the eastern bank of the Jeeree and continued vid Kalanaga and Kowpoom, as far as the Valley of Munnipore—after this road has been finished, the Rajah will keep it in repairs, so as to enable laden bullocks to pass during the cold and dry seasons. Further, at the making of the road, if British officers be sent to examine or superintend the same, the Rajah will agree to everything these officers may suggest.

5th.—With reference to the intercourse already existing between the territories of the British Government and those of the Rajah, if the intercourse be further extended, it will be well in every respect, and it will be highly advantageous to both the Rajah and his country. In order, therefore, that this may speedily take place, the Rajah, at the requisition of the British Government, will furnish a quota of Nagas to assist at the construction of the road.

6th.—In the event of war with the Burmese, if troops be sent to Munnipore, either to protect that country, or to advance beyond the Ningthee, the Rajah, at the requisition of the British Government, will provide Hill porters to assist in transporting the ammunition and baggage of such troops.

7th.—In the event of anything happening on the Eastern Frontier of the British territories, the Rajah will, when required, assist the British Government with a portion of his troops.

III.—THE LUSHAI HILLS.

This district is bounded on the north by the districts of Sylhet and Cachar and the Native State of Manipur; on the east and south by the Chin hills; on the south by Arakan; and on the west by the Chittagong hill tracts and the State of Hill Tipperah.

As early as 1826 we find the first record of a raid by the Lushais, or Kukis, as they were then generally called, on British territory when they attacked a party of Sylhet wood-cutters near the Simla river. From this date to 1888, when Lengpunga made a most successful raid into the Chengri valley, the Lushais were a constant source of danger to the British frontier.

In 1844, Lalchokla raided on the Manipuri colony of Kochabari in Partabgarh, killing twenty people and taking six captives. His punishment was rapidly effected. An expedition under Captain Blackwood captured his village, the Chief made an unconditional surrender, was tried, and transported. The capture and transportation of Lalchokla is the one bright spot in the history of the relations of the British with the Lushais until the expeditions of 1870 and 1871. In spite of the fate of Lalchokla, frequent raids took place in 1847 and 1849, and in 1850 Colonel Lister's expedition entered the Lushai country and successfully attacked a village belonging to a Chief called Mullab. Owing to the warlike reputation the Lushais then enjoyed, Colonel Lister, decided to retire at once, although in sight of the village of Barmoocelein, the greatest of the Lushai Chieftains. Colonel Lister in his report wrote that he considered he would be compromising the safety of his detachment by going further, and concluded by suggesting to Government to send a force of some 3,000 men into the country the following cold weather. The Government of India, however, deprecated any extended military measures unless further outrage rendered them necessary.

In 1860 occurred the great Kuki invasion, in which the Hill Tipperah State and the Chittagong hill tracts were the sufferers. As a punishment for this outrage the village of Lungshen (Lungsin) was burnt by the British.

In 1862 a series of raids was committed on Sylhet villages by Sukpial, at that time the most considerable of the Lushai Chiefs; but proposals to coerce him were for various reasons abandoned. An attempt, which was commenced in 1864, to open negotiations with Sukpial ended in failure. In December 1868 Sukpial's followers committed devastations in Hill Tipperah and advanced into Sylhet, plundering and burning villages on their way. Similar outrages were committed early in 1869 by other Lushais on tea gardens in Cachar. A small force in two columns was despatched against these tribes, but, owing to the lateness of the season and scarcity of supplies, returned without fully accomplishing the objects in view. In December 1869, Mr. Ware Edgar, Deputy Commissioner of Cachar, visited the Lushai country at the invitation of some of the Chiefs, and concluded arrangements with Sukpilal, which on the occasion of a second visit in 1870 were embodied in a Sanad (No. CIII) given to Sukpilal and accepted by him, with the reservation that he was only responsible for the security of traders from the Chattachura range of hills to the Sonai, as his authority did not extend east of the river. The result of these negotiations cannot be called satisfactory, for while Mr. Edgar was actually in Sukpilal's village, the Lushais perpetrated the most extensive series of raids they had hitherto attempted in Cachar and Sylhet. The tea gardens of Ainerkhal, Kutlicherra, Monierkhal, Darmiakhal, Nugdigram, Jhalnacherra, and Alexandrapur were attacked in succession, and at the last named garden the manager (Mr. Winchester) was killed and his daughter carried off a prisoner. Similar raids were reported from Hill Tipperah and Manipur.

On the 11th July 1871, orders were issued by the Governor-General in Council for an expedition to be sent into the Lushai country; one column to operate from Cachar, and another from Chittagong. This expedition was decidedly successful when compared with the expeditions of former years. Many Chiefs submitted to the General Officers commanding the columns, and Mary Winchester was given up. The Lushais were undoubtedly impressed with the fact that their villages were no longer inaccessible to the British and the latter gained a large amount of information about them and their country. After this expedition the Lushais gave no serious trouble until the raids in 1888 on the Chittagong frontier. At the close of the expedition, when the policy to be adopted was laid down by the Government of India, it was decided that the Sylhet and Cachar frontier should be protected by a line of outposts; the establishment of these outposts in Cachar and Sylhet resulted in the British frontier on the Assam side remaining unmolested.

Subsequently to 1875 three bazars were established in the Lushai country and were supplied by native traders from Cachar. They were located on the three principal streams flowing out of that country; at Changsil (formerly Bepari bazar), at Sonai bazar, and at Tipaimukh. The bazars increased for a time in size and importance but their growth was checked by the exactions of the Chiefs, and subsequently they fell off seriously owing to the failure of the supply of rubber brought in by the tribes.

In 1876-77 hostilities broke out between the eastern and western Lushais; the former under the Chiefs Lalbura, Chunglen, and Bungte; the latter under the Chiefs Sukpial Khalgom, and Lenpunga. Each party invoked the intervention of the British Government on its behalf. They were told in reply that the request could not be entertained except on a joint application for mediation.

In 1877 Mr. Luttman Johnson, Deputy Commissioner of Cachar, made a successful tour through the Lushai country.

In 1878 the Changsil bazar, which was under Sukpial's protection, was plundered by a party of Lushais. Sukpial was called upon to pay the losses of the merchants, which he ultimately did.

Sukpial died in 1880. On his death the quarrels between the eastern and western Chiefs were prosecuted with renewed vigour. In 1881-82 famine prevailed in the country. Measures of relief were inaugurated by the British Government when the pressure of want began to be felt. The three principal Chiefs met and agreed to a cessation of hostilities. The scarcity abated on the setting in of the rains, whereupon the internecine quarrels of the tribes broke out afresh.

In March 1888 a survey party under the command of Lieutenant Stewart, while engaged in survey operations on the hills about 12 miles north-east of Rangamati on the Chittagong frontier, was surprised and cut up by a Shendu Chief named Howsata; Lieutenant Stewart and two European Sergeants were killed and their heads were carried off by the raiders. Owing to the lateness of the season, it was considered inadvisable to make any reprisals until the following cold weather, and in December 1888, while the troops were actually being concentrated, a raid was made by a party of Lushais, led by Vutai's sons, on the Pakuma Rani's village, which was within a few miles of the police guard at Demagri. Forty-two persons were killed and sixteen taken prisoners. The raiders, although pursued, succeeded in making good their escape. A still more serious raid, which occurred soon after in the Chengri valley, was led by Lengpunga and Jarak, sons of Sukpial, and no less than one hundred and one persons were butchered. These raiders also effected a retreat without loss.

The Government of India issued orders on the 19th December 1888 that an expedition should enter the Lushai country, making a good road as it advanced, and should endeavour to establish a post to dominate the raiding tribes and punish such Chiefs as were concerned in the recent raids on the Chittagong frontier and in the murder of Lieutenant Stewart. A force, consisting of 1,200 troops, with two guns was to be employed.

The expedition constructed 42 miles of good hill road to Lungleh, where a stockaded post was established and stocked with eight months' supplies for a garrison of 200 men. A punitive expedition of 300 men succeeded in reaching Howsata's village, which was destroyed. Howsata himself had died some few months previously. Lieutenant Stewart's gun was found in his grave—a conclusive proof of Howsata's complicity in the raids. The last troops retired on the 16th April 1889 from Lungleh, leaving there a garrison of 200 men of the Chittagong frontier police with Mr. Murray, District Superintendent of Police, as Assistant Political Officer.

In the open season of 1889-90 two columns operated in the Lushai hills, one from Chittagong and one from Cachar. The Chittagong column, working from Fort Lungleh as an advanced base, continued road-making towards Haka, in the Chin hills, and established a second post at Fort Tregear, midway between Haka and Lungleh. A portion of this column was detached northwards to punish Lengpunga on account of the Chengri valley raid, and the sons of Vutai, Nikama, Lunglena, and Kairuma on account of the raid on the Pakuma Rani's village. This column, called the northern Lushai column, co-operated with the Cachar column, of 400 military police, and was instructed, on meeting it, to endeavour to select some suitable spot for the establishment of a post to dominate the northern Lushai tribes. The villages of Lengpunga, Nikama, and Lunglena were burnt, but the Chiefs could not be induced to surrender. A post was established at Fort Aijal with a garrison of 200 men, and a second post of 100 men at Changsil, the terminus of the river communication with Silchar.

Captain Browne was appointed Political Officer in the North Lushai Hills, and on his arrival at Fort Aijal in May 1890 to take up his duties, the Lushais were informed that they would have to pay tribute and supply labour. Captain Browne, however, owing to the weakness of the garrisons in the north Lushai country, was not in a position to enforce his demands, and the Lushais, being fully aware of this, declined to obey orders and made a bold effort to throw off the authority of the British. On the 9th September they ambushed Captain Browne, when on the march from Aijal to Changsil, and so severely wounded him that he died shortly after reaching Changsil. The stockades at Aijal and Changsil were simultaneously attacked, as were also all the parties of the British on the road between the two stockades. News of the outbreak was sent to Jhalnacheria by boat, but it was not till nearly three weeks afterwards that re-inforcements reached Changsil, after meeting with determined opposition while ascending the river, and losing their commanding officer, Lieutenant Swinton.

Mr. McCabe was appointed Political Officer in the North Lushai Hills, after Captain Browne's death, and directed the subsequent offensive operations which resulted in the unconditional surrender of all the western Lushai Chiefs concerned in the rising. Three of the leading Chieftains, Khalkam, Lengpung, and Thangula were sentenced to transportation for life.

Meanwhile in February 1891 an unprovoked attack was made upon Mr. Murray near Fort Tregear. A punitive expedition was promptly organised, and carried out its task successfully, heliographic communication being opened with Mr. McCabe's column from Aijal.

In the early part of 1891 the arrangements to be made for the administration of the south Lushai hills were under consideration; and Captain Shakespear was appointed superintendent with a force of military police under a district superintendent of police, as commandant, and four assistant superintendents of police. It was understood, however, that these arrangements were merely provisional.

The Lushais then remained peaceful for over a year, paying revenue, and complying readily with demands for labour; but on the 1st March 1892 Mr. McCabe, who had gone with a party of one hundred police to enforce a demand for labour, with which the Lushais had not complied, was treacherously attacked at Lalbura's village and the assailants were only repulsed after severe fighting. A general rising of nearly all the tribes east of the Sonai between Forts Aijal and Lungleh followed, and a similar attack was made on Captain Shakespear, who was forced to stockade himself at Vansanga's village; while on the 4th April a party of eastern Lushais raided the Burancherra tea garden, six miles from Jhalnacherra on the south-east frontier of Cachar, killing 38 coolies, wounding 10 and carrying off 4 prisoners.

Active operations against the eastern Lushais were conducted by Mr. McCabe until the commencement of June, with the result that the villages concerned in the rising, and more particularly those implicated in the raids on the Cachar frontier, were severely punished, and most of the inhabitants with their Chiefs made full submission. In April a strong column from Fort White, in the Chin hills of the Burma command, marched across through an exceedingly difficult and almost entirely unknown country to the assistance of Captain Shakespear, with whom a junction was effected on the 4th May. Successful punitive action was taken against the principal offending villages, and Captain Shakespear reported that the Lushais were completely over-awed by the unexpected appearance of the Burma column.

In the cold weather of 1892-93 a military promenade was made through the hills, and fines in guns for the previous year's rising were realised from all concerned, and an outpost established between Lungleh and Aijal.

In 1895 a joint movement from Falam, Aijal, and Lungleh was made, all three columns meeting at Kairuma's village. Kairuma had for three years refused to obey all orders to supply coolies, and Zaduna and Kaphleia relatives of Zakapa, followed his lead. Their villages were burnt and Zaduna and Zakapa were captured by night surprises, heavy fines in guns being realized. The operations resulted in the complete submission of all the Chiefs.

This is the last occasion on which any show of force has been necessary.

On the 6th September 1895 the territories known as the south Lushai hills and the north Lushai hills, which had hitherto been administered as appertaining to the lower provinces of Bengal and the province of Assam respectively, were, by proclamations, formally included within those provinces, respectively. On the 1st April 1898 the south Lushai hills were formally included in the province of Assam. The opportunity was taken, in the same proclamation, to transfer the tract known as Rutton Puiya's villages, including Demagri, in the hill tracts of Chittagong, which since 1892 had been treated administratively as part of the south Lushai hills, to Assam and to include it in the Lushai hills.

In the cold weather of 1900-01 the portion of the boundary between the Chin and Lushai hills, which lies between the Manipur Lushai boundary and the Tyao river, was demarcated.

In 1901 the Superintendent of the Lushai Hills marked off the boundaries of each Chief's land and gave them each a lease for life which holds them responsible for the payment of Government revenue and the observance of all Government orders. The district was also divided into circles, to each of which an interpreter was appointed, who is responsible for reporting all important matters, and is the channel of communication between the Chiefs and the Superintendent. These measures were approved by the Chief Commissioner of Assam in October 1901.

The area of the Lushai hills is 7,227 square miles; and the population, by the census of 1901, 82,434.

TRANSLATION of the SUNNUD given to SOOKPILALL,—1871.

The order of the illustrious Government.

Be it known to the Looshai Lall (Sookpilall) and to all other Lalls, Muntrees, and people of Looshai villages between the Tapai and Tipperah Hills.

The illustrious Government has laid down the following line of division:—

From Chutturchoora to the mouth of Bhyrubbee Cherra, from the mouth of Bhyrubbee Cherra to Bhyrubbee Tillah, from Bhyrubbee Tillah to Kolosep Tillah, from Kolosep Tillah to Noongvai Hills, from Noongvai Hills to Koobecherra Mookh, which falls to Sunai Nuddee, and it has ordered that the country to the north of the said line shall be called Cachar and the Marthinlong or Northern Looshai lands; on the other side of that line of division shall be called the Looshai hills. The name Marthinlong or Northern Looshai includes those people who drink the water of the Taovai, Tipai Tuirel or Sonai Tinpar or Rukni, Sinlong, or Dullessur, and Kloong Doong or Guttur.

The illustrious Government has further ordered that (Sookpilall) and all other Looshai Lalls, Muntrees, and people shall not in any way injure or annoy any of the people of Sylhet or Cachar.

If any Looshai suffers any injury or annoyance at the hands of Cachar or Sylhet people, and wishes to have his wrongs redressed, he must make a request to that effect to the Burra Sahib (Deputy Commissioner) of Cachar, who has been ordered by Government to do justice in such cases.

The Lalls and Muntrees of the Looshais shall be answerable for the safety of all merchants and wood-cutters who go to the Looshai hills to trade or cut timber.

There are, as is known, various hill tribes known as Simthinlong drinking the water of the river flowing to the south. If they or the people dwelling in the east of the Tipai, are about to attack or annoy any people of Cachar or Sylhet, and if Sookpilall, etc., know of it and cannot prevent them from passing through their villages, then Sookpilall, etc., must at once give information to the Burra Sahib (Deputy Commissioner) of Cachar.

If a dispute arise between Sookpilall, etc., and the people of the Rajahs of Munnipoor or Tipperah, he or they may inform the Burra Sahib (Deputy Commissioner) of Cachar, who will endeavour to get the matter enquired into.

When the Burra Sahib of Cachar or any Government Officer who may be deputed by him goes to visit the Looshai hills, Sookpilall should meet him in person or by Deputy at some place to be appointed from time to time within the hills.

If in any year no European Government Officer goes to the hills, then Sookpilall, etc., shall send to the Burra Sahib (Deputy Commissioner) at Doodpate (Silchar) some respectable Looshais.

If at any time all the above orders of Government be not carried out the said Government may revoke this Sunnud and pass such orders as it thinks proper. But as long as Sookpilall, etc., shall obey all these orders and any similar ones which the Government may issue from time to time for the preservation of peace on both sides of the above-mentioned line, the Government will not interfere with the affairs of their villages, and will leave them in the undisturbed possession of their village land.

Dated 16th January 1871.

IV.—TIPPERAH.

The Rajas of Tipperah (Tripura) are, like the Rajas of Manipur, of Indo-Chinese stock, with an admixture of Aryan blood. Like all other converts in their position they have taken the status of the Kshatriya caste, and claim descent from Dreehja, son of Jajati, a King of the Lunar race. From inscriptions on copper plates, coins, and stone plates affixed to temples, which are found in various parts of the State and in adjacent British territory, it appears that the Rajas of Tipperah professed Hinduism for several hundred years. They have adopted the family name of "Deva Barman," an appellation distinctive of the Kshatriya caste. The distinctive family title of "Manikiya" (jewel) was first bestowed on Raja Ratna Fah in 1279 A.D., by the King of Gour.

There is no trustworthy account as to the limits of the ancient State of Tipperah, but at various times it gained conquests and possessions which carried its armies from the Sundarbans in the west to Burma in the east, and from Kamrup in the north to Burma in the south. The military prestige of the Tipperah Rajas was at its height during the sixteenth century, and it was not till the beginning of the seventeenth century that the Moghals obtained a footing in the country. About 1620 A.D., however, in the reign of Jahangir, a Moghal force invaded Tipperah under the command of Nawab Fateh Jang. The capital was taken and the Raja sent a captive to Delhi. There he was offered his State again on condition of paying tribute, but refused. The Moghal troops, after occupying the country for two and a half years, were forced by an epidemic to leave it. Eventually, however, the Nawab of Murshidabad seized on a large portion of the territory in the plains, and parcelled it out among his Musalman nobles.

The western and southern portions of Tipperah are included in Todar Mal's rent-roll, but they were only conquered, according to Grant, in Shah Jahan's reign. In 1728, or according to the annalist, in 1732, there was a re-conquest, when the portions of the State mentioned were placed on the rent-roll under the name of Roshanabad. A large number of Moghal troops were posted in the country, and in the course of a few years it became a Moghal province under the name of Tipperah, which finally came under British rule in 1765.

Krishna Manikiya was made Raja by the aid of the English in succession to a Muhammadan marauder, named Shamsheer Ghazi, who had overrun a considerable portion of the country and occupied it. Krishna Manikiya died about 1780. There being no Jubraj, his Rani, Janhabi Mahadevi, ruled the country for some time; but eventually, at her request, Government recognised her nephew, Rajdhar Manikiya, as Chief. After the death of Rajdhar Manikiya, towards the close of the eighteenth century, the British Government recognised Durga Manikiya as Raja. On the death of Durga Manikiya, Ramganga, who had been a rival claimant, became Raja. He died in 1826, and was succeeded by his brother, Kasi Chandra Manikiya, who was in turn succeeded in 1830 by his nephew, Krishna Kishor Manikiya. Krishna Kishor Manikiya died in 1850, when his son, Ishan Chandra Manikiya, was recognised as Chief. On his death in 1862, his brother, Bir Chandra Manikiya, was recognised as de facto Raja, but his investiture was deferred till 1870, pending the result of an appeal to the Privy Council by Nilkristo Thakur, who disputed the succession.

In 1871 a political agent was appointed to reside at Agartala, the Raja's capital. The main object of the appointment was the protection of British interests on the frontier, which were in special danger from Lushai raids. This tribe was in the habit of carrying its incursions into British territory through the State. It was explained to the Raja that the Government of India in sending an agent to Agartala, had no intention of adopting a policy which would prejudice his interests, or which would interfere with the lawful and proper exercise of his authority within his State. In 1878, the political agency as a separate post was abolished, the Magistrate of Tipperah being appointed ex-officio Political Agent, while a Native deputy magistrate was stationed at Agartala as Assistant Political Agent.

The question regarding the southern, western, and northern boundaries between the State and British territory was for a long time a constant source of trouble. It was, however, finally settled in 1865, and all disputes which had arisen in connection with the matter were decided by arbitrators appointed by the Government of India and the State. The eastern boundary was also much unsettled, a circumstance which frequently gave rise to complications between Tipperah subjects and the Lushais. To stop this, Government in 1874 fixed the Langai river as the boundary between the Lushai country and the Tipperah State towards the east, and communicated its decision to the then Maharaja. The river Pheni is the recognised boundary on the south between Chittagong and Tipperah.

The practice of sati in the State was put a stop to by the late Maharaja in 1888.

Owing to the maladministration of the State by the Maharaja it was decided in 1890 that he should appoint a minister, with full powers of administration with respect to the State and the zamindaris, to be selected by the Chief in consultation with the Political Agent. Accordingly, in June 1890, the Government of India sanctioned the appointment of Rai Umakanta Das Bahadur, who was then the Assistant Political Agent, as Minister, the duties of Assistant Political Agent being transferred to the ex-officio Political Agent. This arrangement came to an end in October 1892, when the Government of India approved the recommendation that the Maharaja should be required to furnish annual reports of his administration and that either he, or both the "Jubraj" and "Bara Thakur," should attend at Comilla every year on the occasion of the visit of the Commissioner of the district. At the same time it was decided that no separate officer should thereafter be appointed as Political Agent or Assistant Political Agent, but that the duties should be performed by the Magistrate and Collector of Tipperah as ex-officio Political Agent.

In 1865-66, with the consent of the Chief, Hill Tipperah was trigonometrically surveyed by Government. In 1872 the eastern frontier of the State and the country between western Cachar and Chittagong was explored and topographically surveyed.

Bir Chandra Deva Barman, who had been granted the title of Maharaja in 1877 as a personal distinction, died in Calcutta on the 11th December 1896, and was succeeded by his eldest son, born on the 26th July 1857, the present Raja Radha Kishor Deva Barman Manikiya, who was formally installed on the 5th March 1897. On the 8th February 1899 the Raja appointed his son, Birendra Kishor Deva Barman as "Jubraj" or successor, on which Samrendra Chandra Deva Barman, who had been appointed "Bara Thakur" by the late Maharaja, submitted to the Government of India a memorial claiming the title of "Jubraj"; but the claim was disallowed in 1902. In 1900, the Jubraj was married to the daughter of General Rana Padma Jang Bahadur, son of the late Rana Jang Bahadur, Prime Minister of Nepal. Raja Radha Kishor Manikiya attended the Delhi Coronation Durbar in January 1903.

Up to 1904 the law of succession in Hill Tipperah had been a peculiar one. The ruling Chief had the power of nominating any of his brothers or sons as his successor under the title of "Jubraj," and a successor to the "Jubraj" under the title of "Bara Thakur." On the Raja's death the "Jubraj" became Raja, and the "Bara Thakur" became "Jubraj" and in turn Raja, even to the exclusion of the Raja's natural heirs. The eldest son succeeded, however, if no nomination had been made. This custom often led to quarrels and disputes about succession; accordingly, in 1904, in order to remove all doubts as to the rule of succession to the Chiefship and to the ownership of the zamindaris and other property in British India appertaining thereto and held therewith, the Government of India granted the present Chief a Sanad (No. CIV.), dated the 21st June 1904, which recognised the Chief's right to nominate any male member of his family descended through males from him, or any male ancestor of his, as his successor, and should a Chief die without having nominated his successor, his nearest male descendant, descended through males according to the rule of lineal primogeniture, or failing such, his nearest male heir descended through males from any male ancestor of his, should succeed. Every succession to the Chiefship requires the recognition of the Government of India. After the receipt of this Sanad, Raja Radha Kishor Manikiya formally confirmed, in accordance with the provisions of the Sanad, the appointment of his son, Birendra Kishor Thakur, as "Jubraj."

Extradition between British India and the Hill Tipperah State is governed by the general laws and rules on the subject.

The Chief has powers of passing sentences of death.

The area of the Hill Tipperah State is 4,086 square miles; population, by the census of 1901, 173,325; revenue, about Rs. 8,00,000; tribute, nil.

The military forces consist (1905) of 333 infantry, 2 serviceable and 12 unserviceable guns, and 30 armed police.

The Raja is also the holder of very considerable zamindaris in the British districts of Noakhali, Tipperah, and Sylhet, covering an area of over 600 square miles, the income from which is about Rs. 9,00,000.

The State is liable to the nazarana rules, the position of the Raja having been declared by the Government of India in 1870 to be that of a feudatory.

The Chief receives a salute of 13 guns, which was finally approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

NO. CIV.
SANAD.

To

HIS HIGHNESS THE RAJA OF HILL TIPPERA.

Whereas, with a view to continuing the representation of the ruling house and the dignity of the State of Hill Tippera, it is desirable to remove all doubts as to the rule of succession to the Chiefship of the said State, and the ownership of the Zamindaris and other property in British India which appertain thereto and are held therewith, it is hereby declared:—

1. That the Chiefship of the said State is and shall ever be hereditary in the Deb Berman family of Hill Tippera of which His Highness Radha Kishore Manikya, the present Chief of the said State, is now the lawful and acknowledged head.
2. That the Chief of the said State for the time being may, from time to time, and at any time, nominate and constitute any male member of the said family descended through males from him, or any male ancestor of his, to be his Jubraj or Successor to the said Chiefship.
3. That in the event of His Highness Radha Kishore Manikya or any succeeding Chief of the said State dying without having nominated and constituted a Jubraj or Successor, his nearest male descendant descended through males according to the rule of lineal primogeniture, and in default of such descendant his nearest male heir descended through males from any male ancestor of his according to the said rule, shall succeed to the said Chiefship, preference in either case being given to those of the whole blood over those of the half-blood.
4. That in matters relating to the appointment of a successor and the succession to the said Chiefship not heretofore expressly provided for, the usages of the said Raj family shall prevail.
5. That every succession to the said Chiefship shall, as heretofore, require the recognition of the Government of India.
6. Raja Radha Kishore Manikya may rest assured that nothing shall disturb the operation of this Sanad, so long as he and his heirs are loyal to the Crown and faithful to the British Government.

Viceroy and Governor-General of India.

PART IV.

TREATIES AND ENGAGEMENTS

relating to

BHUTAN.

BHUTAN is a State of Tibetan origin, situate in the eastern Himalayas between $26^{\circ}45'$ and 28° north latitude, and between 89° and about 92° east longitude. There is no reliable history and very little tradition regarding the origin of the Bhutan Government. Apparently immigrants from the Tibetan province of Kham occupied the country at least four centuries ago, but priests, or Lamas, from Tibet had probably obtained a footing there even earlier. The present form of Government, consisting in a dual control by the clergy and the laity, as represented by the Dharma and Deb Rajas, dates from the middle of the sixteenth century. The first Dharma Raja is said to have been Shabdung Nag-k Wang Nam Gyel (Nawang Nam Gyel), a brother or cousin of the Tibetan saint Duk Kinle, who was born about 1569. The earlier portion of Nowang Nam Gyel's life was spent in Tibet, where he married and had children, but, being warned in a dream to go south and take up his adopted country, the Lama entered Bhutan and settled for three years at Tsari—Ta-go Dorjeden. He afterwards moved to the Punakha valley, which he made his head-quarters. He appointed one Desi Amged as his minister, who thus became the first Deb Raja. After his death Nawang Nam Gyel appeared in three separate incarnations; thus his body became the second Dharma Raja Ngag-t Wang-h Jigsmed Grags-pa; his voice appeared in the person of Ngag-t Wang Sakya Tenzing, while his mind returned to Kham, where its incarnations have continued.

Nawang Nam Gyel had a son, Jam-phul Dorje, who became a celibate and incarnate Lama; and his incarnations are called Ta-sGo Khri Rimpoche to distinguish them from the successors of Nawang Sakya Tenzing, who are called the "Thi" Lamas,* or Lam Thipa. Nawang Nam Gyel appointed penlops and jongpens, officials corresponding to commissioners of divisions, to administer the country, and kept them under complete control. On his death he was succeeded by his supposed incarnation. The new Dharma Raja, when he grew up, considering that temporal and spiritual powers were incompatible, confined himself entirely to the latter, and appointed a minister to wield the former. This minister by degrees became the Deb Raja and temporal ruler of Bhutan. At present the Deb Raja is chosen by election from time to time from among certain great functionaries of the State. The Dharma Raja holds his office for life.

The next noticeable event in Bhutan history is the outbreak of hostilities with Sikkim. The third Raja of Sikkim, Cha-dhor Nam Gyel, was born in 1686, and succeeded his father about 1700. In his youth he appears to have mortally offended his half-sister Pende Amo. On his accession the quarrel broke out again, and Pende Amo, invited the Bhutanese to invade Sikkim and expel her brother. Accordingly the Deb Raja of Bhutan sent a force which overran Sikkim, occupied the palace, and compelled Raja Cha-dhor to fly to Tibet. The date of this invasion is variously given as from 1700 to 1706 and the Bhutanese appear to have held Sikkim for five or six years. On Raja Cha-dhor's return from Tibet the Bhutanese retired and evacuated all Sikkim west of the Roro Chu and Tista river, but still continued to maintain their position at Fort Damsong, and to occupy what is now the Kalimpong sub-division, and the country between the De-chu and the Tegong-la range. In 1770 the Bhutanese again invaded Sikkim, but were utterly defeated and their troops annihilated.

The first intercourse of the British Government with Bhutan commenced with the expedition sent in 1773 for the relief of the Raja of Kuch Behar (see Bengal, Volume I). The Bhutanese, driven out of Kuch Behar and pursued into the hills, threw themselves on the protection of Tibet. The Tashi Lama, then Regent of Tibet, and guardian of the Grand Lama of Lhasa, addressed the Government of India on their behalf. The application was favourably received and a Treaty of peace (No. CV) was concluded on the 25th April 1774, by which the Bhutanese agreed to pay to the British Government an annual tribute of five Tangan horses, to deliver up the Raja of Kuch Behar, and never to make any incursions into British territory or molest the rayats in any way.

From that time, with the exception of two unsuccessful commercial missions in 1774 and 1783, there was little intercourse with Bhutan, until our occupation of Assam, which connected the British and Bhutan frontiers. With the annexation of Assam there commenced a continued series of aggressions by the Bhutanese on British territory, followed by reprisals on the part of the British Government and by the occupation of the Duars, or passes, which lie at the foot of the Bhutan Hills. Besides the Kuriapara

Duar, formerly governed by the Towang Raja, who was immediately dependent on Lhasa, and not on the Bhutan Darbar, there are in all nineteen * Duars on the Bengal frontier and on the frontier of Assam. Over the Bengal Duars, which extend from the Tista, on the eastern boundary of Sikkim, to the Manas, the Bhutanese for many years held sovereign dominion; and, previous to the annexation of Assam by the British Government during the first Burmese war, they had also wrested four of the Assam Duars from the Native Government, while the other three were held on a sort of joint tenure by the Bhutanese and Assamese. The tribute for these seven Duars, including the Tarai tract below them, was paid in kind, fixed at the value of Rs. 3,049. The Kamrup Duars under this arrangement remained in the hands of the Bhutanese all the year round, but the Darrang Duars were annually surrendered to the Assamese Government from July to November. This anomalous provision led to trouble; while a further and endless source of dispute arose from the fact that the tribute was paid in kind, while its value was fixed in specie.

After the annexation of Assam, the tribute was paid to the British Government, who also continued the system of joint occupation of the three Duars of Kuriapara, Buri Guma, and Kalling. Under the British Government the character of the tenure and the mode of paying tribute were constant sources of irritation and quarrel. In 1828 outrages by the Jongpen of Buri Guma resulted in the attachment of that Duar by the Government; but in 1834 it was restored on the payment of a fine. Fresh outrages in the Bijni Duar in the following year, coupled with a refusal to pay the current tribute, were answered by threats of attachment, which, however, were not carried out. Wanton incursions from the Banska Duar in 1836 led to its attachment and ultimately to armed collision with the Bhutanese. In 1837 Captain Pemberton was sent on a mission to the Deb and Dharma Rajas, but his deputation failed to secure any effectual or permanent settlement.

In 1841, in consequence of renewed aggressions and of the increasing disorganisation of the country, the seven Assam Duars, comprising some 1,600 square miles in area, were annexed to the British possessions, and it was agreed that a sum of Rs. 10,000 should be annually paid to the Chiefs as compensation; this sum was considered equivalent to one-third of the revenue of the Kamrup and Darrang Duars. No written agreement was made regarding this arrangement.

A similar arrangement, under a written Engagement (No. CVI), was made in 1844 with the Bhutia communities dependent on the Towang Raja, and a sum of Rs. 5,000 a year, representing one-third of the net revenue, was fixed as compensation for the resumption of the Kuriapara Duar. (See page 142.)

These measures proved effectual as regards the country lying under this portion of the Bhutan hills. But along the Bengal section of the Duars outrage followed upon outrage. At length in 1854 the Darbar sent a rude intimation that the compensation paid for the loss of the Assam Duars was insufficient, and must be increased. The natural refusal of the Government of India to listen to this demand was followed by Bhutanese raids on Assam. Lord Dalhousie intimated to the Darbar that in future all property plundered by the Bhutanese would be deducted from the annual payment on account of the Assam Duars, and that further outrage would lead to the permanent annexation of the Duars on the Bengal side. These threats, however, produced no lasting effect; acts of kidnapping and plunder continued; and in 1859-60, the territory known as the Ambari Fallakotta on this side of the Tista, which was held in farm from Bhutan, was taken possession of, the terms under which it would be restored being fully explained to the Deb Raja. As these outrages did not cease, and as the usurpations of the frontier Governors made it doubtful whether letters to the Bhutan Government were not intercepted, the Deb and Dharma Rajas were informed that a mission would be sent to explain the demands of the British Government; the consequences of not acceding to them; and the terms of the treaty with the Raja of Sikkim, whom the Bhutan authorities had threatened with an attack under the pretence that the Ambari Fallakotta rents had been withheld owing to the rupture between him and the British Government. After a year's delay, caused by the evasive replies of the Bhutan Government, the mission started in December 1863.

The Envoy, the Hon'ble Ashley Eden, reached the capital, Punakha, on the 13th of March 1864, where he found the Deb and Dharma Rajas puppets in the hands of the Tongsa Penlop, the successful head of an insurrection which had lately taken place. By this man, who refused to treat except on condition of the restoration of the Assam Duars, the mission were subjected to gross outrage and insult; with difficulty they obtained permission to return after the Envoy had signed, under compulsion, an agreement that the British Government would re-adjust the whole boundary between the two countries, restore the Assam Duars; deliver up all runaway slaves and political offenders who had taken refuge in British territory; and consent to be punished by the Bhutan and Kuch Behar Governments acting together if they ever made encroachments on Bhutan.

The engagement which had been extorted from the Envoy was at once repudiated by the British Government; and, as a punishment for the treatment to which the mission had been subjected, the Ambari Fallakotta was declared (No. CVII) to be permanently annexed to the British dominions; the payment of revenue to Bhutan from the Assam Duars was stopped for ever; and the Bhutan Government were informed that, if the demands of the British Government were not complied with by the 1st September 1864, such further measures as might appear necessary would be adopted to enforce them. No steps having been taken, within the time specified, to comply with these demands, the Bengal Duars were permanently annexed (No. CVIII) to the British territories, and the districts were occupied in force by British troops.

Within a few months the Bhutan Government made overtures for peace and asked for the restoration of the Duars. They were informed that the Duars could not be restored; that if they were sincerely desirous of peace and would consent to the conditions laid down by the British Government, peace would be granted; but that if they delayed and an advance on Punakha became necessary much more stringent terms would be exacted. Preliminary negotiations were accordingly opened, and during their continuance hostilities were suspended. The principal conditions offered to the Bhutan Government were that they should surrender all British subjects and all subjects of Kuch Behar and Sikkim detained in Bhutan against their will; that they should subscribe articles for the mutual extradition of criminals, the maintenance of free trade, and the arbitration by the British Government of all disputes between the Bhutan Government and the Chiefs of Kuch Behar and Sikkim; that they should cede to the British Government the whole of the Duars, together with certain hill posts protecting the passes into Bhutan; that they should deliver up two British guns which had been lost at Dewangiri; return the agreement they had extorted from the Envoy, and apologise for the insult offered to the British Government in the person of the Envoy. It was stated that, in consideration of the fulfilment of these terms, the British Government would pay to the Bhutan Government from the revenues of the Duars an annual sum beginning with Rs. 25,000 and rising to Rs. 50,000. The treaty extorted from the Envoy was given up and an apology was tendered for the insults offered to him, but as the guns which had been lost were in the possession of the Tongsa Penlop, who had not signified his adherence to the terms, a separate Agreement (No. CIX) was concluded, providing that no payment would be made to the Bhutan Government until the guns were actually restored. They were eventually surrendered on the 25th February 1866. The permanent arrangements effected were recorded in a Treaty (No. CX) concluded on the 11th November 1865; and by the Proclamation (No. CXI) of the 4th July 1866, the Duars were declared to be annexed to the territories of the British Government. The gross revenues of these districts at the time of cession were estimated at Rs. 1,50,000. Tshang Sithub was at this time the Deb Raja: the treaty is called by the Bhutanese the ten-article treaty of Ra-wa-Pang or Pani.

In accordance with the provisions of article 5 of the treaty of 1865, payment of the allowance to the Bhutan Government was temporarily withheld in 1868, in consequence of the Bhutanese having put a stop to intercourse between Bhutan and Baxa, and of their having disregarded the provisions of article 4 by sending an officer of inferior rank to receive the annual payment. In 1869 dissensions broke out among the Bhutanese Chiefs and have since been of frequent occurrence, but the British Government has held itself aloof from the complications of Bhutan politics.

The only powerful Deb Raja who reigned for many years was Jigme Nam Gyel,* who, as Penlop of Tongsa, was so hostile to the British mission of 1864. After an unusually long reign for a ruler of Bhutan, he retired in 1873 in favour of his brother Gantem Nam Gyel,† who came to Baxa to meet the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in 1875; this was the first occasion on which a Deb Raja ever entered British India, or met one of the English Governors. Jigme Nam Gyel's retirement was, however, no more than nominal. He continued to decide everything of importance. At the beginning of 1877 the pretensions of a rival claimant caused a civil war, and for about seven months the rebels gained ground. On this Jigme Nam Gyel came forward again, resumed the supreme authority, and in a short time defeated the insurgents. Soon after, however, he once more retired in favour of Gantem Nam Gyel, who ruled till March 1879, when he resigned, and was succeeded by Shujah Jain ‡ (alias Shujah Nam Gyel).

At the end of the civil war of 1877, two Chiefs of the insurgents' party, the Penlop of Paro and the Jongpen of Punakha, with a few followers took refuge in British territory. They were disarmed on arrival at Baxa, and eventually settled in the Darjeeling hills for nearly two years, until a change in political affairs allowed of their return to Bhutan. One of the Chiefs, however, died in exile. The party arrived in a state of destitution and received from Government compassionate grants in cash and land for cultivation on condition of their abstaining from intrigues in Bhutan. The Deb Raja asked for their surrender, which was refused, as they were merely political offenders, and the treaty did not allow of it.

In March 1880 a raid was committed by a Suba on a British village, Chunbati, near Baxa on the frontier, the object being the recovery of some persons who had escaped from slavery in Bhutan and settled in British territory. Six persons were carried off, and ten of the raiders being satisfactorily identified, a demand was made for the restoration of the captives and the surrender of the raiders in accordance with the treaty. The Deb Raja delayed and made excuses. He was consequently told that the annual subsidy, paid to the Bhutan Government on condition of good behaviour, would be withheld till he complied with the demands. While the matter was pending two of the captives escaped and returned to Baxa, and eventually, on finding that the subsidy would not be otherwise paid, the remaining captives and eight out of the ten raiders were delivered at Baxa in July 1881, one raider having died and another escaped on the road. The raiders were convicted, and the sentences passed were upheld by the High Court on appeal.

Shujah Jain (alias Shujah Nam Gyel) ruled till June 1880, when he died after an illness of three months. The Jongpen of Punakha put forward a relative named * Lamchen, another Jongpen, for the throne, but Jigme Nam Gyel, distrusting this candidate, again came forward and succeeded in securing his own re-election as Deb Raja. He seems to have been unwilling to discharge the ordinary duties of the Deb Raja, but determined to be the real temporal sovereign in all matters of importance, and so, whenever he was unable to secure the election of a candidate who would be in his hands, Jigme Nam Gyel reigned in person. He died in July 1881, from the effects of a fall when riding a yak, and Lamchen, then about 45 years of age, succeeded him. Shortly after this the retired Deb Raja Gantem Nam Gyel died. Lamchen appears to have reigned peacefully till May 1885, when, in consequence of ill-health, he resigned and died a few days afterwards. Gan-Zang,* a nephew on the mother's side of his immediate predecessor, was then elected Deb Raja without opposition on the 16th May 1883. He seems to have relied as much on the two principal Chiefs, the Penlops of Paro and Tongsa, as did the Deb Rajas at the time of Sir Ashley Eden's mission.

Deb Lamchen, out of freindship to Deb Jigme Nam Gyel (Nago), appears to have appointed Tinle, the latter's eldest son, to be Paro Penlop, and the younger brother Ujen Angchu (or Angdu) Jongpen of Angdu Phodong. On the murder of his uncle, the Tongsa Penlop, Ugyen succeeded and has been Tongsa Penlop ever since. In 1883 Tinle, Paro Penlop, attacked Phari in Tibet and seized the Tibetan Jongpen: this outrage led to the mission of the Shafe Rampa and a Chinese Popon to Paro in July 1885. Shortly after his return from Phari, Tinle broke his leg and died in 1884 at his brother's place in Tongsa.

In October 1884 quarrels broke out between the Tongsa Penlop (Ugyen Wangchuk) and Alu Dorzi, Thimpu Jongpen, on account of the latter withholding Tongsa Penlop's share of the British subsidy. This resulted in the Tongsa Penlop capturing Simptokha fort about the 14th May 1885. A fortnight later the contending parties held a meeting to consider terms; but at this meeting the Tongsa Penlop's adherents attacked the opposite party, killed some of Thimpu Jongpen's adherents and wounded the Punakha Jongpen. Shortly after, in July, the Thimpu Jongpen and others fled to Tibet and asked for help.

On the 23rd August 1885, Deb Gan-Zang had to retire and was succeeded by the Tongsa Penlop's nominee, Pang Sangye Dorzi, a learned Lama who is commonly known as 'Eapen Loben,' or 'Yanpe Lopen'†

In March 1886, there was another joint Tibetan and Chinese mission to Paro, which settled certain terms of agreement between the Tongsa Penlop and Alu Dorzi, the ex-Thimpu Jongpen. But the disagreement between India and Tibet regarding Lingtu shortly afterwards breaking out, these terms were never carried into effect. The Paro Penlop paid the Political Officer, Mr. A. W. Paul, a visit at Kalimpong in March 1889. About this time Deb Yanpe resigned and the Tongsa Penlop retained the whole power. During the Sikkim expedition Alu Dorzi was suspected of having actively aided the Tibetans in the fight at Gnatong on the 22nd May 1889, and of having remained with them during the rest of the campaign. In 1891, in consequence of outrages committed on villages situated in the north of the Kamrup district of Assam, the Bhutan subsidy was temporarily stopped, and as the warnings issued to the Deb Raja produced little or no effect, a deduction of Rs. 706-12-0, being the cost of the maintenance of a police outpost at Kakolabari for the protection of British subjects, was made from the subsidy paid in 1893. The Bhutan Darbar having subsequently explained matters and adopted a friendly attitude, the payment of the subsidy in full was restored in 1894.

In 1892 the delimitation of the old boundary between Jalpaiguri and Bhutan was brought to a satisfactory conclusion.

The Deb Raja, Pang Sangye Dorzi Yanpe, died in December 1902 and Nephum Yushi Gnodup (Cholay Tulku) was appointed Deb Raja on 8th January 1905.

During the latter part of 1903, the Tongsa Penlop was invited by the Government of Bengal to come and meet the Commissioner of Rajshahi. While correspondence was going on with the Penlop on the subject, the management of the political affairs of Bhutan was transferred to Colonel Francis Younghusband, the British Commissioner for Tibet, under the direct control of the Foreign Department of the Government of India. A friendly meeting took place between Colonel Younghusband and a high Bhutan official at Chumbi, in Tibet, and the co-operation of the Bhutan Darbar was secured in making a survey of a direct route to the Chumbi valley through Bhutan. A Permit (No. CXII), sealed with the seal of the Dharma Raja of Bhutan, was given by the Darbar, permitting the survey and construction of a road, and the taking up of the necessary land for a road and rest-houses, subject to the payment of such rent as might be determined later.

The moment of the advance into Tibet, under Colonel Younghusband, constituted a turning point in the relation of the British with Bhutan. The Tongsa Penlop, after a meeting with Sir F. Younghusband, at once attached himself to British fortunes, and accompanied the mission to Lhasa. He subsequently showed himself anxious on all occasions to draw closer the bonds which united his State to the Government of India. For his personal service and valuable assistance to the Tibet mission, the Tongsa Penlop received the thanks of the Government of India and the distinction of a Knight Commander of the Indian Empire; and in March 1905 a mission was deputed to Bhutan under Mr. J. C. White, Political Officer of Sikkim, to present the insignia to Sir Ugyen Wang Chuk.

The Dharma Raja of Bhutan died in 1904, and the office then remained in abeyance as his re-incarnation (re-incarnation of the fresh Shabdag Rimpochi) could not appear on earth for three years. Meanwhile the Deb Raja is not only the Deb Raja by election, but the representative of the Shabdag Rimpochi as Dharma Raja, and he thus combines in his own person the headship of the religious and secular Government of Bhutan. This is the first instance of a Deb Raja acting in both capacities.

In view of the friendly relations which had been established with the State, it was considered desirable that the Dharma-Deb Raja of Bhutan and the Tongsa Penlop, in common with the rulers and nobles of other Native States in India, should have an opportunity of paying their respects to the Prince of Wales during His Royal Highness' tour in India, and the Political Officer in Sikkim was accordingly authorised to invite the Raja and the Tongsa Penlop with a limited number of followers to pay a visit to Calcutta during the period of His Royal Highness' stay there. The Raja replied that he was precluded by his religious duties from accepting the invitation, but that he would be glad to send, as his representative, the Tongsa Penlop, who had always carried on the secular function of the State. Sir Ugyen Wang Chuk accordingly arrived in Calcutta on the 23rd December and was accommodated at Hastings House. He was attended by two members of the Council of State, and as the representative of the ruling authority of Bhutan was treated with the consideration usually shown to a Native Chief whose salute is 15 guns. He was also accorded the honour of a reception and a return visit by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and also by His Excellency the Viceroy. At the reception nazars were presented by the Tongsa Penlop on behalf of the Raja and the Bhutan Council, as well as for himself; and at the return visit paid by the Prince of Wales the Penlop handed to His Royal Highness a letter* containing most cordial expressions of loyalty addressed by him to the Viceroy on behalf of the whole Bhutan Darbar, comprising the Raja and his Ministers.

* "Henceforth His Most Gracious Majesty the King-Emperor and His Excellency the Viceroy are as the Sun and Moon, and we, the minor Chiefs under the Supreme Government, as the Stars. As the Stars and Constellations never fail in loyally attending on the Sun and Moon, so do we the entire Bhutanese nation resolve to do likewise to the Supreme Government, hoping that as the Sun and Moon are like the parents of the whole world, we also will enjoy the blessings of their beneficial rays for ever and ever till the cessation of worldly existence. I, on behalf of the whole Bhutan Darbar comprising the Raja and Ministers, beg to offer this with our most sincere and earnest prayers on this 16th day of the 11th month of the Bhutia Shengdal year (5th January 1906)."

The State of Bhutan was definitely transferred from the political control of the Government of Bengal to that of the Government of India with effect from April 1st, 1906. A new political charge was at the same time created comprising the States of Bhutan and Sikkim and such parts of Tibet as fell within the sphere of British influence, and was placed under Mr. J. C. White.

There are agents of the Bhutan State at Darjeeling and Baxa appointed and paid by the British Government.

There is no accurate information in regard to the population, area, or revenue of Bhutan. The population and area are, however, believed to be approximately 400,000 souls and 20,000 square miles, respectively. The value of the registered trade with British territory in 1904-05 was—

	Rs.
Imports from Bhutan	5,60,144
Exports to Bhutan	1,38,306
TOTAL	6,98,450

The manufacture of rifles is carried on in Bhutan. The art was taught there by two Muhammadans from Delhi, who left Bhutan some years ago, and now about eight or nine local blacksmiths are said to be able to manufacture rifles. These weapons may possibly be of the Martini pattern. The iron for the manufacture of rifles is probably imported by way of the Duars. Lead for the manufacture of bullets is believed to be obtained from the Duars tea gardens and is manufactured at Paro.

KHUREETA to HIS HIGHNESS the DEB RAJAH—(dated Simla, the 9th June 1864).

You are well aware that for many years passed wanton outrages have been committed by your subjects within the territories of the British Government and within the territories of the Rajahs of Sikkim and Cooch Behar, who are under British protection. Men, women, and children have been kidnapped and sold into slavery; some have been put to death; others have been cruelly wounded; and much valuable property has been carried off or destroyed. These outrages, it is well known, are not the act of individual criminals, who set the laws of Bhootan at defiance; they are perpetrated with the knowledge and at the instigation of some of the leading Chiefs of Bhootan. Over a period of thirty-six years these aggressions have extended. Many remonstrances have been in vain addressed to the Bhootan Government, and the British Government has been compelled, in its own defence and the defence of its protected and subordinate allies, to have recourse to measures of retribution. In 1828 and 1836 the British Government were most reluctantly forced to occupy the Booree Gooma and the Baska Dooars, but these districts were subsequently restored to the Bhootan Government in the hope that the Bhootan Government would fulfil the offices of friendship towards their neighbour by restraining their subjects from the commission of such aggressions for the future.

This hope proved illusory, and after the British Government had in vain endeavoured to secure a better understanding with the Bhootan Government

* Ghurkola.	Chappakhamar.	by means of a friendly mission, it became necessary in 1841 to annex permanently to the British dominions the seven* Assam Dooars, a measure which, it was believed, would convince the Bhootan Government that British territory cannot with impunity be persistently and wantonly violated. Nevertheless, the British Government, willing to believe in the friendship of your Government, and careful only to secure an undisturbed frontier and to live at peace with the people of Bhootan, paid to your Government annually a sum of Rupees 10,000 from the revenues of these Dooars.

But even this moderation on the part of the British Government, this sign of its anxiety above all things for peace, was misunderstood. Outrages did not cease. Precautions had to be taken for the defence of the British frontier, and not only the Deb and Dhurma Rajahs, but the local Governors on the frontier, particularly the Tongso Pillo, had to be distinctly warned that unless these insults to the British Government were put a stop to, the British Government would have no alternative but to resort to further measures of retribution.

These warnings were ineffectual; it is unnecessary to repeat the numerous acts of aggression to which the British Government patiently submitted, and the further remonstrances which were addressed to your Government before they carried their threats into execution by the stoppage of the rent of Rupees 2,000 a year for the Ambaree Fallacottah, which the British Government held in farm. Of the reasons which forced the British Government to this measure, your Government were duly informed, and you were warned that the rents of Ambaree Fallacottah would not be paid until full reparation should be made, captives released, and the guilty parties punished. These measures also proved ineffectual; and as the British Government were unwilling to be committed to a course of retributive coercion, it was determined to make one effort more by peaceful negotiation and the despatch of a friendly mission to explain fully the demands of the British Government and to put the relations of the two Governments on a satisfactory footing. Of this intention the Bhootan Government were informed in 1862 by a special messenger, who carried letters to the Deb and Dhurma Rajahs, and by more recent letters addressed to you by the Honorable the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. The mission, under the conduct of the Honorable Ashley Eden, a high functionary of the British Government, and my Envoy and plenipotentiary, reached your Court at Poonakha on 13th March 1864. Mr. Eden was the bearer of a Draft Treaty which he was instructed to negotiate with you. The terms of that Treaty were so just and reasonable, and so favourable to the best interests of both Governments, that I did not anticipate its rejection, more especially as Mr. Eden had full discretion to modify any of the details not inconsistent with the principles of the Treaty to meet the wishes of the Bhootan Government. It was, of course, optional with you to accept or reject this Treaty in whole or in part, and had you received my Envoy in the manner suited to his rank as my representative, and as by the usages of nations he ought to have been received, but declared your inability to accede to the demands of the British Government, this rejection of my proposals, however much to be regretted as forcing the British Government to coercive measures for the protection of the persons and property of its subjects, would not in itself have been an offence.

But you are aware that not only have the just demands of the British Government been refused, but they have been refused in a manner disgraceful to yourself and to your Durbar and insulting to the British Government. Not only has the Envoy deputed to your Court not been received with the dignity due to his rank; he has not even received that protection from personal insult and violence which is extended to an Envoy by the laws of all nations save the most barbarous. By the Tongso Pillo and his coadjutors in Council the letter addressed to you on the part of the British Government has been treated with contumely; my Envoy was publicly insulted and derided in your own presence, and has been compelled under threats of personal violence to sign an engagement agreeing to restore the Assam Dooars.

This engagement I entirely repudiate, not only because it was beyond Mr. Eden's instructions to agree to any such terms, but because the engagement was extorted from him by personal violence and threats of imprisonment. The treatment to which the mission which was deputed to your Court to remove all causes of dispute by peaceful negotiation was subjected, has been so disgraceful that the British Government cannot allow the Government of Bhootan to go unpunished.

I am aware that your authority has been usurped by the Tongso Pillo and other Chiefs, but it cannot be permitted that, for the insubordination of your Chiefs and the internal distractions which weaken the Government of Bhootan, the subjects of the British Government should suffer and the Envoy of the British Government should be insulted and maltreated.

I therefore inform you that the district of Ambaree Fallacottah, heretofore held in rent from the Bhootan Government, is permanently annexed to the British dominions, and that all payments of rent from that district and of revenues from the Assam Dooars to the Bhootan Government have ceased for ever. You have been informed both in writing and by my Envoy that all British subjects of Cooch Behar and Sikkim, of whom there are said to be more than three hundred, who are now held captive by your Chiefs and in your monasteries, or are detained in Bhootan against their will, must be released, and that the property which has been carried off from British territory, or Cooch Behar, or Sikkim within the last five years, must be restored. I now warn you that, unless these demands are fully complied with by the 1st day of September next, that is, three months from this date, I shall take such further measures to enforce these demands as may seem to me to be necessary.

PROCLAMATION,—1864.

For many years past outrages have been committed by subjects of the Bhootan Government within British territory, and in the territories of the Rajahs of Sikkim and Cooch Behar. In these outrages property has been plundered and destroyed, lives have been taken, and many innocent persons have been carried into and are still held in captivity.

The British Government, ever sincerely desirous of maintaining friendly relations with neighbouring States, and specially mindful of the obligations imposed on it by the Treaty of 1774, has endeavoured from time to time by conciliatory remonstrance to induce the Government of Bhootan to punish the perpetrators of these crimes, to restore the plundered property, and to liberate the captives. But such remonstrances have never been successful, and, even when followed by serious warning, have failed to produce any satisfactory result. The British Government has been frequently deceived by vague assurances and promises for the future, but no property has ever been restored, no captive liberated, no offender punished, and the outrages have continued.

In 1863 the Government of India, being averse to the adoption of extreme measures for the protection of its subjects and dependent allies, despatched a special mission to the Bhootan Court, charged with proposals of a conciliatory character, but instructed to demand the surrender of all captives, the restoration of plundered property, and security for the future peace of the frontier.

This pacific overture was insolently rejected by the Government of Bhootan. Not only were restitution for the past and security for the future refused, but the British Envoy was insulted in open Durbar, and compelled, as the only means of ensuring the safe return of the mission, to sign a document which the Government of India could only instantly repudiate.

For this insult the Governor-General in Council determined to withhold for ever the annual payments previously made to the Bhootan Government on account of the revenues of the Assam Doars and Ambaree Fallacottah, which had long been in the occupation of the British Government, and annexed those districts permanently to British territory. At the same time, still anxious to avoid an open rupture, the Governor-General in Council addressed a letter to the Deb and Dhurma Rajahs, formally demanding that all captives detained in Bhootan against their will should be released, and that all property carried off during the last five years should be restored.

To this demand the Government of Bhootan has returned an evasive reply, from which can be gathered no hope that the just requisitions of the Government of India will ever be complied with, or that the security of the frontier can be provided for otherwise than by depriving the Government of Bhootan and its subjects of the means and opportunity of future aggression.

The Governor-General in Council has therefore reluctantly resolved to occupy permanently and annex to British territory the Bengal Doars of Bhootan, and so much of the Hill territory, including the Forts of Dallingkot, Panakha, and Dewangiri, as may be necessary to command the passes, and to prevent hostile or predatory incursions of Bhootanese into the Darjeeling district or into the plains below. A Military Force amply sufficient to occupy this tract and to overcome all resistance has been assembled on the frontier, and will now proceed to carry out this resolve.

All Chiefs, Zamindars, Munduls, Ryots, and other inhabitants of the tract in question are hereby required to submit to the authority of the British Government, to remain quietly in their homes, and to render assistance to the British troops and to the Commissioner who is charged with the administration of the tract. Protection of life and property and a guarantee of all private rights is offered to those who do not resist, and strict justice will be done to all. The lands will be moderately assessed, and all oppression and extortion will be absolutely prohibited.

The future boundary between the territories of the Queen of England and those of Bhootan will be surveyed and marked off, and the authority of the Government of Bhootan within this boundary will cease for ever.

By order of the Governor-General in Council.

We further agree that no money payment under the Treaty shall be due to the Bhootan Government in the event of Mr. Eden and Cheebo Lama declaring that a second copy of the Treaty extorted from them was left by them in Bhootan, until such time as the said second copy shall be found and surrendered to the Representative of the British Government, and we fully understand and acknowledge that, until the two * British guns are restored, no money payment under the Treaty will be due to the Bhootan Government.

TRANSLATION of a PERMIT granted for the CONSTRUCTION of a ROAD in BHOOTAN by the DHARMA RAJA, dated the 11th day of the 1st month (corresponding to the 27th February 1904).

At the present time, when there is a small dispute between the English and the Tibetans, the English Saheb, Colonel Younghusband, British Commissioner, having arrived at Phari, and as the English and Bhootanese have been sincere friends from the beginning up to the present time, like a silk scarf without a spot, the Saheb friends have asked to be allowed to open a travellers' road, in the lands of Paro Ringpung, namely, in one or other of Sangbe, Ammo-chhu, and De-chhu. This permit is therefore granted for opening a travellers' road in one or other of the above noted places. No work shall be done likely to cause injury to the lands adjoining the travellers' road on the right and left. Moreover, with regard to making halting places, except the making of houses for the Sahebs themselves to remain in, no other injury of any sort is to be made. Moreover, the rent for the clearing and opening of the road will be settled by meeting and discussion between Therefore the present order is given by the Bhootan Dharma Raja Desi. Dated the 11th of the 1st month of the wood dragon year (corresponds to the 27th February 1904).

PART V.

TREATIES AND ENGAGEMENTS

relating to

SIKKIM.

SIKKIM, called by the Tibetans Demojong and Demoshong, i.e., the Sland or valley of rice, and by the Lepcha called Rong, is at present bounded on the north by Tibet, on the east by Bhutan, on the west by Nepal, and on the south by the British district of Darjeeling. The name Sikkim, or more properly Sikhim or Sukhym, is perhaps derived from two Limbu words meaning "New Palace," and refers to the new kingdom founded by the Tibet foreigner, Penchoo Nam Gyel.

The boundary with Tibet has been defined in article 1 of the Anglo-Chinese Convention of the 17th March 1890; and that with Nepal is a continuation southward of the above boundary. On the east the river De-chu or Dik-chu, rising in Mount-Gipmochi, practically separates Sikkim from Bhutan.

In remote times the country of the Rong-pa or Lepcha was much more extensive, as in an old document it is thus described:—"Demojong lies to the south-west of Lhasa, being bounded on the north by the Mon-

*The Tangle pass by Thangla * mountain, which is guarded by the spirit Chumalhari just north of Kiting. On the east of Demojong lies the Tegongla Phari. mountain. Its southern gate is Nagsarbhati † which †Nukeshwarbari in the is guarded by Magon-Chambdul-Yabdui. Its Tarai(†). western gate Timar ‡ Chhorten is guarded by the ‡ Probably Tambur Chhorten now in Nepal. terrible female spirit Mamo. The Kangchan Joina§ § Kanchinjinga. mountains and the spirit Thamar Gamen of Zar guard it on the north."

The country was then chiefly inhabited by Lepcha, but encroachments on all sides very shortly took place.

In the beginning of the sixteenth century of our era, there was born of a noble family, which was connected with a ruling dynasty of China, at a place called Kham-minag-andong near Lithang, one Guru Tashe. Being warned by an oracle, Guru Tashe proceeded to Lhasa, whence his son Jo-khye-Bumsa found his way to Sakya. Here the son succeeded in raising one of the four great pillars of the chief monastery; this was said to have defied the efforts of 10,000 men to raise, hence the ancestor of the Sikkim Rajas gained his name "The Lord of 10,000 Heroes." In Sakya he married the daughter of the Hierarch. From Sakya he proceeded to Chumbi, where he built a house, the site alone of which now remains, to the north of the present palace. Being childless, he consulted the Lamas and was told to propitiate the Chiefs of the Lepcha. He crossed the Chola and at Rankpo met Thekong-Tek and Nyekong-Nal, Lepchas; they promised him three sons. He returned to Chumbi, where two sons were born, while the third was born at Pyakchen, below Phieungong; their names were Lang-morab (The Ploughman), Kyabo-rab (The Swindler), and Mipon-rab (The Leader of Men); these came into Sikkim to Gangtok, but their father remained and died at Chumbi. At Gangtok, Mipon-rab, who had married a Tibetan lady of Sakya, had born to him a son, who is known as Guru Tashe: his grandson, Phun-tsho-Nam Gyel (i.e., Penchoo Namgya), the date of whose birth is given as 1604 A.D., became the first Raja of Sikkim.

Some thirty odd years later, three celebrated Lamas came into Sikkim,

(a) i.e., Kua-zong Nam Gyel, who founded the old monastery at Dubdi; his followers founded Sanga Cholling for all nationalities, and afterwards Pemi-onchi for Tasongs.

(b) His followers founded Kartok.

These met at Yok-sam and deliberated over the way to convert the people of Sikkim to the truths of Buddhism. The result was that they sent To-den Kalzang Tondub to search for a man named Penchoo. This Lama came to Gangtok, where he found Phun-tsho-Nam Gyel mentioned above, and

There had been several Bhutanese invasions before the reign of Cha-dhor Nam Gyel, but it was about 1706, when De-ba zi-r Dar was Raja of Bhutan, that his general Ta-pa-nag-wang-Tin-le occupied Rubdenchi and built forts at Ongdo-phodang, Takse-gong, and Nam Gyel Tempoo in Sikkim. The result of all these invasions was the permanent loss of all the country between the Tista (Teesta) river south of the Rishi Chu and the Tegong la range. Again, while Chug-phui-Nam Gyel was still but a child, the war between Nepal and Tibet-cum-China broke out, and the Nepalese, after sacking Tashi-lhunpo, destroyed Rubdenchi and established themselves firmly in Sikkim, south and west of the Tista. The tradition goes that after the Chinese had expelled the Nepalese from Tibet, they called on the Sikkimese to show their boundaries. The Raja being a minor and a fugitive, and everything being in confusion, there was no one to come forward, so the Chinese-Tibetan authorities gave up the Tista to the Nepalese as the south boundary of Sikkim, made the Chola-Jelap range the north and east boundary, and appropriating the Chumbi valley as part of Tibet, even went so far as to deprive the Sikkim Raja of his ancestor's estate at Piahte-jong and Samye in the province of U (Lhasa).

For some years Pemionchi and all the south Tista tract of Sikkim paid rent to Nepal until 1815, when the Nepalese were expelled by the British, who in 1817 restored all this country, together with the Tarai, to the Sikkim Raja. British relations with Sikkim had commenced at the outbreak of the war with Nepal in 1814-15. The Gurkhas commenced inroads on Sikkim as early as 1780, and when their encroachments in British territory resulted in war, they had overrun Sikkim as far eastward as the Tista river, including the Morang or Tarai at the foot of the hills. It was the object of the British Government to give every possible assistance to the Maharaja of Sikkim to expel the Gurkhas, and on the conclusion of the Nepal war the country between the Mechi and the Tista, which had been wrested by the British from the Nepalese, was made over by Treaty (No. CXIII) to him. The main object of this treaty was to shut out the Nepalese from the means of carrying out any views of aggrandisement to the eastward. But even then Sikkim lost the country between the present Nepal boundary and the Tambur river. On the eastern portion of this tract there are still living several Lepcha families under a Lepcha Kazi.

From 1817 to 1825 there do not appear to have been any business transactions between the Maharaja of Sikkim and the British Government. But in 1825 or 1826, one Bah-Lu or Bho Lod, the Prime Minister of Sikkim, and maternal uncle to Raja Chug-phu: Nam Gyel, was murdered by the latter's orders, while Bah-Lu's cousin, Yuk Lha Thup alias Da-Thup, fearing a similar fate, fled from Sikkim and took refuge in Nepal with some 800 of his Lepcha tribesmen.

Shortly after this disputes arose on the Sikkim and Nepal boundary which came under the cognizance of the Governor-General's Agent for the North-Eastern Frontier and the Resident in Nepal. In 1828 Captain Lloyd was deputed to the Sikkim frontier in connection with these disputes. He penetrated the hills in company with Mr. J. W. Grant, the Commercial Resident at Malda, as far as Rinchingpung. These gentlemen, attracted by the position of Darjeeling, brought it to the notice of the Governor-General, and it was resolved by Government to open negotiations with the Maharaja of Sikkim on the first convenient occasion for the cession of Darjeeling to the British Government in return for an equivalent in lands or money. This opportunity occurred in 1834-35, when the Lepcha refugees in Nepal made an inroad into the Sikkim Tarai, and Colonel Lloyd was deputed to enquire into the causes of the disturbance. The refugees were obliged to return to Nepal, and the negotiation ended in the unconditional cession by the Maharaja of the Darjeeling tract under a Deed of Grant (No. CXIV), dated February 1835.

In 1841 the Government granted an allowance of Rs. 3,000 a year to the Maharaja as compensation for the cession of Darjeeling, and in 1846 a further sum of Rs. 3,000—in all Rs. 6,000 a year.

The settlement of Darjeeling advanced rapidly, its population having risen from not more than 100 souls in 1839 to about 10,000 in 1849, chiefly by immigration from the neighbouring States of Nepal, Sikkim, and Bhutan, in all of which slavery is prevalent. There was free trade in labour and all other commodities, with forest land enough for all-comers to settle in, and every encouragement was given to the new arrivals. The increased importance of Darjeeling, under free institutions, was a source of early and constant jealousy and annoyance to the Diwan of the Maharaja, who was himself the monopolist of all trade in Sikkim, and it was shared in by the Lamas and other principal people in the country, who lost their rights over slaves settling as British subjects in British territory. The plan pursued was through reports and secret emissaries to frighten new British subjects, by declaring that they would be delivered up as escaped slaves to their former masters, and by discouraging the resort in every way of the Sikkim people to Darjeeling; added to which some British subjects were occasionally kidnapped to be sold into slavery, and there were frequent denials of aid in capturing and surrendering criminals. There had always been an arrangement for a mutual exchange of slaves between Sikkim and Bhutan, and Dr. Campbell, the Superintendent of Darjeeling, was constantly importuned by the Maharaja of Sikkim and his Diwan to get the British Government to follow a similar course with Sikkim, which was of necessity steadily refused.

In 1849 Dr. Hooker and Dr. Campbell, while travelling in Sikkim with the permission of Government and of the Maharaja, were suddenly seized and made prisoners. The object was to force Dr. Campbell to relinquish claims for the surrender of criminals; to make him, while in durance, agree to the dictation of the Diwan regarding the giving up of escaped slaves and to detain him until these enforced conditions should be sanctioned by Government. Foiled by the declaration that whatever concessions might be extorted then would not be confirmed by Government, and intimidated by the declaration of the Governor-General that the Maharaja's own head should answer for it if a hair of the head of Dr. Campbell or Dr. Hooker were hurt, the Sikkimese eventually released the prisoners on the 24th December 1849.

In February 1850 an avenging force crossed the Great Ranjit river into Sikkim. The expedition resulted in the stoppage of the annual grant of Rs. 6,000 enjoyed by the Maharaja, the annexation of the Sikkim Tarai, and of the portion of the Sikkim hills bounded by the Rammam river on the north, the Great Ranjit and the Tista on the east, and by the Nepal frontier on the west. This new territory was put under the management of the Superintendent of Darjeeling; the Diwan was ostensibly dismissed from office, and for some years matters proceeded smoothly and well between Sikkim and the British Government. But this man having worked his way into power again through his wife, an illegitimate daughter of the Maharaja, the kidnapping of British subjects was resumed without the possibility of obtaining redress. In April and May 1860 two aggravated cases of kidnapping were reported to Government. All ordinary efforts to procure reparation having failed, the Governor-General in Council resolved to occupy the territory of the Maharaja lying to the north of the Rammam river and to the west of the Great Ranjit, and to retain it until British subjects were restored, the offenders given up, and security obtained against a recurrence of similar offences. On the 1st November 1860 the Superintendent of Darjeeling crossed the Rammam with a small force, and advanced as far as Rinching-pung. But he was eventually forced to fall back on Darjeeling. A stronger force was then despatched under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Gawler, accompanied by the Hon'ble Ashley Eden, as Envoy and Special Commissioner. The force advanced to the Tista when the Sikkimese acceded to the terms dictated by the Governor-General, and on the 28th March 1861 a new Treaty (No. CXV), consisting of twenty-three articles, was concluded by the Envoy with Maharaja Sidkeong Nam Gyel, as his father, Maharaja Chunj Phui Nam Gyel, though alive and in Chumbi, was afraid to come over.

The annual allowance of Rs. 6,000 forfeited in 1850 was in 1862 restored as an act of grace to the ruling Maharaja Sidkeong Nam Gyel: it was increased in 1868 to Rs. 9,000, and in 1873 to Rs. 12,000, on the understanding that it was granted without any reference to the increased value of Darjeeling and purely as a mark of consideration for the Maharaja.

In 1868 the Maharaja solicited permission for the return of the ex-Diwan, but the request was refused as being contrary to the 7th article of the treaty of 1861, and likely to lead to intrigues for the succession. But to understand this and subsequent events, an examination of the family relations of Raja Chug Phui Nam Gyel is necessary.

Neither Chug Phui nor Sidkeong Raja appears to have taken much interest in the administration, and so, in consequence of their relationship by marriage and birth, first Diwan Namgay, and after his punishment, in a lesser degree, Changzed Kar-po became the really influential personages in the State. Diwan Namgay * was anti-English in feeling and conduct, while Changzed, on the other hand, pretended much sympathy for the English.

* Died in 1888.

In 1873 Raja Sidkeong Nam Gyel, accompanied by his half-brother, the present Raja Thothub Nam Gyel, and his half-sister Seringputti, and Changzed Gelong Kar-po, visited Sir George Campbell, then Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, at Darjeeling.

Raja Sidkeong Nam Gyel died in April 1874, and intrigues were attempted to set aside the accession of Thothub Nam Gyel in favour of Tindle Nam Gyel.

On the death of his half-brother, Thothub married the widow, a lady of Tashi-lhunpo, by name Pending. She died in childbirth in 1880, leaving three children by Thothub—vis., a daughter, Nam Gyel Dumo, born in 1876, and two sons, the elder Tchodak-Nam Gyel, heir to the Raj, born in 1877, and the younger Chotal, born in 1879, supposed to be the incarnation at Phodang of Sidkeong Nam Gyel.

In October 1875, Sir Richard Temple had a friendly interview with the Raja and Changzed Kar-po at Chomnaga near the Cho-la pass. At this interview the Raja expressed his desire that the British Government should undertake arrangements for the conservation of the sal, pine, and other forests in his territory, but nothing was actually carried out.

The Maharaja was invited to be present at the Imperial Assemblage at Delhi, on the 1st January 1877, but as he was unable to attend, his banner, medal, and ring were duly presented to him at Tumlong by Mr. John Ware Edgar (afterwards the Hon'ble Sir John Edgar), then Deputy Commissioner of Darjeeling.

Some complications, which had arisen as far back as 1872 between one Lachhmi Das Pradhan, the head of the Nepalese Newars in Darjeeling, and the Lasso Kazi, the Sikkim Vakil in Darjeeling, but had been smoothed over, again became prominent in 1878, so that in November of that year the present Raja and Changzed Kar-po came to Kalimpong to meet the Hon'ble Sir Ashley Eden, the then Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. The question of Nepalese settling in Sikkim was there discussed, and Nepalese settlers were admitted in certain parts under certain restrictions. This agreement owing to the intrigues of the exiled Diwan Namgay, the Dorji Lopen of Pemionchi and Norden Gelong, tashildar at Kalimpong, did not work well, and events culminated in the disturbances and fight at Rhenok in 1880. Mr. A. W. Paul was then sent to settle matters at Pumlong, and a fresh agreement was drawn up and promulgated on the 14th April 1880. This, with some slight modifications arranged by the Phodang Lama and the Dorji Lopen, worked well.

Changzed Kar-po, after a visit to Gyantse, where he met the Chinese Amban and some of the Tibetan officials, died in 1879. This visit apparently took place shortly after the interview with Sir Ashley Eden, and appears to have resulted in some secret agreement with Tibet and the investiture of Thothub Nam Gyel with a Chinese button of the first rank (plain coral).

As stated above, Rani Pending died in 1880, and these two deaths threw the whole power of the State into the hands of the old Rani Men-chi and Diwan Namgay, who naturally, from living wholly at Chumbi, favoured Tibetan interests and the cause of young Tinle, then growing up to manhood.

Raja Thothub meanwhile lived peacefully at Tumlong and evinced no disposition to contract a second marriage. However, pressure seems to have been brought to bear on him, and so having obtained two elephants from the Government of Bengal in 1881, he sent them to the Grand Lamas at Tashi-lhunpo and Lhasa, in charge of Nudup Gyaltsen (brother of the Phodang Lama) and the Rhenok Kazi. These officers, when at Lhasa, arranged a marriage between the Raja and the daughter of Shape Yutok, one of the leading men in Tibet.

Unfortunately the old Rani and her son, Tinkle, accompanied by Diwan Namgay, followed shortly afterwards in 1882-83, and apparently in furtherance of their design to place Tinkle in direct succession to the Raj, broke off this match, and secured as a wife to the Raja the daughter of an inferior officer in the Dalai Lama's court, known as Leden-se. It is said that the old Rani had to execute a bond, guaranteeing that the Raja of Sikkim would receive the girl as his Rani; but without the slightest attempt at a show of decency, the girl immediately went to live with Tinkle, and by the time the party returned from Lhasa to Chumbi, she was very far gone in pregnancy, and in fact bore two children before Raja Thothub ever saw her. All this helped the intrigues in favour of Tinkle, as his joint marriage with Leden-se's daughter is pointed out as proving that Thothub and Tinkle are legitimate brothers and so both of the royal family, polyandry being permissible under Tibetan law.

Raja Thothub up to 1884 remained in Sikkim and refused to have anything to do with the girl, but in 1885 the influence of Tinkle became too great, especially as the Deputy Commissioner himself approved of his going to Chumbi to learn what was being done regarding the dispute between Bhutan and Tibet and the interruptions to trade. Accordingly Raja Thothub went over to Chumbi nominally to pay his respects to the Shape Rampa. Subsequently the Raja was requested to remain at Chumbi, while the Macaulay Mission was in progress in 1886. In that year, after the stoppage of the mission, the Tibetans advanced into Sikkim and built a fort at Lingtu which they persistently refused to evacuate. The Raja remained at Chumbi notwithstanding the remonstrances of the Indian Government and the stoppage of his pension, until December 1887, when he returned to Gangtok, having in the meantime made an agreement with the Tibetans at a place called Galing. In March 1888 the Sikkim expeditionary force was sent against Lingtu, which the Tibetans were compelled to evacuate, and in September the campaign ended with the complete expulsion of the Tibetans across the Jelap.

In December 1888 the Chinese Resident, His Excellency Shêng Tai, arrived at Gnatong, and negotiations were opened with a view to a settlement of the Sikkim-Tibetan dispute, but were unsuccessful, and so were formally broken off on the 11th January 1889.

On the arrival in Darjeeling of Mr. James H. Hart, of the Chinese Imperial Customs Service, fresh attempts at the solution of the difficulties experienced by the British were made, and, after a long interchange of views, negotiations were re-opened towards the close of 1889, and resulted in the Convention (No. CXVI) signed in Calcutta on the 17th March 1890.

In June 1889, Mr. J. C. White, Executive Engineer, was appointed Political Officer at Gangtok to advise and assist the Maharaja in his administration of the country. A representative council selected from the chief men in Sikkim was also established. The salary of the Political Officer was met by withholding the annual subsidy of Rs. 12,000 to the Sikkim State.

During 1891 the Maharaja resided continuously at Rubdenchi; the council were unable to induce him to return to Gangtok; and he showed little interest in the administration. In March 1892 the Maharaja secretly left Pemionchi, where he had recently been staying, with the intention of proceeding to Tibet. On entering Nepal the party was, however, stopped and after communication with the Government of India, the Nepal Darbar escorted them back to British territory. The Maharaja was then informed that, as he had declined to comply with the conditions prescribed by the Government of India, he must remain out of power and under surveillance. As, however, he subsequently expressed regret for the past and promised loyalty for the future, he was allowed to return to Gangtok in November 1895. The Maharaja administers his State with the assistance of a council and under the general guidance and supervision of the political officer.

In December 1893, Regulations (No. CXVII) regarding trade, communications and pasturage, to be appended to the above-mentioned convention of 1890 were drawn up. They provided for the establishment of a trade mart at Yatung on the Tibetan side of the frontier. The import and export of certain goods were either prohibited, or permitted subject to such restrictions as either Government might impose, and other goods were to be exempt from duty for a period of 5 years, after which a tariff might be mutually agreed upon. During this period of five years, trade in Indian tea was not to be engaged in. The mart at Yatung was opened in 1894 by the Political Officer of Sikkim and Mr. J. G. Taylor of the Chinese Imperial Customs.

In May 1895 a boundary commission was appointed, but with no satisfactory results. The Tibetans and the Chinese authorities both refused to recognise the line of demarcation fixed by the convention of 1890.

Owing to the residence of Tchodak Nam Gyel, the eldest son of the Maharaja, in Tibet, and his refusal to leave it in spite of the intimation that if he did not return to Sikkim he would forfeit all right to succeed to the gadi, the Government of India in February 1899, finally recognised the second son, Sidkeong Tulku, as the heir. The eldest son is still in Tibet, and both he and the Maharaja's half-brother, Tinle Nam Gyel, are not allowed to return to Sikkim without the permission of Government.

In May 1900 the Maharaja visited Sir John Woodburn, the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, at Darjeeling accompanied by his second son, Maharaj Kumar Sidkeong Tulku. In the same year Sidkeong Tulku went for six months to St. Paul's School at Darjeeling to improve his education in English and resided as a private boarder in the house of the Rector. In the cold weather of 1900-01 he was sent on a tour with the Political Officer, Mr. White, and visited Calcutta, Rangoon, Mandalay, Madras, Colombo, Bombay and other places of interest in India. At Calcutta he had an interview with His Excellency the Viceroy.

In November 1901 Sir John Woodburn, accompanied by the Chief Secretary, the Commissioner of Rajshahi division, and the members of His Honour's Staff, paid a return visit to the Maharaja at Gangtok, where he was cordially received by His Highness, and friendly visits were interchanged between His Honour and the Maharaja. The policy and intention of Government regarding the administration of Sikkim were explained to the Maharaja, and an increase of His Highness's personal allowance was sanctioned in recognition of the improvement in his bearing towards the British Government.

In May 1902 the Government of India decided to assert their treaty rights in respect to the boundary by expelling any Tibetan posts and officials found at Giaogong, or elsewhere, on the Sikkim side of the frontier described in article I of the Sikkim-Tibet convention. Mr. White was accordingly directed to proceed to Giaogong. He left Gangtok for the frontier on 15th June 1902, accompanied by a military escort, and expelled the Tibetan outposts and officials stationed at Giaogong, and destroyed the Tibetan walls and block houses on the British side of the frontier without any opposition. The party returned in August 1902, after having traversed and surveyed the whole of the boundary line north of Giaogong and the Donkia la and Lonak, and having taken a complete and careful survey of the country on both sides of the frontier. The Tibetan graziers and traders were permitted to remain, but were informed that they had no rights within that area.

In June 1903 the Government of India deputed a mission to Tibet under Colonel (now Sir Francis) Younghusband, to meet the Chinese and Tibetan representatives in order to settle long pending questions relating to the Sikkim-Tibet boundary and trade facilities. The mission, of which Mr. J. C. White, Political Officer, Sikkim, was a member, stayed for some months at Khamba Jong. As it was impossible to induce the Tibetans to negotiate there, the mission was forced to proceed to Chumbi, and eventually, towards the close of March 1904, to Gyantse, which it reached in April. In July it moved forward to Lhasa, where in September a treaty with Tibet was signed, and the mission then returned to India.

The Maharaja was invited to the Imperial Darbar held at Delhi on 1st January 1903, but owing to ill health was unable to attend, but sent his son and heir, Maharaj Kumar Sidkeong Tulku, to represent him. A gold Delhi Darbar medal was awarded to the Maharaj Kumar and two silver medals to two of the Maharaja's Sardars.

In June 1905 the Political Officer in Sikkim was authorised to convey to the Maharaj Kumar the thanks of the Government of India and their appreciation of the useful work done by him in laying out roads and in supplying labour for this work, thus facilitating the passage of troops and supplies for the mission.

The Maharaja and Maharani of Sikkim and their son, the Maharaj Kumar, accepted the invitation of the Government of India to Calcutta on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales to the capital in December 1905. During his stay in Calcutta the Maharaja paid formal visits to His Excellency the Viceroy and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and received the honour of return visits.

It had been arranged in June 1903 that the Political Officer in Sikkim, who was formerly subordinate to the Bengal Government, should, during the continuance of the Tibet mission, be subject to the direct control of the Government of India in all matters relating to Tibet. All matters relating to the internal administration of the Sikkim State and its relations with the British Government were, however, dealt with by the Bengal Government as before. At the close of the mission, the Government of India considered it desirable that this arrangement should be continued until matters affecting Chumbi and the trade route to Tibet were finally settled.

In January 1905 the Government of Bengal represented, however, that the position, occupied by the Political Officer in Sikkim as subordinate partly to the Government of India and partly to the Local Government, was not satisfactory, and it was accordingly suggested that the Sikkim State should be taken wholly under the control of the Government of India. The Government of India accepted this view, and in June 1905 orders were issued severing the connection between the Government of Bengal and the Political Officer in Sikkim. The formal transfer of the control of the Sikkim State from the Government of Bengal to the Government of India took place on the 1st April 1906.

The Maharaja has the following children by his first wife, Rani Pending:—

- (1) Tchodak Nam Gyel (still in Tibet);
- (2) Sidkeong Tulku (Chotal);

by his second wife, Yishi Dumo:—

- (1) son;
- (2) daughter.

The revenue and expenditure of the State for 1905-06 were estimated at Rs. 1,52,722 and Rs. 1,50,013, respectively. The trade between India and Tibet through Sikkim is registered at Yatung, a place beyond the Sikkim frontier: its value for the five years ending March 1905 is shown below:—

	Exports to Tibet. Rs.	Imports into British Territory. Rs.	Total. Rs.
1901-02 . . .	7,25,876	7,93,060	15,18,936
1902-03 . . .	8,13,277	9,63,165	17,76,442
1903-04 . . .	3,92,361	3,50,822	7,49,183
1904-05 . . .	7,38,946	4,10,792	11,49,740

The marked falling off in 1903-04 was due to the presence of the Tibet mission; the rise in the following year is an indication that normal growth will soon be restored.

The area of Sikkim is 2,818 square miles; and its population is ascertained, by the census of 1901, to be 59,014, as under:—

Lepcha	7,982
Bhutia	8,184
Nepalese and others	42,848
TOTAL	59,014

There are no regular troops in Sikkim, but a small force of armed police, consisting of 40 men, is maintained. A detachment from a Native regiment is kept at Gangtok.

The Maharaja of Sikkim is entitled to a salute of 15 guns, which was approved in Her Majesty's Order in Council, dated the 26th June 1867.

COPY of a SUNNUD granted to the RAJAH of SIKKIM, dated 7th April 1817.

The Honorable East India Company, in consideration of the services performed by the Hill tribes under the control of the Rajah of Sikkim, and of the attachment shown by him to the interest of the British Government, grants to the Sikkimputtee Rajah, his heirs and successors, all that portion of low land situated eastward of the Meitche River, and westward of the Maha Nuddee, formerly possessed by the Rajah of Napaul, but ceded to the Honorable East India Company by the Treaty of Segoulee, to be held by the Sikkimputtee Rajah as a feudatory, or as acknowledging the supremacy of the British Government over the said lands, subject to the following conditions:—

The British Laws and Regulations will not be introduced into the territories in question, but the Sikkimputtee Rajah is authorized to make such laws and regulations for their internal government, as are suited to the habits and customs of the inhabitants, or that may be in force in his other dominions.

The Articles or Provisions of the Treaty signed at Titalya on the 10th February 1817, and ratified by His Excellency the Right Honorable the Governor-General in Council on the 15th March following, are to be in force with regard to the lands hereby assigned to the Sikkimputtee Rajah, as far as they are applicable to the circumstances of those lands.

It will be especially incumbent on the Sikkimputtee Rajah and his officers to surrender, on application from the officers of the Honorable Company, all persons charged with criminal offences, and all public defaulters who may take refuge in the lands now assigned to him, and to allow the police officers of the British Government to pursue into those lands and apprehend all such persons.

In consideration of the distance of the Sikkimputtee Rajah's residence from the Company's Provinces, such orders as the Governor-General in Council may, upon any sudden emergency, find it necessary to transmit to the local authorities in the lands now assigned, for the security or protection of those lands, are to be immediately obeyed and carried into execution in the same manner as coming from the Sikkimputtee Rajah.

In order to prevent all disputes with regard to the boundaries of the low lands granted to the Sikkimputtee Rajah, they will be surveyed by a British Officer, and their limits accurately laid down and defined.

- 2 TRANSLATION of the DEED of GRANT making over DARJEELING to the EAST INDIA COMPANY, dated 29th Maugh, Sumbut 1891, A.D., 1st February 1835.

The Governor-General having expressed his desire for the possession of the Hill of Darjeeling, on account of its cool climate, for the purpose of enabling the servants of his Government, suffering from sickness, to avail themselves of its advantages, I, the Sikkimputtee Rajah, out of friendship to the said Governor-General, hereby present Darjeeling to the East India Company, that is, all the land south of the Great Runjeet River, east of the Balasur, Kahail, and Little Runjeet Rivers, and west of the Rungno and Mahanuddi Rivers.

TREATY, COVENANT, or AGREEMENT entered into by the HONORABLE ASHLEY EDEN, ENVOY and SPECIAL COMMISSIONER on the part of the BRITISH GOVERNMENT, in virtue of full powers vested in him by the RIGHT HONORABLE CHARLES, EARL CANNING, GOVERNOR-GENERAL in COUNCIL, and by HIS HIGHNESS SEKEONG KUZOO, MAHARAJAH of SIKKIM on his own part,—1861.

Whereas the continued depredations and misconduct of the officers and subjects of the Maharajah of Sikkim, and the neglect of the Maharajah to afford satisfaction for the misdeeds of his people have resulted in an interruption for many years past of the harmony which previously existed between the British Government and the Government of Sikkim, and have led ultimately to the invasion and conquest of Sikkim by a British force; and whereas the Maharajah of Sikkim has now expressed his sincere regret for the misconduct of his servants and subjects, his determination to do all in his power to obviate future misunderstanding, and his desire to be again

All previous Treaties made between the British Government and the Sikkim Government are hereby formally cancelled.

2.

The whole of the Sikkim Territory now in the occupation of British forces is restored to the Maharajah of Sikkim, and there shall henceforth be peace and amity between the two States.

3.

The Maharajah of Sikkim undertakes, so far as is within his power, to restore, within one month from the date of signing this Treaty, all public property which was abandoned by the detachment of British Troops at Rinchinpoong.

4.

In indemnification of the expenses incurred in 1860 by the British Government in occupying a portion of the territory of Sikkim as a means of enforcing just claims which had been evaded by the Government of Sikkim, and as compensation to the British subjects who were pillaged and kidnapped by subjects of Sikkim, the Sikkim Government agrees to pay to the British authorities at Darjeeling the sum of 7,000 (seven thousand) Rupees in the following instalments, that is to say :—

May 1st, 1862	3,000

As security for the due payment of this amount, it is further agreed that in the event of any of these instalments not being duly paid on the date appointed, the Government of Sikkim shall make over to the British Government that portion of its territory bounded on the south by the River Rummam, on the east by the Great Runjeet River, on the north by a line from the Great Runjeet to the Singaleelah Range, including the monasteries of Tassiding, Pemonchi, and Changacheling, and on the west by the Singaleelah Mountain Range, and the British Government shall retain possession of this territory and collect the revenue thereof, until the full amount, with all expenses of occupation and collection, and interest at 6 per cent. per annum, are realized.

The Government of Sikkim engages that its subjects shall never again commit depredations on British territory, or kidnap or otherwise molest British subjects. In the event of any such depredation or kidnapping taking place, the Government of Sikkim undertakes to deliver up all persons engaged in such malpractice, as well as the Sirdars or other Chiefs conniving at or benefiting thereby.

The Government of Sikkim will at all times seize and deliver up any criminals, defaulters, or other delinquents who may have taken refuge within its territory, on demand being duly made in writing by the British Government through their accredited agents. Should any delay occur in complying with such demand, the Police of the British Government may follow the person whose surrender has been demanded into any part of the Sikkim territory, and shall, on showing a warrant, duly signed by the British Agent, receive every assistance and protection in the prosecution of their object from the Sikkim officers.

7.

Inasmuch as the late misunderstandings between the two Governments have been mainly fomented by the acts of the ex-Dewan Namguay, the Government of Sikkim engages that neither the said Namguay, nor any of his blood relations, shall ever again be allowed to set foot in Sikkim, or to take part in the councils of, or hold any office under, the Maharajah or any of the Maharajah's family at Choombi.

8.

The Government of Sikkim from this date abolishes all restrictions on travellers and monopolies in trade between the British territories and Sikkim. There shall henceforth be a free reciprocal intercourse, and full liberty of commerce between the subjects of both countries; it shall be lawful for British subjects to go into any part of Sikkim for the purpose of travel or trade, and the subjects of all countries shall be permitted to reside in and pass through Sikkim, and to expose their goods for sale at any place and in any manner that may best suit their purpose, without any interference whatever, except as is hereinafter provided.

The Government of Sikkim engages to afford protection to all travellers, merchants, or traders of all countries, whether residing in, trading in, or passing through Sikkim. If any merchant, traveller, or trader, being a European British subject, shall commit any offence contrary to the laws of Sikkim, such person shall be punished by the representative of the British Government resident at Darjeeling, and the Sikkim Government will at once deliver such offender over to the British authorities for this purpose, and will, on no account, detain such offender in Sikkim on any pretext or pretence whatever. All other British subjects residing in the country to be liable to the laws of Sikkim; but such persons shall, on no account, be punished with loss of limb, or maiming, or torture, and every case of punishment of a British subject shall be at once reported to Darjeeling.

No duties or fees of any sort shall be demanded by the Sikkim Government of any person or persons on account of goods exported into the British territories from Sikkim, or imported into Sikkim from the British territories.

11.

On all goods passing into or out of Thibet, Bhootan, or Nepaul, the Government of Sikkim may levy a duty of customs according to such a scale as may, from time to time, be determined and published without reference to the destination of the goods, provided, however, that such duty shall, on no account, exceed 5 per cent. on the value of goods at the time and place of the levy of duty. On the payment of the duty aforesaid a pass shall be given exempting such goods from liability to further payment on any account whatever.

12.

With the view to protect the Government of Sikkim from fraud on account of undervaluation for assessment of duty, it is agreed that the customs officers shall have the option of taking over for the Government any goods at the value affixed on them by the owner.

13.

In the event of the British Government desiring to open out a road through Sikkim, with the view of encouraging trade, the Sikkim Government will raise no objection thereto, and will afford every protection and aid to the party engaged in the work. If a road is constructed, the Government of Sikkim undertakes to keep it in repair, and to erect and maintain suitable travellers' rest-houses throughout its route.

14.

If the British Government desires to make either a topographical or geological survey of Sikkim, the Sikkim Government will raise no objection to this being done, and will afford protection and assistance to the officers employed in this duty.

15.

Inasmuch as many of the late misunderstandings have had their foundation in the custom which exists in Sikkim of dealing in slaves, the Government of Sikkim binds itself, from this date, to punish severely any person trafficking in human beings, or seizing persons for the purpose of using them as slaves.

16.

Henceforth the subjects of Sikkim may transport themselves without let or hindrance to any country to which they may wish to remove. In the same way the Government of Sikkim has authority to permit the subjects of other countries, not being criminals or defaulters, to take refuge in Sikkim.

17.

The Government of Sikkim engages to abstain from any acts of aggression or hostility against any of the neighbouring States which are allies of the British Government. If any disputes or questions arise between the people of Sikkim and those of neighbouring States, such disputes or questions shall be referred to the arbitration of the British Government, and the Sikkim Government agrees to abide by the decision of the British Government.

18.

The whole military force of Sikkim shall join and afford every aid and facility to British Troops when employed in the Hills.

19.

The Government of Sikkim will not cede or lease any portion of its territory to any other State without the permission of the British Government.

20.

The Government of Sikkim engages that no armed force belonging to any other country shall pass through Sikkim without the sanction of the British Government.

21.

Seven of the criminals, whose surrender was demanded by the British Government, having fled from Sikkim and taken refuge in Bhootan, the Government of Sikkim engages to do all in its power to obtain the delivery of those persons from the Bhootan Government, and in the event of any of these men again returning to Sikkim, the Sikkim Government binds itself to seize them, and to make them over to the British Authorities at Darjeeling without delay.

22.

With a view to the establishment of an efficient Government in Sikkim, and to the better maintenance of friendly relations with the British Government, the Maharajah of Sikkim agrees to remove the seat of his Government from Tibet to Sikkim, and reside there for nine months in the year. It is

This Treaty, consisting of twenty-three Articles, being settled and concluded by the Honorable Ashley Eden, British Envoy, and His Highness Sekeong Kuzoo Sikkimputtee, Maharajah, at Tumloong, this 28th day of March 1861, corresponding with 17th Dao Neepoo 61, Mr. Eden has delivered to the Maharajah a copy of the same in English, with translation in Nagri and Bhootiah, under the seal and signature of the said Honorable Ashley Eden and His Highness the Sikkimputtee Maharajah, and the Sikkimputtee Maharajah has in like manner delivered to the said Hon'ble Ashley Eden another copy also in English, with translation in Nagri and Bhootiah, bearing the seal of His Highness and the said Hon'ble Ashley Eden. The Envoy engages to procure the delivery to His Highness, within six weeks from this date, of a copy of this Treaty, duly ratified by His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India in Council, and this Treaty shall in the meantime be in full force.

PART VI.

relating to

TIBET

THE portion of Central Asia known as Tibet extends roughly from the 79° to the 103° E. longitude and from 26° 50' to 360° N. latitude.

The frontier in many parts remains undefined, but it may be said to be bounded on the south and west by Assam, Bhutan, Sikkim, Nepal, Ladak, and other districts of British India; and on the north and east by the Chinese provinces of Turkistan, Mongolia, Kansu, Ssuchuan and Yunnan. Thus it may be seen that the only two countries whose territories are coterminous with Tibet are Great Britain and China. Of this country, at once the most inaccessible and mysterious in the world, comparatively little is known. Surrounded as it is by lofty mountain ranges, which are impassable except in the height of summer, Tibet has retained its seclusion for centuries.

The northern part of Tibet, that is to say about two-thirds of the whole, is a barren desolate plateau. The southern portion differs materially from the rest, as its valleys are very fertile and fairly populated and there is ample pasturage for thousands of sheep and cattle.

Of the extent of the mineral resources of Tibet not much is known, but it is believed that gold, silver and iron abound possibly in large quantities. Salt is found in great quantities in the Chang district, and the finest borax is produced in western Tibet. Coal has not been found as yet.

Tibet is divided into four main provinces, vis. :—

U and Tsang or central Tibet,

Tö or Ngari Korsum or western Tibet,

Kam or Do Kam or eastern Tibet, also the Chang Tang or northern desert.

The province of U contains the capital, Lhasa, which is the head-quarter of the Tale Lama, better known as the Dalai Lama, and of the Deva Shung or Supreme Government of the country.

Of the early history of Tibet little is known ; but it appears that during the seventh century the Chinese asserted their superiority over the Tibetans and penetrated to Lhasa. In 1206 Tibet was conquered by Jenghiz Khan, and in the middle of the thirteenth century the Chinese Emperor, Kubilai Khan, embraced Lamaism. Although the Mongols and Chinese mastered the Tibetans by force of arms, the latter maintained a spiritual influence over their conquerors. During the fifteenth century an incarnation of the great reformer Tsong-ka-pa (who founded the yellowcap or reformed school of Tibetan Buddhism) was installed at Lhasa as the first "Grand Lama," and built the great monastery of Tashi-lhunpo near Shigatse. One of his successors received the title of "Dalai Lama" from a Mongol prince. In 1640 the Mongols invaded Tibet, and, having dethroned all the petty princes of the country, made the Dalai Lama supreme. This pontiff established himself at Lhasa, where he built the huge palace of Potala, and was the first of the Priest-Kings, who have combined in their own persons temporal as well as religious authority. In the year 1650 this ruler visited China and was confirmed by the Emperor (a Manchu) in his title of Dalai Lama.

In 1717 an army of Zungarians overran the country, but with the assistance of the Chinese they were expelled, the latter securing their influence in Tibet by establishing two Ambans at Lhasa as representatives of the Emperor. In 1749 the Tibetans rebelled against the Ambans and massacred the Chinese, but an army was despatched from China and speedily restored order.

The first record of British dealings with Tibet was in 1774, when Mr. Warren Hastings, then Governor-General of India, despatched Mr. G. Bogle, of the Bengal Civil Service, on a mission to Shigatse, where he was received with great kindness by the Tashi Lama and made numerous friends. In 1783 a second friendly mission was despatched to Shigatse under Captain Samuel Turner.

The year 1792 was marked by the invasion of Tibet by the Gurkhas, who crossed the frontier by the Nyanam route 18,000 strong, and marched straight upon the wealthy monastery of Tashi-lhunpo. The unprepared Tibetans fled in dismay, leaving the Gurkhas to plunder at will. Appeal to China brought an army of 70,000 men to the assistance of the Tibetans. The invaders were driven back to Nepal, and a settlement was arranged.

In the year 1811 an Englishman named Thomas Manning visited Lhasa in disguise.

In 1841 Gulab Singh, Raja of Jammu, despatched an army of 5,000 Dogras under General Zorawar Singh, which proceeded up the valley of the Indus, and, after plundering the monasteries of Hanle and Tashigong, took possession of the provinces of Rudok and Garo. The Tibetans again solicited aid from the Chinese, who sent an army of 10,000 men to their assistance. The two armies met in the month of December in the neighbourhood of the Manasarowar lakes, and after an engagement, which lasted three days, the Chinese succeeded in practically annihilating their foes. The following year the Chinese advanced into Ladak and laid siege to Leh, but were compelled to retire to Rudok. A peace * was signed, whereby the former boundary was established.

* Translation of a Treaty, dated the 2nd Assuj, Sambat 1899 (corresponding to the 16th or 17th September 1842).

(Note.—The word " Ohong " in Sanskrit, symbol of Ganeshji and two prints of the palm of the hand in saffron colour occur at the heading of the treaty).

As on this auspicious day, the 2nd of Assuj Sambat 1899 (16th or 17th September 1842 A. D.) we, the officers of the Lhasa (Government), Káldún of Sokán and Bakhshi Shajpáb, Commander of the Forces, and two officers on behalf of the most resplendent Sri Khalsaji Sahib, the asylum of the world, King Sher Singhji and Sri Maharáj Sahib Raja-i-Rajagán Rája Sahib Bahadur Rája Guláb Singhji, i.e., the Mukhtar-ud-Daula Diwan Hari Chand and the asylum of vizirs, Vizir Ratnún in a meeting called together for the promotion of peace and unity, and by professions and vows of friendship, unity and sincerity of heart and by taking oaths like those of Kunjak Sahib have arranged and agreed that relations of peace, friendship and unity between Sri Khalsaji and Sri Maharaj Sahib Bahadur Raja Guláb Singhji, and the Emperor of China and the Lama Gurú of Lhasa will henceforward remain firmly established for ever; and we declare in the presence of the Kunjak Sahib that on no account whatsoever will there be any deviation, difference or departure [from this agreement]. We shall neither at present nor in future have anything to do or interfere at all with the boundaries of Laddakh and its surroundings as fixed from ancient times and will allow the annual export of wool, shawls and tea by way of Laddakh according to the old established custom.

Should any of the opponents of Sri Sakar Khalsaji and Sri Rájá Sahib Bahadur at any time enter our territories, we shall not pay any heed to his words or allow him to remain in our country.

We shall offer no hinderance to traders of Laddakh who visit our territories. We shall not even to the extent of a hair's breadth act in contravention of the terms that we have agreed to above regarding firm friendship, unity, the fixed boundaries of Laddakh and the keeping open of the route for wool, shawls and tea. We call Kunjak Sahib, Kairi, Lassi, Zhoh Mahán, and Khushál Choh as witnesses to this treaty.

The treaty was concluded on the 2nd of the month of Assuj, Sambat 1899 (16th or 17th September 1842 A. D.).

In 1854 the Gurkhas, on the pretext of alleged ill-treatment of Nepalese merchants in Lhasa, again advanced across the Tibet frontier. The Tibetans held their own fairly well on this occasion without Chinese assistance; and in 1856, owing to internal troubles in Nepal, the Gurkhas withdrew their forces, and a treaty was signed, whereby the Tibetan Government agreed to pay an annual subsidy of Rs. 10,000 to Nepal; to permit the Nepal Government to establish a trading station at Lhasa; and to maintain a representative there (see pages 97—100, Nepal, Part II).

In 1879—83 Babu Sarat Chandra Das made two journeys to Tibet, in the character of an Indian pundit studying Buddhism.

In 1873 the Deputy Commissioner of Darjeeling, Mr. (afterwards Sir John) Edgar, was deputed to enquire into a possibility of re-establishing Indian trade with Tibet, which had been in abeyance for nearly a century. A few years later a road was made by Sir Richard Temple through Sikkim to the Tibet frontier at the Jelap pass, and in 1885 a serious effort was commenced to open up intercourse with that country. In the same year Mr. Colman Macaulay was deputed on a mission with the object of furthering trade relations with Tibet, and to ascertain whether a direct road could be opened up between Darjeeling and the province of Tsang, which was famed for its wool.

In the following year, under instructions from Government, he visited Peking, for the purpose of obtaining a passport for the mission to Tibet, under the provisions of the convention between the British and Chinese Government signed at Chefoo in 1876, which guaranteed the protection of a British mission to be sent to Tibet. The Tsungli Yamen, on being communicated with, were with difficulty prevailed on to grant the required passport. Early in 1886 the mission was organised by Mr. Colman Macaulay; but it was subsequently abandoned for various reasons. The Tibetans, who had been greatly disturbed by the prospect of the mission, attributed its abandonment to pusillanimity, and, assuming a highly aggressive attitude, erected a stone fort across the road at Lingtu, some 12 miles within the Sikkim frontier. The Chinese were requested to reason with the Tibetans, but as their efforts to induce them to abandon Lingtu proved futile, a British force of 1,400 men and 2 guns was despatched, which drove the Tibetans from their fort into Chumbi. On May 21st, 1888, 3,000 Tibetans attacked the British camp at Gnatong, but were repulsed. On September 23rd they again advanced from Chumbi, and erected a stone wall 3 miles long above Gnatong. From this position they were easily driven by the British force under General Graham, and fled in confusion across the Jelap-

La. The British troops then advanced to Rinchingong and Chumbi, returning to Gnatong on the 27th. At the conclusion of hostilities, the Chinese Resident, after some delay, came to Sikkim to negotiate a settlement and was met by Sir Mortimer Durand, Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department, and Mr. Paul. The Chinese authorities, although realising the extreme forbearance shown to the Tibetans, and also the lenient terms offered to them, which merely required the recognition of the long established frontier between Sikkim and Tibet, the acknowledgment of the exclusive supremacy of the British with the Sikkim State, and a promise to abstain from further aggression, refused to come to terms, and it was not till 1890 that a Convention (No. CXVI) was at last signed. By this convention the Chinese acknowledged British claims in Sikkim, and agreed to the establishment of a trade mart at Yatung. The frontier was also defined, and provision was made for subsequent discussion of trade regulations.

In 1893 representatives from the British and Chinese Governments met to discuss matters of trade and communications. Regulations (No. CXVII) were finally signed, under which the trade mart was opened at Yatung, and British subjects were allowed to rent houses and purchase and sell goods without vexatious restrictions. Goods other than arms, ammunition, military stores, salt, liquors, and intoxicating or narcotic drugs, entering Tibet from British India across the Sikkim-Tibet frontier, or vice versa, were to be exempt from duty for a period of five years, and on the expiration of that term, if found desirable, a tariff might be mutually agreed upon and enforced. Indian tea might be imported into Tibet at a rate of duty not exceeding that at which Chinese tea was imported into England; but trade in Indian tea was not to be engaged in during the five years for which other commodities were exempt.

From the outset it was evident that the Tibetans had no intention of observing the convention. At Phari, a march or two beyond Yatung, a 10 per cent. duty was charged on all goods from India, and no Tibetan traders were allowed to go beyond Phari in the direction of Yatung with their goods. In 1895 Mr. Nolan, Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division, was frankly informed at Yatung that, as the convention was made by the Chinese only, the Tibetan Government refused to recognise it.

The delimitation of the frontier was attempted in 1895, but the pillars erected by the British and Chinese officers were removed by the Tibetans, and no further progress was made in the settlement of the frontier in the ensuing three years. In 1899 the Viceroy addressed the Chinese Resident, stating that the Government of India were prepared to agree to a division of the Tibetan frontier, so as to leave to Tibet the land which they claimed in the neighbourhood of Giagong, on condition that Phari should be thrown open to traders from British India, Yatung having proved unsuitable. To this letter the Chinese Resident replied, on April 22nd from Yatung, that the frontier had been carelessly laid down in the treaty; and that he was under the impression that the Tibetans would strongly object to having the mart placed at Phari; but that on his return to Lhasa he would communicate His Excellency's wishes to the Tibetans. This, however, he never did, and no further answer to this proposal was ever received, though the Tsungli Yamen, who had been addressed on the subject by the Minister at Peking in December 1899, stated that they had written to the Resident at Lhasa to enquire into the circumstances.

In the years 1899—01 several fruitless attempts were made by the Government of India to open negotiations with the Tibetans. Mr. White, the Political Officer in Sikkim, was accordingly deputed to tour along the Sikkim frontier and exclude the Tibetans from the grazing grounds at Giagong. He arrived at Giagong in June 1902 and removed the Tibetans, destroying their block houses. He, however, reported the existence of a mutual understanding between the Sikkimese and Tibetans, by which the former grazed their flocks in Tibet in the winter, and the latter grazed their flocks in Sikkim in the summer. Mr. White's proceedings attracted the notice of the Chinese Government, and in 1902 a special Imperial Resident, Yu T'ai, was appointed, to proceed with all speed to negotiate in a friendly spirit with Mr. White. It was agreed that the meeting should take place at Khamba Jong, and in July 1903, Major Younghusband, Resident at Indore, who had been appointed as British Commissioner and granted the local rank of Colonel, arrived at that place. The Tibetans, however, refused to open negotiations and requested the mission to withdraw to Giagong. At the same time information was received that troops were being collected by the Lhasa Government, with a view to attacking the mission. It was also reported that two British subjects had been captured by the Tibetans and put to death.

On August 25th the Viceroy, Lord Curzon, addressed the Chinese Resident with reference to letters received from him, and pointed out that neither the Chinese nor Tibetan representatives, who had been deputed to the frontier, were of suitable rank corresponding with that of Colonel Younghusband. His Excellency further stated that the latter by their behaviour had shewn themselves unfit for diplomatic intercourse, and he therefore requested that either the Amban himself, or his colleague, would participate in the negotiations. The attitude assumed by the Tibetans continued antagonistic, and on September 16th Lord Curzon reported the situation of the affairs to the Secretary of State for India, stating that Colonel Younghusband despaired of arriving at a peaceful solution, until the Tibetans were convinced of the seriousness of the Government of India's intentions. Sanction was accorded to the mission to proceed to Gyantse; and the advance commenced on December 13th. The military force detailed as escort to the mission consisted of three infantry regiments, two companies of sappers and miners, four guns, and a maxim gun section, the whole being under the command of Brigadier-General J. R. L. Macdonald. The mission proceeded through Phari to Tuna, meeting with no opposition. After a further halt and fruitless negotiations an advance was made to Guru on the 31st March 1904. Here a force of about 2,000 armed Tibetans was found occupying an entrenched position blocking the road. An attempt to disarm them resulted in an attack by the Tibetans, which was easily repulsed, their loss being considerable. The mission reached Gyantse on April 11th, opposition being offered at the Dzam-trang gorge, when the Tibetans again lost heavily. On April 22nd a communication was received from the Amban stating that he would arrive at Gyantse in three weeks time. On May 5th the camp at Gyantse was attacked by the Tibetans, who were repulsed with great loss.

As the Chinese delegates had not arrived within the period allowed them, it was decided that the mission should proceed to Lhasa. On July 6th the Jong at Gyantse was captured and the mission proceeded to Lhasa, arriving there on August 3rd. It was found that the Dalai Lama had fled, leaving the Gaden-Ti-Rimpochi, a monk, as regent, but it was ascertained that a satisfactory agreement could be completed without him, by the consent of the National Assembly and the three great monasteries. The Amban was prepared to regard the Tashi Lama as head of the Buddhist Church in lieu of the absconding Dalai Lama. On September 7th the Treaty (No. CXVIII) was signed at Lhasa, under the provisions of which the Tibetans were to pay a fine of 75 lakhs in annual instalments of one lakh. Colonel Younghusband returned to India with the military escort without molestation. With the sanction of the Secretary of State, the Viceroy ratified the convention on the 11th November, but a Declaration (No. CXIX) was appended to it, under the orders of the Secretary of State, which reduced the indemnity from 75 to 25 lakhs, and declared that the British occupation of Chumbi should cease after three annual instalments, provided that the marts had been effectively opened for three years and that the Tibetans faithfully fulfilled the other terms of the convention.

A British officer was sent as Trade Agent to Gyantse and an Indian to Gartok.

In June 1905 the Deputy Commissioner of Almora made a tour in western Tibet.

The Tashi Lama of Shigatse accepted an invitation from the Government of India in October 1905, to come to Calcutta on the occasion of the visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to the city. The Tashi Lama accompanied by Captain W. F. O'Connor, the British Trade Agent at Gyantse, made a short tour in India previous to his visit to Calcutta. During the course of his stay the Tashi Lama paid formal visits to His Excellency the Viceroy and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and received the honour of return visits. He was also accorded the honours granted to an Indian ruling Chief receiving a salute of 17 guns. The Gaden-Ti-Rimpochi, the Regent at Lhasa in the absence of the Dalai Lama, in November 1905, sent a letter to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, in which he expressed his hope that the existing friendly relations between the two governments would prove everlasting. The Prince of Wales in a letter, dated the 6th January 1906, expressed his thanks to the Gaden-Ti-Rimpochi, and stated that it was also the sincere wish of His Majesty the King that the friendly relations established should prove firm and durable.

A Convention (No. CXX) confirming the Lhasa convention of 1904 between Great Britain and Tibet, was concluded between Great Britain and China at Peking, on the 27th April 1906.

The head of the State is the Dalai Lama, or as he is generally known in the country, the Gyalwa, or Gyan-kön, Rimpoche. This personage is believed by the Tibetans to be the incarnation of the Saint Padma Pani, and on the death of each Dalai Lama the re-incarnation of his spirit is sought for among the new born infants of the country. During the minority of the infant Lama a regent, selected from the ecclesiastics of one of the Lhasa monasteries, and known as the Pö Gyalpo, is appointed to administer the State. Under the regent comes the Ka-sha or council of State, consisting of four Sha-pe or ministers, usually laymen elected for life to transact political and administrative business, and hear appeals from the Jongpen or district officers and the Lhasa law courts. This council is at times assisted in important matters by the National Committee made up of Generals, Financial Secretaries, and other 4th class officials. The National Assembly, called the Tsong-du-Chembo, meets on occasion to discuss matters of grave national importance, and is constituted as follows. The Abbots of the three great Lhasa monasteries, Sera, Gaden, and Drepung, and delegates from the smaller Gompas of Lhasa and the province of U. Besides this purely ecclesiastical representation, officials of every grade are free to attend. It is, however, not customary for the Sha-pe to attend.

Missions are sent yearly from Tibet to Peking to pay tribute to the Emperor of China, and the Maharaja of Kashmir sends a commercial mission with presents to Lhasa every three years.

There are British trade agents at Gyantse and Gartok and an Assistant Political Officer at Chumbi.

It is impossible to state the exact area of Tibet, but it is roughly estimated at 463,200 square miles, with a population of $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 millions.

The annual revenues of the country are estimated by Sarat Chandra Das at Rs. 20,00,000, and are derived from the family and land tax.

The army of Tibet consists of about 6,000 regulars, but in time of war the monks are also liable for service, bringing the total fighting strength of the State up to 50,000 approximately. These are armed chiefly with Tibetan guns.

No. CXVIII.

CONVENTION BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND TIBET.

Whereas doubts and difficulties have arisen as to the meaning and validity of the Anglo-Chinese Convention of 1890, and the Trade Regulations of 1893, and as to the liabilities of the Tibetan Government under these agreements; and whereas recent occurrences have tended towards a disturbance of the relations of friendship and good understanding which have existed between the British Government and the Government of Tibet; and whereas it is desirable to restore peace and amicable relations, and to resolve and determine the doubts and difficulties as aforesaid, the said Governments have resolved to conclude a convention with these objects, and the following articles have been agreed upon by Colonel F. E. Younghusband, C.I.E., in virtue of full powers vested in him by His Britannic Majesty's Government and on behalf of that said Government, and Lo-Sang Gyal-Tsen, the Ga-den Ti-Rimpoche, and the representatives of the Council, of the three monasteries Se-ra, Dre-pung, and Ga-den, and of the ecclesiastical and lay officials of the National Assembly on behalf of the Government of Tibet.

I.

The Government of Tibet engages to respect the Anglo-Chinese Convention of 1890 and to recognise the frontier between Sikkim and Tibet, as defined in Article I of the said Convention, and to erect boundary pillars accordingly.

II.

The Tibetan Government undertakes to open forthwith trade marts to which all British and Tibetan subjects shall have free right of access at Gyantse and Gartok, as well as at Yatung.

The Regulations applicable to the trade mart at Yatung, under the Anglo-Chinese Agreement of 1893, shall subject to such amendments as may hereafter be agreed upon by common consent between the British and Tibetan Governments, apply to the marts above-mentioned.

In addition to establishing trade marts at the places mentioned, the Tibetan Government undertakes to place no restrictions on the trade by existing routes, and to consider the question of establishing fresh trade marts under similar conditions if development of trade requires it.

III.

The question of the amendment of the Regulations of 1893 is reserved for separate consideration, and the Tibetan Government undertakes to appoint fully authorised delegates to negotiate with representatives of the British Government as to the details of the amendments required.

IV.

The Tibetan Government undertakes to levy no dues of any kind other than those provided for in the tariff to be mutually agreed upon.

V.

The Tibetan Government undertakes to keep the roads to Gyantse and Gartok from the frontier clear of all obstruction and in a state of repair suited to the needs of the trade, and to establish at Yatung, Gyantse and Gartok, and at each of the other trade marts that may hereafter be established, a Tibetan Agent who shall receive from the British Agent appointed to watch over British trade at the marts in question any letter which the latter may desire to send to the Tibetan or to the Chinese authorities. The Tibetan Agent shall also be responsible for the due delivery of such communications and for the transmission of replies.

VI.

As an indemnity to the British Government for the expense incurred in the despatch of armed troops to Lhasa, to exact reparation for breaches of treaty obligations, and for the insults offered to and attacks upon the British Commissioner and his following and escort, the Tibetan Government engages to pay a sum of pounds five hundred thousand—equivalent to rupees seventy-five lakhs—to the British Government.

The indemnity shall be payable at such place as the British Government may from time to time, after due notice, indicate whether in Tibet or in the British districts of Darjeeling or Jalpaiguri, in seventy-five annual instalments of rupees one lakh each on the 1st January in each year, beginning from the 1st January 1906.

VII.

As security for the payment of the above-mentioned indemnity, and for the fulfilment of the provisions relative to the trade marts specified in Articles II, III, IV and V, the British Government shall continue to occupy the Chumbi Valley until the indemnity has been paid and until the trade marts have been effectively opened for three years, whichever date may be the later.

VIII.

The Tibetan Government agrees to raze all forts and fortifications and remove all armaments which might impede the course of free communication between the British frontier and the towns of Gyantse and Lhasa,

IX.

The Government of Tibet engages that, without the previous consent of the British Government—

- (a) no portion of Tibetan territory shall be ceded, sold, leased, mortgaged or otherwise given for occupation, to any Foreign Power;
- (b) no such Power shall be permitted to intervene in Tibetan affairs;
- (c) no representatives or Agents of any Foreign Power shall be admitted to Tibet;
- (d) no concessions for railways, roads, telegraphs, mining or other rights, shall be granted to any Foreign Power, or the subject of any Foreign Power. In the event of consent to such concessions being granted, similar or equivalent concessions shall be granted to the British Government;
- (e) no Tibetan revenues, whether in kind or in cash, shall be pledged or assigned to any Foreign Power, or the subject of any Foreign Power.

X.

In witness whereof the negotiators have signed the same, and affixed thereunto the seals of their arms.

Done in quintuplicate at Lhasa, this 7th day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and four, corresponding with the Tibetan date, the 27th day of the seventh month of the Wood Dragon year.

His Britannic Majesty and His Majesty the Emperor of China have resolved to conclude a Convention on this subject and have for this purpose named Plenipotentiaries, that is to say :—

ARTICLE II.

The Government of Great Britain engages not to annex Tibetan territory or to interfere in the administration of Tibet. The Government of China also undertakes not to permit any other foreign state to interfere with the territory or internal administration of Tibet.

ARTICLE III.

The concessions which are mentioned in Article 9 (d) of the Convention concluded on September 7th, 1904, by Great Britain and Tibet are denied to any state or to the subject of any state other than China, but it has been arranged with China that at the trade marts specified in Article 2 of the aforesaid Convention Great Britain shall be entitled to lay down telegraph lines connecting with India.

PART VII.

relating to

SIAM.

THE diplomatic relations of the British Government with Siam may be said to have commenced with Mr. John Crawfurd's mission in 1821. The chief object of his mission was to procure an unrestricted trade with Siam, but Mr. Crawfurd's negotiations were unsuccessful.

In 1826 a Treaty (No. CXXI) was negotiated by Captain Burney, with the view chiefly of preventing the Siamese from co-operating with the Burmese during the first Burmese war, in which the British Government was then engaged, and of providing for the peace of the Malayan Peninsula then disturbed in consequence of the occupation of Kedah by the Siamese. Besides the above Treaty, Captain Burney effected a Commercial Agreement (No. CXXII) with Siam. The provisions of this engagement were systematically violated by the Siamese, and as the 6th article placed British subjects under Siamese laws, its abrogation was indispensable.

In 1850 Sir James Brooke was deputed to Siam armed with plenipotentiary powers from the Queen. But his efforts to conclude a satisfactory treaty were unsuccessful. Five years later, however, a Treaty (No. CXXIII) of friendship and commerce between Her Majesty and the Kings of Siam was negotiated by Sir John Bowring. In 1856 Mr. Parker conveyed to Siam the ratification of the treaty by the Queen, when an Agreement (No. CXXIV) was made with Siamese commissioners to give effect to the treaty and to define its intentions.

The dependencies of Siam in the Malayan Peninsula are Kedah, Ligor, Tringganu, Kalantan, Patani and Junkceylon or Puket. The engagements with Kedah are given as Nos. CXXXIX to CXLI. In 1831 after the Raja of Ligor had defeated the ex-Raja of Kedah in an attempt to recover his country (see Kedah, Part VIII), the Resident of Penang visited him at Kedah and concluded an Engagement (No. CXXV) with him regarding the boundaries of province Wellesley, in conformity with the 3rd Article of the treaty of Bangkok.

This boundary was not, however, actually marked out for many years. The commission, composed partly of British and partly of Siamese officers, which had been appointed for the performance of this duty, was dissolved owing to the illness of some of the members, before its labours had been completed. In 1864, however, another commission was appointed, and satisfactory arrangements were made for the boundary at the Isthmus of Kraw and the sea-ward line from the mouth of the Pakchan to Junkceylon. The boundary northward from Kraw was demarcated by a separate commission, who completed the work in 1867. A Convention (No. CXXVI) was signed on the 8th February 1868, defining the boundary in its entire length.

King Phrabat Somdetch Phra Chom Klow died on the 1st October 1868, after a reign of seventeen and a half years, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Chow Fa Chula Longkorn, a minor.

The western portion of Siam, bordering on the Salween river and separated by it from eastern Karenni, is occupied by the Chiengmai or Zimmé Shans, whose Chief is tributary to Siam. Disputes regarding the valuable forests situated on the eastern bank of the Salween led to chronic hostilities between the Karens and the Shans and numerous bands of dakaitis traversed the country, committing outrages on British traders and their property. To remedy this state of things a special officer, with a strong force of police at his disposal, was placed in charge of the Salween tracts, and advantage was taken of the visit of His Majesty the King of Siam to Calcutta in 1872 to discuss the measures necessary for the encouragement of trade and the repression of dakaiti on the Salween frontier. These discussions resulted in the deputation towards the end of 1873 of a Siamese Embassy to Calcutta, and on the 14th January 1874 a Treaty (No. CXXVII) was signed, having for its objects the promotion of commercial intercourse with the province of Chiengmai and the repression of heinous crime. The Siamese Government agreed to post guards along the eastern bank of the Salween ; to maintain a sufficient police force ; and to appoint judges in Chiengmai for the purpose of settling civil disputes between British and Siamese subjects. The treaty came into force on the 1st January 1875.

Under the terms of the treaty of 1855 and the supplementary agreement of 1856, the British Consul at Bangkok alone could try civil and criminal cases in which either both parties or the defendant were British subjects, and the cause of action arose in Siamese territory. The distance of Bangkok, and the limited powers possessed by the Consul under the Order of Council of the 28th July 1856, led to much inconvenience in the disposal of cases arising in Chiengmai. The consent of the Siamese Government was obtained to the appointment of the Superintendent of the Yunzalin district in British Burma, to exercise all the powers that may be exercised by the Consul at Bangkok under the 2nd article of the treaty of 1855 and the 2nd article of the supplementary agreement of 1856, and he was in virtue of this consent appointed to exercise, for the territories of the King of Siam, all the powers of a political agent under Act XI of 1872.

The treaty of 1874 did not work satisfactorily. Notwithstanding the good will shewn by the Siamese Government, it was found that, in the absence of any English officer, British subjects at times suffered unfriendly usage at the hands of the local authorities at Zimmé. It was also apparent that the treaty of 1874 was to some extent inconsistent with the Order of the Queen in Council, dated the 28th July 1856. Under these circumstances Major C. W. Street, of the British Burma Commission, was deputed in 1879 on a mission to Zimmé, for the purpose of enquiring into certain specific cases in which British subjects were concerned, and into the general question of establishing a British Agency at Zimmé. After protracted discussion a Treaty (No. CXXVIII), supplementary to the treaty of 1855, was finally concluded at Bangkok in May 1884. By this agreement, which relates only to the territories of Chiengmai, Lakon, and Lampunchi, the treaty of 1874 was abrogated, and provision was made for the appointment of a British Consul or Vice-Consul at Zimmé. The Consul or Vice-Consul has judicial powers in respect of cases in which British subjects are defendants or accused; and in all such cases tried by the local judges appeal may be made to Bangkok. The treaty also contains provisions concerning the issue of passports to British and Siamese subjects travelling in Siamese or British territory respectively, concerning the extradition of offenders, and concerning the working of forests in the territories of the Prince of Chiengmai. Mr. E. B. Gould, the first British Vice-Consul, arrived at Zimmé in April 1884. In 1885 the Siamese Government agreed to the States of Nan and Phre being included in the meaning of the words "Chiengmai," "Lakon", and "Lampunchi" mentioned in the treaty of 1883, and to similar extension of meaning being given to those words as occurring in the commission of the Vice-Consul appointed according to that treaty. The Siamese Government also requested that the words "Maung", "Nan" and "Phre" should be inserted; in the commission of any Vice-Consul that may thereafter be appointed in order that His Siamese Majesty Exequator may be issued in accordance with the usual practice. The Siamese Government similarly in 1896, at the request of the British Government, agreed to the additional provinces of Thon, Kaheng, Sawankaloke, Sukotai, Utaradit and Pichai as falling within the scope of the treaty of 1883, in the same way as the province of Phre and Nan.

Her Majesty's Order in Council under the treaty of 1883 was promulgated on the 26th June 1884.

Two Orders in Council* have been issued by the King of Siam to facilitate the working of the courts established under the treaty and for other purposes.

After the annexation of upper Burma a question arose as to the ownership of the four small trans-Salween States of Mōng Tun, Mōng Hang, Mōng Kyawt, and Mōng Hta, which were claimed both by the Chief of Chiengmai and by the Sawbwa of Mōng Pan, and also in regard to Mōng Hsat, which was claimed by Siam and Kēng Tung. At the end of 1887 Mr. A. H. Hildebrand, Superintendent, Southern Shan States, was directed to make a local enquiry in conjunction with commissioners appointed by the Siamese Government. As a result it was ordered that the four first named States should henceforth be considered as a portion of the Shan States tributary to Her Majesty the Queen-Empress, and they were replaced under the Mōng Pan Sawbwa with effect from the 15th November 1888. The State of Mōng Hsat was found to be actually under the management of Kēng Tung, and was also declared under British protection.

The long-standing disputes above alluded to in respect to trans-Salween Karenni first claimed attention in September 1887, when the Chief Commissioner of Burma reported aggressions by the Siamese. In 1888 when his unprovoked attack on Mawk Mai compelled the British Government to punish Sawlapaw, Siam was invited to co-operate with a view to preventing his escape; and the acceptance of this suggestion was followed by their occupation of trans-Salween Karenni. This measure led to long correspondence, and it was not till October 1892 that the Siamese consented to evacuate this tract, and measures were taken for its restoration to Sawlawi, the Chief whom the British Government had recognised as Myoza of Karenni in succession to Sawlapaw deposed. In 1889 the Siamese Government proposed the appointment of a joint commission to settle claims to sovereignty over various districts on the east bank of the Salween. Various difficulties, however, arose, and the British commissioners were compelled to take up the investigation alone. Work was commenced in Karenni, and the boundary of the trans-Salween tract and of the small States previously in dispute was provisionally laid down. In 1889-90 the demarcation was continued, and on this occasion representatives of both Siam and Kēng Tung rendered assistance. A line of frontier extending as far as the

* See Appendix No. III.

Mekong was traced, and the whole of this border was accepted in 1892 by Siam. The final delineation of the boundary by a joint commission in the open season of 1892-93 was arranged for. The Anglo-Siamese commissioners met at Mōng Hang and the work of demarcation was undertaken in two sections. The northern section commenced work on the 7th January 1893, working from Loi Un westward of the Salween towards the Mekong river. The southern section commenced work on the 8th January 1893, working southwards to the Salween. The demarcation was duly completed, and on the 17th October 1894 the King of Siam and His Britannic Majesty's Minister exchanged maps in three sheets signed and sealed, showing the boundary line as finally agreed upon between the two countries.

In 1892 the Secretary of State transmitted, for the consideration of the Government of India, a draft agreement which it was proposed that His Majesty's Government should enter into with the King of Siam, with the view of preserving the integrity and independence of the latter kingdom. The Government of India did not think that the advantage to be gained by the undertaking which it was proposed to obtain from Siam, was of sufficient value to justify the promise of friendly offices to prevent annexation by a foreign power. The Siamese boundaries were not well defined, and the promise was likely to commit the British Government in an inconvenient way, and would probably not deter France from encroaching on doubtful territory, if it did not actually occasion increased activity on the part of France; that if the undertaking given was to have any significance, it meant the extension of the political responsibilities of the Indian Government which were already too onerous; that the British Government should certainly object to a distinct promise of assistance, and that anything short of this would not be of real value to the Siamese Government. The Secretary of State was inclined to concur in the views of the Government of India. He assumed that in the event of the aggression of any foreign power on Siam, the Siamese Government would appeal to His Majesty's Government rather than to any other for support, whether the suggested agreement had been entered into or not, and that an undertaking with Siam, not to cede any portion of her territory to a foreign power, without previous notice to England, did not appear to the Secretary of State to be of sufficient value, or importance, to justify the British Government undertaking the responsibility, inseparable from a formal declaration, that His Majesty's Government would exercise their friendly offices to prevent annexation of Siamese territory. That there was, no doubt, another contingency of a far more serious nature, vis., that a foreign power should seize Bangkok and establish itself in western Siam, or, without formally extinguishing the independence of Siam, should assume a protectorate over the State. That in either contingency it appeared that no advantage would be gained by entering into a formal engagement with Siam on the subject. Such an engagement, whilst increasing the responsibilities of the British Government, would not strengthen their position, and would fetter their action in the future. The Foreign Office agreed with the views of the Government of India and the Secretary of State, and stated that the matter would not be pursued further.

The Siamese Minister also hinted to the British Minister at Bangkok about an offensive and defensive alliance between Great Britain and Siam, but the proposal seemed so impracticable that His Majesty's Minister at Bangkok found it unnecessary to discuss the matter with the Siamese Minister.

In June 1892 the Government of Burma reported certain encroachments made by the Siamese authorities on British territory in the Amherst district of the Tenasserim division of lower Burma. The report was communicated to the British Minister, Bangkok, who represented the matter to the Siamese Government. The Siamese Government called for a report from their officials, and at the same time assured the British Minister at Bangkok that they would strictly adhere to the stipulations of the treaty concluded in 1868. The Government of Burma subsequently submitted a detailed report showing the encroachments made by the Siamese, and in communicating this to the British Minister, Bangkok, he was requested to invite the Siamese Government to depute responsible officials to demarcate the boundary in conjunction with a British official. The Siamese Government accepted the proposals, and a joint demarcation was made. The Siamese Government, while acknowledging the correctness of the demarcation, stated that by following it they would really lose some 460 square miles of territory, which before and after the agreement of 1868 was really administered by them, and on which their subjects had settled; and they suggested that it would be worthy of the spirit of justice and equity of the British Government to consent to a revision of the agreement of 1868. The Government of India, however, on a report received from the Government of Burma, held that the line demarcated should be adhered to; that the boundary should be marked by permanent and conspicuous pillars; and that the Siamese Government should be informed accordingly.

On the 10th January 1896 the Secretary of State telegraphed to the Government of India a rough text of an agreement regarding Siam and the upper Mekong, which it was proposed should be entered into between France and England. On the 17th January the Secretary of State telegraphed that the agreement had been signed on the 15th. The Agreement is given as No. CXXIX.

In 1896 the British Government approached the Siamese Government with a view to making a convention for the purpose of protecting the western portion of Siam against foreign interference. The British Minister on the 31st May 1896 presented the Siamese Minister with a draft convention, and a verbal note explaining the object of the proposal, which was to the effect that the Anglo-French declaration of the 15th January 1896 provided for the safety of the guaranteed portion of Siam, not only against France and England, but against any other power also; that the British Government were unable to induce the French Government to extend its provisions to the whole of Siam; but that they thought a security almost equivalent might be provided for the territories under Siamese rule or suzerainty which lie to the south-west of the guaranteed portion, if Siam would enter into an agreement with England not to alienate them to any third power. After some discussion the Convention (No. CXXX) was signed at Bangkok on April 6th, 1897.

In 1897 a new Siam Order in Council was passed repealing all previous Siam Orders in Council. In connection with the registration of British subjects in Siam His Majesty's Government passed the Siam Order in Council, 1898. Subsequently on the 29th November 1899 the British and Siamese Governments entered into an Agreement (No. CXXXI) for the registration of British subjects in Siam. In May 1905 His Majesty's Minister at Bangkok reported that he had come to an agreement with the Siamese Government that the grand-children of registered British subjects should not be called upon for State service in Siam until the age of seventeen; such grand-children, however, were not to be regarded as subject to British jurisdiction in case any question arose involving the jurisdiction to be applied to them. An amended Siam Order in Council was accordingly issued by the British Government on the 26th November 1900.

In November 1899 the Secretary of State forwarded certain correspondence, and asked for the views of the Government of India as to whether the schedule of taxes annexed to article 4 of the Bangkok agreement of the 13th May 1896 should not be abrogated. The Government of India replied that there was no objection to the abrogation of the schedule on the following conditions, vis., (1) that British subjects be allowed to own land elsewhere than in the vicinity of Bangkok; and (2) that the taxation on land rented, owned, or held by British subjects should nowhere exceed the taxation levied on similar land in lower Burma. The Secretary of State referred the question again to the Government of India stating that the British Indian interests in question appeared small, and enquiring whether under this circumstance the Government of India were disposed to accept the agreement. The Government of India replied that they were willing to forego the condition as to British subjects owning land elsewhere than near Bangkok.

In the meanwhile the British Government were pressing the Siamese Government to sign an agreement defining boundaries between the British and Siamese dependencies in the Malay States. The boundary Agreement (No. CXXXII) was signed on the 29th November 1899. After some discussion the agreement between Great Britain and Siam, relative to the taxation on land held or owned by British subjects in Siam, and to the abrogation of the taxation schedule to the agreement of 1856, was signed at Bangkok on the 20th September 1900 (No. CXXXIII). In accordance with this agreement the Siamese Government in June 1905 issued an official notification amending the amount of land tax to be collected in future.

On the 29th April 1899 the British Minister, Bangkok, issued a regulation* in respect to the import of arms into Siam as a matter of urgency, in accordance with paragraph 6, section 84 of the Siam Order in Council, 1899.

In April 1902 the Secretary of State asked for the views of the Government of India on a scheme for the neutralization of Siam. Mr. Rivett-Carnac, the Financial Adviser to the Siamese Government, was endeavouring to persuade the King of Siam to obtain a joint guarantee by the powers for the neutralization of Siam, and he had written a memorandum exhibiting the grave political dangers with which the kingdom of Siam was threatened, and he proposed certain remedies. The Government of India agreed with the opinion of Mr. Rivett-Carnac as to the political dangers which menaced Siam, but disagreed with him as to the remedies proposed to ward them off.

In June 1902 the British Consul at Chiengmai forwarded a copy of his letter, which he had addressed to His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, Bangkok, submitting for his approval, and for that of the Government of India, certain proposed arrangements with a view to facilitating the capture on the Siamese side, and their extradition, of criminals who cross the border. He had suggested to the Siamese Commissioner that the district Commissioner should be invested with certain powers enabling him (1) to communicate with, and receive communications direct from, the corresponding extradition officer on the British side; (2) on receipt of a written request for extradition from the British official, to at once, and without necessarily submitting the case to Chiengmai, track and arrest the accused person, and on his arrest to apply direct to the British official for evidence in support of the extradition; (3) to hold the preliminary enquiry without delay, forward a full report of the case and the enquiry to the Central Council at Chiengmai, and detain the accused in custody pending further instructions; (4) in cases of accused persons in Siamese territory who escape into Burma, to apply in writing direct to the British officials for their arrest, and to furnish witnesses for the enquiry preliminary to extradition, forwarding at the same time a report to the Central Council at Chiengmai. The Siamese High Commissioner reported the matter to Bangkok for orders, and received sanction to invest the district commissioners of all districts in the Chiengmai province, adjoining British territory, with the powers mentioned above. The Government of India on their side appointed the following officers to exercise all the powers of a political agent, under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, XXI of 1879, for the provinces of Siam as specified in each case:—

(a) the Deputy Commissioner for the time being of the Amherst district, for the provinces of (1) Muang Tak otherwise called Raheng or Yaheing, (2) Kammpong Pett, (3) Muang Utai, (4) Sawankaloke, (5) Sukotai, (6) Utaradit and (7) Pichai;

(b) the Deputy Commissioner for the time being of the Tavoy district, for the province of Muang Patburi;

(c) the Deputy Commissioner for the time being of the Mergui district, for the provinces of (1) Muang Kooi, (2) Muang Bantaphan, (3) Muang Patin, (4) Muang Chomphon, (5) Muang Kraburi and (6) Muang Renong,

(d) the Deputy Commissioner for the time being of the Salween district, for the provinces of Lakon and Lampunchi, and for the central and western districts of the province of Chiengmai;

(e) the Superintendent and Political Officer for the time being of the Southern Shan States, for the northern district of the province of Chiengmai, and

(f) the Assistant Political Officer for the time being at Keng Tung, for the provinces of Muang Nan, Muang Phre and Muang Thon.

The Government of India also, under section 13 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, XXI of 1879, directed that the Deputy Commissioner of the Amherst, Tavoy, Mergui and Salween districts, the Superintendent and Political Officer of the Southern Shan States, and the Assistant Political Officer at Keng Tung, may, in exercise of the powers of a political officer conferred upon them by the previous notification, give over any person arrested, and forwarded in accordance with the provisions of section 12 of the said Act to be tried by the ordinary courts of the State in which the offence was committed, or alleged to have been committed, by such person.

In 1902 the Siamese Government made a proposal for the alteration of article VIII of the Chiangmai treaty of 1883, by substituting the rights of British subjects to hold land for the right of the Consul to remove cases to the Consular court. The Government of India were consulted, who, being of the opinion that they were favourable to British interests, recommended their acceptance. The British Government accordingly directed the British Minister to complete an agreement. The British Minister, however, drew the attention of his Government to the seriousness of abandoning their right to a Consul removing cases where British subjects were concerned to his Consular court for trial. The Government of India were again consulted, and, under the circumstances brought to notice, they upheld the views of the British Minister at Bangkok, and suggested a general revision of the treaties of 1856 and 1883 in order to attain their object of abolishing the restrictions with regard to British subjects holding land. The British Government considered it advisable to withdraw from making a supplementary agreement with Siam. They, however, further consulted the British Minister as to the suggestion made by the Government of India. The British Minister considered the views of the Government of India, and suggested acquiring the recognition of the title to land by all British subjects in return for the abrogation of the removal clause in cases affecting the title to such land, and in the second place to obtaining the acceptance by the Siamese Government of the exclusion of white British subjects from the sphere of the International Court, except in that class of cases. The Secretary of State asked for the views of the Government of India on these proposals, stating that there were strong objections of a general nature to discriminate between the treatment of European and Asiatic subjects, and suggested that the best arrangement would be to leave the existing position of all British subjects unaltered, except as regards cases involving title to land, provided the removal of existing restrictions on tenure of land by British subjects was agreed to by the Siamese Government. The Government of India agreed to the proposals. In October 1905 the British Minister at Bangkok reported the discussion he had had on the subject with the Adviser to the Siamese Government. The Siamese Government were willing to concede to British subjects the right to hold land in return for the cession to them of jurisdiction over Asiatic British subjects. The British Minister, however, thought that there were many difficulties in regard to the discrimination between European and Asiatic British subjects. After further discussions with the Siamese Government the British Minister was unable to come to an agreement, and His Majesty's Government considered that the matter should be allowed to drop for the present, and that an opportunity might be taken of any proposal that might be made by the Siamese Government to raise their rates of import duty to bring pressure to bear on the Siamese Government to modify their attitude in regard to the land question.

The Siam Order in Council, 1903, was passed on the 16th February 1903. This order repealed the orders of 1889, 1898 and 1900.

On the 6th October 1902 Lord Lansdowne, His Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Phya Sri Sahadeb, Special Envoy of His Majesty the King of Siam, signed a declaration in London in respect of certain arrangements which it was considered expedient to make with regard to the administration of the States of Kelantan and Trengganu. The declaration with the draft agreement and confidential notes exchanged by Lord Lansdowne and Phya Sri Sahadeb are given as No. CXXXIV. One of the terms of the declaration was that the draft agreement attached to it should be shown to the Rajas of Kelantan and Trengganu, for the purpose of procuring their adhesion to it, and article 2 of the draft agreement stated that His Majesty the King of Siam reserved the right to nominate officers to be adviser and assistant adviser to the States of Kelantan and Trengganu to act as representative (or agent) of His Majesty the King of Siam. The Sultan of Kelantan signed the English and Malay versions of the treaty, but the Sultan of Trengganu absolutely refused to sign it. In accordance with the agreement attached to the declaration signed on the 6th October 1902, Mr. H. W. Thomson was engaged by the Siamese Government as Assistant Adviser to the State of Kelantan. The agreement between Mr. Thomson and the Siamese Government is given as No. CXXXV. Mr. Graham was appointed Adviser, but no agreement was executed by the Siamese Government with him. In place of the agreement the Siamese Government issued formal instructions to him setting forth the principles which he was to follow and the conditions of his appointment (No. CXXXVI).

On the 9th of February 1904 the Siamese Government issued a notification abolishing, within three years from that date, all gambling in Siam. In order to reimburse the State for the revenue thus lost the Siamese Government proposed to modify the tariff. On the 6th February 1906, the Siamese Government gave His Majesty's Government the twelve months' notice required by article 11 of the treaty of 1855 of their intention to modify the tariff. His Majesty's Government replied that when the details were received, they would receive their careful consideration.

On the 8th April 1904 England and France concluded an Agreement (No. CXXXVII) settling several points of difference between the two nations. An opportunity was taken here of confirming articles 1 and 2 of the treaty of 1896 with France, respecting Siam, specifying the territories coming under the influence of France and England, and disclaiming all idea of the contracting parties annexing any Siamese territory.

In March 1905 the Siamese Government by a Royal Decree authorized the Siamese Minister in Paris to raise a foreign loan of £ 1,000,000 for the purpose of expediting the construction of railway and other public works in Siam.

In September of the same year the Government of the Straits Settlements forwarded to His Majesty's Government a copy of a letter addressed by the Raja Junda of Kedah to the Resident Councillor at Penang, proposing the abolition of the system of forced labour in Kedah and the substitution of a general poll tax on all classes of the population, with certain exceptions. His Majesty's Government replied that if the Government of India had no objection to raise, the proposal should be acquiesced in. The Government of India, after consulting the Government of Burma, informed the Government of the Straits Settlements that they had no objection to the proposal.

In November 1905 an enquiry was made as to whether any provision existed in Siam for the protection or registration of trade marks. It was found that no express legislation existed, but that although the Siamese Government were not likely to introduce legislation in the near future, some protection could be found in the fact that the Siamese courts would probably hold the use of false trade marks as an indictable offence, if criminal intent could be proved, and there would probably be ground for a civil action for damages or for remedy by injunction in proper cases.

In January 1906 a proposal was made to abolish the rule that all agreements concerning forests should be sent, in accordance with the provisions of the Chiangmai treaty of 1883, to Chiangmai for registration at His Majesty's Consulate. As the Siamese Government had taken over all forests in the State, the formality of registration in one of His Majesty's Consulates was considered unnecessary. The question was referred to His Majesty's Government, who enquired of the Government of India whether they saw any objection to the proposal. On the Government of India replying in the negative, His Majesty's Government directed the British Minister at Bangkok to approach the Siamese Government officially in the matter.

On the 4th April 1906, the Siam Order in Council of 1906 was passed.

If the English do not let the former Governor of Quedah go and live in some other country as here engaged, the Siamese may continue to levy an Export Duty upon paddy and rice in Quedah. The English will not prevent any Siamese, Chinese, or other Asiatics at Prince of Wales' Island from going to reside in Quedah if they desire it.

ARTICLE 14.

gold and silver flowers to Siam as heretofore, the English will not prevent his doing as he may desire. If Chao Phya of Ligor desire to send down to Perak, with friendly intentions forty (40) or fifty (50) men, whether Siamese, Chinese, or other Asiatic subjects of Siam; or if the Rajah of Perak desire to send any of his ministers or officers to seek Chao Phya of Ligor, the English shall not forbid them. The Siamese or English shall not send any force to go and molest, attack or disturb Perak. The English will not allow the State of Salengore to attack or disturb Perak, and the Siamese shall not go and attack or disturb Salengore. The arrangements stipulated in these two last articles respecting Perak and Quedah Chao Phya of Ligor shall execute as soon as he returns home from Bangkok.

The fourteen Articles of this Treaty let the great and subordinate Siamese and English officers, together with every great and small province, hear, receive, and obey without fail. Their Excellencies the Ministers of high rank, at Bangkok, and Captain Henry Burney, whom the Right Honourable Lord Amherst, Governor of Bengal, deputed as an Envoy to represent His Lordship, framed this Treaty together, in the presence of Prince Krom Meum Soorin Thiraksa, in the city of the sacred and great Kingdom of Si-a-yootha-ya.

The Treaty, written in the Siamese, Malayan, and English languages, was concluded on Tuesday, the First day of the seventh decreasing Moon, 1188, year dog 8, according to the Siamese Æra, corresponding with the Twentieth day of June 1826, of the European Æra.

Both copies of the Treaty are sealed and attested by Their Excellencies the Ministers, and by Captain Henry Burney. One copy Captain Henry Burney will take for the Ratification of the Governor of Bengal, and one copy, bearing the royal seal, Chao Phya of Ligor will take and place at Quedah. Captain Burney appoints to return to Prince of Wales' Island in seven months, in the second Moon of the year dog 8, and to exchange the ratifications of this Treaty with Phra Phak-di-Bori-rak, at Quedah. The Siamese and English shall form a friendship that shall be perpetuated, that shall know no end or interruption as long as Heaven and Earth endure.

COMMERCIAL TREATY of 1827.

Their Excellencies the Ministers and Captain Henry Burney having settled a Treaty of Friendship, consisting of fourteen Articles, now frame the following Agreement with respect to English vessels desiring to come and trade in the city of the sacred and great Kingdom of Si-a-yoo-tha-ya (Bangkok).

ARTICLE 1.

Vessels belonging to the subjects of the English Government, whether Europeans or Asiatics, desiring to come and trade at Bangkok, must conform to the established laws of Siam in every particular. Merchants coming to Bangkok are prohibited from purchasing paddy or rice for the purpose of exporting the same as merchandize, and if they import fire-arms, shot, or gunpowder, they are prohibited from selling them to any party but to the Government. Should the Government not require such fire-arms, shot, or gunpowder, the merchants must re-export the whole of them. With exception to such warlike stores, and paddy and rice, merchants, subjects of the English, and merchants at Bangkok, may buy and sell without the intervention of any other person, and with freedom and facility. Merchants coming to trade shall pay at once the whole of the duties and charges consolidated according to the breadth of the vessel.

If the vessel bring an import cargo, she shall be charged seventeen hundred (1,700) ticals for each Siamese fathom in breadth.

If the vessel bring no import cargo, she shall be charged fifteen hundred (1,500) ticals for each Siamese fathom in breadth.

No import, export, or other duty shall be levied upon the buyers or sellers from, or to, English subjects.

ARTICLE 2.

Merchant vessels, the property of English subjects, arriving off the bar, must first anchor and stop there, and the Commander of the vessel must despatch a person with an account of the cargo, and a return of the people, guns, shot, and powder on board the vessel, for the information of the Governor, at the mouth of the river, who will send a pilot and interpreter to convey the established regulations to the Commander of the vessel. Upon the pilot bringing the vessel over the bar, she must anchor and stop below the chokey, which the interpreter will point out.

ARTICLE 3.

The proper officers will go on board the vessel and examine her thoroughly, and after the guns, shot and powder have been removed and deposited at Paknam (port at the mouth of the Menam), the Governor of Paknam will permit the vessel to pass up to Bangkok.

ARTICLE 4.

Upon the vessel's arriving at Bangkok, the officers of the customs will go on board and examine her, open the hold, and take an account of whatever cargo may be on board, and after the breadth of the vessel has been measured and ascertained, the merchants will be allowed to buy and sell according to the first article of this agreement. Should a vessel, upon receiving an export cargo, find that she cannot cross the bar with the whole, and that she must hire cargo boats to take down a portion of the cargo, the officers of the customs and chokeys shall not charge any further Duty upon such cargo boats.

ARTICLE 5.

Whenever a vessel or cargo boat completes her lading, the Commander of the vessel must go and ask Chao Phya Phra Khlang for a port clearance, and if there be no cause for detention, Chao Phya Phra Khlang shall deliver the port clearance without delay. When the vessel, upon her departure, arrives at Paknam, she must anchor and stop at the usual chokey, and after the proper officers have gone on board and examined her, the vessel may receive her guns, shot and powder, and take her departure.

ARTICLE 6.

Merchants being subjects of the English Government, whether Europeans or Asiatics, the Commanders, officers, lascars, and the whole of the crew of vessels, must conform to the established laws of Siam, and to the stipulations of this Treaty in every particular. If merchants of every class do not observe the Articles of this Treaty, and oppress the inhabitants of the country, become thieves or bad men, kill men, speak offensively of, or treat disrespectfully, any great or subordinate officers of the country, and the case become important in any way whatever, the proper officers shall take jurisdiction of it, and punish the offender. If the offence be homicide, and the officers, upon investigation, see that it proceeded from evil intention, they shall punish with death. If it be any other offence, and the party be the commander or officer of a vessel, or a merchant, he shall be fined. If he be of a lower rank, he shall be whipped or imprisoned, according to the established laws of Siam. The Governor of Bengal will prohibit English subjects, desiring to come and trade at Bangkok, from speaking disrespectfully or offensively to, or of the great officers in Siam. If any person at Bangkok oppress any English subject, he shall be punished according to his offence in the same manner.

The six Articles of this Agreement, let the Officers at Bangkok, and merchants subject to the English, fulfil and obey in every particular.

TREATY of 1855 with Siam.

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and all its dependencies, and their Majesties Phra Bard Somdetch Phra Paramendo Maha Mongkut Phra Choni Klan Chan Yu Hua, the first King of Siam, and Phra Bard Somdetch Phra Pawarendu Ramese Mahiswarese Phra Pin Klan Chan Yu Hua, the second King of Siam, desiring to establish, upon firm and lasting foundations, the relations of peace and friendship existing between the two countries, and to secure the best interests of their respective subjects by encouraging, facilitating, and regulating their industry and trade, have resolved to conclude a Treaty of Amity and Commerce for this purpose, and have therefore named as their Plenipotentiaries; that is to say.

Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, Sir John Bowring, Knight, Doctor of Laws, etc., etc.

And their Majesties the first and second Kings of Siam, His Royal Highness Krom Hluang Wongsa Dhiraj Snidh; His Excellency Somdetch Chan Phaya Param Maha Puyura Wongse; His Excellency Somdetch Chan Phaya Param Maha Bijaineate; His Excellency Chan Phaya Sri Suriwongse Samuha Phra Kralahome; and His Excellency Chan Phaya, acting Phraklang.

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, and found them to be in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following Articles:—

Article 1.—There shall henceforward be perpetual peace and friendship between Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and Her successors, and their Majesties the first and second Kings of Siam and their successors. All British subjects coming to Siam shall receive from the Siamese Government full protection and assistance to enable them to reside in Siam in all security, and trade with every facility, free from oppression or injury on the part of the Siamese. And all Siamese subjects going to an English country shall receive from the British Government the same complete protection and assistance that shall be granted to British subjects by the Government of Siam.

Article 2.—The interests of all British subjects coming to Siam shall be placed under the regulation and control of a Consul, who will be appointed to reside at Bangkok. He will himself conform to, and will enforce the observance by British subjects, of all the provisions of the Treaty and such of the former Treaty negotiated by Captain Burney in 1826 as shall still remain in operation. He shall also give effect to all Rules or Regulations as are now, or may hereafter be, enacted for the government of British subjects in Siam, the conduct of their trade, and for the prevention of violations of the Laws of Siam. Any disputes arising between British and Siamese subjects shall be heard and determined by the Consul in conjunction with the proper Siamese Officers; and criminal offences will be punished, in the case of English offenders, by the Consul, according to English Laws, and in the case of Siamese offenders, by their own Laws through the Siamese authorities. But the Consul shall not interfere in any matters referring solely to Siamese, neither will the Siamese authorities interfere in questions which only concern the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty.

It is understood, however, that the arrival of the British Consul at Bangkok shall not take place before the Ratification of this Treaty, nor until ten vessels owned by British subjects, sailing under British colors and with British papers, shall have entered the Port of Bangkok for the purposes of trade, subsequent to the signing of this Treaty.

Article 3.—If Siamese, in the employ of British subjects, offend against the Laws of their country, or if any Siamese having so offended, or desiring to desert, take refuge with a British subject in Siam, they shall be searched for, and upon proof of their guilt or desertion shall be delivered up by the Consul to the Siamese authorities. In like manner any British offenders, resident or trading in Siam, who may desert, escape to, or hide themselves in Siamese territories, shall be apprehended and delivered over to the British Consul on his requisition. Chinese not able to prove themselves to be British subjects shall not be considered as such by the British Consul, nor be entitled to his protection.

Article 4.—British subjects are permitted to trade freely in all the seaports of Siam, but may reside permanently only at Bangkok, or within the limits assigned by this Treaty. British subjects coming to reside at Bangkok may rent land and buy or build houses, but cannot purchase lands within a circuit of 200 seng (not more than four miles English) from the City walls, until they shall have lived in Siam for ten years, or shall obtain special authority from the Siamese Government to enable them to do so. But with the exception of this limitation British residents in Siam may at any time buy or rent houses, lands, or plantations situated anywhere within a distance of twenty-four hours' journey from the City of Bangkok, to be computed by the rate at which boats of the country can travel. In order to obtain possession of such lands or houses it will be necessary that the British subject shall, in the first place, make application through the Consul to the proper Siamese officer, and the Siamese officer and the Consul having satisfied themselves of the honest intentions of the applicant, will assist him in settling, upon equitable terms, the amount of the purchase-money, will make out and fix the boundaries of the property, and will convey the same to the British purchaser under sealed Deeds, whereupon he and his property shall be placed under the protection of the Governor of the district, and that of the particular local authorities: he shall conform in ordinary matters to any just directions given him by them and will be subject to the same taxation that is levied on Siamese subjects. But if, through negligence, the want of capital or other cause, a British subject should fail to commence the cultivation or improvement of the lands so acquired within a term of three years from the date of receiving possession thereof, the Siamese Government shall have the power of resuming the property upon returning to the British subject the purchase-money paid by him for the same.

Article 5.—All British subjects intending to reside in Siam shall be registered at the British Consulate. They shall not go out to sea, nor proceed beyond the limits assigned by this Treaty for the residence of British subjects, without a passport from the Siamese authorities, to be applied for by the British Consul, nor shall they leave Siam if the Siamese authorities show to the British Consul that legitimate objections exist to their quitting the country. But within the limits appointed under the preceding Article British subjects are at liberty to travel to and fro under the protection of a Pass, to be furnished them by the British Consul, and counter-sealed by the proper Siamese Officer, stating, in the Siamese character, their names, calling, and description. The Siamese Officers at the Government Stations in the interior may, at any time, call for the production of this Pass; and, immediately on its being exhibited, they must allow the parties to proceed, but it will be their duty to detain those persons who, by travelling without a Pass from the Consul, render themselves liable to the suspicion of their being deserters; and such detention shall be immediately reported to the Consul.

Article 6.—All British subjects visiting or residing in Siam shall be allowed the free exercise of the Christian Religion, and liberty to build Churches in such localities as shall be consented to by the Siamese Authorities. The Siamese Government will place no restrictions upon the employment, by the English, of Siamese subjects as servants, or in any other capacity. But wherever a Siamese subject belongs or owes service to some particular master, the servant who engages himself to a British subject without the consent of his master, may be reclaimed by him, and the Siamese Government will not enforce an Agreement between a British subject and any Siamese in his employ unless made with the knowledge and consent of the master who has a right to dispose of the services of the person engaged.

Article 7.—British Ships of War may enter the river and anchor at Paknam, but they shall not proceed above Paknam, unless with the consent of the Siamese authorities, which shall be given where it is necessary that a ship shall go into dock for repairs. Any British Ship of War conveying to Siam a public functionary, accredited by the British Government to the Court of Bangkok, shall be allowed to come up to Bangkok, but shall not pass the Forts called Phrachamit and Pit-pach-nuck, unless expressly permitted to do so by the Siamese Government. But in the absence of a British Ship of War the Siamese authorities to engage to furnish the Consul with a force sufficient to enable him to give effect to his authority over British subjects, and to enforce discipline among British Shipping.

Article 8.—The measurement Duty hitherto paid by British vessels trading to Bangkok, under the Treaty of 1826, shall be abolished from the date of this Treaty coming into operation; and British Shipping or Trade will thenceforth be only subject to the payment of Import and Export Duties on the goods landed or shipped.

On all articles of import the Duty shall be three per cent., payable at the option of the importer, either in kind or money, calculated upon the market value of the goods. Drawback of the full amount of duty shall be allowed upon goods found unsaleable and re-exported. Should the British Merchant and the Custom House Officers disagree as to the value to be set upon imported articles, such disputes shall be referred to the Consul and proper Siamese Officer, who shall each have the power to call in an equal number of Merchants as assessors, not exceeding two on either side, to assist them in coming to an equitable decision.

Opium may be imported free of Duty, but can only be sold to the Opium farmer or his agents. In the event of no arrangement being effected with them for the sale of the Opium it shall be re-exported, and no Impost or Duty shall be levied thereon. Any infringement of this Regulation shall subject the Opium to seizure and confiscation.

Articles of export, from the time of production to the date of shipment, shall pay one Impost only, whether this be levied under the name of Inland Tax, Transit Duty, or Duty on exportation. The Tax or Duty to be paid on each article of Siamese produce, previous to or upon exportation, is specified in the Tariff attached to this Treaty; and it is distinctly agreed that goods or produce that pay any description of Tax in the interior shall be exempted from any further payment of Duty on exportation. English merchants are to be allowed to purchase directly from the producer the articles in which they trade, and in like manner to sell their goods directly to the parties wishing to purchase the same, without the interference, in either case, of any other person.

The rates of Duty laid down in the Tariff attached to this Treaty are those that are now paid upon goods or produce shipped in Siamese or Chinese vessels or junks; and it is agreed that British Shipping shall enjoy all the privileges now exercised by, or which hereafter may be granted to Siamese or Chinese vessels or junks.

British subjects will be allowed to build ships in Siam on obtaining permission to do so from the Siamese authorities.

Whenever a scarcity may be apprehended of salt, rice, and fish, the Siamese Government reserve to themselves the right of prohibiting, by public proclamation, the exportation of these articles.

Bullion or personal effects may be imported or exported free of charge.

Article 9.—The Code of Regulations appended to this Treaty shall be enforced by the Consul, with co-operation of the Siamese Authorities, and they, the said Authorities and Consul, shall be enabled to introduce any further Regulations which may be found necessary in order to give effect to the objects of this Treaty.

All fines and penalties inflicted for infraction of the provisions and regulations of this Treaty shall be paid to the Siamese Government.

Until the British Consul shall arrive at Bangkok and enter upon his functions, the consignees of British vessels shall be at liberty to settle with the Siamese Authorities all questions relating to their trade.

Article 10.—The British Government and its subjects will be allowed free and equal participation in any privileges that may have been, or may hereafter be, granted by the Siamese Government to the Government or subjects of any other nation.

Article 11.—After the lapse of ten years from the date of the Ratification of this Treaty, upon the desire of either the British or Siamese Government, and on twelve months' notice given by either party, the present, and such portion of the Treaty of 1826 as remain unrevoked by this Treaty together with the Tariff and Regulations thereunto annexed, or those that may hereafter be introduced, shall be subject to revision by Commissioners appointed on both sides for this purpose, who will be empowered to decide on and insert therein such amendments as experience shall prove to be desirable.

Article 12.—This Treaty, executed in English and Siamese, both versions having the same meaning and intention, and the Ratifications thereof having been previously exchanged, shall take effect from the 6th day of April in the year 1856 of the Christian Era, corresponding to the 1st day of the fifth month of the One Thousand Two Hundred and Eighteenth year of the Siamese Civil Era.

In witness whereof the above-named Plenipotentiaries have signed and sealed the present Treaty in quadruplicate at Bangkok, on the Eighteenth day of April, in the year 1855 of the Christian Era, corresponding to the second day of the Sixth month of the One Thousand Two Hundred and Seventeenth year of the Siamese Civil Era.

GENERAL REGULATIONS under which BRITISH TRADE is to be conducted in SIAM.

Regulation 1.—The Master of every English ship coming to Bangkok to trade must, either before or after entering the river, as may be found convenient, report the arrival of his vessel at the Custom House at Paknam, together with the number of his crew and guns, and the port from whence he comes. Upon anchoring his vessel at Paknam, he will deliver into the custody of the Custom House Officers all his guns and ammunition, and a Custom House Officer will then be appointed to the vessel, and will proceed in her to Bangkok.

Regulation 2.—A vessel passing Paknam without discharging her guns and ammunition, as directed in the foregoing Regulation, will be sent back to Paknam to comply with its provisions, and will be fined eight hundred ticals for having so disobeyed. After delivery of her guns and ammunition she will be permitted to return to Bangkok to trade.

Regulation 3.—When a British vessel shall have cast anchor at Bangkok, the Master, unless a Sunday should intervene, will, within four and twenty hours after arrival, proceed to the British Consulate, and deposit there his Ship's Papers, Bills of Lading, etc., together with a true Manifest of his Import Cargo; and upon the Consul's reporting these particulars to the Custom House, permission to break bulk will at once be given by the latter.

For neglecting so to report his arrival, or for presenting a false Manifest, the Master will subject himself, in each instance, to a penalty of four hundred ticals: but he will be allowed to correct, within twenty-four hours after delivery of it to the Consul, any mistake he may discover in his Manifest, without incurring the above-mentioned penalty.

Regulation 4.—A British vessel breaking bulk and commencing to discharge before due permission shall be obtained, or smuggling, either when in the river or outside the bar, shall be subject to the penalty of eight hundred ticals and confiscation of the goods so smuggled or discharged.

Regulation 5.—As soon as a British vessel shall have discharged her cargo and completed her outward lading, paid all her Duties, and delivered a true Manifest of her outward cargo to the British Consul, a Siamese Port Clearance shall be granted her on application from Consul, who, in the absence of any legal impediment to her departure, will then return to the Master his Ship's Papers, and allow the vessel to leave. A Custom House Officer will accompany the vessel to Paknam, and on arriving there she will be inspected by the Custom House Officers of that Station, and will receive from them the guns and ammunition previously delivered into their charge.

Regulation 6.—Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary having no knowledge of the Siamese language, the Siamese Government have agreed that the English text of these Regulations, together with the Treaty of which they form a portion, and the Tariff hereunto annexed, shall be accepted as conveying in every respect their true meaning and intention.

No. CXXIV.

AGREEMENT entered into between the undermentioned ROYAL COMMISSIONERS, on the part of THEIR MAJESTIES the FIRST and SECOND KINGS of SIAM, and HARRY SMITH PARKES, ESQ., on the part of HER BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S Government—1856.

Mr. Parkes having stated, on his arrival at Bangkok, as bearer of Her Britannic Majesty's Ratification of the Treaty of Friendship and commerce concluded on the 18th day of April 1855, between Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and their Majesties Phra Bard Somdetch Phra Paramendy Maha Mongkut Phra Cham Klan Chan Yu Hua, the First King of Siam, and Phra Bard Somdetch Phra Pawarendr Ramesr Mahiswarese Phra Pin Klan Chan Yu Hua, the Second King of Siam, that he was instructed by the Earl of Clarendon, Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to request the Siamese Government to consent to an enumeration of those Articles of the former Treaty, concluded in 1826, between the Honourable East India Company and their late Majesties the First and Second Kings of Siam, which are abrogated by the Treaty first named, and also to agree to certain explanations which appear necessary to mark the precise force and application of certain portions of the new Treaty, their aforesaid Majesties, the First and Second Kings of Siam, have appointed and empowered certain Royal Commissioners, namely, His Royal Highness Krom Hluang Wang-sa Dhiraj Snidh, and their Excellencies the four Senaputhies or Principal Ministers of Siam, to confer and arrange with Mr. Parkes the matters above-named, and the said Royal Commissioners having accordingly met Mr. Parkes for this purpose on repeated occasions and maturely considered all the subjects brought by him to their notice, have resolved—

That it is proper, in order to prevent future controversy, that those clauses of the old Treaty, which are abrogated by the new Treaty, should be distinctly specified, and that any clause of the new Treaty, which is not sufficiently clear, should be fully explained. To this end they have agreed to and concluded the following twelve Articles :—

ARTICLE I.

On the old Treaty concluded in 1826.

The Articles of the old Treaty not abrogated by the new Treaty are 1, 2, 3, 8, 11, 12, 13, and 14, and the undermentioned clauses of Articles 6 and 10.

In Article 6, the Siamese desire to retain the following clause :—

"If a Siamese or English merchant buy or sell without enquiring and ascertaining whether the seller or buyer be of a good or bad character, and if he meet with a bad man who takes the property and absconds, the rulers and officers on either side must make search and endeavour to produce the property of the absconder, and investigate the matter with sincerity. If the party possess money or property, he can be made to pay ; but if he does not possess any or if he cannot be apprehended, it will be the merchant's own fault, and the authorities cannot be held responsible."

Of Article 10, Mr. Parkes desires to retain that clause relating to the Overland Trade, which states—

"Asiatic merchants of the English countries, not being Burmese, Pegouans or descendants of Europeans, desiring to enter into and to trade with the Siamese dominions from the countries of Mergui, Tavoy, Tenasserim, and Ye, which are now subject to the English, will be allowed to do so freely overland and by water, upon the English furnishing them with proper certificates." Mr. Parkes, however, desires that all British subjects, without exception, shall be allowed to participate in this Overland trade. The said Royal Commissioners therefore agree, on the part of the Siamese, that all traders under British rule may cross from the British territories of Mergui, Tavoy, Ye, Tenasserim, Pegu, or other places, by land or by water, to the Siamese territories, and may trade there with facility, on the condition that they shall be provided by the British authorities with proper Certificates, which must be renewed for each journey.

The Commercial Agreement annexed to the old Treaty is abrogated by the new Treaty, with the exception of the undermentioned clauses of Articles 1 and 4 :—

Of Article 1, the Siamese desire to retain the following clause :—

"British Merchants importing fire-arms, shot or gunpowder, are prohibited from selling them to any party but the Government ; should the Government not require such fire-arms, shot or gunpowder, the Merchants must re-export the whole of them."

Article 4 stipulates that no charge or duty shall be levied on boats carrying cargo of British ships at the bar. The Siamese desire to cancel this clause for the reason that the old measurement duty of 1,700 ticals per fathom included the fees of the various officers. But as this measurement duty has now been abolished, the Siamese wish to levy on each native boat taking cargo out to sea a fee of 8 ticals 2 salungs, this being the charge paid by Siamese traders ; and Mr. Parkes undertakes to submit this point to the consideration of Her Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of Siam.

ARTICLE 2.

On the exclusive jurisdiction of the Consul over British subjects.

The 2nd Article of the Treaty stipulates that "any disputes arising between the British and Siamese subjects shall be heard and determined by the Council in conjunction with the proper Siamese officers; and criminal offenders will be punished, in the case of English offenders, by the Consul according to English laws, and in the case of Siamese offenders, by their own laws, through the Siamese authorities." But the Consul shall not interfere in any matters referring solely to Siamese, neither will the Siamese authorities interfere in questions which only concern the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty.

On the non-interference of the Consul with the Siamese, or of the Siamese with British subjects, the said Royal Commissioners desire, in the first place, to state that, while for natural reasons they fully approve of the Consul holding no jurisdiction over Siamese in their own country, the Siamese authorities, on the other hand, will feel themselves bound to call on the Consul to apprehend and punish British subjects, who shall commit, whilst in Siamese territory, any grave infractions of the laws, such as cutting, wounding or inflicting other serious bodily harm. But in disputes or in offences of a slighter nature committed by British subjects among themselves, the Siamese authorities will refrain from all interference.

With reference to the punishment of offences, or the settlement of disputes, it is agreed—

That all criminal cases in which both parties are British subjects, or in which the defendant is a British subject, shall be tried and determined by the British Consul alone.

All criminal cases in which both parties are Siamese, or in which the defendant is a Siamese, shall be tried and determined by the Siamese authorities alone.

That all civil cases in which both parties are British subjects, or in which the defendant is a British subject, shall be heard and determined by the British Consul alone. All civil cases in which both parties are Siamese or in which the defendant is a Siamese, shall be heard and determined by the Siamese authorities alone.

That whenever a British subject has to complain against a Siamese, he must make his complaint through the British Consul, who will lay it before the proper Siamese authorities.

That in all cases in which Siamese or British subjects are interested, the Siamese authorities in the one case, and the British Consul in the other, shall be at liberty to attend at and listen to the investigation of the case, and copies of the proceedings will be furnished from time to time, or whenever desired, to the Consul or the Siamese authorities, until the case is concluded.

That although the Siamese may interfere so far with British subjects as to call upon the Consul in the manner stated in this Article, to punish grave offences when committed by British subjects, it is agreed that—

British subjects, their persons, houses, premises, lands, ships or property of any kind shall not be seized, injured, or in any way interfered with by the Siamese. In case of any violation of this stipulation, the Siamese authorities will take cognisance of the case, and punish the offenders. On the other hand, Siamese subjects, their persons, houses, premises, or property of any kind shall not be seized, injured, or in any way interfered with by the English, and the British Consul shall investigate and punish any breach of this stipulation.

On the right of the British Subjects to dispose of their property at will.

By the 4th Article of the Treaty, British subjects are allowed to purchase in Siam "houses, gardens, fields or plantations." It is agreed in reference to this stipulation, that British subjects, who have accordingly purchased houses, gardens, fields, or plantations, are at liberty to sell the same to whomsoever they please. In the event of a British subject dying in Siam, and leaving houses, lands or any property, his relations, or those persons who are his heirs according to English laws, shall receive possession of the said property; and the British Consul, or some one appointed by the British Consul, may proceed at once to take charge of the said property on their account. If the deceased should have debts due to him by the Siamese or other persons, the Consul can collect them; and if the deceased should owe money, the Consul shall liquidate his debts as far as the estate of the deceased shall suffice.

ARTICLE 4.

On the taxes, duties, or other charges leviable on British subjects.

The 4th Article of the Treaty provides for the payment on the lands held or purchased by British subjects, of "the same taxation that is levied on Siamese subjects." The taxes here alluded to are those set forth in the annexed schedule.

Again, it is stated in the 8th Article, "that British subjects are to pay import and export duties according to the tariff annexed to the Treaty." For the sake of greater distinctness, it is necessary to add to these two clauses the following explanation, namely, that besides the land tax, and the import and export duties mentioned in the aforesaid articles, no additional charge or tax of any kind may be imposed upon a British subject, unless it obtain the sanction both of the supreme Siamese authorities and the British Consul.

ARTICLE 5.

On passes and port clearances.

The 5th Article of the Treaty provides that passports shall be granted to travellers, and the 5th Article of the regulations, that port clearances shall be furnished to ships. In reference thereto, the said Royal Commissioners, at the request of Mr. Parkes, agree that the passports to be given to British subjects travelling beyond the limits assigned by the Treaty for the residence of British subjects, together with the passes for cargo boats and the port clearances of British ships, shall be issued within twenty-four hours after formal application for the same shall have been made to the proper Siamese authorities. But if reasonable cause should at any time exist for delaying or withholding the issue of any of these papers, the Siamese authorities must at once communicate it to the Consul.

Passports for British subjects travelling in the interior, and the port clearances of British ships, will be granted by the Siamese authorities free of charge.

ARTICLE 6.

On the prohibition of the exportation of rice, salt, and fish and on the duty on paddy.

The 8th Article of the Treaty stipulates that "whenever a scarcity may be apprehended of salt, rice and fish, the Siamese Government reserve to themselves the right of prohibiting, by public proclamation, the exportation of these articles."

Mr. Parkes, in elucidation of this clause, desires an agreement to this effect, namely, that a month's notice shall be given by the Siamese authorities to the Consul prior to the enforcement of the prohibition, and that British subjects, who may previously obtain special permission from the Siamese authorities to export a certain quantity of rice which they have already purchased, may do so even after the prohibition comes in force. Mr. Parkes also requests that the export duty on paddy should be half of that on rice, namely, 2 ticals per koyan.

The said Royal Commissioners, having in view the fact that rice forms the principal sustenance of the nation, stipulate that, on the breaking out of war or rebellion, the Siamese may prohibit the trade in rice, and may enforce the prohibition so long as the hostilities thus occasioned shall continue. If a dearth should be apprehended on account of the want or excess of rain, the Consul will be informed one month previous to the enforcement of the prohibition. British merchants who obtain the Royal permission upon the issue of the proclamation, to export a certain quantity of rice which they have already purchased, may do so irrespective of the prohibition to the contrary; but those merchants who do not obtain the Royal permission will not be allowed, when the prohibition takes effect, to export the rice they may already have purchased.

The prohibition shall be removed as soon as the cause of its being imposed shall have ceased to exist.

Paddy may be exported on payment of a duty of 2 ticals per koyan, or half the amount levied on rice.

ARTICLE 7.

On permission to import gold-leaf as bullion.

Under the 8th Article of the Treaty, bullion may be imported or exported free of charge. With reference to this clause, the said Royal Commissioners, at the request of Mr. Parkes, agree that foreign coins of every denomination, gold and silver in bars or ingots, and gold-leaf, may be imported free; but manufactured articles in gold and silver, plated-ware and diamonds or other precious stones, must pay an import duty of three per cent.

ARTICLE 8.

On the establishment of a Custom House.

The said Royal Commissioners, at the request of Mr. Parkes, and in conformity with the intent of the 8th Article of the new Treaty, agree to the immediate establishment of a Custom House, under the superintendency of a high Government functionary, for the examination of all goods landed or shipped, and the receipt of the import and export duties due thereon. They further agree that the business of the Custom House shall be conducted under the regulations annexed to this agreement.

ARTICLE 9.

On the subsequent taxation of articles now free from duty.

Mr. Parkes agrees with the said Royal Commissioners that whenever the Siamese Government deem it to be beneficial for the country to impose a single tax or duty on any article not now subject to a public charge of any kind they are at liberty to do so, provided that the said tax be just and reasonable.

ARTICLE 10.

On the boundaries of the four-mile circuit.

It is stipulated in the 4th Article of the Treaty that "British subjects coming to reside at Bangkok may rent land, and buy or build houses, but cannot purchase lands within a circuit of 200 sen (not more than four miles English) from the city walls, until they shall have lived in Siam for ten years, or shall obtain special authority from the Siamese Government to enable them to do so."

The points to which this circuit extends due north, south, east and west of the city, and the spot where it crosses the river below Bangkok, have accordingly been measured by officers on the part of the Siamese and English; and their measurements, having been examined and agreed to by the said Royal Commissioners and Mr. Parkes, are marked by stone pillars placed at the under-mentioned localities, vis.:—

On the North:—One sen north of Wat Kemabherataram.

On the East:—Six sen and seven fathoms south-west of Wat Bangkopi.

On the South:—About nineteen sen south of the village of Bangpakio.

On the West:—About two sen south-west of the village of Bangphrom.

The pillars marking the spot where the circuit line crosses the river below Bangkok are placed on the left bank, three sen below the village of Bangmanan, and on the right bank about one sen below the village of Banglamphuluem.

ARTICLE 11.

On the boundaries of the 24-hours' journey.

It is stipulated in the 4th Article of the Treaty that "excepting within the circuit of four miles, British merchants in Siam may at any time buy or rent houses, lands, or plantations, situated anywhere within a distance of twenty-four hours' journey from the city of Bangkok, to be computed by the rate at which boats of the country can travel.

The said Royal Commissioners and Mr. Parkes have consulted together on this subject, and have agreed that the boundary of the said twenty-four hours' journey shall be as follows:—

1. On the North:—The Bhangputsa Canal, from its mouth on the Chow Phya River to the old City walls of Lobpary, and a straight line from Lobpary to the landing-place of Thra of Phrangam, near to the town of Saraburi, on the River Pasak.

2. On the East:—A straight line drawn from the landing-place of Thra Prangam to the junction of the Klongkut Canal with the Bangpakong River; the Bangpakong River from the junction of the Klongkut Canal to its mouth; and the coast from the mouth of the Bangpakong River to the Isle of Srimaharajah, to such distance inland as can be reached within twenty-four hours' journey from Bangkok.

3. On the South:—The Isle of Srimaharajah and the Islands of Sechange on the east side of the Gulf, and the City walls of Petchaburi on the west side.

4. On the West:—The Western Coast of the Gulf to the mouth of the Mecklong River to such a distance inland as can be reached within twenty-four hours' journey from Bangkok; the Mecklong River from its mouth to the City walls of Kagpury; a straight line from the City walls of Kagpury to the Town of Swbharnapury, and a straight line from the Town of Swbharnapury to the mouth of the Bhangputsa Canal on the Chow Phya River.

ARTICLE 12.

On the incorporation in the Treaty of this Agreement.

The said Royal Commissioners agree on, the part of the Siamese Government, to incorporate all the Articles of this Agreement in the Treaty concluded by the Siamese Plenipotentiaries and Sir John Bowring on the 18th April 1855, whenever this shall be desired by Her Britannic Majesty's Plenipotentiary.

In witness whereof the said Royal Commissioners and the said Harry Smith Parkes have sealed and signed this Agreement in duplicate, at Bangkok, on the thirteenth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six of the Christian era, corresponding to the ninth day of the waxing moon of the lunar month of Wesakh, in the year of the Quadrupedi Serpent, being the year one Thousand two hundred and eighteen of the Siamese astronomical era, which is the nineteenth of Her Britannic Majesty's and sixth of their present Siamese Majesty's reigns.

BRITISH ORDER in COUNCIL, PROVIDING for the EXERCISE of BRITISH JURISDICTION in SIAM, JULY 28, 1856.

At the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, the 28th day of July 1856

PRESENT: THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

Whereas by a certain Act of Parliament, made and passed in the Session of Parliament holden in the 6th and 7th years of Her Majesty's reign (Cap. 94), intituled "An Act to remove doubts as to the exercise of power and jurisdiction by Her Majesty within divers countries and places out of Her Majesty's dominions and to render the same more effectual," it is amongst other things enacted, that it is and shall be lawful for Her Majesty to hold, exercise, and enjoy any power or jurisdiction which Her Majesty now hath, or may at any time hereafter have, within any country or place out of Her Majesty's dominions in the same and as ample a manner as if Her Majesty had acquired such power or jurisdiction by the cession or conquest of territory ;

And whereas Her Majesty hath power and jurisdiction in the dominions of the Kings of Siam ;

And whereas it is expedient at the present time to make provision for the due exercise of the jurisdiction possessed by Her Majesty as aforesaid :

I.—Now, therefore, in pursuance of the above-recited Act of Parliament, Her Majesty is pleased by and with the advice of her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered that Her Majesty's Consul appointed to reside in the kingdom of Siam shall have full power and authority to carry into effect, and to enforce, by fine or imprisonment, as hereinafter provided, the observance of the stipulations of any Treaty, or of regulations appended to any Treaty, now existing, or which may hereafter be made between Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, and the Kings of Siam, their heirs and successors, and to make and enforce, by fine or imprisonment, rules and regulations for the observance of the stipulations of such Treaties, and for the peace, order, and good government of Her Majesty's subjects being within the dominions of the Kings of Siam.

II.—And it is further ordered that a copy of all such rules and regulations made by the said Consul shall forthwith be affixed, and kept affixed and exhibited in some conspicuous place in the public office of the said Consul ; and printed copies of the said rules and regulations shall, as soon as possible, be provided by the said Consul, and sold at a price not exceeding 1 Dollar for each copy ; and for the purpose of convicting any person offending against the said rules and regulations, and for all other purposes of law whatsoever, a printed copy of the said rules and regulations, certified under the hand of the said Consul to be a true copy thereof, shall be taken as conclusive evidence of such rules and regulations ; and no penalty shall be incurred, or shall be enforced, for the breach of any such rules or regulations to be hereafter made, until the same shall have been so affixed and exhibited for 1 calendar month in the public office of the Consul : Provided always, that any such rule or regulation made by Her Majesty's Consul, and to be enforced by a penalty, shall be submitted to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs for allowance or disallowance, and if any such rule or regulation should be disallowed by Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the same shall cease to have effect from the receipt by the Consul of such disallowance ; nevertheless the Consul shall not be liable to be proceeded against in any of Her Majesty's Courts in regard to any act done by him under such rule or regulation previously to its disallowance.

III.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul as aforesaid upon information, or upon the complaint of any party that a British subject has violated any of the stipulations of Treaties or of regulations appended to any Treaty, between Her Majesty and the Kings of Siam, or has disregarded or infringed any of the rules and regulations for the observance of the stipulations of such Treaties, affixed and exhibited according to the provisions of the next preceding Article of this present Order, to summon before him the accused party, and to receive evidence and examine witnesses as to the guilt or innocence of such party in regard to the offence laid to his charge; and to award such penalty of fine or imprisonment to any party convicted of an offence against the said Treaties, or appended regulations, or the said rules and regulations, as may be specified therein respectively; and any charge against a British subject for a breach of Treaties or regulations, or for a breach of the rules and regulations for the observance of such Treaties, shall be heard and determined by the Consul, without assessors: Provided always, that in no case shall the penalty to be attached to a breach of the said rules and regulations exceed 500 dollars, or three months' imprisonment.

IV.—And it is further ordered that any charge against a British subject for a breach of rules and regulations, other than those relating to the observance of Treaties, shall in like manner be heard and determined by Her Majesty's Consul; and in all cases in which the penalty shall not exceed 200 dollars or one month's imprisonment, the Consul shall hear and determine the charge summarily, without the aid of assessors; but where the penalty attached to a breach of the rules and regulations other than those relating to the observance of Treaties shall amount to more than 200 dollars, or to imprisonment for more than one month, the Consul, before he shall proceed to hear the charge, shall summon two British subjects of good repute to sit with him as assessors, which assessors shall, however, have no authority to decide on the innocence or guilt of the party charged, or on the amount of fine or imprisonment to be awarded to him on conviction; but it shall rest with the Consul to decide on the guilt or innocence of the party charged, and on the amount of fine or imprisonment to be awarded to him: Provided always that in no case shall the penalty to be attached to a breach of rules and regulations other than those for the observance of Treaties exceed 500 dollars or three months' imprisonment; and provided further that in the event of the said assessors or either of them dissenting from the conviction of the party charged, or from the penalty of fine or imprisonment awarded to him by the Consul, the Consul shall take a note of such dissent, with the grounds thereof, and shall require good and sufficient security for the appearance of the party convicted at a future time, in order to undergo his sentence or receive his discharge; and the Consul shall, with as little delay as possible, report his decision, with all the particulars of the case, together with the dissent of the assessors or either of them and the grounds thereof, to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs shall have authority to confirm, or vary, or reverse the decision of the Consul, as to him may seem fit.

V.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to hear and determine any suit of a civil nature against a British subject, arising within any part of the dominions of the Kings of Siam, whether such suit be instituted by a subject of the Kings of Siam, or by a subject or citizen of a foreign State in amity with Her Majesty; and if either, or any party in such suit shall be dissatisfied with the decision given by such Consul, it shall be lawful for such party within 15 days to give to the Consul notice of appeal to the Supreme Court in Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore; whereupon the Consul shall, with as little delay as possible, transmit all the documents which were produced before him and none other together with a statement of the grounds on which he has formed his decision to the said Supreme Court, and shall forthwith notify to the several parties the transmission of the process: Provided always that it shall be lawful for the Consul to require from any party appealing to the said Supreme Court reasonable security, which shall consist in part of one or two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the Consul that such party shall abide by the decision to be given by the said Supreme Court, and, if such appeal shall fail, to answer all cost, loss, and damages sustained by the other party in consequence of such appeal.

VI.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul, in like manner, to hear and determine any suit of a civil nature, arising within any part of the dominions of the Kings of Siam, instituted by a British subject against a subject of the Kings of Siam, or against a subject or citizen of a foreign State in amity with Her Majesty, provided that the defendant in such suit shall consent to submit of his jurisdiction and give sufficient security that he will abide by the decision of the Consul, or, in case of appeal, by that of the Supreme Court of Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore, and will pay such expenses as the Consul or the said Supreme Court shall adjudge; and if either or any party in such suit shall be dissatisfied with the decision given by such Consul, it shall be lawful for such party within 15 days to give to the Consul notice of appeal to the said Supreme Court, and the proceedings in such a suit, or in an appeal arising therefrom, shall be conformable to, and under the same conditions as, the proceedings in a suit, or in an appeal arising therefrom, in which a British subject is defendant, and a subject of the Kings of Siam, or a subject or citizen of a foreign State in amity with Her Majesty, is plaintiff.

VII.—And it is further ordered that in the event of any suit of a civil nature arising between British subjects within the dominion of the Kings of Siam, it shall be lawful, upon the application of a party, for Her Majesty's Consul to hear and determine such suit, subject to an appeal to the Supreme Court of Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore: and every such appeal shall be made and conducted in the same manner and form, and under the same conditions, as in cases in which the defendant only is a British subject.

VIII.—And it is further ordered, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to summon two, and not more than four, British subjects of good repute, to sit with him as assessors at the hearing of any suit whatever of a civil nature brought before him for decision; and in case the sum sought to be recovered shall exceed 500 dollars, such suit shall not be heard by the Consul without assessors, if within a reasonable time such assessors can be procured; and the assessors aforesaid shall have no authority to decide on the merits of such suit, but in the event of such assessors, or any, or either, of them, dissenting from the decision of the Consul, the Consul shall enter the fact of such dissent, and the grounds thereof, in the minutes of the proceedings, and, in case of appeal, shall transmit the same to the Supreme Court of Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore, together with the documents relating to the suit.

IX.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to enforce his decision against a British subject in a civil suit, by distress or imprisonment, in like manner as a decision of the Supreme Court of Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore in a civil suit is enforced within the said possession.

X.—And it is further ordered that in an appeal to the Supreme Court of Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore from the decision of Her Majesty's Consul, it shall be lawful for the said Supreme Court to admit any further legal evidence, besides that adduced before the Consul, on its being established to the satisfaction of the said Supreme Court, by oath or affidavit, that the party desiring to produce such further evidence was ignorant of the existence of such evidence, or was taken by surprise at the hearing before the Consul, or was unable to produce it before the Consul, after due and reasonable diligence and exertion on his part in that behalf, or where, under the circumstances of the case, it shall appear to the said Supreme Court that further evidence ought to be received.

XI.—And it is further ordered that Her Majesty's Consul shall have power in a civil suit to examine on oath, or in such form, and with such ceremony, as he may declare to be binding on his conscience, any witness who may appear before him, and shall have power, on the application of any party in the said suit, to issue a compulsory order for the attendance of any person being a British subject, who may be competent to give evidence in such suit; and any British subject having been duly served with any such compulsory order, and with a reasonable notice of the day of hearing of such suit, upon his expenses of appearing as a witness having been paid or tendered to him by the party at whose application he shall have been ordered to attend, shall, on his wilful default to appear as a witness of the hearing of such suit, be punished with a fine not exceeding 100 dollars, or with imprisonment for a period not exceeding 30 days, at the discretion of the said Consul; and every witness, being a British subject, so examined as aforesaid, in case of wilful false testimony, may be convicted of, and punished for, the crime of wilful and corrupt perjury.

XII.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to promote the settlement of a suit or contention by amicable agreement between the parties, and, with the consent of the several parties, to refer the decision of a suit or contention to one or more arbitrators, and to take security from the parties that they will be bound by the result of such reference, and the award of such arbitrator or arbitrators shall be, to all intents and purposes, deemed and taken to be a judgment or sentence of Her Majesty's Consul in such suit or contention, and shall be entered and recorded as such, and shall have the like effect and operation, and shall be enforced accordingly, and shall not be open to appeal.

XIII.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to cause to be apprehended and brought before him any British subject who may be charged with having committed any crime or offence within the dominions of the Kings of Siam, and such Consul shall thereupon proceed, with all convenient speed, to inquire of the same, and for such purpose and end shall have power to examine on oath, or in such form and with such ceremony as he shall declare to be binding on his conscience, any witness who may appear before him to substantiate the charge; and shall have power to compel any person, being a British subject, who may be competent to give evidence, as to the guilt or innocence of the party so charged to appear and give evidence, and to punish the wilful default of any such person to appear and give evidence, after reasonable notice of the day of the hearing of such charge, by fine or imprisonment, in like manner as provided in Article XI of this Order; and shall examine every such witness in the presence and hearing of the party accused, and afford the accusing party all reasonable facility for cross-examining such witness; and shall cause the deposition of every such witness to be reduced to writing, and the same to be read over, and, if necessary, explained to the party accused, together with any other evidence that may have been urged against him during the course of the inquiry: and shall require such accused party to defend himself against the charge brought against him, and, if necessary, advise him of the legal effects of any voluntary confession, and shall take the evidence of any witness whom the accused party may tender to be examined in his defence; and every witness, being a British subject, so examined as aforesaid, in case of wilful false testimony, may be convicted and punished for the crime of wilful and corrupt perjury; and when the case has been fully inquired of, and the innocence or guilt of the person accused established to the satisfaction of the Consul, the Consul, as the case may be, shall either discharge the party accused from custody, if satisfied of his innocence, or proceed to pass sentence on him, if satisfied of his guilt: and it shall be lawful for the Consul, having inquired of, tried, and determined, in the manner aforesaid, any charge which may be brought before him, to award to the party convicted any amount of punishment not exceeding imprisonment for one month, or a fine of 200 dollars.

XIV.—And it is further ordered that if the crime or offence whereof any person, being a British subject, may be accused before Her Majesty's Consul as aforesaid, shall appear to such Consul to be of such a nature as, if proved, would not be adequately punished by the infliction of such punishment as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for such Consul to summon two, or not more than four, British subjects of good repute, to sit with him as assessors for inquiring of, trying, and determining the charge against such person; and the Consul, when he shall try any such charge with the assistance of assessors as aforesaid, shall, if he is himself convinced of the guilt of the party accused, have power to award any amount of punishment not exceeding imprisonment for 12 months, or a fine of 1,000 dollars; and the assessors aforesaid shall have no authority to decide on the innocence or guilt of the party accused, or on the amount of punishment to be awarded to him on conviction ; but in the event of the said assessors, or any or either, of them dissenting from the conviction of, or from the amount of punishment awarded to, the accused party, the said assessors, or any, or either, of them, shall be authorised to record in the minutes of the proceedings the grounds on which the said assessors, or any, or either, of them, may so dissent ; and the Consul shall forthwith report to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs the fact that such dissent has been so recorded in the minutes of the proceedings, and shall, as soon as possible, lay before him copies of the whole of the depositions and proceedings, with the dissent of the assessors or assessor recorded therein ; and it shall be lawful thereupon for Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, by warrant under his hand seal, addressed to the Consul, to confirm, or vary, or remit altogether, as to him may seem fit, the punishment awarded to the party accused ; and such Consul shall give immediate effect to the injunction of any such warrant : Provided always that in any case in which the assessor or assessors shall dissent from the conviction of, or from the amount of punishment awarded to, the accused party, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to take good and sufficient bail from the accused party to appear and undergo the punishment awarded to him, provided the same, or any portion thereof, is confirmed by Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, which punishment, or any portion thereof, shall commence to take effect from the day on which the decision of Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs shall be notified to the party accused.

XV.—And in order more effectually to repress crimes and offences on the part of British subjects within the dominions of the Kings of Siam, it is further ordered that it shall and may be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to cause any British subject who shall have been twice convicted before him of any crime or offence, and punished for the same, and who after execution of the sentence of the Consul on any second conviction, shall not be able to find good and sufficient security to the satisfaction of the Consul for his future good behaviour, to be sent out of the dominions of the Kings of Siam ; and to this end the Consul shall have power and authority, as soon as may be practicable after execution of the sentence on such second conviction, to send any such twice-convicted party, if a native of the territories administered by the East India Company, to Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore, or to some other port of the said territories, or if such party is not a native of the said territories, to England, and in the meanwhile to detain such party in custody, until a suitable opportunity for sending him out of the dominions of the Kings of Siam shall present itself ; and any person so to be sent out of the said dominions as aforesaid shall be embarked in custody on board one of Her Majesty's vessels of war, or if there should be no such vessel of war available for such purpose, then on board any British vessel bound to Singapore, or to some other port in the territories administered by the East India Company, or to England as the case may be ; and it shall be lawful for the commander of any of Her Majesty's ships of war, or of any British vessel bound to any such port as aforesaid, or to England, to receive any such person as aforesaid under a warrant from the Consul to him addressed, and thereupon to convey him in custody to any such port as aforesaid, or to England, in the same manner as if he were a distressed British subject, unless he shall be willing and able himself to defray the expenses of his passage.

XVI.—And it is further ordered that in any case in which any British subject shall be accused before Her Majesty's Consul of the crime of arson, or house-breaking, or cutting and maiming, or stabbing, or wounding, or assault endangering life, or of wilfully causing any bodily injury dangerous to life, the proceedings before the Consul shall be carried on with the aid of assessors convened in the manner aforesaid; and it shall be lawful for the Consul, if to him it shall seem fit, to cause any person convicted before him of any of the crimes aforesaid, over and above any fine or imprisonment which may be awarded to such person, to be sent out of the dominions of the Kings of Siam in the manner pointed out in the next preceding Article of this Order, notwithstanding the crime laid to the charge of such person may be the first of which he has been convicted before the Consul.

XVII.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul, within the dominions of the Kings of Siam, upon information laid before him by one or more credible witnesses, that there is reasonable ground to apprehend that any British subject is about to commit a breach of the public peace, to cause such British subject to be brought before him, and to require such British subject to give sufficient security to keep the peace; and in the event of any British subject being convicted of, and punished for, a breach of the peace, to cause such British subject, after he shall have undergone the punishment which may have been awarded to him by the Consul, to find security for his good behaviour; and in the event of any British subject who may be required, as aforesaid, to give sufficient security to keep the peace, or to find security for his good behaviour, being unable, or wilfully omitting to do so, then, and in that case, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to send such British subject out of the dominions of the Kings of Siam in the manner pointed out in Article XV of this Order.

XVIII.—And it is further ordered that in all cases in which a British subject shall have been sent out of the dominions of the Kings of Siam, as provided in Articles XV, XVI, and XVII of this Order, the Consul sending him out shall forthwith report such act of deportation, with the grounds of his decision, to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, or, in a case where the party so deported is a native of the territories administered by the East India Company, to the Governor-General of India.

XIX.—And it is further ordered that in cases of assault it shall be lawful for the Consul before whom complaint is made, to promote reconciliation between the parties, and to suffer compensation and amends to be made, and the proceedings thereby to be stayed.

XX.—And it is further ordered that a minute of the proceedings in every case heard and determined before the Consul in pursuance of this Order, shall be drawn up and be signed by the Consul, and shall, in cases where assessors are present, be open for the inspection of such assessors, and for their signature, if they shall therein concur; and such minute, together with the depositions of the witnesses, shall be preserved in the public office of the said Consul.

XXI.—And it is further ordered that save and except as regards offences committed by British subjects against the stipulations of Treaties between Her Majesty and the Kings of Siam, or against rules and regulations for the observance of the stipulations of such Treaties, duly affixed and exhibited, according to the provisions of Article II of this Order, or against rules and regulations for the peace, order and good government of Her Majesty's subjects being within the dominions of the Kings of Siam, duly affixed and exhibited as aforesaid, no act done by a British subject being within the dominions of the Kings of Siam, shall, by Her Majesty's Consul, be deemed and taken to be a crime, or misdemeanour, or offence, rendering the person committing it amenable to punishment, which, if done within any part of Her Majesty's dominions, would not, by a court of justice, having criminal jurisdiction in Her Majesty's dominions, have been deemed and taken to be a crime, or misdemeanour, or offence, rendering the person so committing it amenable to punishment; and Her Majesty is pleased to appoint, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore as the place where crimes and offences committed by British subjects within the dominions of the Kings of Siam, which it may be expedient shall be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished within Her Majesty's dominions shall be so inquired of, tried, determined, and punished, and Her Majesty's Consul resident in the kingdom of Siam shall have authority to cause any British subject charged with the commission of any crime or offence, the cognizance whereof may, at any time, appertain to him, to be sent for trial to Her Majesty's said Possession of Singapore.

XXII.—And it is further ordered, that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to cause any British subject charged with the commission of any crime or offence, the cognizance whereof may at any time appertain to him, to be sent, in any of Her Majesty's ships of war, or in any British vessel, to Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore, for trial before the Supreme Court of the said Possession; and it shall be lawful for the Commander of any of Her Majesty's ships of war, or of any British vessel, to receive any such person on board, with a warrant from the said Consul, addressed to the Chief Magistrate of Police of the said Possession, and thereupon to convey him in custody to Singapore, and on his arrival there to deliver him, with the said warrant, into the custody of the said Chief Magistrate of Police, or other officer within the said Possession lawfully acting as such, who, on the receipt of the said warrant and of the party therein named, shall be authorized to commit, and shall commit, such party so sent for trial to the common gaol of the said Possession, and it shall be lawful for the keeper of the said common gaol to cause such party to be detained in safe and proper custody, and to be produced upon the order of the said Supreme Court; and the Supreme Court, at the session to be next holden, shall proceed to hear and determine the charge against such party in the same manner as if the crime with which he may be charged had been committed within Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore.

XXIII.—And it is further ordered that Her Majesty's Consul, on any occasion of sending a prisoner to Singapore for trial, shall observe the provisions made with regard to prisoners sent for trial to a British colony in an Act passed in the 6th and 7th years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to remove doubts as to the exercise of power and jurisdiction by Her Majesty within divers countries and places out of Her Majesty's dominions, and to render the same more effectual."

XXIV.—And it is further ordered that the Supreme Court of Her Majesty's Possession of Singapore shall have and may exercise, concurrently with Her Majesty's Consul, authority and jurisdiction in regard to all suits of a civil nature between British subjects arising within any part of the dominions of the Kings of Siam: Provided always that the said Supreme Court shall not be bound, unless in a fit case it shall deem it right so to do by writ of certiorari or otherwise, to debar or prohibit the Consul from hearing and determining, pursuant to the provisions of the several Articles of this Order, any suit of a civil nature between British subjects, or to stay the proceedings of the Consul in any such matter.

XXV.—And it is further ordered that all fines and penalties imposed under this Order may be levied by distress, and seizure, and sale of ships, and goods and chattels; and no bill of sale, mortgage, or transfer of property made after the apprehension of a party, or with a view to security in regard to crimes or offences committed, or to be committed, shall avail to defeat any of the provisions of this Order.

XXVI.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul from time to time to establish rules of practice to be observed in proceedings before the said Consul, and to make regulations for defraying the expenses of witnesses in such proceedings and the costs of criminal prosecutions, and also to establish rates of fees to be taken in regard to civil suits heard and determined before the said Consul, and it shall be lawful for the said Consul to enforce by seizure and sale of goods, or, if there be no goods, by imprisonment, the payment of such established fees and of such expenses as may be adjudged against the parties, or either, or any, of them: Provided always that a table, specifying the rates of fees to be so taken, shall be affixed and kept exhibited in the public office of the said Consul.

XXVII.—And it is further ordered that all fees, penalties, fines, and forfeitures levied under this Order, save and except such penalties as may by Treaty be payable to the Siamese Government, shall be paid to the public account, and be applied in diminution of the public expenditure on account of Her Majesty's Consulate in Siam: Provided always that in the event of the Siamese authorities declining to receive fines payable to the Siamese Government as aforesaid, the same shall be paid to the public account, and applied in the manner last mentioned.

XXVIII.—And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty's Consul to grant probate of the will or letters of administration to the intestate estate of a British subject deceased, and leaving property within the Kingdom of Siam; and in the case of a party so deceased either leaving a will, or intestate, it shall be lawful for the Consul, provided that probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of the party deceased shall not have been applied for within 30 days by any person lawfully entitled thereto, to administer to such estate, and to reserve to himself out of the proceeds of such estate a commission not exceeding 2½ per centum.

XXIX.—And it is further ordered that a register shall be kept by Her Majesty's Consul of all British subjects residing within the Kingdom of Siam, and that every British subject now residing within the dominions of the Kings of Siam who shall not be already enrolled in such Consular Register, shall, within a reasonable time after promulgation of this Order, to be specified in a notice to be affixed and publicly exhibited in the Consular Office, apply to the Consul to be enrolled in such register; and every British subject who may arrive within the said dominions, save and except any British subject who may be borne on the muster-roll of any British ship arriving in a port of Siam, shall within a reasonable time after his arrival, to be specified as aforesaid, apply to the Consul to be enrolled in such register; and any British subject who shall refuse or neglect to make application so to be enrolled, and who shall not be able to excuse, to the satisfaction of the said Consul, such his refusal or neglect, shall not be entitled to be recognized or protected as a British subject in any difficulties or suits whatsoever, in which he may have been involved within the dominions of the Kings of Siam within the time during which he shall not have been so enrolled.

XXX.—And it is further ordered that Her Majesty's Consul may exercise any of the powers which by any Acts of the Imperial Parliament now enacted or hereafter to be enacted for the regulation of merchant seamen, or for the regulation of the mercantile marine, may be exercised by one or more justices of the peace within Her Majesty's dominions.

XXXI.—And it is further ordered that nothing in this Order contained shall be taken or construed to preclude Her Majesty's Consul within the dominions of the Kings of Siam from performing any act of administration or jurisdiction, or other act, which British Consuls within other States at amity with Her Majesty are by law, usage, or sufferance, enabled to perform.

XXXII.—And it is further ordered that any suit or action brought against Her Majesty's Consul by reason of anything done under the authority and in execution of the power or jurisdiction of Her Majesty entrusted to him by this Order, shall be commenced or prosecuted within six months after he shall have been within the jurisdiction of the Court in which the same may be brought, and not otherwise, and the defendant in every such action or suit shall be entitled to the benefit of the provisions made with respect to defendants in actions or suits, in an Act passed in the 6th and 7th years of Her Majesty, intituled "An Act to remove doubts as to the exercise of power and jurisdiction by Her Majesty within divers countries and places out of Her Majesty's dominions, and to render the same more effectual."

XXXIII.—And it is further ordered that the term "Consul" in this present Order shall be construed to include all and every officer in Her Majesty's service, whether Consul-General, Consul, Vice-Consul, or Consular Agent, or person duly authorized to act in any of the aforesaid capacities within the dominions of the Kings of Siam, and engaged in carrying out the provisions of this Order; and that wherever in this Order with reference to any person, matter, or thing, any word or words is or are used importing the singular number, or the masculine gender only, yet such word or words shall be understood to include several persons as well as one person, females as well as males, and several matters or things as well as one matter or thing unless it be otherwise specially provided, or there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction.

XXXIV.—And it is further ordered, that this Order shall take effect from and after the 1st day of December next ensuing.

And the right honourable the Earl of Clarendon, and the Board of Commissioners for the Affairs of India, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein, as to them may respectively appertain.

LIEUTENANT ARTHUR HERBERT BAGGE, ROYAL ENGINEERS, HER BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S COMMISSIONER, with powers from HIS EXCELLENCY the RIGHT HONOURABLE SIR JOHN LAWRENCE, VICEROY AND GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA, on the one part, CHOW PHYA SRI SURI WONGSE, the SAMNHA PHRA KALAHOME, PRIME MINISTER, PRESIDENT of the WESTERN and SOUTH-WESTERN PROVINCES, and CHOW PHYA PHUTTARAPHAI, the SAMNHA NA YOKE, PRESIDENT of the NORTHERN and NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES, with full powers from HIS MAJESTY the KING of SIAM, on the other part, have unanimously agreed to this CONVENTION regarding the BOUNDARIES on the MAIN-LAND between the KINGDOM of SIAM and the BRITISH PROVINCE of TENASSERIM, to wit:

On the north the channel of the River "Maymuey" (Siamese) or "Thoungyeng" (Burmese) up to its source in the "Pa Wau" range of mountains, the eastern or right bank of the said river being regarded as Siamese territory, and the western or left bank being regarded as English territory. Then along the "Pa Wau" range to the main watershed, and along it to "Khow Kra dook moo" or "moogadok Toung" in the province of "Thee tha Wat." Here the boundary line crosses the valleys of the "Houng drau" and "Maygathat" Rivers in almost a straight line, and meets the main watershed near the common source of the "Pha be sa" and "Krata" Rivers. From this point it runs down the central range of mountains which forms the main watershed of the Peninsula as far as "Khow Htam Dayn" in the district of Chumpon, thence along the range known as "Khow Dayn Yai" as far as the source of the "Kra-na-ey" stream, which it follows to its junction with the Pakchan; thence down the Pakchan River to its mouth; the west or right bank belonging to the British, the eastern or left bank belonging to the Siamese.

With regard to the islands in the River Pakchan, those nearest to the English bank are to belong to the English and those nearest to the Siamese bank are to belong to the Siamese, excepting the island of "Kwan" off Maleewan, which is Siamese property.

The whole of the western bank of the River Pakchan down to Victoria Point shall belong to the British, and the eastern bank throughout shall belong to Siam.

This Agreement, written both in Siamese and English, shall fix the boundary line between the Kingdom of Siam and the British Province of Tenasserim for ever.

A Tabular Statement is attached to this Agreement, in which the various boundary marks in the valleys and along the mountain ranges are specified, together with their geographical positions.

Within the term of six months from the date of this Agreement, Her Britannic Majesty's Commissioner shall forward two maps which shall be compared with the present map now signed and sealed, showing the boundary in a "red line." Should the two maps be found correct, the British and Siamese Governments shall ratify the same.

Signed and sealed by the respective Commissioners at Bangkok on Saturday, the fifteenth day of the waxing moon, the year of Rabbit, the 9th of the Decade Siamese Civil Era 1229, corresponding with the eighth day of February 1868 of the Christian Era.

AFTER TITLES

I have received your Majesty's gratifying letter on the subject of the settlement of the boundary line between the Kingdom of Siam and the British Province of Tenasserim.

Lieutenant Arthur Herbert Bagge of the Royal Engineers, whom I had deputed as my Commissioner to demarcate the boundary, has also informed me of the satisfactory conclusion of this matter. He reports that there is now only one point remaining for adjustment between the two Governments, viz., the sovereignty of certain islands off the mouth of the Pakchan river.

There are altogether five islands or groups of islands situated there, viz., the island of Victoria, Saddle, Delisle, St. Matthew, and the Bird's-nest group.

Your Majesty's Government make no claim regarding St. Matthew and the Bird's-nest group. Regarding the three other islands, I am inclined to view the following as the best solution of the matter, viz., that the island of Victoria, which is nearer to the British than the Siamese Coast, should belong to the British Government, and that the two other islands, Saddle and Delisle, shall be considered part of your Majesty's territories. I have to invite your Majesty's friendly consideration to this proposed method of solving the only question remaining unadjusted. Feeling confident that its reasonableness will commend itself to your Majesty's judgment, I have affixed my seal and signature to the map prepared by Lieutenant Arthur Herbert Bagge, in which the islands are divided in the manner above proposed; and I have directed the Secretary of my Government in the Foreign Department to forward to your Majesty's Ministers the above map, with a duplicate, to which I have the honor to request that your Majesty will affix your Royal seal and signature, and will then direct its return to the Consul of Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland at Bangkok.

AGREEMENT between GREAT BRITAIN and FRANCE with regard to SIAM and the UPPER MEKONG, SIGNED at LONDON
JANUARY 15, 1896.

The Undersigned, duly authorised by their respective Governments, have signed the following Declaration :—

I. The Governments of Great Britain and France engage to one another that neither of them will, without the consent of the other, in any case, or under any pretext, advance their armed forces into the region which is comprised in the basins of the Petchabouri, Meiklong, Menam and Bang Pa Kong (Petriou) rivers and their respective tributaries, together with the extent of coast from Muong Bang Tapan to Muong Pase, the basins of the rivers on which those two places are situated, and the basins of the other rivers, the estuaries of which are included in that coast; and including also the territory lying to the north of the basin of the Menam, and situated between the Anglo-Siamese frontier, the Mekong river, and the eastern watershed of the Me Ing. They further engage not to acquire within this region any special privilege or advantage which shall not be enjoyed in common by, or equally open to, Great Britain and France and their nationals and dependents. These stipulations, however, shall not be interpreted as derogating from the special clauses which, in virtue of the treaty concluded on the 3rd October, 1893, between France and Siam, apply to a zone of 25 kilom. on the right bank of the Mekong and to the navigation of that river.

Les Soussignés dûment autorisés par leurs Gouvernements respectifs, ont signé la Déclaration suivante :—

I. Les Gouvernements de Grande-Bretagne et de France s'engagent mutuellement à ne faire pénétrer, dans aucun cas et sous aucun prétexte, sans le consentement l'un de l'autre, leurs forces armées dans la région comprenant les bassins des Rivières Petchabouri, Meiklong, Ménam, et Bang Pa Kong (Rivière de Petriou) et de leurs affluents respectifs, ainsi que le littoral qui s'étend depuis Muong Bang Tapan jusqu'à Muong Pase, les bassins des rivières sur lesquelles sont situées ces deux villes, et les bassins des autres rivières dont les embouchures sont incluses dans cette étendue de littoral; et comprenant aussi le territoire situé au nord du bassin du Ménam entre la frontière Anglo-Siamoise, le fleuve Mékong, et la limite orientale du bassin du Me Ing. Ils s'engagent en outre à n'acquérir dans cette région aucun privilège ou avantage particulier dont le bénéfice ne, soit pas commun à la Grande-Bretagne et à la France, à leurs nationaux et ressortissants, ou qui ne leur serait pas accessible sur le pied de l'égalité. Ces stipulations, toutefois, ne seront pas interprétées comme dérogeant aux clauses spéciales qui, en vertu du Traité conclu le 3 Octobre, 1893, entre la France et le Siam, s'appliquent à une zone de 25 kilom. sur la rive droite du Mékong et à la navigation de ce fleuve.

II. Nothing in the foregoing clause shall hinder any action on which the two Powers may agree, and which they shall think necessary in order to uphold the independence of the Kingdom of Siam. But they engage not to enter into any separate agreement permitting a third Power to take any action from which they are bound by the present declaration themselves to abstain.

III. From the mouth of the Nam Huok northwards as far as the Chinese frontier the thalweg of the Mekong shall form the limit of the possessions or spheres of influence of Great Britain and France. It is agreed that the nationals and dependents of each of the two countries shall not exercise any jurisdiction or authority within the possessions or sphere of influence of the other.

The police of the islands in this part of the river which are separated from the British shore by a branch of the river shall, so long as they are thus separated, be intrusted to the French authorities. The fishery shall be open to the inhabitants of both banks.

IV. The two Governments agree that all commercial and other privileges and advantages conceded in the two Chinese provinces of Yunnan and Szechuen either to Great Britain or France, in virtue of their respective conventions with China of the 1st March, 1894, and the 20th June, 1895, and all privileges and advantages of any nature which may in the future be conceded in these two Chinese provinces, either to Great Britain or France, shall, as far as rests with them, be extended and rendered common to both Powers and to

II. Rien dans la clause qui précède ne mettra obstacle à aucune action dont les deux Puissances pourraient convenir, et qu'elles jugeraient nécessaire pour maintenir l'indépendance du Royaume de Siam. Mais elles s'engagent à n'entrer dans aucun arrangement séparé qui permette à une tierce Puissance de faire ce qu'elles s'interdisent réciproquement par la présente Déclaration.

III. A partir de l'embouchure du Nam Huok et en remontant vers le nord jusqu'à la frontière Chinoise, le thalweg du Mékong formera la limite des possessions ou sphères d'influence de la Grande-Bretagne et de la France. Il est convenu que les nationaux et ressortissants d'aucun des deux pays n'exerceront une juridiction ou autorité quelconque dans les possessions ou la sphère d'influence de l'autre pays.

Dans la partie du fleuve dont il s'agit, la police des îles séparées de la rive Britannique par un bras du dit fleuve appartiendra aux autorités Françaises tant que cette séparation existera. L'exercice du droit de pêche sera commun aux habitants des deux rives.

IV. Les deux Gouvernements conviennent que tous les privilèges et avantages commerciaux ou autres, concédés dans les deux provinces Chinoises du Yunnan et du Setchuen soit à la Grande-Bretagne, soit à la France, en vertu de leurs Conventions respective avec la Chine du 1^{er} Mars, 1894, et du 20 Juin, 1895, et tous les privilèges et avantages de nature quelconque qui pourront être concédés par la suite dans ces deux mêmes provinces Chinoises soit à la Grande-Bretagne, soit à la France, seront, autant qu'il dépend d'eux, étendus et rendus communs aux deux Puissances, à leurs their nationals and dependents, and they engage to use their influence and good offices with the Chinese Government for this purpose.

V. The two Governments agree to name Commissioners delegated by each of them, who shall be charged to fix by mutual agreement, after examination of the titles produced on either side, the most equitable delimitation between the British and French possessions in the region situated to the west of the Lower Niger.

VI. In conformity with the stipulations of Article XL of the General Convention concluded between Great Britain and the Regency of Tunis on the 19th July, 1875, which provides for a revision of that Treaty "in order that the two Contracting Parties may have the opportunity of hereafter treating and agreeing upon such other arrangements as may tend still further to the improvement of their mutual intercourse, and to the advancement of the interests of their respective people," the two Governments agree at once to commence negotiations for replacing the said General Convention by a new Convention, which shall correspond with the intentions proposed in the Article above referred to.

nationaux et ressortissants, et ils s'engagent à user à cet effet de leur influence et de leurs bons offices auprès du Gouvernement Chinois.

V. Les deux Gouvernements conviennent de nommer des Commissaires délégués par chacun d'eux, et qui seront chargés de fixer de commun accord après examen des titres invoqués de part et d'autre, la délimitation la plus équitable entre les possessions Anglaises et Françaises dans la région située à l'ouest du Bas Niger.

VI. Conformément aux stipulations de l'Article XL de la Convention Générale conclue entre la Grande-Bretagne et la Régence de Tunis le 19 Juillet, 1875, qui prévoit une révision de ce Traité "afin que les deux Parties Contractantes puissent avoir occasion de traiter ultérieurement et de convenir de tels arrangements qui puissent tendre encore davantage à améliorer leurs relations mutuelles et à développer les intérêts de leurs nations respectives," les deux Gouvernements conviennent d'ouvrir immédiatement des négociations en vue de remplacer la dite Convention Générale par une Convention nouvelle répondant aux intentions annoncées dans l'Article qui vient d'être cité.

The Departments of Posts, Telegraphs and Railways, as being part of the internal administration of the State of $\frac{\text{Kelantan}}{\text{Trengganu}}$, will be under the control of the Raja of $\frac{\text{Kelantan}}{\text{Trengganu}}$, but the Raja of $\frac{\text{Kelantan}}{\text{Trengganu}}$ engages to co-operate at any time with the Government of His Siamese Majesty in the construction and management of any section of a trunk line of railway or telegraph which may come within the confines of ^{Kelantan}_{Trengganu}. The conditions of such co-operation shall in each case be the subject of special arrangement. Should any stamps be used, they shall be procured from Bangkok, and shall bear the effigy of the King of Siam, but they shall be issued solely by the Raja of ^{Kelantan}_{Trengganu}, and the revenue derived from them shall accrue solely to the State of ^{Kelantan}_{Trengganu}. The Raja further undertakes not to grant to any Company or private individual any privileges for the construction of railways in ^{Kelantan}_{Trengganu} without the written consent of His Siamese Majesty's Government. This stipulation, however, shall not apply to private lines of railway constructed by the owners of concessions which have been granted under Article 3, and intended for the conveyance of minerals or other natural products.

ARTICLE 7.

Nothing in this Agreement is intended to curtail any of the powers or authority now held by the Raja of ^{Kelantan}_{Trengganu}, nor does it alter, otherwise than as provided for in this Agreement, the relations now existing between the Raja and His Siamese Majesty's Government.

The undersigned, His Britannic Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has the honour to make the following communication to Phya Sri Sahadeb, Special Envoy of His Majesty the King of Siam, in regard to the Agreements relative to the Siamese Dependencies of Kelantan and Trengganu, the terms of which have been arranged between His Britannic Majesty's Government and that of His Siamese Majesty :—

The British Government, having throughout these negotiations been actuated by the same sincere desire to respect the Treaty rights of His Majesty the King of Siam in the Malay Peninsula and to promote the stability and security of the Kingdom of Siam and its Dependencies that has hitherto characterized the policy of Great Britain, undertake to instruct their Representatives in the Malay Peninsula to use their influence to secure the peaceful adoption by the Rajas of Kelantan and Trengganu of the draft Agreement, on the understanding that the Siamese Government, on their part, will strictly observe its terms and instruct their officers to faithfully carry them out.

The undersigned thinks it right, however, to observe that, in order to insure the successful working of the Agreements and having in view the immediate propinquity of the Malay States under British protection to the two States in question, it will be essential that the officials appointed to be the Advisers and Assistant Advisers of the Rajas, as mentioned in Article 2 of the Agreement, shall be of British nationality, and that the concurrence of

His Britannic Majesty's Government should be confidentially obtained for their selection, removal, and the renewal of their appointments.

LANSDOWNE.

FOREIGN OFFICE ;

The 6th October 1902.

The undersigned, Phya Sri Sahadeb, Special Envoy of His Majesty the King of Siam, has the honour to acknowledge the receipt of the note of the Marquess of Lansdowne of this date, in regard to the Agreements relative to the Siamese Dependencies of Kelantan and Trengganu, the terms of which have been arranged between His Siamese Majesty's Government and that of His Britannic Majesty, and, in reply to the assurances and considerations therein set forth, he is authorized by his Government to give the following confidential assurances :—

In view of the interest which His Britannic Majesty's Government must necessarily have in the peace, order, and good government of these States on account of their immediate propinquity to the Straits Settlements and to the Malay States under British protection, and, in consideration of the mutual relations which have been established by previous Treaties between Great Britain and Siam in respect of the Malay Peninsula, His Siamese Majesty's Government will appoint officials of British nationality to be the Advisers and Assistant Advisers of the Rajas of Kelantan and Trengganu mentioned in Article 2 of the Agreement. These officials will be selected from among persons of British nationality who have seen service under the Siamese Government, or are favourably known to the Siamese Government, and who are also favourably known to the British Government by service or otherwise ; and His Siamese Majesty's Government will, in all cases, previously consult with His Britannic Majesty's Government in regard to their selection, removal and the renewal of their appointments by confidential communications with His Britannic Majesty's Representative at Bangkok.

The appointments will be made in each case for a term of not less than three nor more than five years, subject to renewal by the Siamese Government, and the salaries to be paid by the Rajas will be approximately on the following scale :—

Adviser, Kelantan	1,000	— 1,100
Assistant Adviser	500	— 600
Adviser, Trengganu	800	— 900
Assistant Adviser	500	— 600

Agreement between Mr. H. W. Thomson and the Siamese Government.—
(Communicated by Mr. F. Verney, May 5, 1903.)

An agreement having been made between the Siamese Government and the Rajah of the Siamese Dependency of Kelantan, dated the 5th December, 1902, for the purpose of defining the principles under which the Government of Kelantan is in future to be conducted, wherein it was declared that His Majesty the King of Siam reserves his right to nominate officers to be Adviser and Assistant Adviser in that State to act as His Majesty's Representative or Agent; and the Rajah of Kelantan having in the said Agreement engaged to pay the Adviser and Assistant Adviser such salaries as may be required by His Siamese Majesty's Government, the said Phya Visutr Kosa agrees to engage the said Mr. H. W. Thomson in the capacity of Assistant Adviser to the Rajah of Kelantan, and for a period of three years; and the said Mr. H. W. Thomson agrees to enter the service of His Siamese Majesty's Government in the said capacity, and for the said period, and upon the following terms:—

1. The said Mr. H. W. Thomson undertakes to devote the whole of his time to the discharge of his duties as Assistant Adviser to the Rajah of Kelantan, and to refrain from engaging in any other employment, profession, trade, or calling while holding the appointment which is the subject of the present Agreement, and he hereby engages to perform such duties as may be reasonably expected of him, by virtue of his appointment to the best of his ability and power.

2. The service of the said Mr. H. W. Thomson shall commence, and his salary begin, one calendar month previous to the date on which he reports himself for duty in Siam.

3. Mr. H. W. Thomson shall receive from the Rajah of Kelantan, being the salary required by His Siamese Majesty's Government to be so paid to him, the sum of 500*l.* a year, from the date mentioned in clause 2. After a year's service annual increments at the rate of 50*l.* a year shall be paid to Mr. H. W. Thomson monthly, in the same way as aforesaid.

4. The salary mentioned in clause 3 shall be paid to the said Mr. H. W. Thomson, monthly, in arrears, i.e., early in the month following that by the labour of which it is earned.

5. On the date on which this contract is signed, the said Mr. H. W. Thomson, shall be provided at the expense of the Siamese Government with a sum of 80*l.* as passage money to Bangkok from London, and he shall also be paid at his option one month's salary in advance, calculated at the rate given in clause 3.

6. In case the said Mr. H. W. Thomson dies at any time during the currency of this contract, his salary shall be paid to his heirs up to, and for, the date of his death.

7. On the completion of his full term of service under this contract the said Mr. H. W. Thomson shall be paid at the expense of the Siamese Government the sum of 80*l.* as passage money from Bangkok to London. The said Mr. H. W. Thomson shall be entitled to no return passage money should he terminate this contract for any other reason than on medical certificate.

Should the said H. W. Thomson terminate this contract for any other reason than on medical certificate during the first eighteen months of this contract, he shall refund the cost of his passage from London to Bangkok.

8. Travelling allowance and the transport necessary shall be paid to the said Mr. H. W. Thomson according to the established regulations of His Siamese Majesty's Government.

9. The said Mr. H. W. Thomson shall be provided by the Raja of Kelantan with a suitable house at the head-quarters of Kelantan, furnished with such furniture as is necessary and suitable for the purposes of an English official, and the Raja shall provide the necessary transport for the discharge of his duties.

10. During the currency of this contract the said Mr. H. W. Thomson shall be entitled to two months' full-pay leave for each completed year of service: six months' accumulated leave to be allowed at the end of three years' service. In the case of accident, sickness, or ill-health, duly certified to by a qualified medical man, the said Mr. H. W. Thomson may be granted such period of leave, not exceeding six months in all during the whole period of his service under this contract, as shall be certified by the said medical man to be absolutely necessary. During such leave the said Mr. H. W. Thomson shall receive an allowance equal to half the pay he is drawing at the time he proceeds on leave, provided that the Siamese Government may, instead of granting the leave above-mentioned, terminate this contract and pay the said Mr. H. W. Thomson a sum equal to three months' pay, as well as a sum of 80*l.* as passage money from Bangkok to London. The option referred to above may be exercised by the Siamese Government at any time after the said Mr. H. W. Thomson reports himself, or is reported to be unfit to perform his duties, provided that the said three months' pay shall be calculated from the date on which the Siamese Government communicates to the said Mr. H. W. Thomson their desire to terminate this Agreement by reason of his ill-health.

11. This contract shall be considered cancelled and the said Mr. H. W. Thomson shall refund any money or moneys advanced to him by the said Phya Visutr Kosa for salary and passage, should the said Mr. H. W. Thomson not report himself for duty in Bangkok within fifty days from the 19th May, 1903.

12. It is hereby stipulated and agreed by both the parties to this contract that in the event of any dispute arising as to the interpretation of any clause or clauses of this contract, or portion or portions thereof, the said matter or matters in dispute shall be referred to the judgment of the International Court at Bangkok, whose decision shall be final and binding on both the parties to this contract.

In witness whereof the said Phya Visutr Kosa and the said Mr. H. W. Thomson hereunto set their hands the day, month, and year aforementioned.

INSTRUCTIONS OF HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS PRINCE DAMRONG, MINISTER of the INTERIOR, to MR. GRAHAM, on his appointment as ADVISER to the RAJA of KELANTAN.

In accordance with the provisions of the Agreement made between His Majesty's Government and the Raja of the Siamese dependency of Kelantan, dated the 4th December 1902, for the purpose of defining the principles under which the Government of Kelantan is in future to be conducted, and providing, among other matters, for the appointment by His Majesty of an officer to act as His Majesty's Representative in the said State of Kelantan in the capacity of Adviser to the Raja, His Majesty has been graciously pleased to appoint you to the said office.

2. Upon such date as may hereafter be fixed, you will proceed to Kota Bharu, the capital of Kelantan, where, after having announced your arrival to the Raja, you will take up your residence.

3. As soon as possible after your arrival you will make a careful and exhaustive inquiry into the condition of the State, its Government, and the general condition of its people, after having completed which you will be in a position to formulate a scheme for the alterations and improvements which you will doubtless find necessary in many directions. Your particular attention should be given to all matters concerning justice, the maintenance of law and order and finance, as it is upon these fundamental principles of Government that your advice will be of most use to the Raja in initiating the work of improvement in the State.

With regard to all matters of administration, other than those touching the Muhammadan religion and Malay custom, the Raja engages himself by the Agreement to follow your advice, and His Majesty therefore trusts that your advice and assistance will invariably be conducive to the welfare and good Government of the State and to the best interests of His Majesty's Government.

4. Upon the formulation of any scheme referred to in the foregoing paragraph, you will communicate the same to the Ministry of the Interior, together with full reports of the reasons and observations which have led to such formulation, and you will subsequently keep the Ministry of Interior accurately informed, by means of reports at frequent intervals, of the progress made in the carrying out of such scheme and of the general conditions of all the affairs of the State.

5. On all matters concerning the external relations of the State, or which, in your opinion, appear likely in any way to affect such relations, you will take the earliest opportunity of reporting fully to the Ministry of Interior for the order of His Majesty's Government; provided that, if such matter referred to the appointment of persons other than natives of the State to the official position at a salary not exceeding 400*l.* a year or to applications for concessions not exceeding 5,000 acres for purpose of agriculture or 1,000 acres for mining purposes, His Majesty is pleased to empower you to deal with such matters as you may think fit, pending confirmation of your decision.

6. You should constantly bear in mind that it is, above all, desirable to establish and maintain the best possible relations between the Raja and yourself, sparing no effort to convince him of the fact that the sole objects considered by His Majesty in making your appointment are the welfare and advancement of the State and the strengthening of the position of the Raja as the prosperous and efficient ruler of one of His Majesty's most important dependencies.

7. As salary you will receive the amount to which you may be entitled according to the terms of your service under His Majesty's Government already granted to you, to which will be added a sum of 600 ticals a month, payable so long as you hold the appointment to which these instructions refer. Of this total, a sum equivalent to 1,000*l.* a year (933 dollars a month calculated at exchange at 1*s.* 8½*d.*) will be paid to you from the State of Kelantan, the remainder, which for the present year amounts to 645 ticals a month, being paid to you from the Ministry of Interior at Bangkok.

8. As regards house accommodation, furniture, transport, travelling allowances, and all contingent office expenses, you will probably find it best to draw up an estimate of the same as soon as you are in a position to do so, making such arrangements as you may find most suitable for the provision of the funds to be necessary.

9. His Majesty has been pleased to appoint an Assistant Adviser for the State in the person of Mr. H. W. Thomson, who will proceed to Kelantan with you, and will place himself entirely under your orders in all matters.

NO. CXXXVII.

DECLARATION CONCERNING SIAM, MADAGASCAR, AND THE NEW HEBRIDES.

DÉCLARATION CONCERNANT LE SIAM, MADAGASCAR, ET LES NOUVELLES-HÉBRIDES.

I.—SIAM.

The Government of His Britannic Majesty's and the Government of the French Republic confirm Articles 1 and 2 of the Declaration signed in London on the 15th January 1896, by the Marquess of Salisbury, then Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Baron de Courcel, then Ambassador of the French Republic at the Court of Her Britannic Majesty.

In order, however, to complete these arrangements they declared by mutual agreement that the influence of Great Britain shall be recognised by France in the territories situated to the west of the basin of the River Menam, and that the influence of France shall be recognized by Great Britain in the territories situated to the east of the same region, all the Siamese possessions on the east and south-east of the zone above described and the adjacent islands coming thus henceforth under French influence, and, on the other hand, all Siamese possessions on the west of this zone and of the Gulf of Siam, including the Malay Peninsula and the adjacent islands, coming under English influence.

I.—SIAM.

Le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté Britannique et le Gouvernement de la République Française maintiennent les Articles 1 et 2 de la Déclaration signée à Londres le 15 Janvier, 1896, par le Marquis de Salisbury, Principal Secrétaire d'État pour les affaires Étrangères de Sa Majesté Britannique à cette époque, et le Baron de Courcel Ambassadeur de la République Française près Sa Majesté Britannique à cette époque.

Toutefois, en vue de compléter ces dispositions, ils déclarent d'un commun accord que l'influence de la Grande-Bretagne sera reconnue par la France sur les territoires situés à l'ouest du bassin de la Meinam, et celle de la France sera reconnue par la Grande-Bretagne sur les territoires situés à l'est de la même région, toutes les possessions Siamoisés à l'est et au sud-est de la zone susvisée et les îles adjacentes relevant ainsi désormais de l'influence Française et, d'autre part, toutes les possessions Siamoisés à l'ouest de cette zone et du Golfe de Siam, y compris la Péninsule Malaise et les îles adjacentes, relevant de l'influence Anglaise.

The two Contracting Parties, disclaiming all idea of annexing any Siamese territory, and determined to abstain from any act which might contravene the provisions of existing Treaties, agree that, with this reservation, and so far as either of them is concerned, the two Governments shall each have respectively liberty of action in their spheres of influence as above defined.

II.—MADAGASCAR.

In view of the Agreement now in negotiation on the question of jurisdiction and the postal service in Zanzibar, and on the adjacent coast His Britannic Majesty's Government withdraw the protest which they had raised against the introduction of the Customs Tariff established at Madagascar after the annexation of that island to France. The Government of the French Republic take note of this Declaration.

III.—NEW HEBRIDES.

The two Governments agree to draw up in concert an Arrangement which, without involving any modification of the political status quo, shall put an end to the difficulties arising from the absence of jurisdiction over the natives of the New Hebrides.

They agree to appoint a commission to settle the disputes of their respective nationals in the said islands with regard to landed property. The competency of this Commission and its rules of procedure shall form the subject of a preliminary Agreement between the two Governments.

Les deux Parties Contractantes, écartant d'ailleurs toute idée d'annexion d'aucun territoire Siamois, et résolues à s'abstenir de tout acte qui irait à l'encontre des dispositions des Traités existants conviennent que, sous cette réserve et en regard de l'un et de l'autre, l'action respective des deux Gouvernements s'exercera librement sur chacune des deux sphères d'influence ainsi définies.

II.—MADAGASCAR.

En vue de l'Accord en préparation sur les questions de juridiction et du service postal à Zanzibar, et sur la côte adjacente, le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté Britannique renonce à la réclamation qu'il avait formulée contre l'introduction du Tarif Douanier établi à Madagascar après l'annexion de cette île à la France. Le Gouvernement de la République Française prend acte de cette Déclaration.

III.—NOUVELLES-HÉBRIDES.

Ils conviennent de nommer une Commission pour le règlement des différends fonciers de leurs ressortissants respectifs dans les dites îles. La compétence de cette Commission et les règles de sa procédure feront l'objet d'un Accord préliminaire entre les deux Gouvernements.

In witness whereof His Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and his Excellency the Ambassador of the French Republic at the Court of His Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Emperor of India, duly authorised for that purpose, have signed the present Declaration and have affixed thereto their seals.

Done at London, in duplicate, the 8th day of April, 1904.

(L.S.) LANSDOWNE.

En foi de quoi le Principal Secrétaire d'État pour les Affaires Étrangères de Sa Majesté Britannique et son Excellence l'Ambassadeur de la République Française près Sa Majesté le Roi du Royaume-Uni de la Grande-Bretagne et d'Irlande et des Territoires Britanniques au delà des Mers, Empereur des Indes, dûment autorisés à cet effet, ont signé la présente Déclaration, et y ont apposé leurs cachets.

Fait à Londres, en double expédition, le 8 Avril, 1904.

The treaty by which the general policy of the British Government in the Eastern Seas is regulated is the treaty with the Dutch of the 17th March 1824 (see Bengal Volume I),* by the 10th article of which the connection of the Dutch with the Peninsula of Malacca was severed. This treaty was modified by the Treaty (No. CLXVII) of the 2nd November 1871: see Sumatra.

* NOTE addressed by the BRITISH PLENIPOTENTIARIES to the PLENIPOTENTIARIES of the NETHERLANDS.

In proceeding to the signature of the Treaty which has been agreed upon, the Plenipotentiaries of His Britannick Majesty have great satisfaction in recording their sense of the friendly, and liberal spirit which has been evinced by Their Excellencies the Plenipotentiaries of His Netherland Majesty; and their conviction that there is, on both sides, an equal disposition to carry into effect, with sincerity and good faith, the Stipulations of the Treaty, in the sense in which they have been negotiated.

The differences which gave rise to the present discussion are such as it is difficult to adjust by formal Stipulation; consisting, in great part, of jealousies and suspicions, and arising out of the acts of subordinate Agents, they can only be removed by a frank declaration of intention and a mutual understanding as to principles between the Governments themselves.

The disavowal of the proceedings whereby the execution of the Convention of August 1814 was retarded, must have satisfied Their Excellencies the Netherland Plenipotentiaries, of the scrupulous regard with which England always fulfils her engagements.

The British Plenipotentiaries record, with sincere pleasure, the solemn disavowal, on the part of the Netherland Government, of any design to aim, either at political supremacy, or at commercial monopoly, in the Eastern Archipelago. They willingly acknowledge the readiness with which the Netherland Plenipotentiaries have entered into Stipulations calculated to promote the most perfect freedom of Trade between the subjects of the Two Crowns and their respective Dependencies, in that part of the World.

The undersigned are authorized to express the full concurrence of His Britannick Majesty in the enlightened views of His Majesty the King of the Netherlands.

Malacca was founded about the middle of the 13th century by Raja Sikandar Shah of Singapore. It was taken by the Portuguese under Aware of the difficulty of adapting, at once, to a long established system of monopoly, the principles of commercial policy which are now laid down, the undersigned have been authorized to consent to the exception of the Molucca Islands from the general Stipulation for freedom of Trade contained in the Treaty. They trust, however, that, as the necessity for this exception is occasioned solely by the difficulty of abrogating at the present moment, the monopoly of spices, its operation will be strictly limited by that necessity.

The British Plenipotentiaries understand the term Moluccas as applicable to that cluster of Islands, which has Celebes to the westward, New Guinea to the eastward, and Timor to the southward; but that these three Islands are not comprehended in the exception: nor would it have included Ceram, if the situation of that Island, in reference to the two principal Spice Isles, Amboyna and Banda, had not required a prohibition of intercourse with it, so long as the monopoly of spices shall be maintained.

The territorial exchanges which have been thought expedient for avoiding a collision of interests, render it incumbent upon the Plenipotentiaries of His Britannick Majesty to make, and to require, some explanations with respect to the dependants and Allies of England, in the Island from which she is about to withdraw.

A Treaty concluded in the year 1819, by British Agents, with the King of Acheen, is incompatible with the 3rd Article of the present Treaty. The British Plenipotentiaries therefore undertake, that the Treaty with Acheen shall, as soon as possible, be modified into a simple arrangement for the hospitable reception of British vessels and subjects in the Port of Acheen. But as some of the provisions of that Treaty (which has been communicated to the Netherland Plenipotentiaries) will be conducive to the general interests of Europeans established in the Eastern Seas, they trust that the Netherland Government will take measures for securing the benefit of those provisions. And they express their confidence, that no measures, hostile to the King of Acheen, will be adopted by the new possessor of Fort Marlborough.

It is no less the duty of the British Plenipotentiaries to recommend to the friendly and paternal protection of the Netherland Government the interests of the natives and settlers, subject to the ancient Factory of England at Bencoolen.

This appeal is the more necessary, because, so lately as the year 1818, Treaties were made with the Native Chiefs, by which their situation was much improved. The system of forced cultivation and delivery of pepper was abolished; encouragement was given to the cultivation of rice; the relations between the cultivating classes and the Chiefs of the districts were adjusted; the property in the soil was recognized in those Chiefs; and all interference in the detailed management of the interior was withdrawn, by removing the European residents from the outstations, and substituting in their room native officers. All these measures were calculated greatly to promote the interests of the native inhabitants.

In recommending these interests to the care of the Netherland Government, the undersigned request the Plenipotentiaries of His Netherland Majesty to assure their Government, that a corresponding attention will be paid, on the part of the British authorities, to the inhabitants of Malacca and the other Netherland Settlements which are transferred to Great Britain.

In conclusion, the Plenipotentiaries of His Britannick Majesty congratulate Their Excellencies the Netherland Plenipotentiaries, upon the happy termination of their Conferences. They feel assured that under the arrangement which is now concluded, the commerce of both nations will flourish, and that the two allies will preserve inviolate in Asia, no less than in Albuquerque in 1511, and fell into the hands of the Dutch in 1641, who held it till 1795, when it was reduced, along with the other Dutch settlements in the east, by the British. It continued in possession of the British till 1818, when it was restored to the Dutch. It was finally re-ceded to the British under the treaty with the Dutch of 1824.

Europe, the friendship which has, from old times, subsisted between them. The disputes being now ended, which, during two centuries, have occasionally produced irritation, there will henceforward be no rivalry between the English and the Dutch nations in the East, except for the more effectual establishment of those principles of liberal policy which both have this day asserted in the face of the world.

The undersigned request Their Excellencies the Plenipotentiaries of His Netherland Majesty will accept the assurances of their distinguished consideration.

REPLY of the NETHERLAND PLÉNIPOTENTIARIES to the NOTE of the PLÉNIPOTENTIARIES of GREAT BRITAIN.

Les Soussignés, Plénipotentiaires de Sa Majesté Le Roi des Pays-Bas, ont trouvé, dans la Note qui vient de leur être remise par Leurs Excellences Messieurs les Plénipotentiaires Britanniques, un résumé fidèle des communications, qui avaient eu lieu à l'époque où des circonstances, indépendantes de la volonté des négociateurs, amenèrent la suspension de leurs conférences.

Appelés à reprendre un travail dont l'achèvement a toujours été désiré de part et d'autre avec une égale sincérité, les Soussignés n'ont pas tardé à reconnaître dans leurs Collaborateurs, cet esprit d'équité et de conciliation, qui facilite l'arrangement des questions les plus compliquées, et auquel ils ne peuvent rendre hommage dans un moment plus opportun que celui, qui va sanctionner, par la signature d'un Traité formel, les dispositions adoptées après le plus mûr examen, comme éminemment utiles pour le maintien de la bonne intelligence, même entre les Agens inférieurs des Puissances Contractantes.

Ce but essentiel, cette tendance principale du Traité, sont palpables pour tous ceux qui en lisent avec attention les différents Articles. Ce qui s'y trouve expressément stipulé, semble devoir suffire pour lever, d'un commun accord, toute incertitude, qui pourrait se présenter par la suite. Cependant, comme Messieurs les Plénipotentiaires Britanniques ont cru devoir entrer dans quelques détails ultérieurs, les Soussignés, qui, de leur côté, sentent l'importance de ne rien donner au hasard, dans une matière aussi intéressante, ne font aucune difficulté de les suivre dans ces détails, et de compléter, par le développement succinct de leur manière de voir, la réponse, due par eux, à la susdite Note de Leurs Excellences.

L'Article VII renferme une exception au principe général de la liberté du Commerce. La nécessité de cette exception, déjà admise par l'Angleterre, dans les conférences de 1820, repose sur l'existence du système relatif au Commerce exclusif des épiceries. Si les délibérations du Gouvernement des Pays-Bas conduisent à l'abandon de ce système aussitôt le Commerce libre reprend ses droits, et tout cet Archipel, qui a été fort justement décrit comme compris entre Celebes, Timor et la Nouvelle Guinée, est ouvert à toutes les spéculations légitimes, sur le pied à établir par les ordonnances locales, et, pour ce qui concerne en particulier les sujets de Naning.—To the north of Malacca lies Naning, which, at the time of the Dutch occupation of Malacca, was governed by four Chiefs, who formed a treaty with the Dutch. The headman or Punghulu was appointed by the Dutch. After the British occupation of Malacca and Naning, an Engagement (No. CXXXVIII) was made with the Chiefs in 1801. In 1831 the Chiefs rebelled, and it was found necessary to subdue the country by force.

Kedah.—The earliest political relations of the British with this State may be said to have commenced with the negotiations which were opened La Majesté Britannique, conformément aux basses consacrées par le Traité pour toutes les possessions Asiatiques des deux Parties Contractantes.

Par contre, aussi long-temps que l'exception, dont il s'agit, reste en vigueur, les navires qui traversent les Moluques, doivent s'abstenir de relâcher, dans d'autres Ports que ceux dont la désignation a été officiellement communiquée aux Puissances Maritimes il y a quelques années ; sauf les cas de détresse pour lesquels il est superflu d'ajouter, qu'ils trouveront, dans tous les endroits où flotte le Pavillon des Pays-Bas, les services et les secours dûs à l'humanité souffrante.

Si le Gouvernement de la Grande Bretagne pense qu'il y a un avantage réel pour lui à ce qu'en se dégageant, d'après les principes consacrés par le Traité qui va être signé, des liaisons que ses Agens formèrent, il y a quatre ou cinq ans, dans le Royaume d'Acheen, il assure, par quelque stipulation nouvelle, l'accueil hospitalier des Sujets et Vaisseaux Britanniques dans les Ports de ce Royaume,—les Soussignés n'hésitent pas à déclarer que, de leur côté, ils n'y voyent aucun inconvénient ; et ils croient pouvoir assurer, en même tem's, que leur Gouvernement s'appliquera, sans délai, à régulariser ses rapports avec Acheen, de manière que cet État, sans rien perdre de son indépendance, offre au Navigateur et au Commerçant cette constante sécurité qui semble ne pouvoir y être établie, que par l'exercice modéré d'une influence Européenne.

À l'appui des informations contenues dans la dernière Note de Messieurs les Plénipotentaires Britanniques, au sujet de Bencoolen, Leurs Excellences ont communiqué aux soussignés les deux Conventions respectivement signées le 23 Mai et le 4 Juillet de 1818, d'un côté par le Lieutenant Gouverneur de cet établissement, et de l'autre par les Chefs de quelques tribus voisines. On leur a aussi fait part d'une dépêche du Gouverneur-Général en Conseil, datée de Fort William, le 9 Mai 1823, et d'après laquelle l'administration Britannique a aboli au Fort Marlborough le monopole du poivre, encouragé la culture du riz, et placé sur un pied stable et uniforme, les rapports des différentes classes de Natifs, tant entre elles, qu'avec leur chefs. Or pour autant que les Soussignés ne se trompent point en supposant, que le but de ces arrangemens a été d'assurer la prospérité agricole de la Colonie, et d'écarter les vexations qui résultent souvent du contact immédiat de la population indigène avec les autorités subalternes d'une administration étrangère, ils éprouvent une grande satisfaction à dire, que loin d'avoir à redouter des mesures rétroactives, les individus intéressés à l'ordre actuel des choses peuvent, au contraire, nourrir l'espoir, que le nouveau Gouvernement aura égard à leurs droits acquis et à leur bien être ; et, ce que les Soussignés aiment surtout à garantir, il fera observer les Articles des Conventions déjà mentionnées sur la foi desquels les habitans de Parummah, Ulu Manna, et d'autres peuplades de l'intérieur ont reconnu l'autorité, ou accepté la protection de la Compagnie des Indes Britanniques ; sauf toutefois la faculté d'y substituer, du plein gré des parties intéressées, d'autres conditions analogues, si les circonstances venaient à rendre un changement nécessaire.

with the Raja of Kedah by Captain Francis Light, and which resulted in the Agreement of 1786* (No. CXXXIX), for the cession of the island of Penang, thenceforward called Prince of Wales' Island. The island was formally taken possession of on the 11th August 1786.

Quant aux dispositions équitables et bienveillantes du Gouvernement Britannique envers les habitans de Malacca, et des autres établissemens Hollandois cédés par le Traité, les Plénipotentiaires de Sa Majesté le Roi des Pays-Bas, en acceptant l'assurance avec une confiance illimitée; et ce même sentiment les porte à ne pas insister, pour que les instructions et ordres, qui seront adressés aux Autorités Anglaises dans l'Inde, relativement à la remise du Fort Marlborough, et de ses dépendances, soient concus en des termes tellement clairs, précis, et positifs qu'on n'y puisse trouver aucun motif d'incertitude, ni aucun prétexte de délai; car ils sont persuadés que Messieurs les Plénipotentiaires Britanniques, après avoir apporté tant de modération et de loyauté à l'accomplissement de leur tâche sauront veiller à ce que le résultat des travaux communs ne soit pas compromis par égard pour des intérêts subordonnés, et des considérations secondaires. Ce résultat, Messieurs les Plénipotentiaires Britanniques l'ont décrit eux-mêmes dans leur dernière Note, et il ne reste aux Soussignés qu'à se féliciter d'y avoir concouru, et à joindre leurs vœux à ceux de leurs Excellences pour que les Agens respectifs dans les possessions Asiatiques, se montrent toujours pénétrés du sentiment des devoirs, que deux nations, amies et animées de vœux vraiment libéraux ont à remplir, tant l'une à l'égard de l'autre, que vis-à-vis des indigènes, que le cours des événemens ou les traités ont placés sous leur influence.

TRANSLATION.

THE Undersigned, Plenipotentiaries of His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, have found in the Note, which is just delivered to them by Their Excellencies the British Plenipotentiaries, a faithful recapitulation of the communications which had taken place at the time, when circumstances, independent of the will of the Negotiators, caused a suspension of their conferences.

Summoned to resume a work, the completion of which has ever been desired with equal sincerity by both Parties, the Undersigned have not failed to recognize in their Co-labourers in this work, that spirit of equity and conciliation, which facilitates the arrangement of the most complicated questions, and to which they cannot do justice at a time more fitting than that which is about to sanction, by the signature of a formal Treaty, the resolutions, adopted after a most strict examination, as eminently useful for the maintenance of a good understanding, even among the inferior Agents of the Contracting powers.

This essential aim and principal tendency of the Treaty is evident to all who read its different Articles with attention. What is therein expressly stipulated ought to suffice for the removal, by common consent, of all uncertainty which might present itself in the sequel. However, as the British Plenipotentiaries have considered it necessary to enter into some further details, the undersigned, who, on their part, are sensible of the importance of leaving

On the 1st of May 1791, a Treaty (No. CXL) was concluded by Captain Light, which provided for the mutual surrender of runaway slaves, debtors, forgers, and murderers; for the necessary supply of provisions (duty free) from the mainland to the residents in the island and shipping in the harbour; and for the annual payment to the King of Kedah, styled His Highness Jang de Per Tuan, of the sum of six thousand Spanish dollars; it also bound the King not to allow Europeans of other nations to settle in his country.

nothing doubtful in so important a matter, have no difficulty in following them through these details, and in supplying, by a concise display of their view of the subject, the answer which is due from them to the aforesaid Note of their Excellencies.

The 7th Article contains an exception to the general principle of liberty of commerce. The necessity of that exception, already admitted by England in the conferences of 1820, rests upon the existence of the system which respects the exclusive trade in spice. Should the determinations of the Government of the Netherlands lead to the abandonment of that system, the rights of free trade will be immediately restored, and the whole of that Archipelago, which has been very justly described as comprised between Celebes, Timor, and New Guinea, will be open to all lawful speculations on the footing to be established by local Ordinances, and, so far as particularly concerns the Subjects of His Britannick Majesty, in conformity with the grounds sanctioned by the Treaty for all the Asiatic Possessions of the two Contracting Powers.

On the other hand, so long as the exception in question remains in force, the Ships which traverse the Moluccas must refrain from touching at any ports, but those whereof the description has been officially communicated to the Maritime Powers some years back; except in cases of distress, in which it is superfluous to add, that they will find in all places, where the Flag of the Netherlands may be flying, those good offices and succours which are due to suffering humanity.

If the Government of Great Britain conceives it to be a real advantage, that by disengaging itself, according to the principle sanctioned by the Treaty which is about to be signed, from the connections which were formed by its Agents four or five years ago, in the Kingdom of Acheen, it secures, by some new clause, the hospitable reception of British Vessels and Subjects in the ports of that Kingdom; the Undersigned hesitate not to declare, that on their part they do not see any difficulty in it, and conceive that they may assert at the same time that their Government will apply itself, without delay, to regulate its relations with Acheen, in such a manner that that State, without losing anything of its independence, may offer both to the sailor and the merchant that constant security which can only be established by the moderate exercise of European influence.

In support of the information contained in the last Note of the British Plenipotentiaries on the subject of Bencoolen, Their Excellencies have communicated to the Undersigned the two Conventions respectively signed on the 23rd of May and the 4th of July 1818, by the Lieutenant-Governor of that establishment, on the one side, and by the Chiefs of some neighbouring tribes on the other. They have likewise communicated a Despatch of the Governor-General in Council, dated Fort William, the 9th of May 1823, and according to which the British Government has abolished at Fort Marlborough the monopoly of Pepper; encouraged the cultivation of Rice; and placed on a firm and uniform footing the relations of the different classes of

On the 6th June 1800, Sir George Leith, who had succeeded to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Prince of Wales' Island, entered into further negotiations with the ruler of Kedah, and another Treaty (No. CXLI) was concluded for the cession of a considerable district, now called Province Wellesley, on the mainland. This Treaty was not confirmed till November 1802.

Both these treaties appear to have been negotiated under the impression that the ruler of Kedah was an independent Chief, whereas he was tributary to Siam.

In 1820 the Raja of Kedah having given umbrage to the Court at Bangkok, by delaying to forward the usual tribute of gold and silver flowers, Natives, as well among themselves, as with their Chiefs. But inasmuch as the Undersigned are not wrong in supposing that the subject of these arrangements has been the security of the agricultural prosperity of the Colony, and the removal of the vexations which often result from the immediate contact of the Native population with the subordinate authorities of a Foreign Government, they experience great satisfaction in saying, that, far from having cause to dread retroactive measures, the individuals interested in the existing order of things may on the contrary, cherish the hope that the new Government will respect their acquired rights, and their welfare; and what the Undersigned are above all things desirous to guarantee, that it will cause the Articles of the abovementioned Conventions to be observed, on the faith of which the Inhabitants of Pasummah ulu Manna, and the other Colonists in the interior, have recognised the authority, or accepted the protection of the British East India Company; saving, however, the power of substituting, with the full consent of the parties interested, other analogous conditions, if circumstances should render a change necessary.

With respect to the equitable and benign intentions of the British Government towards the Inhabitants of Malacca and the other Dutch establishments ceded by the Treaty, the Plenipotentiaries of His Majesty the King of the Netherlands accept the assurance thereof with unlimited confidence; and the same sentiment prevents them from insisting that the orders and instructions which shall be addressed to the English authorities in India, relative to the surrender of Fort Marlborough, and its dependencies, should be conceived in such clear, precise and positive terms, that no cause of uncertainty, or any pretext for delay, may be discovered in them:—Being persuaded that the British Plenipotentiaries, after having accomplished their labours with so much moderation and equity, will take care that the result of their common exertions be not compromised by any regard to subordinate interests and secondary considerations. This result the British Plenipotentiaries themselves have described in their last Note, and it only remains for the Undersigned to congratulate themselves on having contributed thereto, and to unite their wishes with those of Their Excellencies, that their respective Agents in their Asiatic possessions may ever show themselves sensible of the duties, which two Friendly Nations, animated with truly liberal views, have to fulfil, both with reference to each other, and also towards the Natives whom the course of events of Treaties have placed under their influence.

and by non-compliance with other customary observances and marks of vassalage, that Court determined upon depriving him of his delegated government, and in November 1821 the Raja of Ligor, another feudatory of Siam, advanced into Kedah at the head of a formidable army, and expelled the Raja, who found refuge in Penang, on the express condition that neither he nor any of his followers should during their stay in that island, carry on any political correspondence without the approval of the British Government. This condition he violated, and as the mediation of Government with a view to his restoration proved unsuccessful, it was stipulated under the treaty of Bangkok* that he should leave Penang. In accordance with the provisions of the above engagement, the ex-Raja was compelled to take up his residence at Malacca, a suitable pension having been assigned for his maintenance by the British Government.

The ex-Raja made several unsuccessful attempts to recover his country from the Ligor Chief. At length in 1842, his eldest son proceeded to Bangkok and made submission to Siam on behalf of his father, and through the intercession of the Governor of the Straits Settlements the ex-Raja was put in charge of central Kedah, one of the three Governorships into which Kedah had been divided. The 13th article of the treaty of Bangkok was therefore modified. In 1843 the Raja of Kedah forcibly seized the Krian district in Perak, the ruler of which country appealed to the Governor of the Straits Settlement for redress. Owing to the remonstrances of the Governor, the Raja eventually withdrew his followers from the district, but his annual allowance was suspended for a year as a punishment for his contumacy in the first instance.

On the Raja's death, his eldest son, Tuanku Abdoolla, was appointed by the Court at Bangkok to succeed him; he was similarly succeeded by his brother, Tuanku Daie, who died on the 8th May 1854; his son, Tuanku Ahmad, at once assuming the reins of government.

Perak.—The State of Perak was originally a dependency of Malacca, and about the middle of the sixteenth century, the Bandahara of Johor was raised to the dignity of the Sultan of Perak, under the name of Muzaffar, Shah. His son, Mansur Shah, became King of Achin about 1567, and Perak was thenceforth tributary to him and his successors, who received the customary token of vassalage, the Bungah Mas (golden flower). On the decline of the power of Achin, Perak became independent and fell under the influence of the Dutch. In 1795 an expedition from Penang compelled the Dutch garrison of the small fort at Perak to surrender. This led to an increase of British trade with the country, the whole of the produce of the tin mines being brought to Penang. The then reigning Sultan, Muhammad Taj-ud-din, died in 1801, and was succeeded by his son, Sultan Mansur Shah.

In 1818 a Treaty (No. CXLII) was concluded by the Governor of Prince of Wales' Island with the Raja of Perak, Sultan Abdulla, under the provisions of which the right of free trade with Perak was secured to British subjects.

In 1825 differences having arisen between the rulers of Perak and Selangor, Mr. Anderson was deputed to adjust matters. This led to the negotiation of the Treaty (No. CXLIII), dated the 6th September 1825, by which the boundary between the two States is determined; the Raja of Perak also thereby engaged not to interfere in the government of Selangor, and to permit all foreign traders to carry on their trade without any interruption.

Under the provisions of article 14 of the treaty of Bangkok, the independence of Perak is secured, though the Raja is permitted, should he so desire, to maintain a friendly communication with Siam, and even to send the gold and silver flowers as formerly. This article also contains a guarantee on the part of the British Government to protect Perak from any attack by a force from Selangor. In September of the above year intimation having been received by the Governor of Prince of Wales' Island, that the Raja of Ligor had introduced a body of troops into Perak and deprived the Raja of Perak of all power, a small force was at once despatched to insist upon the strict fulfilment of the terms of the treaty. The Siamese evacuated the position they had taken up on the bank of the river, and the independence of Perak has ever since been fully recognised.

Under a Treaty (No. CXLIV) dated the 18th October 1826, the Raja of Perak, on the plea of his inability to suppress the piracy then prevalent along his coast, ceded to the British the Dinding island, the islands of Pungkor, and all other islands previously appertaining to Perak; and by a second Treaty (No. CXLV), concluded on the same date, he engaged to hold no intercourse with the King of Siam, or any of his Chiefs, or with the Raja of Selangor; not to present the Bungah Mas or any other species of tribute, nor to receive any ambassadors, and in case of any interference with his country on the part of foreign Chiefs, to rely entirely on the aid and protection of the British Government: this aid and protection being guaranteed to him, provided he faithfully fulfilled all his engagements. On the 25th October a supplementary Treaty (No. CXLVI) was signed, which provides for the better management of the country; the suppression of piracy; and the protection of trade.

Although the Raja is the only Chief recognised by the British as having power in Perak, it would appear that this power is shared with the following great officers of his Court:—Raja Muda, Bandahara, Orang Kaya Besar, and Tumongong, whose seals are attached to the different treaties. The first mentioned is the heir-apparent to the State, an elective, and not hereditary, post, though the choice is limited to members of the ruling family.

Selangor.—In 1786 the independent Raja of Selangor was obliged to acknowledge himself a vassal of the Dutch, who were then in possession of Malacca. When the Dutch came again into possession of Malacca in 1818, they wished to re-enter on their former relations with Selangor, but the Raja refused owing to his strong partiality for the British, with whom he had formed a commercial Treaty (No. CXLVII).

In 1825, when Mr. Anderson was deputed to settle the dispute between Selangor and Perak, a Treaty (No. CXLVIII) was concluded with the Raja, under the provisions of which the former agreement was confirmed, whilst the boundary between Selangor and Perak having been determined, the Raja of Selangor agreed never to interfere in the government of the latter country, or to cross the frontier with an armed force; he also undertook to prevent pirates from resorting to his coast, as well as to surrender all offenders, such as pirates, robbers, murderers, and others, who might escape from the British territories and seek shelter in his country—these latter conditions being reciprocal. By the 14th article of the treaty of the 20th June 1826 with Siam, the safety of Selangor from any attack on the part of a Siamese force is guaranteed, and this State, equally with Perak, may therefore be considered under British protection.

Although still nominally under one Chief, Selangor is at present divided into five almost independent States, vis., Lukut, Lungat, Kallang, Selangor, and Berman. Of these the principal is Lukut, by the Raja of which country Cape Rachado has, with the sanction of the Sultan of Selangor, been made over to the British Government for the erection of a lighthouse.

Confederate States of Sungei Ujong, Rembau, Johol, and Sri Menanti.—These States were originally dependencies of Johor. About 1773 they renounced their allegiance to that sovereign, and elected a Chief, under the title of Jang de Per Tuang Besar, to preside over the council of the four Punghulus; each Punghulu having, however, independent jurisdiction in his own State. Hence all real power remains in their hands, that possessed by the Jang de Per Tuan being only nominal. Subsequently, in 1796, another Chief was appointed a member of the Council, under the title of Jang de Per Tuan Muda.
VOL. II

In 1814 an appeal was made by the then Jang de Per Tuan Muda to the British Resident at Malacca, for assistance against the four Punghulus, with whom he was at variance. This was, however, refused.

On the 30th November 1831, Raja Ali being then Jang de Per Tuan Besar, and his son-in-law, Sharif Saiyid Saban, Jang de Per Tuan Muda, a Treaty (No. CXLIX) was concluded between the British Government and the Confederate States. This treaty provides, under special conditions, for the mutual surrender of criminals, and the settlement of disputes that may arise between the contracting governments or any of their dependent States, as well as for the protection of trade and the suppression of piracy. A similar Treaty (No. CL) was negotiated with Rembau, as a separate State, on the 28th January 1832.

The position of Malacca, where it is conterminous with the boundaries of Rembau and Johol, was defined in separate agreements made with the rulers of these States, dated respectively the 9th January and the 15th June 1833 (Nos. CLI and CLII).

Although the rulers of the different States still occasionally meet for the discussion of any matter affecting their common interests, for some time past the confederacy may be said to have ceased to exist, and the Jang de Per Tuan, who was also the Punghulu of Sri Menanti, exercised but little influence over the other Chiefs. His position indeed seems never to have been recognised by the British Government, all correspondence with the various Chieftains having been conducted without any reference to his authority. The foregoing observations may be deemed generally applicable to the small States of Lingie and Gumimchi, the former being a dependency of Sungei Ujong, and the latter of Johol.

Johor.—The political relations of the British with Johor may be said to date from 1818, on the 19th of August of which year a Treaty (No. CLIII) of peace and friendship, having for its aim the protection of commerce, was concluded by Major Farquhar with Sultan Abdur Rahman Shah, the youngest son of Sultan Muhammad, who had, however,—consequent on the absence of his elder brother, Tuanku Husain, in Pahang, whither he had proceeded to celebrate his marriage with the daughter of the Bandahara,—assumed the sovereignty, though it is alleged only as a temporary measure, on his father's demise.

Sultan Abdur Rahman Shah is reported to have subsequently abdicated in favor of his brother, who was publicly installed as Sultan by Sir Stamford Raffles in 1819. On the 6th of February and the 26th June of that year Treaties (Nos. CLIV and CLV) were negotiated with the Sultan and the Tumongong for the establishment of an English factory at Singapore, and for the protection of British commerce throughout the Sultan's dominions.

In 1824 it was deemed desirable to obtain the absolute cession of Singapore in full sovereignty, and with this view a fresh Treaty (No. CLVI) was entered into with the Sultan and Tumongong, under the provisions of which the island of Singapore, with the seas, straits and islets, within ten * geographical miles from its coasts, became a British settlement, whilst due arrangements were effected for the suppression of piracy and the furtherance of British commercial interests in Johor.

The Sultan and Tumongong and their successors have, up to the present date, continued to reside at Singapore. Owing, however, to the differences between them arising out of their respective claims to the revenue derived from the sovereignty of Johor on the mainland, it was considered by the Local Government advisable that this sovereignty should be vested in the hands of one Chief, who should exercise undivided authority over the whole country, and the Tumongong having been selected for the purpose, with the consent of the Governor-General in Council, on the 10th March 1855, a Treaty (No. CLVII) was arranged between His Highness and the Sultan, under the terms of which the latter, in consideration of the payment of a certain sum and a monthly pension, ceded to the former absolute sovereignty over Johor, merely retaining authority over the district of Segamat or Moar, a small tract between Johor and the British settlement of Malacca, which has never formed a part of the former, having always been governed by a distinct Chief, bearing, however, the title of Tumongong, and acknowledging allegiance to the Sultan. Under the provisions of the above treaty, in the event of the Sultan's being desirous of relinquishing the sovereignty of Moar, it is in the first instance to be offered for the acceptance of the British Government.

The position of the Tumongong, with reference to the lands left him in Singapore under the 6th and 7th articles of the treaty of 1824 was very unsatisfactory. By a Treaty (No. CLVIII) concluded on the 19th December 1862 these articles were abrogated so far as they relate to any claims or rights between the British Government and the Tumongong, his heirs and successors.

The States of Jellabu Ulu Pahang (including Sutting and Jumpol) and Jillye also formed a portion of the original confederacy of the Malayan Peninsula owing allegiance to the Sultan of Johor. This allegiance seems never to have been formally renounced by their Punghulus, as they continued to acknowledge the Sultan's authority after the secession of Sungei Ujong, Rembau, Johol, and Sri Menanti. Hence, as no separate treaties have ever been negotiated with these Chiefs, the political relations of the British with them could only be regulated with reference to any rights acquired by virtue of the various treaties concluded with the Sultan of Johor, to whom they still apparently consider themselves nominally feudatories, although he has long since ceased to exercise any control over their actions.

Pahang.—The State of Pahang was originally a dependency of Johor and governed by a hereditary officer of that Court, styled the Bandahara. But for some years past the Bandahara has completely thrown off his allegiance to Johor, and asserted his independence.

Pahang may, to a certain extent, be considered as under the protection of the British Government, as, notwithstanding the non-existence of any treaty obligations, on all occasions of necessity, either owing to internal dissension or external attack, the advice and support of the Governor of the Straits Settlements have always been sought by the Bandahara, and to the assistance thus obtained his present independent position may be mainly attributed.

In 1862 the Tumongong of Johor, with the sanction of the British Government, entered into a Treaty (No. CLIX) of mutual defence and protection with the Bandahara of Pahang, under the 6th article of which all disputes between them are to be referred to the arbitration of the British Government, without whose knowledge and consent neither party is to maintain correspondence with any foreign power.

With effect from the 1st April 1867 the Straits Settlements ceased to form part of India, and became one of the Colonial possessions of the Crown. Since that date the conduct of relations with the States in the Malay Peninsula has rested with the Colonial Office.

No. CXXXVIII.

TREATY entered into in 1801, by the BRITISH RESIDENT at MALACCA, LIEUTENANT-COLONEL TAYLOR, with the PANGHULU of NANING,—1801.

Articles and conditions dictated by Lieutenant-Colonel Aldwell Taylor, Governor and Commandant of Malacca, for and in behalf of the Honourable the Governor of Fort St. George, with Rajah Mera, Captain Panghulu, etc., called Dhall Syed; and Lela Uluh Baling and Monland Hakim, called the late Orangkayo; Kechil, called Musih; and Menobenjonkaya, called Konchil; and Maharajah Ankaia, called Sumuna; and Mulahna Garan, Ministers and Chiefs of Naning, and the circumjacent villages, who have solemnly accepted and sworn to the following Articles:—

ARTICLE 1.

The said Captain, or Panghulu, Ministers, and Chiefs, promise and swear in the name and in behalf of the whole community of Naning, to be faithful and submissive to the above-mentioned the Honourable the Governor in Council of Fort Saint George, likewise the Governor and Commandant of this Town and Fortress, and all Commandants that are, or may hereafter be, appointed under them, and, moreover, will do their utmost to conduct themselves in all cases with obedience to the British Authority, as is required of all dutiful subjects, without conjointly or severally attempting any hostile measure against the said Governor, either directly or indirectly, and the following Articles shall be solemnly and strictly observed, and all other contracts and covenants that have been previously passed with another nation to the prejudice of the British be annulled.

ARTICLE 2.

In case any persons at Naning, children of the Menankabans, and Malays, shall violate the contents of this Contract, or shall be disobedient to the Governor or his Officers, the Panghulu and Chiefs shall, at the demand of the Governor, deliver them up to be punished as they deserve.

ARTICLE 3.

The Panghulu, Chiefs, and inhabitants of Naning, Menankabans, as well as Malays, are bound to deliver one-tenth of the produce of their rice and all fruits to the East India Company; but in consideration of their indigent circumstances, the said Company has resolved that the Panghulu shall come in person, every year, or cause one of his Chiefs to come to Malacca, in order to pay their homage to the Company, and, as a token of their submission, they shall present to the Company from the first fruits of the crop one-half coyan of paddy (400 gantangs).

ARTICLE 4.

The inhabitants of Naning, when quitting the country, in order to proceed to Malacca, shall produce to the Shah Bunder a written permission from the Panghulu, signed and sealed with his seal; and likewise all persons who may wish to proceed from Malacca to Naning, are directed to produce to the authority there similar documents, signed (by order of the Government) by the Shah Bunder, otherwise both parties shall be obliged to send such persons back; but when provided with the required Certificates, they will be permitted to reside at Naning and adjacent villages, and to seek the means of livelihood by agricultural pursuits, in planting betel, etc., provided they adhere and conform to the customs and usages of the place in the same manner as the other inhabitants.

ARTICLE 8.

The Panghulu and Chiefs promise, in the name of the said Community of Naning, that whenever the Chief Rulers happen to resign the Government, or any misfortune befall them, they shall, in such case, propose one of the nearest and most qualified of his family, to the Governor of Malacca, for his successor; but it is not to be expected that such a proposal must always meet the Governor's approbation; on the contrary it is optional with him whom he thinks proper to appoint.

ARTICLE 9.

Any slaves belonging either to the Honourable Company, or the inhabitants of Malacca, that may take shelter in Naning, or the circumjacent villages or places, the Panghulu, Chiefs, and inhabitants (none excepted) shall bind themselves to apprehend and immediately send to Town such fugitives, that the same may be delivered to their masters, and a demand of 10 Rix Dollars, and not more, as a reward, shall be exacted from the owners.

ARTICLE 11.

But any person who sells any Christian slaves or freemen of Malacca to a Mussulman or heathen, either with their own consent, or seduced, or carried away by force from their masters, more especially those who induce such Christian slaves or freemen to be circumcised, or use violence to persuade them to become Mahomedans, shall forfeit their lives and property.

ARTICLE 12.

And that the contents of the said Articles may be inviolably observed the Panghulu and Chiefs promise and swear, in the name of the whole multitude, that they will immediately restore and deliver to the Honourable the Governor all such runaway slaves that are in Naning or other places.

ARTICLE 13.

Lastly the Panghulu and Chiefs promise and swear on the Koran, in the name of the Community of Naning, that they will in every respect solemnly observe and maintain the orders set forth in these Articles, and do bind themselves to deliver up any transgressors of the said orders to the said East India Company, in order that punishment may be inflicted on such persons.

For the due fulfilment of what has been herein promised and agreed, I have hereunto set my usual signature.

Done and sworn in the Town and Fortress of Malacca, 16th of July 1801.

(Sd.) A. TAYLOR.

With respect to the Agreement entered into between His Majesty the King of Salengore and Mr. John Anderson, Agent to the Honourable Robert Fullerton, Governor of Pulo Penang, providing for the removal of Rajah Hassan from the Perak Country and its dependencies, the King of Perak is well pleased with this Agreement, and he engages not to receive Rajah Hassan, nor permit him to return to any part of the Perak territory. ENGAGEMENT of PADUKA SRI SULTAN ABDULLA MA-ALUM SHAH, son of the deceased JUMMAL-OOLLAH, and SUPREME RULER over the PERAK COUNTRY, made and delivered to CAPTAIN JAMES LOW, Agent of the HONOURABLE ROBERT FULLERTON, GOVERNOR in COUNCIL OF PRINCE OF WALES' ISLAND, SINGAPORE and MALACCA, and which is to be everlasting, as the revolutions and endurance of the Sun and Moon,—1826.

The Sultan, who governs the whole of the Perak Country and its dependencies, has this day, in the month and year herein specified, given over and ceded to the Honourable the East India Company of England, to be under its government henceforward and for ever, the Pulo Dinding and the Islands of Pankgor, together with all and every one of the Islands which belonged of old and until this period to the Kings of Perak, and which have been hitherto included within the Perak State, because the said Islands afford safe abodes to the pirates and robbers, who plunder and molest the traders on the coast and the inhabitants of the main land, etc., effectually deprive them of the means of seeking subsistence, and as the King of Perak has not the power or means singly to drive those pirates. For these reasons the King of Perak has, of his own free will and pleasure, ceded and given over as aforesaid, the Islands governed by them, and to be placed under any one of their governments, as they may think fit. To this deed, as tokens of its validity, have this day been put the great seal or chop of the ruler of the Perak Country, Paduka Sri Sultan Abdullah Ma-Alum Shah, together with the chops of the Chief Ministers of His Majesty's Government.

This Deed is made and written this sixteenth day of Rubbea-ool-awal Wednesday, 1242, or the Eighteenth day of October, in the year 1826.

CAPTAIN JAMES LOW, AGENT to the HONOURABLE ROBERT FULLERTON, GOVERNOR of PULO PENANG, SINGAPORE and MALACCA, on behalf of the HONOURABLE THE EAST INDIA COMPANY, whereof copies have been interchanged, and which is to be everlasting as the Sun and Moon. Moreover, it is a token of lasting friendship and alliance to exist betwixt the HONOURABLE THE EAST INDIA COMPANY and the KING of PERAK, and betwixt the KING and the HONOURABLE ROBERT FULLERTON,—1826.

ARTICLE FIRST.—His Majesty the King of Perak, of his own free will and pleasure, hereby engages, that he will adhere to the stipulations respecting the boundaries of Perak and the settlement of other points which were made with the Raja of Salengore by Mr. John Anderson, Agent to the Honourable Robert Fullerton, Governor of Pulo Penang, etc., and also to all the stipulations contained in the Engagement Hegira which His Majesty made with the said Mr. John Anderson, dated the 20th day of Mohurram, Monday, in the year of the 1241, all of which deeds are here declared to be fixed and unalterable. Moreover, His Majesty now engages that he will not hold any communication or intercourse with the Rajah of Siam, or with any of his chiefs or vassals, or with the Rajah of Salengore, or any of his chiefs or vassals, which may or can have reference to political subjects, or to the administration of his Government and the management of his country of Perak. His Majesty will not countenance any of his subjects who may connect themselves with, or league, or intrigue with the Siamese King, or with any of his chiefs or vassals, or with the Rajah of Salengore, or any of his chiefs or vassals, or with any other Siamese or Malayan people, by which the country of Perak can in any degree or manner be disturbed, and the Government of His Majesty interfered with.

SECOND.—His Majesty the King of Perak will not give or present the bungamas, or any other species of tribute whatever, to the Rajah or King of Siam, or to any of his governors or vassals, nor will he give or present such to the Rajah of Salengore, or to any other Siamese or Malayan people henceforward and for ever. Moreover, His Majesty will not receive or permit to enter into his country of Perak, from the Rajah or King of Siam, or from any of his governors or chiefs, any ambassadors or armaments arriving at Perak for the purpose of arranging political matters, or interfering in any way in the affairs and administration of the country of Perak. In like manner he will not receive into his country embassies or armaments sent by the Rajah of Salengore, or by any other Siamese or Malayan people; nor will he receive any party from any of the people, Rajahs, or countries here specified into his country, should its strength even consist of no more than thirty men, nor will he allow the least number to enter his country. But all persons of every country will, as heretofore, have free permission to trade unmolested to any port in the Perak Country, provided they do not interfere in its affairs. Should parties or armaments of the description above stated arrive in the Perak Country from any one of the countries, or Rajahs, Governors, or Chiefs, or people above specified, or should any of the said Rajahs, Governors, or Chiefs league with subjects of the King of Perak, in order to disturb his country and interfere in any way in his Government, then in any such case or cases His Majesty will rely, as he now relies, and in all future times will rely, on the friendly aid and protection of the Honourable the East India Company, and of the Honourable the Governor in Council of Pulo Penang, etc., etc., to be manifested in such a manner and by such means as may to them seem most expedient.

THIRD.—Captain James Low, as Agent for the Honourable the Governor in Council of Prince of Wales' Island, engages that if His Majesty the King of Perak will faithfully adhere to and perform all and each of the stipulations contained in this Engagement as above specified, then His Majesty shall receive the assistance of the British in expelling from his country any Siamese or Malayas as above stated, who, as also above specified, may at any time, enter the Perak Country with political views, or for the purpose of interfering in any way with the Government of His Majesty. But if His Majesty shall fail to perform all and every Article of this his Engagement, binding on him, then the obligation on the British to protect him and to assist him against his enemies will cease, and he will lose the confidence and friendship of the Honourable the Governor in Council of Pulo Penang, etc., etc., for ever.

This Engagement, which His Majesty has voluntarily and with great satisfaction entered into, has received as mark of its validity the chop or seal of His Majesty, and the seal and signature of the Agent, Captain James Low, together with the chops of the Ministers of Perak, who are also parties in this Engagement with the Agent, and it is delivered to the said Agent to remain as an ever-enduring memorial of alliance and friendship betwixt the King of Perak and the British.

SUPPLEMENTARY ENGAGEMENTS of the RAJAH of PERAK contained in a letter addressed by HIS MAJESTY to the AGENT, CAPTAIN JAMES LOW,—1826.

After compliments—He who governs Perak, Paduka Sri Sultan Abdul-

The chop of His Majesty Paduka Sri Sultan Ma-Alum Shah, King of Perak.

lah Ma-Alum Shah, desires to make known to his friend, Captain James Low, Agent to the Hon'ble Robert Fullerton, Governor in Council of Prince of Wales' Island, Malacca, and Singapore, with relation to the subjects on which His Majesty and the Agent have already conferred:—

First.—That His Majesty will come down the river to stay at Kotahloomoot, where he will build a fort of proper strength, and assign a competent number of soldiers for its protection and his own, in order that all enemies and pirates may be kept at a distance, and these men will be well armed, and will be maintained by His Majesty as a standing force, to be at all times ready for defence, and to obey his orders; and for the temporary accommodation of any British Officer who may be sent to visit him, His Majesty will direct that a small house be built opposite to his own residence.

Second.—His Majesty will keep a prow always ready to convey information of importance to Pulo Penang, and will further, without delay, take measures for opening a communication overland, betwixt the Perak river and the Krian river, and thence to Pulo Penang.

Third.—The Luksamana and the Shabunder will be forthwith sent down to reside at Quala Bidor, at the spot where Rajah Hussan formerly posted himself, and these two persons will, by His Majesty's orders, erect a fort there, and will collect the population and settle the country in that direction, and those persons trading at Perak will be encouraged and protected, according to ancient custom.

Fourth.—His Majesty will speedily seize or expel the head officers now residing at Koraw, at Laroot, at Trong, at Sinkang, and at Bruwas, who may have connected themselves with pirates or robbers, and will give warning to the people there, that should they let pirates or robbers remain amongst them, and should any English come there from Penang in search of pirates, the innocent might in that case suffer with the guilty.

Fifth.—All traders to all parts of Perak will be cherished by His Majesty, and their traffic will not be delayed, but every means will be afforded for a speedy settlement of accounts betwixt buyer and seller, and His Majesty will coerce any of his subjects, or others, should their conduct require harsh measures, to come to a speedy settlement of accounts with traders to Perak, and to prevent their distressing such in any way.

Sixth.—His Majesty the King of Perak will drive out of his country any person convicted of having carried off clandestinely, or by force, from any British possession, any subject of, or person living under, the British Government, and should any person so carried off be discovered, His Majesty will detain that person and give information to the Honourable the Governor of Pulo Penang in order that such mischievous practices may be wholly prevented.

Seventh.—When the country has again got settled, His Majesty will direct his people to sow abundance of rice, gram, and rear as much poultry and as many cattle as possible, in order that his people, and those residing under the British Government, may receive mutual advantage.

Eighth.—His Majesty intends to appoint, and will appoint, a properly qualified person to superintend the collection of Duties on exports, such as tin and other merchandize.

Should any trader, a subject of His Majesty, arrive at a British port, and not be able to show a port clearance, the same will be forfeited according to custom.

Ninth.—His Majesty wishes to establish schools in his country, and will be happy should his friend, Captain James Low, assist him by sending a well skilled school master from Pulo Penang, and should His Majesty send any child or children to Pulo Penang to be educated in all the requisite branches of knowledge, he hopes that such child or children will be favourably received and treated.

All these things His Majesty agrees to with the greatest satisfaction.

No. CL.

A TREATY made in friendship, to last as long as the Sun and MOON revolve, between the RULERS of INDIA under the ENGLISH on the one part, and RAJAH ALI and the PANGHULUS of the eight SUKUS ruling over RUMBOWE and its DEPENDENCIES on the other part,—1832.

On the part of the English the Honourable Robert Ibbetson, Esq., Resident of Singapore, Pulo Penang, and Malacca, and its dependencies, and on the part of Rumbowe and its dependencies Rajah Ali and the Panghulus of the eight Sukes, that these countries, both those under the English and under the said Chiefs, may hereafter be ruled with justice, and according to their several customs, and not to infringe upon the rights of each other.

The English Government by these presents cancel and annul all former Treaties and Agreements made between Rumbowe and the Dutch Government and the present Government of the English, and make this Treaty with the Rumbowe Chief as a Government of itself, excluding all others.

Firstly.—On the part of the English Government they hereby acknowledge Rajah Ali and the present Panghulus of eight Sukes as the rulers of Rumbowe and its dependencies.

Secondly.—The English Government and that of Rumbowe do hereby form a friendship to last for ever, and the Rumbowe Government will never do anything offensive against the English Government, and the English Government promise on their part to be equally friendly towards the Government of Rumbowe, either by attacking each other, or taking possession of the territories of that of either party.

The Rumbowe Government will be at liberty to rule within its own territories according to the laws and usages of that country.

Thirdly.—If, in any of the places under the English Government, they should ill-treat any people of Rumbowe, the Government of Rumbowe shall not attack or fight against that place, but the Rumbowe Government will first inform the English Government of it, who will enquire into the causes and see that justice be done—if the fault lays on the part of the English, justice shall be accorded according to the English law; and if the same should happen on the part of the Rumbowe people, towards that of the subjects of the English, the English Government shall not take upon itself to attack or destroy that country, but shall, in the first place, acquaint the Rumbowe Chiefs of the aggression, and the Chiefs of Rumbowe shall enquire into the causes and do justice, and if the fault lies on the part of the Rumbowe people, they shall be punished according to the magnitude of their offences.

Should any of the places in the neighbourhood of the English territories be preparing for warfare by assembling men or vessels, and should the English Government enquire the cause of doing so, the Chiefs of Rumbowe shall state the reasons for doing so; on the part of the English Government they promise to do the same to Rumbowe.

Fourthly.—With regard to the boundaries which decide the territories of Rumbowe from those of the English, should the latter be at a loss to find out the exact places, the person governing on the part of the English will write and send persons on their part to Rumbowe, and the latter will send their officers, and the said officers for both parties will ascertain the boundaries and settle them on the most amicable terms: should the Government of Rumbowe be similarly situated, and wish to ascertain the exact boundaries, they will act in the same manner, and send their officers to the English Government, who will in the same manner go to the spot and ascertain the same in the most friendly manner.

Fifthly.—Should any of the inhabitants of Rumbowe run away to the territories of the English Government, it will not be lawful for any Rumbowe people to follow and seize them within the English territories, but the Rumbowe people can give information and demand them of the English Government in a proper manner, and the English can deliver them up or not as they may think proper.

Sixthly.—English merchants in wankangs and prows can trade backwards and forwards in any of the Rumbowe territories, and the Rumbowe Government shall assist such traders, so that they can traffic without danger and Rumbowe traders in wankangs and prows can trade in any English Ports and the English Government shall protect them. When any Rumbowe people wish to go to places under the English, or, on the other hand, any English wish to go to places under Rumbowe, they shall be guided by the customs and usages of those places, and should they, on either part, be ignorant of such customs and usages, the Officers of such places shall inform them; further, all inhabitants of Rumbowe who should go to places under the English Government, shall be guided by the orders that they may have given to them in those districts, and the English inhabitants who may go to places under Rumbowe shall also do the same.

Seventhly.—Rajah Ali and Panghulus of the eight Sukus shall not allow pirates to remain in their ports, but do all in their power to give safety to trades, thereby destroying these evil-disposed people, and the English on their part shall promise to do the same.

Eighthly.—If Rajah Ali and Panghulus of the four Sukus shall hear of any acts of the enemy, they shall do all in their power to prevent their carrying them into execution, and shall give information of the same.

These eight stipulations are written in the Malay language, and are settled and determined upon on the 28th January 1832, equal to the Arabic calculation of the 18th day of Shaban 1247, and two copies of the same tenor and date, sealed and acknowledged by Robert Ibbetson, Esq., on the part of the English Government, and Rajah Ali with Panghulus of the eight Sukus on the part of Rumbowe and its dependencies.

Another copy of this Treaty shall be made and sent to Bengal for the purpose of being approved of by the Right Honourable the Governor-General, and when the same shall be returned and confirmed, notice shall be made of it in writing in these two copies, that they may never be changed and literally interpreted as long as the world may last.

Done at Singapore this nineteenth day of Dole Haijah in the Mahomedan year one thousand two hundred and seventy-eight, corresponding with the seventeenth day of June in the Christian year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, in presence of the Honourable Colonel Orfeur Cavenagh, Governor of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca.

II—SUMATRA.

The island of Sumatra is divided into a number of petty States, the chief of which are Achin, Delly, Langket and Siack.

Achin.—The political relations of the British with Achin date as far back as 1602. Various attempts, however, which were made to establish a factory at Achin, failed.

In 1815 a revolution broke out, and the ruling Chief, Jauhar Shah, a dissolute prince, was deposed, and Saif-ul Alam Shah, the son of a wealthy merchant, who was related to the ruling family, was raised to the throne. After protracted negotiations, however, the ex-Raja was restored, through the mediation of Sir Stamford Raffles, and a Treaty (No. CLX) was concluded with him.

The official note appended to the treaty with the Dutch of 1824 required that the treaty with Achin should be modified into a simple arrangement for the hospitable reception of British vessels and subjects in the port of Achin. As British relations with Achin, however, were merely nominal, and the treaty of 1819 had been a dead letter, and as there was free and open intercourse with the Achin ports, it was not considered necessary to enter into any formal arrangement with Achin.

In consequence of the numerous acts of aggression committed upon British vessels trading with the natives along the Achin coast in 1837, Captain Chads of H. M. S. Andromache was requested to visit Achin with the view of demanding redress. In 1844 a British force, under the command of Captain the Honourable G. F. Hastings, was again despatched to Achin on the same account. On this last occasion severe punishment was inflicted upon the inhabitants of the villages of Qualla, Battu, and Murdu, which had been mainly concerned in the piracies complained of. No opposition to the measure seems to have been displayed by the Raja, who, on the contrary, had previously endeavoured to procure the surrender to the British authorities of the principal offenders.

In 1859 Major Haughton was deputed on a mission to Achin with a letter from the Viceroy and Governor-General of India to the Sultan. Major Haughton was treated with discourtesy and returned without delivering the letter. An explanation was submitted by the Sultan which was considered satisfactory.

Delly, Langket and Siack.—With Delly, Langket, and Siack Treaties (Nos. CLXI to CLXVI) exist, but after the treaty with the Dutch of 1824 (See Bengal Volume I No. LXXV) the diplomatic connection of the English with Sumatra ceased.

By the treaty of the 2nd November 1871 (No. CLXVII) the British Government withdrew all objection to the extension of the Netherlands dominion in Sumatra, and consequently from the reserve in that respect contained in the notes (pp. 452—458) exchanged by the Netherlands and British plenipotentiaries at the conclusion of the treaty of the 17th March 1824. It was stipulated that British subjects should enjoy the same privileges of trade and navigation in Siack and any other State in Sumatra to which the Netherlands dominion might extend as those enjoyed by the subjects of His Majesty the King of the Netherlands.

NO. CLX.

TREATY of FRIENDSHIP and ALLIANCE between the HONOURABLE ENGLISH EAST INDIA COMPANY and the KINGDOM OF ACHEEN, concluded by the HONOURABLE SIR THOMAS STAMFORD RAFFLES, KNIGHT, and CAPTAIN JOHN MONCKTON COOMBS, AGENT to the GOVERNOR-GENERAL, in the name and on the behalf of the MOST NOBLE FRANCIS, MARQUIS OF HASTINGS, KNIGHT of the MOST NOBLE ORDER of the GARTER, one of HIS BRITANNIC MAJESTY'S MOST HONOURABLE PRIVY COUNCIL, GOVERNOR-GENERAL in COUNCIL of all the BRITISH POSSESSIONS in INDIA, on the one part, and HIS HIGHNESS SRI SULTAN ALLA IDDUN JOWHAR ALLUM SHAH, KING OF ACHEEN, for himself his heirs and successors, on the other,—1819.

In consideration of the long and uninterrupted peace, amity, and good understanding which has subsisted between the Honourable English East India Company and His Highness' ancestors, the Kings of Achéen, and in order to perpetuate and improve their friendship to the advantage and prosperity of their mutual States and subjects, it is hereby agreed and determined :—

ARTICLE 1.

There shall be a perpetual peace, friendship, and defensive alliance between the States, dominions, and subjects of the high contracting parties, neither of whom shall give any aid or assistance to the enemies of the other.

ARTICLE 2.

At the request of His Highness the British Government engages to require and to use its influence to effect the removal of Syfful Allum from His Highness' territories, and the British Government further engages to prohibit him or any of his family, as far as they may be subject to their authority, from doing or committing in future any act or acts tending to prevent or impede the full re-establishment of His Highness' authority, His Highness the King engaging himself to place at the disposal of the Supreme Government of British India such Pension or Annuity as it may, in its wisdom, deem meet to recommend for the said Syfful Allum on the consideration of his retiring to Penang, and engaging to relinquish all claims to the sovereignty of Achéen, within three months from the date hereof.

ARTICLE 3.

His Highness the King grants to the British Government the free trade of all his ports, and engages that the Duties on merchandize levied at those ports shall be fixed and declared, and shall also be payable by the, resident merchant. His Highness likewise engages not to grant or authorize a monopoly of the produce of his States by any person whatsoever.

ARTICLE 4.

His Highness engages, whenever the British Government may desire it, to receive and protect an accredited Agent of the British Government, with a suitable establishment, who shall be permitted to reside at His Highness' Court for the purpose of conducting the affairs of the Honourable Company.

ARTICLE 5.

In consideration of the injury which might result to the British trade from its exclusion from the ports of His Highness' States not at present subject to his authority, His Highness agrees and consents that ships and vessels of Great Britain shall continue their commercial intercourse with the Ports of Achéen and Jillusamauy, in the same manner as heretofore, unless a temporary blockade of these ports or either of them shall at any time be established by, and with the consent of, the British Government or resident authority. It is clearly understood, however, by the contracting parties, that no warlike stores or arms of any kind shall be furnished, given, or sold to any of His Highness' rebellious subjects by the vessels so trading to the aforesaid ports, under penalty of confiscation of ship and cargo.

ARTICLE 6.

His Highness Sir Sultan Alla Iddun Jowhar Allum Shah agrees, promises, and engages himself, his heirs and successors, to exclude the subjects of every other European power, and likewise all Americans, from a fixed habitation or residence in his dominions. He also engages not to enter into any negotiation or conclude any treaty with any power, Prince, or Potentate whatsoever, unless, with the knowledge and consent of the British Government.

ARTICLE 7.

His Highness engages not to permit the residence, in his dominions, of any British subject to whom the Resident Agent shall offer any objection.

ARTICLE 8.

The British Government agrees to give and furnish to His Highness, without delay, all the arms and military stores which are detailed in the paper appended to this Treaty, and signed by His Highness. The British Government likewise agrees to advance to His Highness the sum of money therein mentioned, as a temporary loan, to be repaid by His Highness at his earliest convenience.

ARTICLE 9.

This Treaty, consisting of nine Articles, has this day been concluded subject to the Ratification of the Governor-General within six months from the date hereof, but it is to be understood that the several provisions herein contained may be carried into immediate effect, without awaiting the said Ratification.

Second.—His Majesty and Chiefs will not interrupt or prevent any Noquedahs of vessels, or traders, from going to Penang, and will not give them any orders to trade solely with Malacca, but they shall be at full liberty to follow their own inclination, and proceed to Penang as heretofore.

Third.—There shall be no interference with the Chiefs of the States tributary to Siack, and they shall also have full power to enter into any negotiations, or make any engagements with Penang, which shall not be liable to be altered or varied by His Majesty, and the Datus and the Chiefs shall be at liberty to trade with Penang as they please.

Fourth.—All merchants or traders coming from Penang to Siack, shall meet with no interruption at Siack, but be free to buy and sell where they please.

Fifth.—To all prows, brigs, or ships which may come to trade at Siack, meeting with any accident, either there or at sea, His Majesty and the Chiefs engaged to render them every possible assistance, to enable them to return in safety to Penang.

Sixth.—The Duties established on imports from Penang, or exports from Siack, are fixed by a list delivered to Mr. John Anderson, and they shall not be altered or varied.

Seventh.—His Majesty and Chiefs will not countenance or permit any pirates to remain in Siack or its dependencies, but will turn them out, in order that the trade between Siack and Pulo Penang may flourish.

TRANSLATION OF A DESPATCH FROM CONSUL-GENERAL
WILKINSON AND ACTING CONSUL LITTON TO SUNG, TAOTAI OF WESTERN YUNNAN, DATED TÈNGYÜEH,
THE 26TH DECEMBER 1903.

The Consul-General having some time since communicated to Sub-Prefect Yeh the desire of the Burma Government that he would give effect to the agreement and improve the road from the Kulikha to Nungchang, the Sub-Prefect telegraphed to their Excellencies the Governor-General and Governor. He received in reply, through the Department of Foreign Affairs, the instructions of their Excellencies, which were to the following effect:—

“With reference to the proposed road from Kulikha to Nungchang the trade is daily developing. Mr. Litton has already addressed to us a despatch asking us to agree to the construction of this road. Now Consul-General Wilkinson has also brought up the matter. We cannot do otherwise than consent to a joint construction. With regard to the mule toll since it was originally stated to be levied for the repair of the roads, if we now do not agree to an appropriation from it for this purpose, we should not be keeping our original bargain. Further, in Mr. Litton's previous letter it was proposed that after the indemnity on account of the frontier cases had been fully paid, the mule toll might be devoted to road construction.

Consul Litton has now reached Tèngyüeh, and the Customs Taotai and the Consul-General will also arrive shortly. The Sub-Prefect should therefore at once discuss the matter and submit to us a definite scheme; he can then address the Government of Burma asking for the services of surveyors for the construction.

The Kan-ngai Sawbwa must make arrangements in advance for the supply of corvée labour for the road and for the appropriation of the necessary land.

The toll collected before the 1st January should be as usual devoted to the protection of trade. After that date the arrangements made from time to time for the appropriation of funds for the construction of the road should be reported by telegraph to us for approval.”

When, later on, the Taotai arrived at Tèngyüeh, and assumed charge, the Consul-General and Consul personally discussed the matter with him and embodied in a joint communication the conclusions reached.

The Consul-General telegraphed to inform the Burma Government, and also requested by wire the Governor-General to give his assent. He received from His Excellency Ting a telegram in reply stating that "in this matter of road construction I have directed Sung, Taotai, to make careful calculations and to arrange it after friendly consultation with yourself." The Government of Burma also replied by wire that they were prepared to lend engineers to undertake the improvements, and would agree to the temporary continuance of the surtax on the understanding that from January 1st next the whole of that surtax should be applied to the construction of the road and should not be diverted to other use; also that from the ordinary mule tax an annual sum should be appropriated towards repayment of the cost, by half-yearly instalments of Rs. 2,000 each, payable in the June and December quarters.

It is clear, then, that the views of the two Governments, Burma and Yünnan, are identical; but as the Department of Foreign Affairs found certain details of the scheme not altogether clear and telegraphed to ask, the Taotai, after personally consulting the Consul, replied explaining all matters of which they stood in doubt. The Consul-General also sent a further telegram to the Governor-General requesting that instructions might be wired to give effect to the scheme.

No answer has yet been received. This matter, however, of road improvement should take effect from the 1st January next, the 14th of the present moon. If there is further delay, it is to be feared that the Burma Government will be unable to arrange to commence work this year. The Consul-General moreover will shortly be proceeding to the provincial capital to pay his respects to their Excellencies, and he cannot remain indefinitely at Têngyüeh. Should the question not be settled before his departure, the Burma Government will hardly refrain from adducing that clause in the Manai agreement which states that the mule-tax is intended specially for the policing and repairs of the road; and from January 1st next they will not only be unable to agree to the imposition of the surtax but will demur to the collection of the mule tax itself.

For these reasons the Consul-General and Consul have prepared the present despatch, in which they have set down in detail the terms of the agreement. Those terms are as follows:—

1. From and after the 1st January 1904, that is, the 14th day of the 11th moon of the 29th year of the Kuang-hsu the mule-tax will be divided into three parts. The first part will be the subsidy of the three Sawbwas, and will continue to be paid at the old rate. The second part, the yearly expense of policing, will be a fixed annual sum of Tls. 9,000; this will be retained by the Superintendent, and for it no accounts need be rendered. The third part will be appropriated for road improvement.

2. From the appropriation for road improvement an annual sum of Tls. 4,000 will be set aside for the construction of the section from the Kulikha to Nungchang. This sum will be paid by instalments in the June and December quarters through the Superintendent to the Consul at Têngyüeh, in order that the latter may from time to time refund the expenditure incurred by the Burma Government in undertaking that construction. When this section of the road is completed, the Tls. 4,000 will revert to the treasury and will be paid over by the Superintendent to the Road Improvements Committee for the repair of bridges and thoroughfares.

3. Any surplus from the mule-tax over and above the Sawbwa's subsidy, the police fund, and the annual sum of Tls. 4,000 repayable to the Burma Government will be paid over quarterly to the Road Improvements Committee.

4. The Taotai of Western Yunnan [the I-hsi Tao], the Consul at Têngyüeh, the Commissioner of Customs, and the Sub-Prefect of Têngyüeh shall be invited to form a committee, to be known as the Road Improvements Committee, which will meet at intervals to consider improvements on the main trade route from the Burma frontier to the Salween. All moneys expended by the said committee must be shown in detail and properly accounted for.

5. The surtax was designed for the satisfaction, year by year, of certain frontier reclamations. These reclamations having now been satisfied, the surtax should cease; but the Burma Government considering that the improvement of the Kulikha-Nungchang road is urgent, has agreed to its temporary continuance. The whole amount of the surtax, however, must be handed by the Superintendent, in June and December of each year, to the Consul for transmission to the Government of Burma in repayment of the cost of construction of this section.

6. The Sawbwa of Kan-ngai must arrange for the transfer of all private property required for the road, and no claim for compensation must be made against the Burma Government.

7. The improvement of the Kulikha-Nungchang road, as that road is in Chinese territory, is properly speaking the duty of the Chinese officials, and no concern of the Burma Government. But as the two countries are in friendly relation, and as it is recognized that Chinese workmen are not skilled in the art of road making, consent has been given to the engagement of experienced engineers to co-operate in the work. Furthermore as the funds required cannot be raised all at once, consent has also been given to the advance of the necessary amount, in the hope of the speedy completion of the road, and with a view to the encouragement of trade. It is accordingly agreed that when the construction of the road is complete the engineers will return home, and that subsequent yearly upkeep and bridges and thoroughfares elsewhere requiring repair shall, as the correspondence has settled, be duly considered by a Road Improvements Committee consisting of the Taotai and the Sub-Prefect in concert with the Commissioner of Customs and the Consul at Têngyüeh. The local officials will engage workmen to undertake the repairs, and the Burma Government will not intervene.

The amount to be advanced by the Burma Government will not bear interest, and should the yearly sum derived from the mule-tax chance to fall below the sums now appropriated, the Burma Government will not raise difficulties with the Chinese officials. The surtax of Tls. '25 a head will, however, be handed over in full as collected, the Government of Burma making no objection.

TRANSLATION OF A DESPATCH FROM SUNG, TAOTAI OF WESTERN YÜNNAN, TO CONSUL-GENERAL WILKINSON AND ACTING CONSUL LITTON, TÈNGYÜEH, DECEMBER 27TH, 1903.

[After quoting verbatim et in extenso, the communication of yesterday.]

The Taotai has now received from the Department of Foreign Affairs a telegram as follows :—

The following instructions have been issued by their Excellencies on the subject of the improvement of the trade route. "The scheme propounded on our behalf by Consul-General Wilkinson on his first arrival and by Consul Litton has in view the encouragement of trade, and the helpful spirit it shows is worthy of our gratitude and respect. It has now been clearly stated that the road ought properly to be constructed by China, and that Burma after her assistance has no concern in it. It may, then, be assented to. But as Burma has [sic] advanced the money, interest ought to be paid. In public affairs as in private friendships, one should be thorough. We trust that the Taotai will take action accordingly."

The various clauses as above of the communication under acknowledgment may accordingly be carried into effect.

The Taotai is reporting to their Excellencies the Governor-General of Yunkuei and the Governor of Yünnan and is writing to the Department of Foreign Affairs. Meanwhile he has the honour to address the present communication in reply to the Consul-General and Consul.

Whereas a new Convention has been made between Siam and Great Britain with a view to promote trade and commerce in the Provinces of Chiengmai, Lakon and Lampoon, and with a view to reorganize the mode of legal procedure in cases between Loas and foreigners; it therefore pleased His Majesty to appoint further Judges for the International Court at Chiengmai in addition to those already there, whose duty it shall be to examine all such cases, in order that the Royal Commissioner previously appointed, may give his attention to the discussion and settlement of subjects connected with foreign countries in conjunction with the Consul or Vice-Consul in Chiengmai, and it pleased His Majesty to command that His Royal Highness Krom Phra Bamrap Parapax Samuha Nayoche should consult with the Royal Judges (Luk Khun Sala and Luk Khun San Luang) and establish laws for the guidance of the Royal Commissioner and Judges, and for the use of the Loas Courts in Chiengmai as follows:—

Article 1st.—All matters connected with the subjects and citizens of foreign countries which have treaty relations with Siam, which may arise in any part of the three Northern States of Siam, namely Chiengmai, Lakon and Lampoonchi, shall be under the supervision of the Royal Commissioner for Foreign Affairs who is appointed by His Majesty the King for this purpose.

Article 2nd.—All matters connected with the subjects and citizens of foreign countries having treaty relations with Siam and the three Northern States, unless there shall be an order or authorization from the Royal Commissioner for Foreign Affairs for the said State or a despatch bearing the Phra Racchasi seal authorizing the same, shall not be administered or interfered with in any manner by any Prince or Chief or officer or person of any rank whatever. If any one shall meddle with such matters whether his action is right or wrong he shall be adjudged as having done wrong, and all such actions shall be considered as null and void, and will not be considered as having any official force whatever.

Article 3rd.—The Royal Commissioner for Foreign Affairs is invested with full power to compel the various departments of the three States of Chiangmai, Lakon and Lampoonchi to do whatever is just and in keeping with their official duties with a view to regulate and control all foreign affairs in his department. All the officers of the various departments shall give heed to and obey his instructions. If, however, such instructions are unjust and not consistent with duty to Government, let the officers and provincial authorities hasten to report the matter to Bangkok and the Minister of the North has power to set aside and annul such improper orders and actions of the Royal Commissioner.

Article 4th.—The Royal Commissioner for Foreign affairs shall appoint officers to perform the various duties necessary for the effectual carrying out of the provisions of the Treaty, and it shall always be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to explain the meaning of the Treaty and the law and what is just and suitable for the information of the various Princes, Chiefs and officers, and if any difficulties shall arise in regard to any official matter in his department or outside of it and the Chiefs and officers concerned shall come to ask his opinion on the subject or to receive his orders, it shall be his duty to give them his advice, assistance and instructions whenever requested. He shall not offer objections or postpone or neglect the matter nor fail to use his best endeavours to render them such assistance.

Article 5th.—It shall be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to make arrangements and regulations and establish stations for the purpose of being accurately informed at all times with regard to the number and nationality of foreigners from friendly nations who enter the States under his jurisdiction, and as to where they are, and to take proper precautions to prevent others falsely passing themselves off as such. If there is any reason for suspicion, it shall be his duty to make proper investigations and representations regarding the matter, and it shall be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to issue proper passports to people to travel or trade in foreign countries.

Article 6th.—It shall be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to exercise a watchful care to prevent an unlawful or improper collection of taxes or obstruction of trade. Whenever any new tax is to be collected or if any change is to be made in the tariff of taxes, the rulers of the country shall consult with the Royal Commissioner who shall examine the matter with care and not suffer anything to be done contrary to the treaties or allow any obstruction to trade or unreasonable exactions to be established which will be a cause of hindrance to trade. The method of collecting taxes shall not be allowed to be such as to cause unnecessary difficulties to the people and to traders as that they cannot have reasonable advantages. When such matters have been agreed upon, it shall be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to publish the same accurately and properly.

Article 7th.—It shall be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to supervise and direct that the authorities of the Krom Mu'ang Department shall establish a proper police force to guard the frontier of the country, that there may be no carelessness and neglect of duty in this respect, and further he has full power to devise means to prevent crime and to bring criminals to justice who are in any way connected with the subjects and citizens of friendly nations. If any person guilty of committing any of the crimes mentioned in the extradition laws shall escape from the territory of a friendly power into any of the three States, or if any such person shall escape into the territory of a friendly power, it shall be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to take suitable action for the extradition of such offenders according to the extradition laws, dated 13th July 1885, and that the interests of both countries may not be allowed to suffer.

Article 8th.—The Royal Commissioner shall be the chief of the Forest Department of the three Northern States of Siam, and in like manner, as the chief of the Forest Department in Bangkok, he shall exercise full authority in superintending and administering all matters connected with the forests according to the regulations at the time in force, but he shall be under the instructions of the authorities in Bangkok. Whatever action he shall take or if he shall experience any difficulties, he shall report them to the chief of the Forest Department in Bangkok on every occasion.

Article 9th.—All law-suits in which foreign subjects are parties either as plaintiffs or defendants, shall be heard and determined only in the International Court at Chiangmai which His Majesty has been pleased to establish the sole Court for the hearing of all such cases, and if any such cases as aforementioned shall arise and it shall be necessary to investigate and decide them in Lakon or Lampoon or in any other State, the Royal Commissioner, after receipt of a Thongkra from Bangkok giving special authorization in the particular case, is at liberty to try the case civilly or criminally in Chiangmai or in such other State as he shall think fit, in accordance with the laws of Siam.

Article 10th.—In the examination of cases or of witnesses in this Court the use of ordeal by diving under water or by walking through fire, etc., and investigation by means of flogging, the head-screw, the thumb-screw, and the other means prescribed by the criminal procedure law, inflicting punishment in cases of suspicion or slighter doubt, when the actual truth is not ascertained, are not permitted in the practice of the Court.

Article 11th.—In the examination of criminal cases, if it does not appear from the evidence given by witnesses taken from the common people that the accused parties are guilty, and if there is still ground for suspecting the accused, let them give proper securities and then set them at liberty.

Article 12th.—All cases to be tried in this Court in which either of the parties, without reference to his rank or position, shall duly and in legal form appoint an attorney to represent him, or in case either of the parties is at a distance from the Court and shall go before a Local Magistrate and make out a power of attorney in due form and pay the established fee, the Court shall allow such attorneys to appear instead of their clients.

Article 13th.—In the investigation of all cases in which a foreign subject is a defendant or in which both parties are foreign subjects, the Consul or Vice-Consul of the party or parties shall be allowed to attend the hearing of the case and be informed of all the proceedings according to the Treaty. And if the Consul or Vice-Consul shall consider the proceedings of the Judge unjust, he may make note of any suggestions or objections in writing to the Judge, and the Judge shall consider whether such objections are in accordance with law and justice, and, in case the Judge does not approve of them, he shall note his reasons in writing except as hereinafter provided, and he shall proceed with the case to the end and shall decide the case according to law.

Article 14th.—Any case in which foreign subjects are defendants or in which both parties are foreign subjects, if their Consul shall disagree with the opinion of the Judge as mentioned in the foregoing article, and they shall not be able to come to an agreement on the subject, if the Consul shall make out a requisition to the Judge that the case be referred to his Court for trial, let the Judge deliver the case up to him according to the Treaty. All cases besides those mentioned herein shall be determined in the International Court alone.

Article 15th.—There cannot be any appeal to Bangkok in any case before judgment is given, but if the parties object to any order of the Judge, they may enter a protest and the Judge shall record such protest and the Judge shall have his own answer to every such protest recorded as well. In case the parties make such objections and the Judge shall refuse to receive them, let the parties report the matter to the Royal Commissioner. After judgment is given, if either of the parties shall desire to appeal to Bangkok, the following form shall be observed.

Article 16th.—It shall be the duty of the Royal Commissioner to have an oversight of the chief Judge and inferior Judges who have been appointed by His Gracious Majesty to try cases connected with foreign subjects in the three Northern States, in connection with the Judges appointed in those States, in order that they may administer justice. If either the plaintiff or defendant in any case is dissatisfied with the decision or the order of any Judge on any point, and desires to appeal the case to Bangkok he shall lodge a notice of appeal within 15 days after the decision has been given, and in accordance with the Treaty he must first ask the sanction and consent of the Commissioner, and the Commissioner shall enquire into the matter, and in case he finds there is suitable ground for appeal he shall allow the appeal to be made. But if the Royal Commissioner shall find that the object is simply to cause delay and to avoid the judgment, he shall enforce the judgment before allowing the appeal to be made. In any case in which the Judges have received notice of an appeal, and the Commissioner shall consider that the appeal should be allowed, he shall forward a transcript of all the proceedings in the case to Bangkok. But the Commissioner cannot receive or try any appeal against the decision of the Judges or set aside or overthrow the decision of the Judges except in case he shall receive instructions to that effect from Bangkok. If the Judges shall act contrary to law or justice in any matter of great or small importance, let the Commissioner without fail report the matter to Bangkok without delay.

Article 17th.—If the Royal Commissioner or the Judges shall act in any respect contrary to the law, any one can complain against them in Bangkok, and in Bangkok only, if the complaint is not of the nature of an appeal against a decision in any case.

Article 18th.—As to receiving complaints, if any complaint is made to the Court, and the Judge who receives the complaint considers that it should be entertained and that there are charges to be collected according to the established tariff, let a summons be issued for the defendant which shall bear the seal and signature of the Commissioner. In civil cases where there appears to be no proof or where no Court-fees are deposited by the plaintiff as security, the Judge shall dismiss the case, and shall not suffer such cases to remain on the docket of the Court as an incumbrance.

In criminal cases the Royal Commissioner shall appoint an attorney for the State to collect evidence and prosecute the case.

Article 19th.—When a decision has been given by the Judge or in cases where there is no security furnished and where the parties wish to watch each other, let the Judge hand over the parties in the case to the Commissioner who shall then hand them over to the custody of a proper officer pending the decision, and in decided cases the officer may, to enforce the decision, confine them in the lock-up for detaining persons sub judice or in the prison for condemned persons. If such parties are subjects of foreign powers, the Consul shall have free access to them.

Article 20th.—In any case in which a foreign subject shall be imprisoned under a sentence of the Judge, if the Council shall, by a written requisition under his hand, require that the prisoner be removed to the Consular prison there to undergo the residue of his term of imprisonment, the Commissioner shall hand over such person to the Consul.

Article 21st.—The Commissioner and the Judges together with the Rulers of the three Northern States of Chiangmai, Lakhon and Lampoonchi are empowered to establish rules regulating the procedure in cases concerning foreigners or natives for the better and more effectual administration of justice. But before such rules shall be enforced, they shall be reported to the authorities in Bangkok.

Proclaimed on 9th January 1885.

ROYAL DECREE OF THE KING OF SIAM UNDER THE TREATY OF 1883, DATED 28TH APRIL 1887.

Phra Bat Somdetch Phra, etc., etc., etc.

Preamble.—Whereas a Royal Decree, dated the 9th January 1885, was promulgated in several Articles containing instructions to the Judges of the Court established in accordance with the Treaty concluded between Siam and Great Britain on the 3rd September 1883, and whereas it seems expedient to us to make certain alterations and amendments to our said Decree; it has pleased His Majesty to aver as follows:—

That Article 12 be taken to refer only to civil cases.

That Article 13 be annulled and the following substituted for it:—

In the investigation of all cases in which a British subject is a party or in which both parties are British subjects, the Consul or Vice-Consul is entitled according to the Treaty to be present at the hearing, and to be furnished with copies of the proceedings, which, when the defendant or accused is a British subject, shall be supplied free of charge, and to make any suggestions to the Judge or Judges which he may think proper in the interests of justice. Such copies shall be furnished from time to time as the Consul or Vice-Consul may request.

The judgment shall be communicated to the Consul or Vice-Consul in draft form before its delivery in Court, in cases where the defendant or both parties are British subjects, and in other cases the judgment shall not be delivered except in the presence of the Consul or Vice-Consul, unless he shall have had due notice beforehand.

That the following be substituted for Article 14:—

The Consul or Vice-Consul has power under the Treaty at any time before judgment, if he thinks proper in the interests of justice, by a written requisition under his hand, directed to the Judge or Judges, to signify his desire that any cases in which both parties are British subjects be transferred for adjudication to the British Consular Court. If therefore the Consul or Vice-Consul shall make a requisition to the Judge or Judges as provided by Treaty, let them hand over the case to him.

In Article 15 omit the words:—In case the parties make such objections and the Judge shall refuse to receive them, let the parties report the matter to the Royal Commissioner.

For Article 16, substitute the following:—

In civil and criminal cases in which British subjects may be parties in the International Court either party is entitled to appeal to Bangkok; if a British subject with the sanction and consent of the British Consul or Vice-Consul, and in other cases by leave of the Judge or Judges who shall have tried the case.

Pending the result of this appeal, the judgment of the Court at Chiangmai shall be suspended on such terms and conditions (if any) as shall be agreed upon between the said Judge or Judges and the Consul or Vice-Consul.

Rules of appeal which have been agreed upon between His Majesty's Minister for Foreign Affairs and Her Britannic Majesty's Minister Resident are hereto annexed, and will be binding upon parties wishing to appeal.

This Decree given on Thursday, the 7th waxing of the 6th month of the year Kun 1249 of the Siamese astronomical era in the 20th year of His Majesty's Reign, corresponding to 28th April 1887.
